These elements are more destructive than the scabs or non-unionists because they set the example that the scab points to when he or she says the so-called unionists don't stick together. It is in this group that the secret spies of the companies get in their most effective work because it is to their interest to keep he workers apart.

The M. B. O.'s are intelligent; they are also able to think straight. They know all about the weaknesses of their union; they know it is far from perfect; they want to make it better, but they say:

"We are human. We are dealing with other human beings. We have only one kind of material with which we can build our organization and that is the men and women of the telegraph.

"NO MATTER HOW OFTEN WE TEAR DOWN, WE MUST REBUILD WITH THE SAME MATERIAL—SO WHY DESTROY?"

Let us alter our plans to meet changing conditions, but let us do it as a compact body, united and as a unit whether in Montreal or Memphis, Winnipeg or Washington, Calgary or Chicago, Vancouver or New Orleans, standing all for one and one for all.

We cannot all be M. S. O.'s, but we can be M. B. O.

By the Vice-President

Conditions of pay and labor are coming to a head in the two Canadian commercial divisions—C. P. R. System Division and Canadian National System Division No. 43.

These two divisions are convening their general committees in Montreal the 15th of this month to map out a policy and working program.

Schedule violations by the Companies have brought about considerable agitation and the rank and file have decided that something must be done to forestall further encroachments on their hard-earned liberties.

The policy and program which will be decided upon will undoubtedly include an adjustment and revision of the existing wage scales with a considerably higher wage for the lower paid workers; an increase in the minimum wage; a general standardization of commercial telegraph wages with equal pay for Morse and Automatic, and a comprehensive plan for a wider measure of co-operation between the various Canadian divisions.

The newspapers, which are always reluctant to print the truth in regard to the cost of living and wages, have been telling us for the past five months that living costs have increased materially and are increasing every month. This means that our dollar is able to buy less, in purchasing value, as the months go on. The only remedy for the worker is to get more dollars so that the purchasing power may remain unimpaired and the standard of living kept from declining.

While we are on the subject of living costs it might be well to take note of the figures recently given out by the Department of Labor at Ottawa. We are told that it now costs the average family approximately sixty dollars a month for foodstuffs alone. Add to this an average monthly rental of $33.00, an average clothing allowance of $30.00 per month, and an average of $40.00 per month ($480.00 per year) for such miscellanies as fuel, taxes, education, medical attention, amusement, etc., and we have the grand total average of $163.00 per month.

This approximate figure of $163.00 per month is considered as the absolute minimum essential to decency. How many telegraph workers are making a decent living?

NONS BECOMING SCARCE IN WALL STREET

On the first of November, when the Eastern Broker Division started the drive for increased membership, our headquarters had the names of about 50 non-union telegraphers, and the firms by whom they were employed.

At the time the campaign was started the New York District of the Eastern Broker Division had approximately 600 members. It was claimed by the veterans, who were familiar with the Street, that there were fully 1,000 telegraphers working in the New York financial district. The organization committee, under the chairmanship of Brother Tate, was confronted with the difficult task of obtaining a list of all firms using leased wires and the names of their telegraphers. In the unionised houses, or where there were members, headquarters had practically a complete list and the committee had only to make the necessary corrections and additions to bring the list up-to-date.

By the first of December our records were as complete as possibly could be hoped for. The committee then had the names of 250 nons. The Easter Broker Division formerly had no knowledge that the firms, employing most of these none had leased wire service.

During the month of December an intensive campaign was carried on which resulted in more than 50 applications being obtained. On 30 of these applications the full amount of initiation and dues have been paid and the applications forwarded to Chicago. Thirty-five who were behind in their dues for various periods have paid up.

Bond Houses Save Pennies; Lose Dollars.

Although the committee made no effort to obtain any data on the general situation in Wall Street under which telegraphers work, much information was secured. The committee discovered that with hardly an exception the stock houses were paying a minimum of $50 and the average salaries of operators working for stock houses amount to almost $60 per week. But the situation with the bond houses, only about 50 percent of which employ any E. B. D. members, is not so inspiring. The salaries in most of these bond houses range from $30 to $50 a week, with a few exceptions.

The rental of a leased wire from New York to Chicago approximates $25,000 a year. The salary of a second-class operator at $40 a week is $2,080 a year. second-class operator can obtain from this $25,000 expenditure about half its capacity. An operator on a salary of $60 to $65 can utilize such a lease to its full capacity. It can be seen that by an additional expenditure of $1,400 a year in salary these bond houses would really be saving around $12,000 a year.

An employer is not guilty of practicing this kind of economics deliberately.

A broker can readily see the desirability of employing first-class talent through errors and other direct losses.

The loss a bond house suffers through errors might not be as great as those of a stock house (by reason of the different form of trading) nevertheless it is lack of knowledge of the technique of wire systems and wire rooms that causes the majority of employers to use the same dickering tactics when employing a telegrapher as they do when employing a bookkeeper.

The committee in viewing the situation from the light of our strength, our prestige and our known reliability in properly dealing with conditions as they develop believes that now or the near future a propitious time to take some steps to acquaint these bond houses with the full potentialities of their wire systems so that the telegraph forces of these houses may be given the same standard as the stock houses. In the belief of the committee the proper data can be gathered and placed intelligently before the proper people which should obtain the desired results. A little strategy and initiative can make the E. B. D. by the end of 1923 the best functioning local organization of labor in the greater city.

TELEGRAPHER'S EMERGENCY SERVICE, EASTERN BROKER DIVISION

The Telegrapher's Emergency Service is an assurance to the EMPLOYER that his wire will be manned by a well-trained, capable substitute, in the absence of his regular telegrapher.

The Telegrapher's Emergency Service stands behind the CHIEF OPERATOR in all his efforts to render first-class service. It is the source he calls upon when faced with an emergency, or when he wishes to recruit his force.

In 1922 the Telegrapher's Emergency Service furnished 193 telegraphers for permanent jobs. It answered 2,002 emergency calls resulting in 6,314 days employment, including vacation reliefs.

This service is not subsidized. It is maintained by the Eastern Broker Division. It is self-evident that this work merits the support of every CHIEF OPERATOR and every BROKER-TELEGRAPHER.

The way to support it, is to join with us.

Membership application blanks may be had on application to Mr. J. A. Hickey, Secretary, Room 504, 44 Broad Street, New York City, or from any member of the Eastern Broker Division.

THE GOLDEN RULE IN INDUSTRY

Arthur Nash, the Cincinnati clothing manufacturer whose law in governing his 2,000 employes is the Golden Rule, expounded his philosophy of brotherly love before a luncheon of the Aldine Club recently. Several hundred New York business men listened to the story of industrial success which has been brought about, he said, through brotherly relations between employes and himself.

"I hope the time will soon come when the church leaders will have the nerve and the spirit of God to say to the men in their churches, 'If you are not right with the people in your factories you are not right with God and this church,'" said the manufacturer.

"We are approaching the time when the industry that does not give its employes something more than pay envelopes and dividend checks will be listed as a heathen institution and shunned by Christians. We have tried every other solution that the ingenuity of man has brought to us, but we have failed miserably."

Mr. Nash gave the following figures of the increasing annual business of his firm: 1918, $182,000; 1919, $525,678; 1920, $1,580,700; 1921, $2,077,559, and 1922, $3,751,181. Thus far this year, said Mr. Nash, he has more orders than he had in the same period of the three previous years added together.

A SAFE INVESTMENT-THE C. T. U. A.

A prominent mortgage company in New York City advertised in The Tribune of that city, Jan. 24, 1923, in part as follows:

"How much of your salary is yours?"

"Society is organized to pay you what it has to and to take it away immediately if possible.

"A man who can't beat that system has no chance to finish a winner. And there's only one certain way to beat it—to invest a portion of your salary, whatever it is."

That is very good advice, and should be absorbed and practiced by all telegraphers who, as a general rule, do not save a thing. An "investment" in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America is a safe one; none safer. If every telegrapher in the country invested thusly, society would have to pay us more and society would be unable to immediately or ever take it away. Think this over. If a great big monied concern can advertise words of wisdom like the above, why can't we profit by such words of advice and invest?

ATTENTION! WORLD WAR VETERANS AND SERVICE MEN, NEW YORK DISTRICT

You are requested to send in your full name, rank, or rating and branch of service, regiment, company, etc.

We are preparing an Honor Roll, to be engrossed, framed and hung in the Assembly Room at Headquarters.

This roll will serve to preserve the record, until the erection of the Eastern Broker Division building when it will be replaced by a bronze tablet. Please send this information to J. A. Hickey, Secretary-Treasurer, Room 504, 44 Broad Street, New York.

NEW YORK DISTRICT

Extracts from minutes of meeting held January 27, 1923.

The following resolution was adopted at the meeting:

January 30, 1923.

To Whom It May Concern:

At the regular meeting of the Bastern Broker Division, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, held on Saturday, January 27, 1923, the following resolution was adopted:

Whereas, It having been officially announced that, after five years' efficient service as Police Commissioner of the City of New York, Honorable Richard E. Enright has been reappointed for another five-year term; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Bastern Broker Division, in regular meeting assembled this twenty-seventh day of January, 1923, does hereby endorse the reappointment of Commissioner Enright, and extend to Honorable John F. Hylan, Mayor of the City of New York, our hearty congratulations for his good judgment in making it possible by this action for the citizens to enjoy a continuation of the remarkably efficient police service and protection administered through the untiring efforts and ability of Commissioner Enright during the past five years; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Mayor, the Police Commissioner, the Chairman of the New York District Council, Commercial Telegraphers' Union and to the editor of the Telegraphers' Journal for publication therein.

(Signed) F. A. O'SULLIVAN, General Chairman, Eastern Broker Division, C. T. U. A. Attest: J. A. HICKBY, General Secretary-Treasurer.

Brothers Ralph Johnson and Chas. Josephson were appointed a sick committee to visit Bro. Frank Williams at Trenton, N. J.

Bro. J. F. Campbell reported that Bro. Harry Pfeiffer who has been on the sick list for the past three weeks is rapidly improving.

The members were again reminded that Bro. W. J. (Billy) Mitchell, convalescing at 96 Park Ave., Saranac Lake, N. Y., has an agency there for magazine subscriptions as a means of making a livelihood. Brother Mitchell will appreciate any subscriptions the boys send him. Come on, you magazine readers, instead of buying them at newsstands order a year's subscription through Billy and help a worthy Brother to help himself. Billy will be glad to quote subscription price on any publication.

Six new applications were "read" to be voted on at the next meeting, and five that were read at the last meeting were "voted" on at this meeting.

SPARKS

"To thine ownself be true, and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not then be false to any man."

Brother William F. "Buck" Ewing, Past General Chairman, E. B. D., honored us on 13th ult. Buck just radiates optimism.

He says 1923 will be a big year.

Past General Secretary-Treasurer B. L. Hinshaw was present at our "inaugural" meeting on the 13th ult. Brother Hinshaw is a grand old wheel-horse of the organization. We owe him a debt that we can never hope to pay, for his self-sacrificing devotion to duty, while he occupied the post of General Secretary-Treasurer.

If we had such a thing as a gold D. S. C. set with brilliants, that would be Bryan's portion.

Chairman of the International Executive Board, Bro. Joe Mallon of this local was also present and took an active part in the proceedings. Joe's sound reasoning and trite remarks made a hit.

Bro. Jack McCloskey of the "Old Guard" also graced the occasion, Jack's many friends will be glad to hear that he has recovered completely from his recent operation.

Goodbody & Co. are to be congratulated. They have secured the services of Bro. Roy Speer. Roy is a telegrapher and a gentleman.

Bro. Pete Mercer of the "Reserves" departed for the thriving city of Syracuse, N. Y., on the 12th ult. The good wishes of your fellow-reservists follow you, Pete. Brother Oliver M. Young, late E. B. D. R. F. (Eastern Broker Division Reserve

D. R. F. (Eastern Broker Division Reserve Force) left for Buffalo on the 18th ult. Bro. Young enters the service of Arthur E. Moysey & Co. Good luck to you, Ollie. We miss you.

Bro. Preston E. Provost, recently with Housman, is now located at Brown Brothers. Brown Brothers are very fortunate.

Bro. A. E. McNaughton is again with Thomson and McKinnon. A decided acquisition to their force, say we.

Bro. Jack McCusker is now a regular at the "Daily Racing Form." A good man for a good job.

District Organizer Bill Tate wants to know why it is that at every meeting, when he makes his report, some one of our enthusiastic brothers moves that he be given a standing vote of thanks. We know that you are modest, Bill, and it is not done to embarrass you. The boys are just chock-full of appreciation and gratitude. That's all.

Recording Secretary Frank Barrett was unavoidably absent from our last meeting, owing to the illness of his wife. We are glad to report that Mrs. Barrett is O. K. again. This was Frank's first absence since "Hickory Jim" was a yearling.

There is talk of an outing to be held early this coming summer. A nearby Connecticut resort on the Sound (three hours by boat) has been mentioned.

The New York Stock Exchange membership of Bro. Peter H. Troy has been posted for transfer to Sheldon T. Coleman.

Bro. Richard E. Enright completed his first five-year term as Police Commissioner of the City of New York on January 23rd. He was immediately re-appointed for a second five-year term. A great leader and an efficient public servant. Higher honors are in store for Brother Enright.

Bro. Sim Bodenheim of Arthur Lipper & Co., no longer "pounds brass." He has been made manager of the Commodity Department. Sim is a live wire. Lipper & Co. has picked a winner.

Bro. Joe Duskin left for Palm Beach on the 26th ult. Not so bad, considering the weather.

Bro. Douglas Lawson of Jenks, Gwynne & Co., Montreal, was a welcome visitor at Headquarters on the 2nd inst.

Bro. M. J. Caspery is now located at the odd-lot Cotton Exchange.

We are glad to report that Bro. Bill Russell of Josephthal & Co. is back on the job after a month's illness.

Bro. Harry Allton of Logan & Bryan passed around the cigars. It's a boy. Congratulations.

International President Roscoe Johnson honored us with a short visit while on business in New York recently.

Bro. Charley Miller was also a welcome visitor to Headquarters. Charley is with Winkleman at Pittsburgh.

Bro. Charley Bianco has gone into the automobile accessories business and automobile repairs. We wish you luck, Charlie.

Henry Rady, who was with Clark, Dodge & Co., passed away recently. We understand that Mr. Rady was a veteran of the battles of 1883 and 1907. Many of his old friends called at his home to pay their last respects.

We are glad to note that The Daily Racing Form's New York office is now 190 per cent. Bro. "Jimmy" Gleason is the Chief Operator.

As the midnight train from Toronto was nearing Buffalo a man was seen to place something underneath his overcoat reatly folded up on the seat. Taking a hasty look around, he felt that no one had observed his actions and he settled back with a satisfied expression on his countenance. As the American Customs official advanced through the train, he assumed an attitude of studied indifference. He was the picture of complete innocence.

The Customs official raised the coat and lo and behold exposed a quart of real old Johnnie Walker.

"Chubby" Devine spent the next ten minutes explaining to the customs man how he had been asleep and some bad man must have placed the bottle under his overcoat—and—the idea—if he was a drinking man it wouldn't have been so bad.

One always expects a bridegroom to return from his honeymoon wearing a smile. But when "Louie" Cassell returned from his honeymoon the first of the year, he wore an extraordinary large and luminous smile. The "frat" at Logan & Bryan's were much mystified until one evening Mrs. Cassell called at the office for her husband. The reason for the large and luminous smile was then obvious. We'll say "Louie" has every reason to wear that perpetual smile.

The sympathies of the members of this Division are extended to Bro. Archie Smithers of Munds, Winslow & Co. in the death of his brother Charles H. Smithers, who for forty-four years was in the service of the Southern Railway. Among the floral offerings was one from President and Mrs. Harding, another brother of the deceased being Chief Operator at the White House.

Bro. David S. Talmage is now connected with the Hudson River Bond Co. at Hudson, N. Y., as Manager of their stock department. This concern could not have made a better selection.

Bro. Joe McElroy of the W. B. D. has been with us the past few weeks. Joe came east to negotiate for the management of the trading department of Breed, Elliott & Harrison at Detroit and having made a satisfactory deal with the firm has left for Detroit. The firm has made no mistake in signing up with a man of "Joe's" calibre. We wish you the best of luck, Joe.

Bro. Fred Towne is putting in his spare hours laying the foundation for a successful future which seems to be already assured. Fred is Sales Manager for the Clapp Fire Resisting Paint Co. We expect to hear big things from Fred in the very near future. Our best wishes go with you, Fred, in your new undertaking, and while we expect you will be a very busy man shortly we know that you will always have the interests of the "Craft" at heart in the future as you have had in the past.

It will soon be time for Bro. Ed Palmer of Jones & Baker's to buy his commutation ticket to his summer home at Howard Beach. Ed is to Howard Beach what the Vanderbilts or Astors are to Palm Beach—the center of social activities.

"Jim" Hosey. U. P. operator on the Mount Carmel Item, we congratulate you on your masterful article in the January issue of the Journal. It should be read by every member of the C. T. U. A. The thought, common sense and convincing argument expressed in your article, Brother Hosey, reflects the comparison between the Union and non-Union class of telegrapher as applied in their daily labors. They are getting you cheap, "Jim."

A PUBLIC FORUM

Our assemblyroom is fast assuming the aspect of a public forum. Every afternoon after the close a score or more of our deep thinkers meet there to discuss current topics.

Among the subjects up for discussion recently were: "Where to Get It and How to Make It," "Coué," "The Great American Thoroughbred, His Performances Past and Present," "Booming, or Seeing the Country from a Side-door Pullman," "The Foreign Situation, and Its Influence on the Stock Market," "What the Administration Ought to Do," etc., etc. It is a free-for-all—anyone can cut in. You can either send or receive. A few more good receivers will be appreciated. Judging by the frequent bursts of hilarity we may expect our best vaudeville theatres to report decreased receipts from now on.

NEWS ITEMS

Bro. George Keener took Brothers Johnny Custer and Charlie Kayser motoring through Washington Heights recently. Moving west through 155th Street—dark night—big black coal truck of "low visibility"—Crash!!—Result, badly damaged Pierce Arrow car. Johnny's knees badly bruised. Had to say his prayers standing for a week or more.

Oh, well, such is life.

BUY UNION LABEL CIGARETS

There are only a few brands of cigarets on the market which are made in Union factories and which bear the Union label.

One brand that shortly will be introduced in all the large cities of the country, is Carolina Royal, a blended Turkish-domestic smoke, in a regulation package of twenty, retailing at about 15 cents. This brand bears the blue Union label and is as good a cigaret as any on the market.

The Bailey plant at Winston-Salem is the only completely unionized tobacco works south of Richmond and was unionized not as the result of a strike, but on the invitation of the owners of the company. Arrangements have been made to have the brand listed in the Union Label Directory in New York City and wherever else such a directory is published. The brothers should support a unionized product which is as good, if not better, and costs no more than any other brand. If your tobacconist can't supply you, ask him to get some in stock.

PHILADELPHIA NOTES

The new year started off with a bang—Chairman Truitt's gavel, full of pep, bringing the meeting to order promptly at 3 P. M. with Bro. Elmer Bone occupying the office of Vice-Chairman. With this team of "old reliables" again at the helm and everybody willing to help, 1938, although in her infancy, looks good for Philadelphia.

Despite the wave of unemployment brought about by the numerous failures in 1922, Philadelphia District held its own and at the close of the year showed a fine financial and membership standing, due to the untiring efforts of its retiring officers, to whom the entire local extends its appreciation and thanks.

Brother Ruberg, with his genial smile, arrived a trifle late but in time to give the boys his usual beneficial talk for the good of the order—"AZ."

G. F. Redmond & Co, have made a wise choice in selecting "Sargeant" Harry Kelly to handle the order wire and "Commodore" Walter Barry to mark the board in the new office they recently opened here. We wonder if non-applicants can now see the value of an up-to-date card.

The local extends its heartfelt sympathy to ex-Secretary English in his late bereavement, the sudden loss of his mother.

We are glad to welcome to our fold another of West & Co.'s mainstays—Bert Mathews.

What became of the quartette that showed up so well at the banquet under the leadership of Bro. Sam Simms? Bring 'em on, Sam.

We would be glad to have a visit or a few lines from the up-state brothers at any time. Let's hear what's doing up your way. Landia, Gibbert and Leh way, Landis, Gibbert and Leh.

Understand Brothers Goshorn and Price are planning an extended cruise up the Schuykill in Price's yacht as soon as the ice gives way. Stop off at Norristown, fellows; it's worth while.

West & Co. have opened an office in Altoona and Scranton with card men on the job. With the Philadelphia office 100 percent up-to-date and the up-State men inine, Bro. Sam Long and his co-workers have the distinction of occupying first place in the Philadelphia District.

PITTSBURGH DISTRICT

The annual election of officers for the Pittsburgh District of the E. B. D. and District Council No. 6 were held on Saturday, Jan. 20th.

Bro. Bob Patterson, who has been our Chairman for the past four years, was succeeded by Bro. Lawrence Laitta, of Taubman & Co. Brother Laitta is a hard worker and will put the Pittsburgh unit to the front. Brother Patterson declined re-election owing to the fact that he expects to engage in another line of business in the near future. Otherwise, the boys would have been very reluctant to allow "Pat" to relinquish the chair.

The experience and ability of Brother Patterson will still be at our disposal as Bob has accepted a membership on our Executive Board.

Bro. Samuel B. Inks was unanimously elected to the office of Vice-Chairman. Sam is also one of our good workers and always on the job.

Secretary-Treasurer Charlie McCutcheon succeeds himself. The boys would not stand for letting go of two old war hosses at the same time and as Pat had the best reason for declining re-election there wasn't a Chinaman's chance for Charlie to step down.

Bro. H. W. Reitz, of F. H. McNulty & Co., was unanimously elected as Chairman of the Amusement Committee. He successfully engineered two entertainments previously. The right man in the right place.

Brothers R. C. Patterson, H. L. Ritchart, M. J. Dougherty and W. H. Reitz were elected members of the Executive Board.

Bro. Fred G. Moore secured the choice plum of Sergeant-at-arms.

By resolution of the Pittsburgh District it was resolved to request the Eastern Broker Division to release us as a unit of that organization so that we could establish a separate division to be known as the Pittsburgh Broker Division.

Brothers Colebrook, Paul McPyke, Sam Inks and Fred G. Moore are a quartet hard to beat. They are with Moore, Leonard and Lynch.

Obey & Nuttal have closed their Butler office, letting out former Chairman Parker at Butler and Bro. Johnny Mathews at the main office.

At Kay, Richards & Co. Mr. Dolan resigned and was succeeded by Geo. F. (Red) Shade on the Bartlett grain wire. Messrs. Joe Anderson, Homer Brown and "Mike" Dougherty are also with this outfit.

At Masten's there have been few changes in the personnel of the Telegraph Department. Mr. Miller quotes to Parkersburg and Marietta, Messrs. Paige and Weaver hold down the Bache and Wollman wires, alternating with Miller on the Parkersburg wire; E. W. Smith, the Chief Operator, handles the Wheeling branch office of Masten & Co. Charley McCutcheon takes care of the Chicago Grain wire on Logan & Bryan wire, also the Oil City and New York circuit.

Brother Laitta at Taubman's and Brother Patterson at G. W. Weller's keep things humming.

Brothers Woodhall, McCabe and Robertson are at Winkleman's.

F. H. McNulty & Co. opened up in the old Dier offices in the Shannon Bldg. on Jan. 11th with Bro. Thos S. Barrett as Manager and Brother Reitz wielding the chalk. Brother McNulty is a former Pittsburgh boy and everybody wishes him success in this town.

Scribe.

ORGANIZE—CO-OPERATE

It is your duty to yourself and your organization to help solidify the ranks—value of membership in our organization is what you make it. Make "No cards, no favors" your motto.

WESTERN BROKER DIVISION

WESTERN BROKER DIVISION OFFICERS FOR 1923

At the initial meeting of the New Year, held Saturday, January 27th, the following officers were elected for the Western Broker Division:

President, R. H. McDaniel.

First V. P., George B. Miller.

Second V. P., William J. McMahon (Milwaukee).

Third V. P., Aubrey R. Lyon (Los Angeles).

Secretary-Treasurer, R. W. Goodale,

General Executive Board:

J. J. Murray, Chairman.

H. Q. Albaugh.

E. L. Boole.

R. H. Walters.

J. G. Jones.

By President R. H. McDaniel

I wish to express my sincerest thanks and appreciation for the honor conferred upon me.

In outlining a program for 1923 I wish to say that WORK and PLENTY OF IT is the only real convincing factor in any business or business organization. I intend to do all in my power to solidify the ranks of the broker telegraphers. It is the duty of every Chief Operator and telegrapher in the broker field to support the organization of their craft.

The co-operation and support accorded the officers of this division in recent months is worthy of much commendation. This spirit is bound to bring us closer together as brother members and will benefit everyone as a whole eventually. It is the duty of every up-to-date member of this organization to help his brother members, also to see that the man working next to you is a member in good standing.

The election of Brother Goodale to the Secretaryship will provide more time for the President to carry out organization work necessary in this territory, and I wish to assure you that this particular work will be taken care of thoroughly.

The history of Unionism is the history of the human race. The true spirit of Unionism can be exemplified by those who give the organization of their craft the consideration it deserves. I appeal to every member of the Western Broker Division to continue their co-operation and make our organization one to be appreciated by all.

Don't forget the meeting date-every Third Saturday of each month.

LAMSON BROS. & CO. NOTES

Not seeing any notes in the Journal from La Salle Street, I thought I'd put in a few from this place and then holler about the rest. Let's go, boys.

There have been so many changes around here following the consolidation I confess my inability to enumerate all of them. I hope unintentional omissions will be forgiven.

The force is about evenly divided between the old forces of Leland and of Lamson Bros.

Frank Guest blossomed out with huge glasses the other day, thus enhancing his already genial face. Feel yourself slippin', Frank? We thought so. Frank would be the handsomest guy in the place if it wasn't for Handsome Hansen, formerly of E. W. Wagner & Co. All Op's know kid Handsome, in the bond department.

All hands extend sympathy to Jere Cook, whose mother passed on to that House not made by Human Hands early in January.

We were all greatly surprised a few days ago when Dave Ellington received a catalog from the Moler Barber College and read it with great interest (between smiles and dark looks). Dave lays it to everybody in the house in their respective turns. NEXT.

Somebody said something about speed the other day. Harry Mull says we are the fastest house in the world and by golly we will take on all comers. A couple of New York clients said it was unbelievable when they had reports on market orders ten seconds after giving our New York office the orders. Well, why not, isn't the duplex manned by four of our brethren? Dave Ellington and Duke Martin at this end, and Copps and Van Winkle at the New York end.

G. W. Toberen left the service to open an office in Pennsylvania, Tobe is a chiropractor of no mean ability. More power to you, Tobe; you have our hearty good wishes.

Paulson is trying out Prince Albert for a change. No noticeable improvement though.

Ellington says he hopes that the much talked of tournament materializes. Yes, it's about time we had one and settle some of these hot stove championship claims we have heard so much about recently.

W. A. HARRIMAN & CO. NOTES

Bro. Mike Sprague must have the dope on Ponce de Leon, as he seems to be growing younger every day. Wonder how he mixes it, or has he interviewed Dr. Coué?

Brother Lewis, on the Denver-Kansas City string, don't have time to light his cigaret these days. He inquires "whonel" says business is rotten?

We have had several complaints during the past month from tenants of the Borland Block across the street that someone was flashing a mirror in their faces. Upon investigation it proved to be Jimmy Bath's bald head.

Oscar Davidson sure is a lucky bird. He won a can opener recently, and has added it to his list of bug tools. (Beg Pardon, Dave).

The Saxaphone Kid has been laid up with a bad cold the past week. Someone please page a bootlegger.

Bro. Johnny Jones has taken unto himself the manner of a man with a purpose, wonder what it is?

Brother Carpenter still on the job and seems perfectly happy whether the market ascends or sags.

Brother Hallstone absent on account of sickness. We are wishing you a speedy recovery, Hail, old top.

Bros. Thos. Davidson, Lou Howell, and Gus Hirsch are among the recent additions to our 100 per cent force.

E. LOWITZ & CO. NOTES

Bro. A. C. Baldwin, who was run down by an automobile and severely injured, is back on the job marking the board after being confined to his home for the past six weeks. We are certainly glad to see you back with us again, Baldy. But they can't keep a good man down, even with a taxicab.

Bro. Pete Harmon, who was let out by Logan & Bryan at Kansas City recently, is now "doing his stuff" with us at that city.

Arthur Liesemer got in about three weeks on the board here during Brother Baldwin's absence.

Adolph Schmidt also got in a couple days here the past week.

Bro. Jimmy Browner is still bearish on everything on the board. Business is picking up during these big bull markets, Jim Bro. Bert Thornton has two tickers in front of him now and it is rumored they are considering a cotton ticker. Nothing to do but work, Bert.

Have you notice how many of the boys have paid their dues already? LET'S GO.

PAINE WEBBER NOTES

Our "half brother," Joe Levy, better known to his constituents as "Daniel Boone," is "buying" 'em on the N. Y. Dux these days with a little profit. Head-quarters is calling for a little margin on the stock he invested in there some time back, and the writer would suggest that on the recent "bugle" in Verde Central if he would cross those trades, we would take pride in calling him "bro." Come on Joe, margin up.

Bro. C. E. Sandall recently announced a slight increase in salary. "Sandy" says this should be buil news for his clientele at the "Randolph Gardens," and that the party will not have to adjourn quite so early on Saturday afternoons, for the want of "oil." "Dilly, please note."

Our worthy Bro. Wade Worrell, who tries to work our Minneapolis wire, blew himself to a new "skillett." Must be flushed after the rise in "VC." Atta boy, Wade, I've told Joe.

Day by day in every way our esteemed Bro. R. W. "Gloom" Burnett is living up to his reputation. Stewart Warner did this, boys.

Bro. Claude L. Reiter is "Q" job after a four-day lay-off with a bad cold. 'Smatter, Claude, does it take four days to get a "pskn"? Bro. Mistah Jack Miller made the "rj."

We have left with us just one non and he reports slipping fast.

SECESSIONISTS—HOW THEY WORK AND WHY

Advocates of secession almost invariably employ the same methods. Prior to the attempt at dual organization there is loud wailing and crying about the lack of unity within the organization. Then the character defamers indulge in the stereotyped and time-worn tirades against those whose official positions they covet. They hear abuse upon responsible officials not present to defend themselves and follow this by a campaign of malicious misrepresentation. They are determined to crush out the organization if it cannot be stampeded into secession.

Almost invariably they have had no share in building up the Union. Instead of assisting new members to take a more active part in the welfare and progress of the organization, they hint darkly at graft and discourage activity by attempting to cast suspicion on the motives of the old-timers who have stood the brunt of the battles in the past.

Though they protest for free speech and the rights of individual members, they are the first to deny these liberties to people with whom they do not agree. They insist that the organization is being used for someone's personal aggrandizement, but fail to explain the record of increased wages and better conditions achieved under the administration of those whom they malign.

Occasionally sincere anionists have discarded sound reason and proven results, and allowed themselves to be misled by the malicious propaganda of the secessionists and "new union" advocates only to see the general weakening of the union and the destruction of conditions secured through years of struggle.

As a rule, however, the secessionists depend for the success of their schemes upon those who are either too indifferent to familiarize themselves with conditions within their organization and take intelligent action, or those who are too stupid to realize that their cry is the smoke screen behind which the exponents of secession expect to turn the trade union into a company association.

While they wage war against progress, solidarity and the best interests of the organization, they talk about "saving the union."

Beware of the advocate of secession. He is either a paid destructionist or a fool.—International Steam Engineer.

A. C. THOMAS PASSES ON

Addison C. Thomas, formerly A. P. superintendent of telegraph, Chicago, and probably one of the most widely known telegraphers in the United States died in Chicago of stomach trouble early in February.

Mr. Thomas is credited with having first demonstrated the possibility of the use of typewriters in copying press reports. During his life he enjoyed the confidence and respect of all those with whom he came in contact, especially those press telegraphers who worked under him.

THE SOUNDER

Conducted by Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division 21 Meeting Date: Second Wednesday of Each Month at Union of Commerce Hall, 149 Berri St., Montreal.

---Organize----Co-operate---

Business is quiet but with signs of improvement.

The action of the Montreal Stock Exchange in deciding to remain open for the full five hour session, instead of the usual recess of one and half hours from 12:30 to 2 p. m., beginning Wednesday the 15th, is one of the constructive measures indicating that the members of the Exchange are anticipating a revival of business in the near future, which should create a few positions in the street for our unemployed members. It is to be hoped that at least a few of the larger houses will find it necessary to furnish their Telegraphers with lunch reliefs.

Armour and Co., of Chicago, are opening offices here in the near future to trade in cash grain only. The promptness with which our local officers and members were informed of this fact, has resulted in one of our members, Brother McKenna, securing the position.

Brother Don Blehr of L. & B. has a new one every day. His latest is, "I had the kid out on skis yesterday." Tell us the one about the Nova Scotia fishing schooner, Skip, or the latest from the "Judge." Are you sore now?

Our Congrats to Bro. Vachon, L. & B. His wife presented him with a lusty lunged boy on Feb. 7th. By the way, "Vache," why bother a certain operator at "MX" every day about using a loud speaker with your Crystal set, when one just arrived the other day? You'll have enough amplification now without adding another stage.

Bro. Ed. Cohen, L. & B., is back on the job after ten days honeymooning in New York. Ed. is still convinced that two can live cheaper than one and is not going to hock the silverware just now.

Brother Joe McKenna is making a sick relief at Post and Flagg. 73s.

TOO!

J. E. ROY.

By F. ('athbert Allen, General ('hairman

Congratulations are extended to those who have been chosen as officers of the System-Division for 1923, and the writer would impress upon one and all of these officials, the vital importance of the trust reposed in them.

As your General Chairman, I am in a position to assure you that if Division No. 59 is not to backslide worse than it has done during 1922, your very best work, and your untiring efforts will be required throughout the current year.

It must be your aim, and it has simply got to be your accomplished goal, to have within our ranks every worthy and otherwise eligible man in the service.

It must likewise be the aim of every red-blooded holder of an annual card to constitute himself an organizer, to explain to the non and the delinquent the almost debacle in which we found ourselves as a result of shortcomings of too many among whom we work. The chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and being the possessor of an annual card you help to make up the chain. See to it, I ask you, that you are not a weak link or the weak link in the chain.

The reduction in wages which we received was due to nothing more than to our own miserable weakness as a whole. We had an ideal committee, favorably commented upon by very many from other locals in Montreal; we won our points practically all along the line, but as you have been told many times, economic strength is an essential and we didn't have it, so we got a healthy cut in wages to make up for the deficiency.

It must therefore be the work of the 1923 officers to leave nothing undone to remedy the weakness within ourselves, and to so solidify our ranks and our position as an organization, that not only may we be in a position to measure up four square to any possible further encroachment and combat it successfully, but that we may be in shape to take the initiative in the matter of rectifying the wrong that has been done us, but which could not have been done us if we had but three-fourths of the real back-bone that stiffens the genuine trades unionist. We had barely one-half of it, and right now do my very best 73's go out to that, may I say, half.

Let Us Shake Off Our Lethargy.

"Tireditis" is an affliction not altogether unknown to many of us. The latest dictionary defines it as "lethargy." Shake it off; stand up and shake till it can't but drop off! If you do not, look out for surprises, and then refer to your old February issue of the Journal and to this write-up.

I am satisfied that those who have been chosen and have accepted office will not be found wanting, but even their best efforts will not be productive of much lasting good unless they have, and continue to have, the steady support of the rank and file—of you who have permitted yourself to become delinquent, and getting deeper in the mire of bad standing, have allowed that delinquency to be perpetuated. Of you! who have failed to recognize, or having recognized, have refused to admit, possibly even to yourself, the need of a card, and of a cessation of the damnable practice of sucking a fellow worker's blood. Of you! misled and hard to understand individual who, accepting with alacrity the proposed 15 percent reduction in wages, do not seemingly feel that it might be a gracious and certainly an honest act on your part, to refund monthly 5 per cent of your present wage as evidence of the genuineness and spontanelty of your vote.

Of you, the non, who voted so deliberately to reject the cut, and supported your action with an evidently sincere promise to carry a card henceforth, and whose wage today is what it is, and since 1920 has been what it has been, at the expense of your co-workers, many of whom are not in receipt of a wage return equal to your own.

Individuals of a queer stripe who, while the late board was in session, felt it incumbent upon themselves to write the company assuring them of their willingness to accept the proposed reduction. Double crossing a committee has nothing on this

Of these individuals little need be said beyond intimating to them that the union does not want them within its ranks, neither do we want those who, immediately preceding the board, were base enough to present the company with a copy (or copies) of our Vice President's confidential circular letter.

The writer has it on the assurance of no less an authority than the company itself that "We (the company) have lots of operators who show us all these things. To these parasites I address myself and beg of you to keep both your money and your "principles."

The C. T. U. A. Does Not Want Them.

The C. T. U. A. does not wish either, and most emphatically it does not want Division 59 can live and be very much on the qui vive lacking 100 percent membership where, to hold a 100 percent we must needs rope in parasitic material.

We have ample opportunity throughout 1923 to figure in cold cash values the relative cost of an annual card and its worth to us individually and collectively, and the existing reduction in our monthly wage, and I again assure the non-card holders that they are responsible for the reduction in wages and allowances which, organized or otherwise, all are now compelled to accept.

The news of the resignation of Mr. Morse, our late Managing Director, was received with expressions of universal and sincere regret, as in spite of everything not always to our liking, it was generally recognized that Mr. Morse was "one of the boys" and it was very evident to those who had occasion to meet him more or less often, that down deep in that big and sympathetic heart of his, the welfare of those placed under him in our business, always found a place. I have had many intimate conversations with Mr. Morse, and always found him decidedly human. Always a splendid fighter, one could not but admire him.

The writer has in his possession, a letter from Mr. Morse written just prior to his leaving the company, and which it is felt deserves a place in our Journal so that the parting message of our late chief may reach the membership of our division, in whom, I submit, he always evinced a great and sustained interest.

The letter appears elsewhere in this department, and is accompanied by pertinent extracts from my own letter in reply.

I would call your attention to Mr. Morse's remarks relative to his successor in office whom it has already been my pleasure to have met.

BRIEFS

Wonderment is rife as to what the new chairmen are doing about the formation of their local committees, and the Grievance bodies cannot take shape pending the formation of the first named. Local chairmen are referred to the by-laws which are very clear and explicit on this.

The Eastern sub-division appear to be having some difficulty in fixing upon a suitable man for local chairman in lieu of Brother Clegg who has judged it well to relinquish entirely the responsibilities of office. Brother Crewson holds ready to express the paraphernalia of the office of Eastern sub-division chairmen which has been sent him by Brother Clegg.

The Seniority List has just been received, and indicates that a considerable number of last year's men have quit the service.

It is intended to have this list printed as soon as possible and copies available for 1923 card holders who apply for them.

DON'T FORGET THE DEAD LINE-MARCH 1st, 1923.

Let the General Secretary-Treasurer and your local Secretary have your correct home address and also your assignment. This is very important as vital communications are certain to be necessary and we want to know without delay just where you are throughout the year. Some were missed last year through neglect in this respect, and we do not wish a repetition of last year's shortcomings.

Get your Annual and build up your treasury so that the expense in connection with necessary printing may be met and a substantial sum secured to our credit to take care of any emergency which may arise.

MORSE-ALLEN LETTERS

Montreal, Que., December 14, 1922. F. Cuthbert Allen, Esq.,

General Chairman, Canadian Marconi Wireless System, Division No. 59, Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, c/o City Marine, Foot of John St., Toronto.

Dear Mr. Allen:

I am severing my connection with the Marconi Company at the end of this year, but cannot do so without writing to thank you for the never-failing courtesy which you have extended towards me in the course of numerous conferences which we have had and in which we have always been on different sides of the fence.

I have known my successor, Mr. H. M. Short, for many years, and can safely assure you that you and your colleagues, in and out of the Union, will find in him a chief more than worthy of the allegiance which you have given to me.

Yours sincerely.

Signed. A. H. MORSE.

Toronto, Ont., December 18, 1922. A. H. Morse, Esq.,

Managing Director, Marconi Wireless Tel. Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal, P. Q.

Dear Mr. Morse:

I thank you most heartily for your expression in regard to myself personally, and I am indeed glad to know that I have merited your favorable recognition in this particular respect and to this extent.

I am, in a measure, familiar with the name of your successor in office, and I am happy to accept your bespoken word in regard to him.

l cannot close without expressing again, and this time to yourself, my very highest appreciation of your general attitude towards us all; and I feel, and shall continue to feel, that as a body, we have suffered a real loss.

On behalf of the general membership of our Union, I beg to thank you for the many courtesies extended to their representatives in numerous conferences; and I would thank you for the very evident and live interest which you have ever shown since your coming amongst us, in the welfare and the betterment of the operator.

This feature was always recognized by myself even in our warmest moments, and now that you are leaving us, I feel that the time is opportune for me to voice what has long been uppermost in my mind; it is the firm conviction that had you been alone in the matter of operators' wages we would never have been approached with a view to a reduction.

As it is fast approaching the Christmas time, I take this opportunity of wishing you a very, very happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

Respectfully and sincerely yours, Signed. F. CUTHBERT ALLEN.

CONSTRUCTS MOST POWERFUL WIRELESS STATION

The Marconi management will erect very shortly the most powerful wireless station in existence at Vancouver, to cost $2,000,000.

It will also construct a station at Montreal for direct communication with London and other European points.

SIR HENRY THORNTON HONORED BY ENGLISH UNION

Before leaving Great Britain for Canada Sir Henry Thornton, the new president of the Canadian National Railways, was presented with the gold medallion of the N. U. R. by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, M. P., the general secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen. Mr. Thomas said Sir Henry had proved himself to be one of the best general railway managers this country had ever known. During his short stay he had broken down class barriers and hatreds, and would leave behind him a record of fair play and fair dealings that other general managers would be compelled to live up to in days to come.—Daily Telegraph, London, Eng.

The meeting of Chapel No. 1, held February 6th, was well attended despite the severe storm that evening, which is a good omen for the chapel. The attendance I mean; not the storm. It was the occasion for the election of officers for the ensuing year.

Brother W. A. Martin was re-elected to the chairmanship without opposition amid much enthusiasm which bespeaks well the approval of the members for the able manner in which their interests have been and are being looked after.

Brother J. W. Sheehan was elected vice-chairman. The executive members elected are: J. F. Nolan, Manhattan; J. J. Bresnan, Bronx; J. J. Corcoran, Richmond; T. S. Mahoney, Queens; H. F. Early, Brooklyn. Brother Early is a new-comer on the executive staff and we expect great things from him.

Among the C. T. U. A. officials who honored us with their presence and good words of encouragement were: Brothers Percy Thomas, President I. Schwadron, Secretaries Bud Rupple and Jack Hickey, and J. F. Campbell.

In accepting his re-election Chairman Martin pointed out the necessity of loyal support from each and every member; that there must be no backsliding and as Brother Thomas aptly stated we must "stay put." "With the proper support," Brother Martin said, "we are going to 'stay put." And if each member will do his proportionate share I daresay we will do just that.

The Fire Lieutenant's Dinner was held at the Hotel Commodore, January 25th, and a good time was had by all. Lieut. Joseph L. Flannery, President of the Association, was an able toastmaster, right at home introducing such prominent speakers as Fire Commissioner Drennan, Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State; ex-Governor Haskell, of Oklahoma; U. S. Senator-elect Copeland, Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, Rabbi Dr. Silverman, ex-Congressman Charles Pope and Borough President Riegelman, all of whom were profuse in their laudatory discourse of our New York firemen.

The Fire Commissioner showed his very humane side in his remarks and we have hope that that seed may be planted in the fertile field of the neglected dispatchers. At the Fire Telegraph Dispatchers' table were Brothers W. A. Martin, W. G. Linson, J. J. Bresnan, J. F. Nolan, J. W. Sheehan, P. J. Corcoran, A. Mehl, T. S. Mahoney, F. J. Marshall and M. Shortall.

Pleased to report that the "cards" of 95 per cent plus of our boys certify to their good standing to June 30, 1923. We haven't given up the other 5 per cent minus not by any means.

Manhattan Central office reports a greater percentage of dispatchers on sick leave at one time than at any other one time in over a decade. Some attribute this to the rounds of "flu" that pervade New York just now, while the men themselves feel that the present location of the new Central office is not as healthful as old headquarters.

Work is progressing steadily on the new fire alarm central offices in Brooklyn and Bronx, the completion of which will necessitate the placement of extra dispatchers, so next year we expect that our numbers will be materially increased. At the present time we are short of men; dangerously short.

Outside of delay, the reports read at last meeting were anything but discouraging and, keeping the legal aspect in view, I can't see how you can do anything but "stay put." I like that "stay put" slogan. "Atta Boy."

THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS JOURNAL

PRESIDENT MOORE OF TRADES CONGRESS NAILS TWO-SALARY CANARD

At Wednesday night's meeting of the Halifax Trades and Labor Council, Delegate Furzey, of the C. B. R. E., brought up the question of the president of the Trades and Labor Congress holding two jobs, one as president of the Labor Congress, at a salary of $5,000 per year, the other as member of the Railway Board at a salary of $15,000. Delegate Furzey contended that the Halifax Council should take action that Mr. Moore should be compelled to resign as president of the Congress, or leave the Railway Board. And a motion was made to this effect.—News item, Halifax Citizen.

This is a sample of the campaign of misrepresentation still being vigorously pursued by some of the enemies of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and its president, Mr. Tom Moore. It illustrates how the Workers' Party of Canada and other revolutionary agencies carry out the policy of boring from within.

The facts are:-

1. President Moore accepted the position as director of the Canadian National Railways only after full consultation and in agreement with the executives of the railway organizations affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

Only reinmbursement for expenses and NO SALARY is attached to the position.

3. President Moore's acceptance is in harmony with the declared policy of several conventions of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada that Labor should demand representation on such boards and especially on the Canadian National Railways directorate.

4. The appointment of President Moore has been endorsed throughout Canads by railway workers' organizations including the "Big Four," the C. B. R. E., and others not affiliated with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

WILLIAM H, SCHOTT, M. S. O.

Brother Schott started his career with the Postal Telegraph Company in Baltimore, as a measenger. He learned the profession and remained with that company until 1906, resigning to cast his lot with W. U. Tel. Company, at Washington, D. C.

He was later transferred to Baltimore with the same company and remained there until the whistle was blown for the memorable strike in August, 1907. He was out on strike for three months, never regaining his former position with W. U., but managed to land a broker job for a short time, and then drifted back to the Postal in one of their branch offices. The latter place was held until October, 1909, and he was then taken on by the A. T. & T. Co., as a repeater attendant, remaining with them until May, 1920 (nearly eleven years) resigning to take his present position with Jones & Baker in their Baltimore office.

It will be noted that seventeen of these twenty years as a continuous member of the C. T. U. A., was spent with the three large telegraph corporations of the country, two of which (W. U. and Postal) have always been hostile to members of our Union. In spite of this Brother Schott never was without a card.

He is married and the proud father of two fine little girls.

WORKERS' PARTY ACTIVITIES

The extracts published below are taken from Labor publications and show the real aim and objects of the Workers' Party.

Special Article by Trevor Maguire in the "Maritime Labor Herald"

New battles will have to be fought in the year 1923. Battles, perhaps, against the power of the State. To prepare for these conflicts the work of the intelligent, thin, red line that exists in every local should be organized, co-ordinated and increased so that the close of 1923 will show a solid body of "reds." On with the task of making communists!

The Trade Union News

New York, Dec. 28.—The Workers' Party of America closed its second national convention by sending a telegram to Moscow notifying the Communist International that it had devoted itself to "constructive work of building a powerful revolutionary movement in America."

The cablegram to the Communist International at Moscow follows:

"Second national convention Workers' Party sends greetings to Communist International. Convention reports with joy absence of all factionalism. Convention devoted itself to constructive work of building a powerful revolutionary movement in America. All reports indicate greater influence of party in actual struggles of workers. We go forward with new strength and enthusiasm. Long live communism and the International."

A. F. of L. Newsletter

The importance of capturing the trade unions was emphasized at the convention of the Workers' Party of America, which declared for "the dictatorship of the proletariat." Formerly this element expressed their scorn for the unions. Now they cry: "We must have the unions to succeed."

The communists are becoming less daring and are now endeavoring to "legalize" their revolution. The platform adopted is a cautious rehash of "revolutionary" platitudes. The only exception is the urge to capture the unions. This is the usual policy of "revolutionists," who claim to be masters of logic.

It was declared that "one of the chief immediate tasks" of the Workers' Party "is to inspire in the Labor unions a revolutionary purpose." It is urged, as the first step toward government control, to establish soviets, or workers' councils.

Again and again it is declared that the work of the communists is within the unions and that an intensive process of "boring from within" is absolutely necessary.

Between the injunction judge, Garism and communists, trade unionists will have no excuse to fall asleep the coming year.

Extracts from Constitution as Published in "British Columbia Federationist."

"The Workers' Party recognizes in the Russian revolution the first section of the 'world revolution.' Basing its policies on the international character of the revolutionary struggle, it will strive to make the Canadian Labor movement an integral part of the revolutionary movement of the world.

"The general programme of the Workers' Party shall be:

"To consolidate the existing Labor organizations and develop them into organs of militant struggle against capitalism, to permeate the Labor unions and strive to replace the present reactionary leadership by revolutionary leadership.

"To work for the overthrow of capitalism and capitalist dictatorship by the conquest of political power, the establishment of the working class dictatorship and of the workers' republic.

"Unless the unions begin to understand that the era of conciliation and arbitration in the class struggle is passed and recognize the changed conditions of the struggle between Capital and Labor there is danger that the efforts of the capitalist class will succeed.

"Not only, however, is this consolidation necessary, but equally essential is the international organization of all the militant unions of the world. The only force that has proven itself capable of recognizing the needs of the trades union movement imposed by the changed conditions and capable of rallying all the militant forces of the world Labor movement is the Red International of Labor Unions.

"The membership of the Workers' Party will assist in the consolidation of the Labor unions on militant lines by permeating these organizations with a revolutionary spirit, exposing the reactionary and treacherous policies of the Labor unions bureaucracy, stimulating the sense of aggressive rank and file control and resisting to the utmost the expulsion of militants and the splitting up of the unions in general."

Report of Speech of Trevor Maguire, Organizer of the Workers' Party as reported in the "Maritime Labor Herald"

Some talk about bringing about revolution by constitutional methods. The apeaker considers this an impossible method. The Constitution of Canada is found in the British North America Act which was framed for the purpose of keeping power out of the hands of the workers. It is composed of House of Commons, Senate and Governor-General

If Labor captured all the seats of the House of Commons, their legislation would be blocked by the Senate, composed of senators appointed for life. These would block the legislation. Parliament is but one section of government. There are the armed forces.

The workers must build a political machine of their own that will suppress all those who fight it. This form of government will be a soviet form, which means workers organized in councils. The workers look forward to the day when there will be a Canadian soviet government.

President Gompers of the A. F. of L. in a special article written for the New York Tribune declares that "Americans can best stop the spread of communist propaganda by recognizing the effectiveness, the democratic and scientific foundation of our trade unions which stand as the first line of defense against communist dictatorship. The communists are not attacking Congress, legislatures, corporations or employers; they are attacking trade unions."

MONTREAL DISTRICT COUNCIL

On January 12th the Council held a special mass meeting which was well attended and addressed by International President Johnson of Chicago, International Vice-president Schnur of Montreal, and General Executive Board Member Strachan of Toronto.

President Johnson and Board Member Strachan were in Montreal on some important business and we took advantage of the opportunity afforded us to have three International officers on a Montreal platform at one time.

The speeches were interesting as well as instructive and were well received. Canadian Vice-president Schnur struck a popular chord when, during the course of his speech, he launched a bitter attack against commercial telegraph officials. The speaker cited numerous violations of the schedules and warned telegraph officials of both companies to take stock of their unjust position and materially alter their attitude, or suffer the inevitable consequences. Brother Schnur stated the workers were well fed up with conditions in general and would not tolerate a continuation of the present abuses.

The two commercial division general committees are convening in Montreal the 15th of this month to form a policy for the coming year. Much depends on this conference and the Montreal membership hopes two commercial divisions will not let past differences, real or imaginary, interfere with the sound business judgment that must ever be our guide if success is to be achieved.

The Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division is also convening a committee in Montreal to meet with the two big divisions. The aim of the broker boys is to arrive at some satisfactory working agree-ment between the three divisions which will have for its main purpose a thorough regulation of jobs and wages in the two The present condition is agbranches. gravating and unsatisfactory to say the least. Commercial men go out looking for broker jobs without notifying the Broker Division and to make matters worse, more often than not these commercial men offer to work broker jobs much cheaper than broker men. In other words, the commercial men are knowingly or unknowingly reducing the wages of the broker men.

On the other hand, we find the commercial men complaining against the brokers because the latter come into the commercial offices and scoop for less money than the commercial men get.

Both conditions are not conducive to the best interests of the craft as a whole and the Montreal conference will, we feel certain, go a long ways towards doing away with these irritants.

We feel that a word or two should be said in these columns about the secession shouters at Winnipeg and Calgary. Since reading the pamphlet of 32 pages issued by the Canadian Vice-president, which fully exposes the wrecking tactics of Mitchell, Robinson, Pryde and Kelly, we are constrained to say that the membership in Montreal has nothing but a feeling of contempt for the miserable quartette who have been shown up in their true light.

Read the Vice-president's pamphlet and visualize for yourself the picture of a clutch of four bad eggs, all in the one fouled nest.

In concluding this month's notes we want to advise our sisters and brothers in the United States that we are liable to have trouble in Canada in the near future and we ask that all telegraphers stay out of Canada until we find out where we stand. "Simplicimus."

A most enjoyable and refined entertainment was given by the Montreal District Council under the auspices of the lady members on February 9 at the Palestre A progressive euchre was Nationale. played simultaneously with the dancing, the former ending at 11 p. m., when refreshments were served. Dancing continued until the wee sma' hours. Sister Betty Schnur, wife of our esteemed and incomparable Canadian Vice-President, acted as chairman and words are but an inadequate medium through which could express our praise and appreciation of the able manner in which the entertainment was conducted. Not a single hitch occurred throughout the evening, everything running with clock-like precision, and everyone present enjoyed themselves as never before.

Much credit is also due to the efforts of the lady members, who worked like little Trojans to make it a success. At the close of the evening they were all tired out but happy in the satisfaction that comes with hard-earned success. It is little social affairs like this that contribute to the well-being of our organization, permitting others to see the other side of our lives and creating a feeling of goodfellowship and better understanding among members.

There is no intimation of a desire for secession among the ranks of Montreal members, despite the propaganda issued by a few misguided in-dividuals in the West, who, know-ingly or unknowingly, are playing into the hand of our common ene-Every clear thinking individual whether a member or nonmember knows that a split in the ranks is what is hoped and looked for by the enemies of organization whether special, political, or labor. "United we stand, divided we fall," is an old adage that should be borne in mind. Think it over fellow-telegrapher workers! Think it over!

NEW YORK DISTRICT COUNCIL

The meeting of the Fire Dispatchers held in the World Building February 6th was well represented by the Council.

Brothers Jim Campbell, J. A. Hickey, B. F. Rupple and President Ike Schwadron were there from the Council.

Brother Percy Thomas honored us with his presence, coming to the meeting in one of the worst snowstorms we have seen hereabouts. But as he had promised us he would attend, Percy's word is good as his bond, and once given we knew that nothing short of an earthquake would have kept him away.

The boys were well repaid for coming out on such a night, as Percy was at his best, and the injection of a little humor in his address gave us a chance to relax from the tenseness of his usual serious and right-from-the-shoulder deliveries.

The old timers were all present and came a long distance to attend the meet-They certainly ought to be given a medal of remembrance for coming out on

CONSOLIDATED PRESS NOTES

Washington-South-Sunshine Circuit

For fear that you first class writers will not wake up in time and contribute a nice story for the Journal this month, I will endeavor to pound out a few rounds if you think you can survive the barrage and barbed wire entanglements. However, here's hoping that a little something is better than nothing at all.

The Consolidated Press extended sympathy and financial assistance to Mrs. K. N. Walker, wife of K. N. Walker, Pitts-Mr. Walker passed away on the morning of January 10th, after a short illness with pneumonia. The Consolidated Press is keeping Mrs. Walker on the pay roll for the time being, and in addition the telegraphers made up a nice purse and sent it to Mrs. Walker. The Consolidated then carried an announcement of the death on their wires, which is probably another precedent, as most press associations simply put another man on the job and the incident closes, although they should take notice and give their employes a little more consideration and they would receive better co-operation.

CORRECTION! BULLETIN CORRECTION! A horrible error was made in last month's write-up. R. L. Lewis, Harrisburg, Pa., did not go to see Marie in Baltimore as stated, but it was some other guy. Lewis' wife and six children got in behind him, but he had a good alibi ready and told them that Marie was a horse he bet on out at Pimlico, and lost!

George W. Graham left Washington the latter part of January for San Francisco to join C. T. Gheen's force there, but it is thought George will be there only temporarily. "Gram" was relieved in Washington by George Nolan, the "bug and code artist" who has been getting us out early on Friday night. Nolan was relieved on the third wire by a Mr. Hawkins, whom we are not fully acquainted with as yet but will probably hear from him soon. The other artist in Washington is Georgetown McCarthy. At yet the position of Chief of Traffic for the Southern Division has not been filled, or at least no official announcement has been made.

L. M. Dunnam, or "Larry," the famous "Radio bug," has left us at Lynchburg, Va., owing to his health. He was relieved by J. W. Foster from Atlanta, who is a promising young man originally from Lynchburg. Sorry to see you leave, Larry; welcome in our midst, "Johnnie."

No more changes have been made on the Sunshine Circuit since the last writing, but more cities and new faces are expected to be added on within the near future.

The following little poem was handed me by a cripple, an old newspaper man, which I am submitting in your behalf:

By Edw. L. Russell

How little it costs,
If we give it a thought,
To make some heart
Happy each day.
One kind word, and
A tender smile
As we go on our daily way,
Some walk in the blessed sunshine,
Some walk in the dreary shade,
Some tread a path that is fair and bright,

While others pull hard against the stream.

J. N. Hanna.

UNITED FINANCIAL NOTES

WHEN DO WE GET THAT RAISE?

Why next July of course, now that the financial men have a man on the committee. All it takes is a solid backing and a determined stand for what is rightfully ours.

Now that the Coast wire has concluded their beauty contest and first prize awarded to Geo. Kirschmyer, the financial operators will present for your approval a picture of their mugs. McCloskey is slated for first money. Watch for the next edition of the Journal.

Our latest addition is Des Moines, Iowa-Brother Ralph W. Hurd switched over from the U. N. to the U. F. and is now a member of our happy and growing family. We are all glad it was you, Ralph, but please explain that code F. O. W. B. It's got us all.

WILL WE GET THAT RAISE? YES!!!
Only one break on the West wire since the first of the year. SOME RECORD.
Yea, Bo, that raise is coming.

UNITED NEWS

New York-South

Quite a few changes have taken place on this circuit in the last two months.

We have a new client at London, Ontario, with Brother L. G. Leslie from Toronto officiating.

The printer has been abolished at Washington, and Gus Tarry is now handling the Morse side.

Brother Norman O'Neill, who was recently transferred from Cleveland, is doing the heavy stuff at NX.

Brother R. E. Hartenstine, formerly of the I. N. S., relieved Brother Joyce at Allentown, who has gone in the dairy business Brother C. G. Copher, at Johnstown, now holds the distinction of being the oldest man on the circuit. All of the rest of us having come on in the last few weeks.

CANADIAN PRESS NOTES

ALL MEMBERS LOCAL No. 52:

Only a few days remain until delinquency comes into vogue. Last year we came through this period without a delinquent and, happily, annuals predominated. Let's get after that record this year and exceed the number of annuals. Those who have already remitted for their semi-annual can still arrange an exchange for an annual, and be in the majority class.

In the January Journal I gave you a few words on the situation existing in our local in respect to voting.

Following the election for our 1923 general committee I unluckily contracted the usual spirit of New Year energy and compiled a table of averages showing how our membership voted on the election of officers for the three years 1920-22.

The average struck was fair enough, but a considerable improvement is possible, and one bad feature appeared. In both districts, the East and West, each show four members who consistently failed to take advantage of the ballot. Preaching on this subject should not be necessary and I will only ask these few members if they ever thought of what the inevitable result would be should we all show the same interest in the local?

For the information of those who have not received my circular in connection with an insurance proposition that is being investigated, and, if necessary arrangements can be made, will be voted upon in the near future, I will quote a few of the principal details:

There will be no medical examination.

The principal will be $1,000, but it may be possible to have this increased $100 every year.

Cost is based on individual age. However, an average age of the complete membership can be arrived at and estimating that this would reach the age of 37 years, the cost would amount to between $8 or $9, increasing a few cents every year.

$9, increasing a few cents every year.

Three months' service with Canadian Press is necessary to become eligible and insurance lapses upon conclusion of service.

Payment of principal will be made to member himself in case of permanent or total disability before he reaches 60 years of age

An accident and sickness clause can be obtained for an additional $7.20 per annum for each $10 weekly benefit.

This is merely a skeleton of the plan and before a vote is taken, further and complete details will be presented to all concerned.

As some plan of this nature has long been required in our organization I will say that, personally, I believe the proposition will be received favorably but if an improvement can be furnished I certainly will be pleased to do my share towards putting it through.

DON'T BECOME DELINQUENT!

MAKE IT AN ANNUAL!

J. A. McDougall, Secretary-Treasurer.

UNITED PRESS NOTES

Kansas City-Atlanta Circuit

Chief Reddington at KP was forced to absent himself for about two weeks on account of illness. He said he was a bit weak when he came back, but—"Every day in every way he gets stronger and PASTER."

McBride at Bx has been having it soft during the stormy days of the Old South. No wires for nearly two days. Hippy also had a one-day respite recently. Some guys have all the luck.

Another relay was transferred to Kansas City and from reports that we have at hand Burr, formerly stationed at JM Jacksonville, is going to man the pump at KP. Come on, Burr, we're with you, though we hate to lose "Red."

And still Mr. Maddux, our committeeman, hasn't been heard from on the wire after he signs. Boys, he surely knows his stuff and we hope that his ability on the wire will hold good in his new job, though we're not afraid on that score either.

It's getting close to "negotiating time." Boys, make up your mind as to what you want your representatives to do when they get to NX. Tell them what it is, then stick. I, for one, believe those boys on the financial "Cyclone Circuit" deserve a higher rate than the present one.

LET'S HELP THEM GET THAT RAISE.

New York State-Canada Circuit

The Empire State-Canada wire has come into its own again. We have regained the distinction of being the only wire in the United Press service, if not on the North American continent, to be graced with the presence of a lady press telegrapher.

We extend a most hearty welcome to Sister Helen Yawman, daughter of the old timer, Bro. J. L. Yawman of Hamilton, Ont., who recently took on the duties of transcribing the report for the Standard at St. Catherine's, Ont. The young lady is doing the work in expert fashion.

For several years previous to the time the automatic machine crowded the Morse out at Lockport about three years ago, Sister Mary J. Macaulay was with us daily, so it seems rather natural to have one of the gentle sex as a co-worker.

Peter J. Anderhub, who preceded Miss Helen at St. Catherines, decided that Canada was too close to the north pole, especially in January, and departed for Baltimore. Andy is relieving Jack Moran, who is on a leave of absence from the Baltimore Post.

Latest reports from Clarence Smith were to the effect that he was visiting in the old home town, Kinston, N. C. We sincerely hope the familiar surroundings will soon restore "Smithy" to his old form and that he will be back in the harness as hale and hearty as ever in a short time.

Kansas City-Texas

Buck, we were all sorry to see you go, and will miss those entertaining articles of yours in the journal.

With the establishment of the threeman relay at Kansas City, B. L. Herman, the best receiving operator in the U. S., he admitted this himself to Bradshow at Tulsa, moved over to KP from the Star KZ, to do the receiving on the New York end.

Billy Meeks, from Arkansas City, graduated Into the Beacon job at Wichita vacated by Hiner on the first, being relieved by "Bill" Young, from KZ (Star, Kansas City), while Young was succeeded at KZ by the old war horse Frank P. McCloskey. Other new comers in these parts are: Frank G. Davis, from the Universal Service, who relieved Bill Young at Beaumont. Bill, we hope you are anchored now for awhile, as you don't like big towns. Also this circuit is getting all broke out with the Baugh brothers, which is some asset. Brother J. D. Baugh is now safely put up among the "Injuns" at Chickasha, vice Brother Beverly Pierce, who was transferred to El Paso to open the new office there for the United News. Baugh is a brother of W. E. Baugh, the old standby at San Antonio.

This circuit lost a client on the first of the year and gained one, so it was an even break. The Fort Worth Press substituted the pony for the lease, while the Drovers Telegram at Kansas City started the lease. Brother Val Sweeney took a ride on the kyars as the result.

Brother Safley at Pa (Port Arthur) reported the birth of a girl, recently. Ed told him that his call now would be Papa. Congratulations, Saf.

We would like to hear something from the boys out on the coast. We helped you elect yourselves a committeeman, now reciprocate and let's know what you fellows are thinking about.

Anon.

THE VIEWPOINT

The Journal in publishing opinions of its members does not necessarily endorse or assume responsibility for such opinions.

"LABOR UNEMPLOYMENT WITHOUT A CAPITAL UNEMPLOYMENT

The great war, which has shattered empires, desolated millions of homes, and sown the seeds of famine over enormous areas, has also, as a minor incident in its course, revolutionized fiscal conditions in nearly all the great states in the world. The scale of finance has been so changed that the problems it presents are different, not merely in degree, but in kind from what they were before the war.

In the course of the war there has grown up a luxuriant and most confusing entanglement of inter-governmental indebtedness, but how far it is reasonable for any country to count its loans at Iull value among its assets; when interest pay-ments are likely to begin, and when, if ever, the capital obligations will be discharged are questions not easy to answer.

Besides the great growth in national debts for which the war has been responsible, it has also led everywhere to great changes in the distribution of wealth. Money is only a mechanism by means of which we deal with things—it has no properties except those we choose to give it. It is childish to say that a country has no money for social betterment, or for any other purpose, when it has the skill, the men and the material and plant to create that betterment. The banks or the Treasury can create the money in five minutes, are doing it every day and have been

It is necessary to bear in mind that the object of industry should not be unemployment, but rather the delivery of goods, yet it is true that unemployment at the moment does form a practical problem de-manding alleviating treatment. It is certain that both employers and employes are willing and able to work on terms. It has been shown that the productive capacity of industry unless that capacity is enormously and viciously wasted by war, exceeds the consuming capacity of a nation; and yet the needs of the individuals who comprise the com-munity (whose collective needs are the only reason for the existence of industry) are far from being met.

There are millions of persons wanting goods; the productive system can make these goods; the persons who want them can buy them, and those who make them can be paid for them.

It seems obvious that an enormous stimulation to production would be provided—a stimulation which no mere propaganda on its desirability has ever succeeded in evoking; and that the immediate effect of this would be a radical diminution of unemployment.

J. P. Farrell, Dist. Chairman Can. Natl. Tels. Toronto, Can.

U. S. PRESS OPERATORS SHORT CHANGED FOR FOUR YEARS

It might be a good idea at this time for committeemen who are to represent the Union press telegraphers in the United States this year to give serious thought to the fact that for four years little Canada has set a $45 per week minimum mark for its press operators, for American committeemen to shoot at.

When I said "little" Canada I had the population of that country in mind. Canada in its entirety has a smaller population than the State of Pennsylvania alone, and it would seem that here in the United States—the richest country in the world today—we should establish a minimum wage target which would be so much higher than that of other countries that they would not be able to hit it until their wealth and economical conditions equalled area, or territorially speaking, Canada is larger than the United States. Can you visualize the thousands of miles of wire from Halifax, N. S., to Vancouver, B. C., and Prince Rupert to say nothing of cross sections, for which the handful of newspapers in "little" Canada must pay rental assisted only by comparatively small governmental subsidies?

Now stop and think how absurd it is that we here in the United States, the wealthiest country in the world, with a population more than thirteen times greater than that of Canada, have not been receiving at least the minimum of $45 a week which has been paid to press opera-tors in "little" Canada during the past four years!

Try to look this pen picture over carefully and honestly, please, and then do some hard thinking in your own best interest. Weigh the comparisons fairly and see for yourself if you have not been "short changed" during the past four years, when you consider Canadian con-Jim Hosey, Mount Carmel, Pa. ditions.

LENIN'S AGENT, W. Z. FOSTER, ADVOCATES AMALGAMATION AND LABOR PARTY

W. Z. Foster, paid disciple of Lenin and most active boll weevil of American trade unionism, has launched a new scheme to gain control of the labor movement for the Red Internationale. He is asking $5,000 local trade unions to adopt a resolution endorsing the formation of a Labor Party.

Even though Foster's connection with Moscow had not been exposed by the American Federation of Labor, his persistent and costly campaign for amalgamation of all craft unions under one or more easily controlled industrial organizations would be cause for suspicion in the light of experience. But the advocacy of a Labor Party in opposition to the wisdom and experience of officers of the American Federation of Labor and following the remarkable success of the slogan, "Elect your friends; defeat your enemies," in last Fall's election, can mean but one thing: Moscow is getting impatient and is demanding action for its gold.

We have no quarrel with the form of government adopted by the Russian people. We do not deny the Russian workers the privilege of organizing along industrial lines with a dictator at their head. They can enjoy to their fill the Utopian pleasures of eating sunflower seed bread and collecting millions of rubles per day as wages, but let them keep their hands out of our troubles, great as they are.

Foster and his lieutenants are advancing the cause of a bolshevik "Utopia" that has run amuck with life, liberty and possessions of the Russian workers. Forced labor has been secured by sword and machine gun, workers have been slaughtered for expressing honest opinions and the worst evils of the czarist secret police has been revived.

The achievements of this glorious revolution must now be brought to our shores, Lenin has declared. Foster's circular to our local units is just one more step in the movement. Let us note who are the supporters of this movement within our own ranks.

When American workers decide they need another Seattle or Winnipeg general strike to demonstrate the utter failure of "amalgamation of all craft unions" no doubt we will call upon that false Moses, W. Z. Foster, and possibly that other labor fakir, James Duncan of Seattle. But it will not be until Foster's dismal failure in the Steel strike is forgotten.

Foster is going to have everybody vote. How will the vote be taken? That, of course, is a matter of small importance to Foster. The thought arises, however: Why not announce the result at once? Why consume needless time and go through unnecessary motions? The artful Lenin would like to have the returns from this spectacular and crucial referendum at once.

It may be news to some members of the C. T. U. A. that our own organisation has a few scattered parlor communists who will try to have action taken on Foster's resolution. Our advice to local officers and members of the C. T. U. A. is to make the same disposition of this circular that you do to those blue sky oil circulars.

WESTERN UNION HANDS OUT 4 PER CENT BONUS IN LIEU OF WAGE INCREASE

The Western Union Telegraph Company distributed on February 20th a bonus to its employes of $1,775,000.00 to 35,000 of its 54,000 employes, or 50 per cent of its earnings on its investment in excess of $11,500,000.00. The award is equal to 47½ per cent of each employes salary for July, 1922. Messenger boys received a flat payment of $17.50 each. And all of the employes are supposed to be rejoicing over receiving what is less than 4 per cent over and above their wages for the year 1922. There was no bonus in 1921 because the company did not earn in excess of $11.000.000.

These figures ought to be interesting to the student of the wage question and especially to those who know the history of the Western Union Telegraph Company. One of the first impressions is that $11,000,000.00 is almost as much actual money as was ever paid into the company on its $100,000,000.00 capitalization as may be ascertained through reading Frank Parson's splendid book, "The Telegraph Monopoly."

The next impression is that this $1,775,000 when divided by 35,000 gives an average of $55.00 to all employes affected, but in deducting the amount paid to messengers the average may be nearer $75.00, which if spread over the entire year of 1922 would mean $6.25 per month.

Bonus Is Never Wage Increase

The bonus is a bonus, it is never a wage increase; now you get it, then you don't; whereas a wage increase becomes a fixed charge and it applies to all employes alike, instead of having the strings that are usually applied to a bonus, and these strings probably account for the failure of the other 19,000 employes not participating in the bonus, and 19,000 is almost 35 per cent of 54,000.

The Postal Telegraph Company increased its wages 5 per cent in December; the Western Union gives a 4 per cent bonus in February. Which is to be preferred? Which is the more substantial? One is a wage with no strings to it, the other is very elusive because all the figures are made up by the employer; they are probably correct, but if they are not who is there to challenge their method of figuring?

Labor unions, as distinguished from company unions, always insist upon a wage scale; then they insist upon any increases granted being shown in that wage scale. Company unions are bound to accept whatever the employer offers because they are emasculated right from the start and have no strength of their own. Their source of strength was taken from them when organized and even a 100 per cent emasculated company union will be no stronger than a 25 per cent real organization for the simple reason that a powerless body multiplied a thousand times is still powerless.

Power Must Be on Both Sides

Wage negotiations are only negotiations where there is power on both sides and that power simplified is the right to say to one another: "Under these conditions, we will work—if we cannot agree, then we will not work." In other words there must be power to give or to withhold your labor. If that cannot be done, then the organization is merely a dues-paying association for the benefit of a few people who are powerless to do a thing in behalf of their supporters. Usually they are controlled by the employer so completely that the best they do is to keep their fellow workers from getting the things they are entitled to.

All of this may be highly satisfactory to the Western Union employes; this 4 per cent per year may be just the very thing they want; one is inclined to believe it is because if they wanted something else, they would change their plan of organization so that they might get a wage increase just as union men and women are getting their wages increased in other fields.

The $6.25 per month they got in 1922 though ought to be an eye-opener to the sincere person who believes that the workers don't need any power of their own in order to improve their conditions.

It's the old, old story—the only way that people can get anything in this world is to show they are ready to fight for the things they believe they are entitled to.

UNIONS LEAD UPWARD

If there were no trade unions there would be no great development of industry, trade, and commerce in this or any other country. It is the consuming power of the masses which keeps the wheels of industry in constant revolution. The masses consume in accord with the wages received.

Periods of unemployment are caused by underconsumption, which is usually referred to as overproduction. Underconsumption is caused by the workers not receiving in wages enough to consume that which they produce. The only sure remedy for unemployment and periods of industrial and commercial stagnation is better wages for the consuming masses.

There is no power on earth by which wages can be increased and maintained except through united effort and collective bargaining in our

The rich are in the small minority and consequently they do not keep the wheels of industry in constant motion. It is the wage earners who by force of number do the great bulk of the consuming.

The sooner big interests and trade union opponents and non-union advocates realise this fact and encourage instead of discourage the trade union movement, the sooner we shall be on the road to prevention of long periods of unemployment with its frightful suffering and consequent depression in trade and commerce.

In countries where there is no organised labor movement wages are lowest and the hours of labor longest and there is no general prosperity for anyone except politicians and the privileged few. In countries where wages are highest and the hours of labor shortest, civilization has reached its highest peak and general prosperity and the volume of business industrially, commercially and financially is greater than all other countries operating under the low wage and long hour system. There is no formidable labor movement in China; there is no prosperity there. The same can be said of kindred countries. If low wage and long hours make for industrial and commercial greatness, China would be leading the world the hours shortest. instead of the United States, where wages are highest and the hours shortest, occupying that proud position.

No legislation and no fine spun, high sounding resolutions ever have or ever will prevent periods of unemployment with the consequent industrial and com-

Some day in the not far distant future these economic facts will be recognized and the trade union movement will be regarded as a mighty force working for the good of all mankind and as a stabilizing force which is protecting and advancing modern civilization. Then all right-minded and liberty-loving, progressive people will hail our movement and proclaim it a blessing to mankind.

In the righteous march in the direction of the doctrine which declares for the greatest good to the greatest number the trade union movement will lead undaunted and unafraid. It has no fears for its own existence and never doubts its ability to fulfill all of its self-imposed obligations and looks forward to the day when a grateful people will recognize and proclaim its usefulness and power for good.

The trade union movement stands for justice, equality, happiness, and good will to all mankind.

By the Vice-President

Co-operation to the highest degree is now existant between Canadian telegraph divisions. The last two weeks of February saw the achievement of a long-wished-for goal when the general committees of the three largest C. T. U. A. divisions in Canada met around the same table in joint conference for the first time in history.

The committees, with a full complement of able men, deliberated at some length in their joint sessions, giving especial attention to matters of vital import and concerning the fraternity as a whole. Grievances, working conditions and rates of pay were discussed and studied.

All delegates were of one mind on the question of wage standardization in the two commercial divisions. While many arguments were advanced to show that all commercial telegraph workers were underpaid, it was decided that the lower-paid workers were in especially difficult circumstances and needed attention, immediate and urgent.

The Canadian National Division, which has the lowest minimum wage and lowest clerical staff wage, has suffered more than the other divisions, and it was, therefore, decided this division should go in for an equitable revision in the immediate future. Standardization of wage scales with the other Canadian commercial division is the first objective. Once standardization has been obtained, the two divisions will be able to negotiate jointly for further much needed improvements.

The membership of the Canadian National Telegraphs Division, No. 43, has been assured the fullest support of the entire International body in their pending negotiations and the rank and file are ready for any emergency. The lower paid workers—clerks, etc.—are grateful for the stout allegiance which has been accorded them by their sisters and brothers, and their appreciation is being shown by enthusiastic and determined solidification of their ranks.

The Morse and Automatic members have unselfishly extended a welcoming and helpful hand to the clerks and by so doing have won the hearts and the confidence of those workers who had maliciously been led to believe they need expect no help from their "aristocratic" fellow workers. Another bubble busted by the pin-prick of industrial solidarity!

Considerable time was also spent by the committee in discussing the co-operative relationship between the two commercial divisions and the Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division. This discussion brought out the fact that conditions in the broker field were bad, because of the fact that uneducated and unthinking commercial members were in the habit of going out on the "Street" and underbidding broker men. The commercial division delegates were in sympathy with the plight of their broker brothers and this shameful condition of "throat cutting" has been remedied through the amendment of commercial division by-laws. From now on commercial members will be violating their by-laws and laying themselves liable to expulsion if they accept broker work at a rate of pay less than $45 per week or $8 per day. Further, if a broker member is asking his boss for a raise, no member of the Union is to accept that position under any circumstances. Last, but not least, no commercial member is permitted to relieve a non-member broker telegrapher, regardless of the pay. No card, no favor, with a vengeance.

This general tightening up will bring about stabilization in the leased wire field, which in turn will reflect favorably upon the commercial divisions in turn. The broker division members, as a result of having their hands strengthened by their commercial fellow workers, have inaugurated an enthusiastic organizing drive upon the few remaining leased wire nons in the Dominion.

Another accomplishment of the committee sessions was the adjustment of some very contentious grievances against the Companies. Seriously determined men, those committeemen, in no mood to haggle over technicalities. The managements saw fit to straighten out the violations.

The Automatic machines were, as usual, the subject of interesting discussion. The principle of equal pay for Morse and Automatic was reaffirmed. The rank and file of operators were again urged to adjust themselves to the art of using either device, thereby making an elastic traffic force. Such a combination would work out to the satisfaction of both contracting parties.

If the two commercial divisions are, in the near future, to negotiate jointly for equal pay for Morse and Automatic, with but one seniority grouping, it is up to the rank and file to do something for themselves.

Automatic operators must learn the Morse and Morse operators must be ready to operate a machine when called upon! We must take this question seriously and get down to cold realities. Interest yourself or suffer the consequences of indifference!

The joint sessions of committees proved such a tremendous success that a resolution was adopted in which it was recommended that permanent machinery to permit of joint sessions of all divisional committees be set up. This writer will undertake to draw up by-laws for such a joint protective council and submit it to the entire membership for ratification.

James T. Gunn, former officer of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in Toronto, and latterly secretary of the Canadian Federation of Labor, is now anxious to reach an "understanding" with the International organisation which he betrayed.

James is an opportunist of the first water and his latest about-face doesn't surprise those who know him. His "national union" pie card is punched full of holes and he wants to get back in the "fold." James can change his principles as easily as a chameleon changes color.

The C. P. R. boys and girls have reason to remember him for the fine work he did not do as their representative on the 1920 Board of Conciliation.

C. E. Davies, General Superintendent of the Canadian National Telegraphs, warns plant chiefs, wire chiefs and supervisors against taking any part in the affairs of their organization.

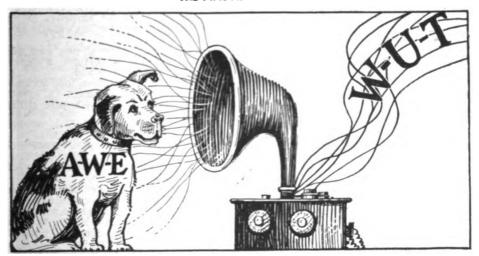

We would remind Mr. Davies that these men are scheduled and in the words of his boss, Sir Henry Thornton, these men are encouraged to take an active part in their organization.

Sir Henry told this writer:

"I want all my workers to join their legitimate and responsible unions and take an active part in their organization."

Better watch your step, Charlie!

Sunday, April 29th, will be MORSE DAY. The members of the New Y District, Eastern Broker Division, will on that day visit the grave of Profes Morse in Greenwood Cemetery as a mark of respect to the memory of the "Fathe the Telegraph."

A circular giving full particulars will be mailed to the membership in due t SAMUEL FINLEY BREESE MORSE, inventor of the telegraph, was born at foot of Breed's Hill in Charlestown, Mass., on April 27th, 1791. His father we clergyman and he was the eldest of three brothers. He graduated from Yaki 1810, and resolved to devote his life to art. The next year he went to England 🐨 Washington Allston to study under his tuition and that of Benjamin West. produced a model of a dying Hercules which gained him a gold medal_from Adelphia Society of Arts, but Providence had reserved him for other works than those of the pencil and the chisel, though he always retained his early fondness for such pursuits. He also produced a number of paintings which are held in high repute.

He was one of the founders of the National Academy of Design in 1826. He was its first president.

He was elected to the Professorship of the Literature of the Arts of Design in the University of the City of New York.

It was on a voyage home from Europe, to enter upon the duties of this post, that he conceived the great invention to which he owes his world-wide fame.

In 1835 he built an experimental line consisting of one-half mile of wire stretched around and around a room, exhibiting a telegraph in actual operation.

The invention attracted a great deal of attention, but few persons could be persuaded of its financial value. He tried for six years to induce Congress to appropriate money for the construction of a telegraph line between Washington and Baltimore. Still hopeful, mid poverty and trouble, much to his surprise, on the last night of the session in March, 1843, Congress voted $30,000 for his experimental work.

With the aid of friends his invention was brought into general use, and, contrary to almost universal expectations, the inventor realized a fortune, which he lived to enjoy together with the gratitude of his country and the world.

In 1871 the telgraphers of the country, who loved him as children love a father, raised a statue of bronze in Central Park, New York City, in his honor.

Professor Morse died April 2, 1872. All the nations of the earth paid tribute to his memory.

RALPH WAINWRIGHT POPE Member Eastern Broker Division Deam of Union Telegraphers

Brother Pope was born August 16th, 1844, at Great Barrington, Mass. He developed at an early age a taste for mechanics. At the age of fifteen he worked for the Housatonic railroad. When the Civil War broke out he entered the service of the American Telegraph Company and became an expert telegrapher. In 1865 he joined the Collins Overland Telegraph Expedition. This famous band of pioneers went into the wilds of British Columbia in an effort to establish an overland telegraph system with Europe by way of Alaska and Siberia. The building of this line was prevented, however, by the success of the Atlantic cable.

On the day of his return from British Columbia to New York, in May, 1866, he was offered $118.00 per month by Manager Roberts of the U. S. Telegraph Co.'s New York office. This was the highest salary paid to Eastern operators at that time. The offer was declined for the reason that Mr. Pope acquired a distaste for office confinement, having for the same reason already turned down a job at Virginia City, while awaiting at San Francisco the return of his brother from a hazardous trip from Lake Tatla, B. C., down the Stickee River to the Coast.

Returning at once to his Great Barrington home, he helped his father through the Spring planting. He was recalled in June of the same year to the service of the Housatonic railroad as Agent at Pittsfield, Mass. While there he became intimate with Engineman Fuller, an enthustastic member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Mr. Pope had been a member of the National Telegraphers' Union for several years and had become impressed with the idea that while it had in a measure promoted good fellowship, organised balls and entertainments, it was entirely lacking in any defence against aggression. With this thought in mind. Mr. Pope re-entered the telegraph service in the employ of the Bankers & Brokers in the employ of the Bankers & Brokers Telegraph Co., at 16 Broad Street, New York, in 1867, being detailed first to the Gold Room and then to the Stock Exchange office. While there he became intimate with W. W. Burhans, a Western Union operator, which led to the secret organization of the Telegraphers' Protective League in November, 1868. The first meeting was not attended by Mr. Pope, who was then on his wedding tour, but at who was then on his wedding tour, but at the next meeting he was elected Chief Operator of Circuit No. 1 (New York), and following the adoption of a constitution was given the title of Grand Chief Operator. The constitution was based upon that of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, with such changes as appeared necessary, because of differing conditions. Without any organized campaign, 'Circuits' were established in about thirty cities in the United States during 1868-9. A reduction or re-adjustment of salaries in the San Francisco office of the Western Union Tel. Co. announced in December, 1869, followed by futile attempts by the League officers to modify the terms, led to a local strike, which spread throughout the country in January, 1870. Before New York became involved a local committee made a final attempt to relieve the situation by an ineffectual appeal to Judge Palmer, acting president of the Western Union Tel. Co. The League was not prepared for an outbreak of this kind, and was without resources, and two weeks later gave up the struggle, thus ending its meteoric career.

From 1867 to 1872 Mr. Pope was with the Bankers & Brokers Telegraph Co. He then became an inspector with the Gold & Stock Telegraph Co., and in 1880 was advanced to be deputy superintendent at the time when the Company's apparatus was considered by many as representing the highest development which had so far been reached in the art. In 1882 he became manager of the Union Electric Manufacturing Co. Two years later he was associate editor of the Electrical & Electrical Engineer. He had previously had journalistic experience as assistant editor of the Telegrapher. In 1885 Mr. Pope was elected secretary of the American Institute of Electric Engineers, continuing in that position until 1911, at which time he resigned. As a fitting mark of appreciation of his services as secretary, the A. I. E. E. made him honorary secretary for life.

In addition to his A. I. E. E. activities, Mr. Pope founded in 1890 the monthly periodical "Electric Power," and in 1891 became editor for electrical terms of the "Standard Dictionary." He was a member of the committee of judges for the department of electricity at the Columbia Exposition held in Chicago in 1893.

Despite his strenuous business career and years, Brother Pope retains a lively interest in the telegraph fraternity, frequently attending the meetings and social affairs of the Eastern Broker Division and addressing the meetings in his usual masterly manner on interesting topics that tend to the good and welfare of the telegrapher.

H. HENTZ & CO. NOTES

We want our Brethren on the Street and in the West to take notice of the growth of the wire room of this organization. We now have a force of seven men and still spreading out, lack of space at the present time preventing the addition of several men. However, we expect to move into larger and better quarters in the new Cotton Exchange Building soon, where we will have ample space to expand as conditions warrant.

Dr. H. B. Baruch, senior member, has returned from France. Dr. Baruch is greatly interested in Morse and radio and can be found in the wire room discussing these branches of the profession with his boys. Wonder how the Doctor liked Frog Legs?

Brother Lem Lewis, our chief operator, has resumed his duties after a few days lay-off due to an attack of tonsilitis. Lem has thrown his hat into the matrimonial ring and will take a better half unto himself. His co-workers in "HZ" extend their congratulations and best wishes. Let's know the date, Lem.

Brother B. M. Lewis, our A. C. O., is one busy lad. Besides his efficient handling of the Bartlett-Frazier wire, he edits and disseminates all bulletins, flashes and news items.

Brother Mike Birnbaum handles the Cincinnati wire. At this writing, Mike is in mourning due to the loss of a silk shirt.

He has posted a notice offering a substantial reward for its recovery. The Burns Agency, please note.

Brother "Tommy" Finster marks the Cotton board, and finds the exercise is helping him to get down to the bantam weight. As soon as this is accomplished he expects to hurl a defi to the present title holder of that division. Tom sure is "hot stuff."

Brother Frank Gambino handles the South wire in great style. It's no child's play quoting Cotton, Stocks, Grain, Coffee, Sugar and Cottonseed oil, handling orders and reports in between. But Frank still finds time to confide in the writer ever and anon his hopes of some day becoming the proud possessor of a flivver.

Brother R. L. Shaffert hibernates on the Boston circuit, assisting on the ponies and makes the lunch reliefs. Bob has the honor of being our only Southpaw. He specializes in radio sets and Tongue Twisters.

Our chief order clerk, MacClure, eats pie with a spoon to prevent mussing up his cute little moustache, while his assistant, James Methuselah Askew, dotes on telling the boys what a "wow" he is with the fair sex. These two boys, nevertheless, handle a tremendous amount of orders and quotations in a snappy and precise manner.

Then, there's "Jimmy" Devit, our cotton man. Every time you ask James for a cotton quotation on the curb he swallows a plug of chewing tobacco. But the "old boy" is there with the executions.

If one looked into "Whose Who" in Cotton circles, "Bill" Leigh's name stands out prominently. This boy knows cotton from the time it is planted until you get it from your haberdasher in some form or other. Anything from calls to spots, that's William Leigh.

Station "HZ" now signing off. "73" to

The sympathies of the members of this Division are extended to Brother "Jimmy" Gallagher of the Republic Iron and Steel Co., New York, in the death of his wife; also Brother "Jim" Tighe in the loss of his sister.

The sympathies of the members of this Division are extended to Brother John C. Ward, Chief Operator for John F. Clark & Co., in the loss of his mother. A resolution of sympathy was forwarded to Brother Ward.

ENTERTARMENT COMMITTEE NOTES A committee consisting of Brothers Charles Josephson as Chairman; Bud F. Rupple, and Harry Cook were appointed to make arrangements for an outing this SUMMER.

The committee have secured Roton Point Park, opposite South Norwalk, Conn., on the Sound, and chartered the steamboat "Seagate" for an excursion and outing on Sunday, July 1st.

The capacity of the boat is 600 persons. Tickets will be put on sale at headquarters about May 15th. The price of adults' tickets will be $1.50 each, and tickets for children from 5 to 14 years' of age will be 50 cents. Children under 5 years of age free.

Roton Point Park is an ideal spot for a day's recreation. There is a picnic grove for the accommodation of basket parties; an up-to-date restaurant in the Casino, and a lunchroom on the grounds. Bathing lockers are 75 cents with bathing suit furnished and 50 cents with your own suit. Dancing 30 cents each, with pass-out checks issued. Roller coaster and other amusements.

A circular letter with full details of the excursion will be mailed to the members later on.

SPARKS

A baby girl arrived at the home of Brother "Mike" Ryan last week. "Schmidt" is still selling cigars at six cents per copy, Mike, and most of the boys smoke. Congratulations.

During the recent sleet storm Brother Bob Stewart forgot his rubbers and took a header which kept him at home for a few days. We are glad to report that no bones were broken and Bob is O. K. and back on the job.

Brother Fred Lass has been ordered by his doctor to Shohola, Pike Co., Pa., for his health.

Brother "Mike" Hipsman has left Logan & Bryan's to go in business for himself in the ladies' brassiere line. Our best wishes for your success go with you, Mike. Could you use a man from the waiting list to take the measurements? Do we hear an applicant for the job?

Brother "Eddie" Rowland of Logan & Bryan's is all puffed up these days and we wondered why until we got the dope. Eddie's daughter, Edna Mabel Rowland, and Herman Eugene Bachman are to be married on March 21st at Holy Trinity P. E. Church, Hillsdale, N. J. After the honeymoon to Philadelphia and Atlantic City, the young couple will reside in Hillsdale, N. J. Congratulations from the boys and girls of the E. B. D.

Brothers "Jim" Mitchell and "Russ"

Dougherty claim that King "Tut" was a telegrapher and that he signed "KT" for the old B. & O. Telegraph Company before he went into the King business.

Brother John F. Cronin was a welcome visitor to Headquarters recently. Brother Cronin has resigned the secretaryship to Commissioner Whalen of the Department of Plants and Structures to accept appointment as Secretary to Supreme Court Justice William B. Carswell. Good luck to you. John.

G. F. REDMOND & CO. NOTES

The valuable Journal space should be used to point out the prosperity and success that comes to those industrial and financial organisations who utilize distinct business acumen so that others in the same fields of endeavor, who do not possess the same economic knowledge—if they do possees it are so bitterly prejudiced by their social atmosphere that they are unable to either comprehend or apprehend the tendencies of these times—may read this story of success and gain knowledge thereby.

G. F. Redmond and Company opened its first office in Boston a few years ago. Some time later they opened up in several New England towns and installed a wire. Soon afterward they branched out to Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland and then New York. Last spring they opened an office in Balti-

One of the most desirable locations in Boston's financial district is the building at 19 Congress street. It is an imposing G. F. Redmond applied for building. space in this building but was unable to get it, so they went elsewhere and rented Later they came back and purspace. chased the building at 19 Congress street. Now that building has only one tenant-G. F. Redmond and Company.
G. F. Redmond and Company does not pay the highest salaries in Wall Street. There are others who allow considerably Their wage rate is, however, far enough above a great number of houses that there is left a sufficient margin for which others can struggle toward a convergency.

The firm employs forty telegraphers, seventeen of whom are located in the Boston office. The primary requirement of a telegrapher entering the employment of this firm is that he belong to the union.

This firm opened an office in Philadelphia on the first of February. In the latter part of January when an official of the firm went to Philadelphia to view the progress of the arranging of the new office, his day was occupied listening to the pleas of non-union operators reciting their extraordinary and particular fitness for just the very same positions to be opened in that office. They were allowed to stay Digitized by in the building only long enough to receive the information that the firm only. employed union telegraphers. In fact, only considered applicants who were recommended by union headquarters.

That day in January there drifted out winter atmosphere non-union the telegraphers, made more dismal and nebulous by an official who not only refused to appreciate their qualifications but had requested them not to slam a door which they had hoped to daily darken.

That night, after the population had made its ephemeral conversion from a comatose state to one of sleeping unconsciousness, several restless individuals, in deep thought, listened to the passing hours tolled out on the city clock, emanating mutterings of hoped for vengeance, interspersed by moments which reflected respect for the power of the institution that had eliminated them from the field to which they had desired admittance. The next morning the Western Union thought it had been benefited by the acquisition of several new operators. A horse knows its own stall. A non-union telegrapher recognizes his proper environment.

We hope that G. F. Redmond and Company is not limited in their ambition to expand.

Brother John P. Regan, member Eastern Broker Division, 57 years of age, of No. 481 Amity Street, Flushing, L. I., who was New York correspondent for the St. Louis Republic for more than twenty years, died February 22nd, in the Flushing hospital after an operation. He was born in New York. After attending the schools of this city he learned telegraphy. Brother Regan leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Regan, two daughters, Anna and Helen; a sister, Miss Annie Regan, and a brother, Daniel Regan.

At the regular meeting of the New York District, Eastern Broker Division, held on March 10th, a resolution of sympathy was adopted and the Secretary instructed to forward a copy of the resolution to the widow of Brother Regan, and to have the charter of the Division draped for a period of thirty days.

Peter H. Flynn, 71 years of age, formerly Superintendent of the Telegraph Department of the New York Herald, died at the home of his son, at 186 North Seventeenth St., East Orange, N. J. He had served with the New York Herald in the days of James Gordon Bennett and later worked for the Postal Telegraph Company at 20 Broad St., New York. He leaves two sons, Thos. V. Flynn, with whom he lived, and Clarence W. Flynn of New York.

The death of Mr. Flynn will be sad news to telegraphers all over the United States. He was formerly a member of the C. T. U. A. of many years' standing and in his official capacity on the Herald never failed to remember the man with the Card in his pocket.

At the regular meeting of the New York District, E. B. D., held Saturday. Feb. 10th, a resolution was adopted extending to the family of Mr. Flynn the heartfelt condolences of the membership in their sad loss.

PHILADELPHIA

"Month by month" the attendance at our meetings is getting "better and better," February gathering breaking record for sometime past with a number of the "stay-at-homes" present.

We are glad to learn that Brother "Doc" Wright is again on the job at Jones & Baker after losing several days with an infected eye.

Brother Bob Enright's spare time is occupied dolling up his new home. It is rumored the entire local can expect an invitation to a housewarming down Jersey in the near future.

Con Kelley-Heard the new golf song, "I Drove My Ball in the Water Hole"?

Reg. Makin-No.

Con-It isn't out yet.

The Secretary is glad to report several of the backsliders paying up, with the prospects of others following. Fine, boys, keep it up.

Brother Truitt is now occupying a berth with Winkelman & Co. along with Brother Joe Camp—the right man in the right place.

We have a live-wire representative with Moylan & Co. in no less a personage than Brother "Sunny Jim" Mullen.

It is with regret the local learns of the closing of Delaney, Smith & Co., with our good brother, John Delaney, a member of the firm. You have our best wishes for the future, John. We know a good man can't be kept down.

At this time of the year the question of membership is an all-important one. How are the boys "coming through" with their dues, and how many feel that carrying a card is too great a financial burden? Some of the boys forget about paying; some put it off from week to week. The example it sets is anything but a good one. Let each man show his interest in our welfare by paying his dues promptly, and not feeling a bit diffident about reminding any of his friends whom he knows have not paid. Let us keep right on the heels of the delinquents and those who are lukewarm to us. We want every man with us to stay.

The number of officers in an organization should be equal to the total member-Elect yourself an officer—an officer whose duty it is to take a personal interest in all union matters. If you see that any particular thing should be done, do not wait for the president, secretary or someone else to find out about it—do it yourself! This is the real spirit Every man should realize a sense of personal responsibility.

Some time ago there was considerable discussion regarding an assessment which had been levied. A few who felt that they were contributing to charity in paying union dues and assessments took this opportunity to leave the fold. These were mostly the ones who considered themselves self-dependent. No doubt some of them already have cause to regret their action. There is a case of one man I know. I always considered him a good union man, but when he balked at an eight dollar payment he indicated an attitude of mind which to me is incomprehensible. certain as he was of the permanence of his position, suddenly he found himself on the "street," and another working in his place. Now he spends his leisure in the board-rooms. He may eventually secure another position by his own efforts, but grant even this, a scoop of only one day would have paid that tax which he thought so unjust. So now he has many days, but no scoops. All this does not sound very optimistic, but the trouble with many optimists is that they are content with themselves, and satisfied to let the rest of the world But that is not progress. It is because of this smugness that we are not progressing as we should. We are not enrolling enough new members. Of course, it must be admitted that a good many of those who are not with us cannot be reasoned with anyway; but it cannot be denied that there still must be many who would join if approached in the proper manner. If each one of us could manage to get one application signed, what a wonderful showing it would make at the end of the year. Just one! think of it! Don't you know someone who will sign up if coaxed a little? Perhaps you know more than one prospect. Then get them! Keep after them, and do not cease your efforts until finally they hand you the money just to get rid of you. That is the way the insurance agent gets you, and that is the way to get results in any branch of endeavor. Let them know that you think they ought to carry a card, continue to remind them of the fact, and never let them forget it. It is surprising what mere persistence will accomplish. Won't you try itfor our mutual interest?

Of course you know that if you hear of a vacant position you should notify a member of the employment committee, and no one else. This point has been stressed upon time and time again, but nevertheless now and then someone disregards this rule, with the result that we lose out, and some outsider gets in. This does not help us any, especially if the place is filled at a lower figure than we would be willing to accept. If you hear anything keep it under your hat until you are able to communicate with the proper person.

A few personal notes are always interesting to read. If you have any news items send them to me before the first of the month if possible. Help to make our page an interesting one. Address J. A. Neimant, 108 F. St., South Boston, Mass.

By R. H. McDaniel

In the last few years an increasing percentage of our people have come to depend on industry for their livelihood, so that today the wage-workers in industry rank in importance, side by side, with the tillers of the soil. As a people, we cannot afford to let any group of citizens, or any individual citizen, live or labor under conditions which are injurious to the common welfare. Industry, therefore, must submit to such public regulation as will make it a means of life and health—not of death or inefficiency.

Wages are subnormal if they fail to provide a living for those who devote their time and energy to industrial occupations.

The standard must be high enough to provide for recreation and education, to care for immature members of the family, to maintain the family during periods of sickness and to permit of reasonable savings for old age. Hours are excessive if they fail to afford the worker sufficient time to recuperate and return to his work thoroughly refreshed.

How many telegraphers throughout the country are receiving salaries that will allow them to provide for these necessities or for the things our dependents are entitled to? It is safe to say that not over 25 percent, and this percentage can be confined to the strictly preferred class among our craft. Who are to blame? Any intelligent person can answer this question without delay. The telegraph men who depend on the industry of telegraphy for their livelihood certainly do not support their organization as they should. There are too many depending on the day-to-day and the everyone-for-himself slogan, a very selfish and unjust attitude to assume. Organized labor has proved in every case where the proper support was given how inportant it is to be united.

The men of our craft who stand on the outside refusing to join the ranks of the men who are fighting to maintain or establish a decent living wage are denying themselves and helping to deny others of what is known as industrial justice.

EXECUTIVE BOARD TAKES ACTION

The General Executive Board of The Western Broker Division upholds President McDaniel in his efforts to maintain the dignity of the organization to the extent of expelling certain members from the division.

At the last meeting of The General Executive Board the board members were unanimous in supporting a recommendation from the President that Thos. H. Dalton be expelled from membership in The Western Broker Division.

Mr. Dalton was notified by the chairman of the board to appear before the meeting to answer to certain accusations made against him, but he failed to do so.

President McDaniel, in placing the case before the Executive Board, stated that he had thoroughly investigated the entire case of Mr. Dalton and he could only recommend that he be expelled from the organization.

The following resolution was introduced and a copy mailed to Mr. Dalton:

For unbecoming conduct and a violation of the constitution and by-laws of the organization, we, the General Executive Board, deem it necessary for the benefit of the organization as a whole to take action to the extent of expelling you from the erganization indefinitely.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES

At the last regular meeting a resolution was adopted to restore the meeting dates to the FIRST and THIRD Saturdays of each month instead of only one meeting a month.

Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to Mrs. A. W. Nelson and family, who mourn the loss of Bro. A. W. (Andy) Nelson of this division, who died at the Oak Forest Hospital on Feb. 17.

Among the recent arrivals are Bro. Edward O'Grady and E. C. Duffy. The former spent several months on the coast and the latter has just returned from overseas after spending five years in the U. S. N. They are glad to be back on their old stamping grounds and we are glad to have them back.

Bro. Chas. Rowe, late of the I. N. S., called on us a few days ago. Glad to see you, Chas., drop in again.

We cannot be independent of the kindly give-and-take spirit of co-operation in our organization.

The great thing in life is man's loyalty to man, that heart quality of true manhood—that innate stamp of fair play which prompts us to hand out the square deal instead of the double cross.

Bro. George Grant of Davenport, Iowa, recently underwent a serious operation and from the last reports is getting along nicely. We are pulling for you, George.

The first of March found the delinquent list rather slim, thanks to the members of this division who realise that the officers are confronted with more hard work when their dues are not paid promptly.

Our ever-faithful Bro. Gus Hirsch is with us again. You know you are always welcome, Gus.

The members of this organization should not forget the obligation they take, and at all times do everything in their power to assist an unemployed brother in securing work. Brothers McDaniel and Goodale will gladly receive any information that might lead to the placing of one of our Brothers.

Bro. Mike Donohue was among the recent visitors, glad to see you, Mike, call again.

Please make all checks and money orders payable to R. W. Goodale, General Secretary-Treasurer.

Bro. Harry Fisher attended our last meeting. Atta boy, Harry, glad to have you with us, it will be better next time.

Brother Frank Hallstone is up and around again after going through a bad spell of sickness. Glad to see you on your pins again, Frank.

Bro. Bob Mauck is always looking around for a lead that will assist us in securing a place for one of our unemployed Brothers.

A May party and dance to be given by the Western Broker Division is soon to be announced. The members of the entertainment committee will leave nothing undone to make this affair a huge success.

Bro. Jim Calder relieved our International Vice President, Bro. Newcomer, for a week at Schaefer Grain Co. recently.

Bro. Joe Skelly is back with us again after spending a few weeks in the city of the straights. Same old Joe.

LAMSON BROS. & CO. NOTES

Howdy, gang, have you paid your dues?
The annual March storm gave the boys a little intermission.

Bro. Tony Petti of the Produce Exchange office is recovering nicely from the operation he ALMOST had.

Old D. B. still thinks Chicago is a suburb of Oak Park. "Migosh," said Proc, "take your suburb off my city."

That o. f. smile is slowly fading from Clare Yount's face. 'Smatter, Clare?

One of Jim Bennett's friends, said to answer to the name of Kearns, looked in the door recently, was properly razzed and went right out again. So mote it be.

Dick Guest, son of our w. k. Frank Guest, has been elected captain of the Riverside football team. Come on, you Riverside.

Well, well, after libelling all the brethren last month in order to flatter "Handsome" Hansen in the notes, the p. w. s. refused to buy a ticket to the circus. That's wot we call the heighth of ingratitude.

The Produce Exchange office has been showing the way with some fast work on market orders, thanks to Bro. Petti. Keep up the good work, Tony. No one can beat the KB-PX-CB combination.

This is the proper place to register a kick and here it is: A brother asked for a job here and was put on the payroll, and then failed to show. That kind of work does not help any, and we want it known we do not appreciate it. No names necessary.

Jack Kelly, San Fran.: "Do you want the Milwaukee cash?"

Where, oh where, did you get that haircut, Bro. Paulson. Tell us so we can go get one like it, maybe.

Conducted by Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division 21

Meeting Date: Second Wednesday of Each Month at Union of Commerce Hall, 149 Berri St., Montreal.

MONTREAL NOTES

The backbone of the winter has been broken, we hope, although the weather is still cold. Frank Love, L. & B., has discarded his spats and wrist watch, and upon this fact we base our deductions in regard to the climatic change.

Dan Grady is returning from the South shortly and will re-open his town house.

Bro. O'Donnell has made several business trips to Belleville, Ont., during the month in the interests of his firm, Bro. Poulin relieving him at Montreal in the meantime.

Bro. "Joe" McKenna made a sick relief last week at The Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Bro. Kibbee just returned from Lyndonville, Vermont, and immediately landed a job here with Armour & Co. George is now a disciple of Emile Coue.

Bro. Voyer, of Craig Luther and Irvine, Windsor Hotel Branch, is the proud father of a bouncing boy.

It is rumored that when Bro. Don Blehr, L & B, takes his Vibroplex apart and puts it together again, the operator on Winnipeg wire grabs what is left of it and makes miniature "bugs" out of it for his radio.

There was a young man named Cohen, Of radio fame, widely known; I'm telling the truth, this promising youth Gets 'em all on his radio fone.

One evening after a dinner of Bologna, He tuned up to catch "Marconi"; Not a word did he hear, but a buzz in his ear.

"Then," said he, "I fear, there's static in here."

Adjustments he tried till it got under his hide;
It wounded his pride, he could no longer

His chagrin at missing "The Song of Eventide."

He found he had to open his rheostat very wide.

After a severe test of his amplification, He "caught on" with another station; When, lo! and behold, in voice rather bold, Dupuis was broadcasting "In Days of Old."

Now poetry was never his fetish, In fact, it made him feel rather frettish; Did he rave, did he swear, did he tear his silken hair?

Well, we'll say he did—like a bear.

Some time later he said: "Well, I guess I'll tune up and catch the press."
His switches he turned till his poor fingers burned,

Until he heard them say: "This is La Presse."

In great anxiety he listened, not a word must

I miss—'tis a good one. Imagine his despair, after rumpling his

To hear them say: "Goodnight—bonsoir."
—Olsen.

Chairman Edwin Weston is working hard these days. After a two-day session at the Mount Royal Hotel with the General Committee of C. P. R. and C. N. T., Eddle said, "That's some work. If anyone thinks this gang is not working to help 'em, let them spend a day or two around a committee table." Bill Hartley said, "Them's my sentiments, too."

Eddie is also getting a few back to the fold that just strayed away, and forgot to come back. The Street will be 100 per cent if a few more come across with their dues.

While we are at it, let me advise you that the General Secretary and Local Secretary have told us to remind the delinks that they will not receive the Funeral Benefit after Feb. 28th, so don't let $3.00 keep your wives and mothers from the $100 death benefit. Also that a list of non-members and delinks will be exchanged by all districts C. P. R., C. N. T. Broker and Press Divisions after March 31st, so don't be on this list. You may never have been posted before, so please see that you are not posted as a delink or non this time.

Bro. Culkin was with us in our "talk fest" with C. P. R. and C. N. T. General Committee, and Jim had his say, and brought back what we think was a good guarantee of the help we will get from commercial men and what they expect of us.

Bro. Long is laid up, but hope it is not for long, Shorty. Bro. McKenna, relieved at the Bank of Commerce, is now relieving Bro. Long.

All brothers working Canadian Press jobs as reliefs should remember that they must pay their dues to the Broker Division, otherwise we will have to notify the press people.

This is a business institution, not a mutual admiration society, so come across, any of you who are subbing. This goes for those who sub now and then. Pay your dues and help us make it possible for you not to have to sub. We need your advice and knocks, but we'd rather have them at a meeting than on the street or elsewhere.

What's matter with Julie Scriver, got a movie show ticket for every second Wednesday?

Come on, boys; make ours a live organization by your attendance at meetings. Second Wednesday, 149 Berri St.

TOBONTO NOTES

Things we would like to know:

What Bro. Les. Carrie thought of the janitor on a recent Saturday afternoon, when said janitor interrupted a game of seven-card stud.

Where Bro, Jules Cantwell keeps himself these days. Is it due to another attempt to take a support from the Humber Bridge?

Why our esteemed manager, "Hank" Carlton, has taken to playing hockey with a church team. Did he not find our language strong enough?

Where Bro. Eddie Byrne learned to knock five pins down and play euchre.

And— Welcome:

Bro. Cliff Fawthrop, late of C. N. T., to our division. Cliff dropped into Bro. Cantwell's place at the Bank of Commerce, and Cantwell is doing the stunt for A. D. Morrow and Co. Congratulations to both on the change.

We also welcome Brothers W. C. Townsend, London, Ont., and W. E. Wallace, also of London, Ont., to our division. Both are late members of the C. P. R., Toronto. Hope to see them both in town some of these days.

We were glad to see Brothers Jim Troyer, Tom Askin, Ben Rachlin and Les. Carrie at our last meeting, but are still wondering what happened to Bro. Geo. Slade.

We are glad to see Bro. Harry Fraser back on the job after an attack of the flu; also glad to hear his family are O. K. again.

Congratulations are in order to Bro. Don. Cameron, who went and did it a few weeks ago and now can try out the old saying, "Two can live as cheap as one." Mr. and Mrs. Cameron visited New York, Philadelphia and Atlantic City, and returned last week. Don is not showing the effects of his strenuous trip, as yet.

Our hockey team, The Bulls and Bears, were not as fortunate as we hoped, finishing on the short end in four games and winning two, and were in some hard luck, Bro. Earl Cumming getting a split head from a puck, Bro. Jim Culkin getting a split chin that necessitated five stitches, Bro. Clarke a wallop over the eye, and our little centre player, Eric James, a wallop on the ankle that laid him up for over a week, but is now doing nicely. The feature of all games was our manager, Hank Carlton, who certainly bawled "L" out of his defense men if they let anybody get around them. Attapitchin', Hank

The line-up and substitutes were: Cummings, C. P. R. operator; Dafoe, broker clerk; Carlton, broker operator; Cantwell, broker operator; Culkin, broker operator; Clark, broker operator; Tracey, C. N. T. operator; Ed. Sullivan, broker clerk; Eric James, broker clerk; Butterfield, broker clerk; Buck, broker operator; Legarde, broker operator.

Bro. J. H. Culkin is in Montreal, with the General Committees of C. P. R., C. N. T. and Broker and Press Divisions, getting some real working conditions framed up.

Toronto is coming strong, boys. Let's have a line for the Journal every month; send in a little news of the Street.

WINNIPEG NOTES

"Dip" Mayfield has been very sick. Sorry to hear it, old man, and hope you are fully recovered by now. "Dip" had a serious operation and we all extend him our sincere sympathy and best wishes for a rapid recovery.

Bill Hogie is working on the new fellows up west and expects to land quite a few very soon. They are a fine bunch, only very forgetful, he says.

73's to Bro. McPherson, Keith Jack and 8. W. Bradford. Let's hear more from Winnipeg and points west. Drop us a line for the Journal more often.

Johnny West.

The Fire Telegraph dispatching force of our bureau has been increased by the appointment of nine new Fire Telegraph dispatchers, and incidentally Chapel No. 1 is growing. It is a pleasure to state that the newcomers have entered our fold to the tune of 100 per cent.

The spirit pervading our organization has enveloped them and it speaks well for the future. The new members are: Brothers W. Doyle, P. Keeler, C. Keeler, F. Masterson, J. Eckstein, T. Redmond, A. Blythe, A. Hertzel and J. Gordon.

Throughout our five boroughs we report only five delinquents distributed as follows: Manhattan 1, Brooklyn 1, Bronx 0, Queens 0, Richmond 3.

We are not back to a fair ratio of "time off" yet. At present every sixth day off seems to be the best we can manage. To the outsider a "day off in six" At present every sixth appears at first glance better than a day off a week; Saturday afternoon off is lost sight of, but those of us held down to one in six know different. Let's analyze some, taking this method of calculating: Civilian employes enjoy half a day off Saturday and all day Sunday; one and a half days off a week, or three days off every two weeks, fourteen days. The Fire Telegraph dispatcher with one day of recreation every six days receives three days off in eighteen days. Isn't that clear? And this is better than we have been doing, which is another indisputable refutation of any claim that the dispatchers work only 277 days a year.

Among the prominent visitors at our 79th street office last month were General Superintendent G. C. Allen of the New York Telephone Co., accompanied by former N. Y. Police Commissioner Frederick H. Bugher. It was a pleasure showing them around and answering their many pertinent questions regarding the functioning of the various apparatus and the general operation of the plant. All their questions showed a familiarity with what is expected of a manual fire alarm telegraph office and this is so much out of line with the general run of visitors and the public at large in particular—that it was a refreshing occasion greatly appreciated by our operating force. Perhaps some day we shall be better known by those who should know, whose duty it is to know, and who are vitally concerned in our important work, namely: the citizens of the City of New York.

Our good friend and ardent "fire buff," William Jerome Daly, was present on this occasion and when it comes to lucidity in explaining the intricacies of construction and operation herein involved he's "right there." You must doff your hat to him.

Culled, here and there:

Hello, is this the chief of the Fire Department?

Yes, this is the chief.

Well, my house is on fire. How long has it been burning?

Half an hour.

Did you try putting water on it?

Yes, but it won't go out.

Then 'taint no use in us comin' over, because that's all we could do.

Can't be any Fire Telegraph dispatchers in that burg, I'm sure. Listen to "The Chief" in a recent issue:

Speaking of the 5th Alarm—It was a busy evening for the Telegraph Dispatchers in the 79th street office, for in 108 minutes eighty-eight pieces of apparatus moved either to the fire or to locate or to other alarms downtown in the area affected by the fifth alarm. Of the apparatus moved 45 were engines, 22 trucks. 11 chiefs, 4 boats, two towers, 1 searchlight, one coffee wagon and two ambulances.

MICHIGAN BROKER DIVISION

Regular annual postponed meeting for election of officers was held at the Cadillac Hotel, Tuesday evening, February 20, Vice President Balmes acting as chairman. The gathering was well attended, several of the younger members responding to the roll call, as well as participating in the discussions and general , order of business.

Parliamentary rule was thrown into the discard, following the election of officers. This enabled the more enthusiastic handshakers to ply their trade uninterruptedly, at the same time giving the members an opportunity to introduce themselves to boyhood friends who attended our last meeting.

Hugo Neumann, Harold Nadeau, C. E. Brower, Joe Wick, Tom Baird, Herman Kauhl, are listed among the survivors—but alas!—our old friend Pharach Tutank-hamen has passed on. May his soul rest in peace! Worry over poor attendance at meetings and general lack of enthusiasm in the M. B. D. helped to bring about his demise.

Former President Hugo Neumann, broken and prematurely gray at the early age of 107, looked a hundred years younger the day after the meeting, when it was announced in the Penobecot Building that MacCrone & Co., 100 per cent non-union, was now 100 per cent C. T. U. A. In this connection we congratulate Messrs. Bogan, O'Rourke and Chief Operator Henry Burghardt. Mr. Collins, Detroit manager for MacCrone & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange, who has applied to the union several times in the past for an operator, is to be congratulated on the splendid telegraph force here. MacCrone's Detroit office, occupying bank space on the ground floor of the Penobscot Building is without doubt one of the largest and best equipped firms in the Great Lakes district. In addition, they maintain a branch office in Flint and other principal cities in the State.

Before declaring nominations in order for the election of officers, Chairman Balmes congratulated the members on the splendid turnout, outlining briefly some of the things accomplished during the past year and pointing out just what might be done in 1923 if the members pledge themselves to devote a small part of their time collectively and individually toward the welfare of their organization.

Guy Blakeley was unanimously elected President for 1923. Other officers as shown in the 1922 directory—including Secretary Harold J. Nadeau—were declared re-elected by acclamation.

A resolution was adopted, thanking President Hugo Neumann, Secretary Nadeau and Vice President Balmes "for their splendid efforts in behalf of the welfare of the C. T. U. A. during the past year," and a vote of confidence was given the new President, "pledging our loyal support and co-operation during the coming year."

AROUND FORT STREET WITH OLD KING TUTANKHAMEN

Joe McElroy, wearing a soft collar, entered the Tomb at 7:59. "This reminds me of an oldfashioned E. B. D. wake," said Joe, who is democratic enough not to complain about sitting on the floor with the younger element. Brother McElroy, who recently arrived in the city from New York, is manager of the bond department of the Fletcher American Company, 2319 Dime Bank.

Brother Leary, of Otis & Co., drove his new Buick "Six" 20 miles an hour—for the first 500 miles—and arrived in time to obtain ringside seats for himself and Hugo Neumann.

Brother Frank Alband, of Bennett, Smith & Co., a conscientious worker for the M. B. D., came to the "Rally of the Ginks" with the usual enthusiasm and some good ideas about organization work.

Brother Herman Kauhl, of Arthur E. Moysey & Co., claims the distinction of being the manipulator of the world's shortest printer circuit. Recently the firm installed a Morkrum ticker service from the wire room to their board room. The approximate length of the circuit is 30 feet. New York quotes the market to Brother Kauhl on a Morse wire - Freddy Gore, please note—and Herman flashes the sales almost instantaneously on the tape to the board room.

Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne, 120 Broadway, New York, have installed a wire service to their Detroit office in the Equity Building. Brother Charles E. Brower has accepted a position with the firm and is soon to become a full fledged trader and foreign exchange expert.

Brother Joe Wick, of Paine, Webber & Co., has another prospect on the list. Leave it to Joe to convert the prospect into a C. T. U. A. customer.

Brother Donn Fiedler, of Jones & Baker, spent Washington's Birthday in Toledo.

Mr. and Mrs. Blakeley are the proud parents of another fine boy-James Edward-born February 2, 1923.

Hugo Neumann has sold his confectionary business on the west side and is getting his Dodge Sedan in shape for the fishing season at St. Clair.

Brother Alison, of Whittlesey, McLean & Co., is holding down the Morse wire and keeping a jump or two ahead of the New York market on Noble and Reo.

Brother Barber relieved Secretary Nadeau on the board at Redmond & Co., when Mike switched to the Fletcher American Company.

Brother Charles Fink has accepted a position with W. A. Harriman & Co. Merrill, Lynch & Co. have taken offices Brother Turner in the Ford Building. is hereby notified that he has missed two meetings in succession.

Brother Albert Day, who has been in Boston for several months with the Boston American, is in the city on a vacation, getting acquainted with his family.

Brother Chambers is holding down the wire at Howe, Shaw & Bertles in the Ford Building.

Your President and Secretary wish to announce that they have secured—subject to your approval—an option on a permanent meeting-place. The location is 4811 Second Boulevard in the Detroit Federation of Women's Clubs Building. nent arrangements will be made in regard to the lease at our next meeting on March 8.

Brother Edward Nadeau is with Hamlin, Kay & Nathan on Tobey and Kirk's wire. He's been in Ann Arbor for a year or so golfing.

C. N. T. NOTES

Winnipeg

It is so long since we were represented in the notes department of The Journal that some are perhaps wondering what has become of us. So here we are.

You know the old saying: "You can't keep a good man down' however much So in spite of all the vicious you try. efforts to tear asunder the C. T. U. A. in Winnipeg, they have miserably failed, and only served to set individuals thinking for This is welding them more themselves. strongly together every day, in spite of the fact that a certain gentleman is grossly misrepresenting facts and figures, even to the extent of spreading such propaganda as, "there are only two C. T. U. A. men in C. N. T. in Winnipeg."

While we can forgive him for not knowing our exact strength, he must surely have known better than to make the abovementioned statement, but it is only another effort to deceive people for certain ends. Such tactics cannot long deceive. The truth must eventually come out. Making wild statements and misrepresenting matters for personal motives CANNOT get anyone anywhere. It is easy enough to criticise, but it's results that count and what we want. It would indeed be a poor union, if there was nothing to criticise in its operations, and while constructive criticism should always be welcome, it should be for the betterment of an organization and not to cause dissatisfaction and to tear asunder, which seems to avowed intention of agitators be break-away movement, who are preaching one doctrine and practicing another.

We would like to give these gentlemen the benefit of following their convictions, but we are sorry to say that their past records and achievements are not such as to inspire confidence in anyone of average intelligence. I have said before and again make the statement that even a 100 per cent strong organization can cause a lot of worry and trouble, if those at the head of it do not use at least some judgment and average intelligence and foresight. agitating a break-away movement are not men to inspire the rank and file with such confidence. I am not a knocker, and would at all times much rather say a good word for one and all, whatever my per-sonal feelings might be, but I also believe in fair play, and when certain gentlemen, in order to further their own ends, start in handing out personalities, it seems about time to kick back, and I have noticed that to date no refutation has been forthcoming from those mentioned in the pamphlet entitled "Union Wreckers Exposed."

I agree that articles of this nature should never be found necessary, but I also think that in view of the tactics used by secessionists, the articles used in the above-mentioned pamphlet were fully justifled, and let me say that were such condemning statements ever made against any of the present officers at the head of the C. T. U. A. I would be one of the first to say, "Throw them out QUICK; we have no place in our union for such men." And yet we are asked as men and women of average intelligence to throw up the C. T. U. A., join up with the new movement, led by men in whom the membership can have no confidence.

Whatever may be the arguments for a purely Canadian organization, to my mind at least they are far outweighed by two reasons. The first I think I have covered, namely—non-confidence in those agitating for it, and believe me, no organization can last if handled by irresponsible persons. My second reason is that, aside from whatever criticism can, or may be leveled at the C. T. U. A., there is no getting away from the fact that it has brought us results. That is what counts in the long run.

I am afraid there are too many who never stop to think just what benefits we have derived and are now enjoying compared to five or six years ago or less. Those of you who worked under former salaries, when we received only pro rata rating instead of time and a half for overtime, rented our own typewriters, longer hours and all the other old rules, compare it with our present salaries and working conditions and figure out the difference. Some difference, I'll say. Surely there is no argument by even the most biased that we have not achieved results.

What then seems to be the big reason by advocates of the break-away movement for a purely Canadian organization? I understand the big kick is the amount of Canadian money that goes across the line. Well, perhaps there's room for an argument, but personally I care very little where MY dues go, so long as I know they are being spent in a worthy cause, and so long as I am enjoying RESULTS, and I have heard the same expression made by fellow workers, who were not even aware of my own opinion.

I would ask why the C. P. R. system division have a working fund on hand, and why the C. N. T. have nothing, when both have had practically the same chance to have the same amount in funds? rather significant that while the advocates of a Canadian organization are talking more funds in Canada, that these same advocates were officials of the C. N. T. at the time that the C. P. R. system division were saving funds for purely Canadian work. Yet they have nothing to show on hand WHY? I noticed in one of the today. C. T. U. C. pamphlets that Friend Goldovsky wanted to know WHY THIS AND WHY THAT? Perhaps he can enlighten us on WHY THIS IS.

Now fellow workers (Slaves, as Brother Runnells would say), I have no hard feelings against anyone, but those of you who are not paying dues, I would like you to stop, think and decide what's what. As I have said, many have been thinking. But what about YOU, who are sitting on the fence? It may be it's not costing any money, but is it the proper or sportsmanship way, to take all the benefits someone has spent money to obtain for you and give nothing in return? It may be a little far-fetched, but it has always seemed to me that there isn't much difference between this kind of person and the scab. Perhaps that is going a little far, but are you not taking and benefiting from someone else's work and money?

For the benefit of friend Pryde of Calgary who "understands" there were only two C. T. U. A. members in "WG" office, we would state that already over sixty have paid up in WG for first half of 1923, and that his followers here now number about six members, with three or four on the fence.

Friends, there seems to be only one thing to do, regardless of whether our dues go to Ottawa or Chicago. Stick with the organization that has brought results you enjoy today, and not go experimenting with men who have not the confidence of their fellow workers to back them up. We cannot afford to take such a chance, when all the advantages and privileges we now enjoy were obtained under the banner of the C. T. U. A. Let's stick with the union under whose banner we obtained and enjoyed our present salaries and working conditions; at least, until such time as we are all of the unanimous opinion that we can better ourselves by a purely Canadian organization.

TELEGRAPHERS, WIRELESS MEN

Widen your knowledge of the world by learning Esperanto at home in a few weeks' study, or form groups for study. You have heard of it as the much needed wireless world language. Positively after only a few weeks' study you can correspond with people all over the world. can travel all the world over and find hearty friends everywhere, always glad to receive you, with whom you can easily speak in this wonderfully simple, scientific language. I don't want to make money off my fellow-telegraphers, but I sincerely want to bring them into a great movement that will add immeasurably to their humanism, as well as to their general knowledge and pleasure, giving them knowledge of Esperanto, something that all wide-awake telegraphers will find of great value in the near future. I am offering a combination of grammar and dictionary for self-instruction to the general public at $2.00. I will send the same to readers of The Journal for $1.50. #### Eastern Division

District Chairman Alfred Brouillet was taken seriously ill on January 22nd and removed to a hospital. A complete nervous breakdown with other disorders will undoubtedly compel Brother Brouillet to remain there for a long time to come. At this writing no perceptible change for the better was noted in his condition. A collection among the boys of the division was taken up and the sum of $160 has been realized to date, which was turned over to his wife. We all hope to see Fred around again with his usual amount of "pep."

Bureau temporarily.

Brother William Sears, New York nights, was released by the company in October for various reasons, with the stipulation that at the end of three months, if he so wished, he might apply for his old position back, but at the end of that time he failed to ask for his old job, therefore it was bulletined. Brother William MacDonald of the New York Broker Division filled in the job while Sears was absent.

Brother C. Augustine of Montreal bid in New York nights, taking Sears' place, regular. Augie has been working the night Quebec circuit out of Montreal for three years now, and I'm quite sure the "gang" on that line will miss him.

Brother Sid Hoare of Toronto Bureau is putting them over the plate at the House of Commons during the session. Brother Asner of the C. P. R. is filling in for Hoare.

Brother Mowrey bid in London nights, vacated by Brother Case who landed a day job in the same city.

Brothers Dean, Castleman and Hague have all had a touch of sickness this spring and were laid up for various periods. Glad to see you all back again, boys.

Brother Ray Thompson of Montreal Bureau nights has been appointed to the Quebec sending job, vacated by Augustine. Brother Manning at Quebec has a real

I. N. S. NOTES

I. N. S. Division No. 61 is to be congratulated on the election of Brother Oliver A. Morris, of Lincoln, Neb., as their new secretary-treasurer.

Brother Morris represented the workers (telephone girls) of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company in their negotiations and battle with the Bell people before the U. S. Labor Board at Denver during the war. Largely through his efforts, the twenty odd lassies who had been unjustly discharged were given their jobs back.

Brother Morris was discharged as advertising manager of the Gates Rubber Company—a position paying $6,000 per annum—for possessing the audacity to espouse the cause of 150 striking vulcanizers of that company.

When the Denver Daily Record Stockman declared for an open shop in the printer dispute two years ago, Mr. Morris resigned forthwith his position as editor and manager of that publication.

He was discharged as night bureau manager for the Associated Press at Denver because, his friends declare, he insisted on giving the striking miners of southern Colorado a square deal when sent out to "cover" the big strike. This was the strike previous to the latest one during which state guards and federal troops were rushed in "to shoot up the strikers and their sympathizers" in the southern part of the state.

For twenty-five years Brother Morris has known no sacrifice too great to make for his fellow workers and with him and Brother Campbell to represent them this year, the I. N. S. membership looks forward to great accomplishments.

Congratulations and best wishes to Bro. E. W. Shanks of San Francisco on his marriage to Miss Lottie May Unsworth, Feb. 10th.

Chicago-West

Brother O. A. Morris, our newly elected secretary-treasurer, is back on the job again after being confined to his bed with an attack of the "flu." Congratulations, Ollie, on your double victory.

Speaking of flues, "FC" says it may sound a trifle "cockie" but it's worth a bulletin especially if the "flu" burns out and a large crowd gathers.

Brother Bob Flewers at SR, better known as the "silver tongued orator" of the Mississippi, has recovered from a successful operation. Reports differ as to the nature of the operation, but ever since he came back Bob has Bill Bryan backed off the boards as an authority on the origin of man.

Brothers Walt Taylor and Matt O'Keefe, our "gold dust twins" at "AM," have no trouble in keeping this wire clear. Both are exceptionally good senders and don't know what it is to get a break from this gang.

Brother Taylor filled us all with sadness by ambuncing that he soon would have enough money to retire on, but Brother O'Keefe lifted the gloom to some extent by informing us that he'll stick around and send to Ike Godfrey at nights.

Brother McClements at "KX" has been sick with the "fiu" the past few days, but he gamely stuck to his post and maintained his excellent record of never being late.

Brother Wilson at Salt Lake says Utah is all right except for the anti-fag law and worthless alarm clocks.

Brother Mike Dacey at Denver is putting on that high brow stuff now. All rigged out in a new office with new furniture, rugs and an electric emergency brake.

Brother Sam Goodfellow at "SX" is well pleased with present conditions. His fellow townsman at "AM" gets the "flacks" market for him immediately after lunch and then Samuel goes back to bed.

Brothers Kocke and Kluge at "FC" enliven us now and then with a dissertation on bombs and their effect on movieland. For further particulars call "SR."

UNIVERSAL SERVICE NOTES

General Chairman Faller and General Secretary-Treasurer Norton are busily engaged in preparing for eventualities this summer. We are all behind you, boys, and expecting great things this year.

Congratulations to Bob Allen, last year's general chairman, on the birth of a bouncing boy. We'll tell him of the fine work his daddy did for us in 1922 when he's ready for deep stuff.

One of our old friends, Charley Tripp, has been suffering a run of hard luck since he was forced to leave us at New Orleans on account of ill health. A sojourn in Montana and Idaho failed to restore health and he is now confined in the Colorado State Hospital, Pueblo, Colo. He would be glad to hear from any of his friends.

UNITED PRESS

Kansas City-Atlanta

We see by the "Hellbox" that our friend, E. P. Cox, has so far failed to fall for any Brooklyn bridge stock.

We sure hate to lose our friend "Red" Copeland, at Memphis. "Red" asked for sixty days' leave of absence, and has decided not to return to our fold. We miss you, "Red," and all of us wish you the best of luck with your new associates.

"Red" Finnegan, the circuit "wanderlust" at Ft. Smith, will fill the vacancy at Memphis, while Ray Forrest will relieve "Fin" in the Arkansas city. Welcome to our midst, Ray.

When the news was flashed that President Harding had named "Xenophen" Hicks to succeed E. T. Sanford, who was recently lifted to the Supreme Court, someone wanted to know "what race is he in." He didn't sign, but we think we know who he is.

Ed Daugherty, the man with the "iron soupbone," has conquered the bug, and every day he's learning to send more and more. And we admit it's getting "better and better."

"Bill" Neely, our New Orleans mark booster, is still busy as a one-armed paper hanger, handling the large volume of news matter from Bastrop. Penrod, of Nashville, says Bill don't know when it rains in New Orleans. Pen likes to know the track conditions, so as to make his "system" work properly. Bill countered with the alibi that when it rains in New Orleans, it can rain on one side of the city and not even sprinkle on the other.

A certain telegraph company has initiated something unique to get its girls to do more than they can do without injury to their health.

The C. O. is co-operating with his "hearty approval," and with capital letters he is posting bulletins each day, urging them to "punch more and more."

Yes, sir, they are offering a grand prize to the girl that can punch the most number of messages.

"The race is on," reads the bulletin, and concludes:

"I hope the best 'operator' wins."

The grand prize is a box of "home made candy" made and paid for by the girl "mux" supervisor.

Go to it AWE's, make it something that your "master" will be proud to look upon.

Chicago-St. Louis-Indiana
It is still "President" Dugan at "IN," although you'd never know it.

Where is all the interest in our organization going. You fellows better start to sit up and take notice or about July 15 you are going to be wondering what hap-pened at "NX."

It is about time for us to start to get our ideas together and send them to the committee so they will know what to do; whether the rank and file of the organization is behind them and how far they can go.

Brother Adamson told us of Committeeman Dobyns' letter asking for the viewpoints of the membership under his jurisdiction and it behooves everybody to comply with this request. Don't sit back and say "Let the other fellow do it." If they all do that, where are we going to be this time next year?

Why not instruct your committee in plenty of time to give them a chance to form their line of "battle"? Come on boys, don't put it off until tomorrow to do what you should do today. Answer Brother Dobyns' request and send a copy to General Chairman Shea, TODAY.

"RU." Brother John Alcorn is at Brother Fitzgibbons having been assigned to the Financial at "IA." Glad to see you there, Johnny, but look out for "heavyweight" in the business office!

Brother Kernohan is getting to be like a sphinx down at "EV." What you got there, Kerny? Another "valley of the Kings"?

Wonder why Brother Williams is making so many trips to Toledo. Have they good "SCOTCH" up there, Ed?

No more fights between "Red" and "Cart" since Cart bought his own furniture. Wonder what kind of an armistical effect that furniture dealer included with -73's J. K. D. the sale.

San Francisco-South Circuit

Following are some of the changes on the "SX" south wire already made or about to take place:

Santa Ana News discontinued; Van Hoff goes to branch bureau at Express.

San Pedro News discontinued; Gruetter relieving Trestrail at "V," who is on indefinite leave of absence.

Glendale Press discontinued: Haley at "RG."

Wark working short trick A. P. job at Pasadena Post.

Nickels bid in the new Visalia client, but only stayed two weeks. Relieved by F. M. Bivins. Nickels started short trick A. P. job at new paper in Long Beach, March 5.

P. J. Glantz at Hollywood Citizen; Jake Moshel at "PG," relieving Lorrain Hubbard, who is sitting in at "K" until Van gets over his illness.

B. H. Duncan starting Obispan at San Luis until Kerrigan arrives.

San Bernardino Telegram discontinued.

This may have been the Sunshine Circuit once, but it has been renamed. Now known as the Chinese leased. King Tut will never know what he missed-may the "magpies" rest in peace on his well known (Petaluma in). sarcophagus.

We are glad to see Jake Moshel back with us every now and then. He's one of the old guard, boys.

George Dotsler, broker man, is relieving Kelly for a week or so, who is handling the scandal while R. A. D. gets things started at "K." Fast stuff, Geo.

With the exception of a couple of U. P. men who were on the scenes, the A. P. had to import their $30 men for the new short tricks down south. Most of them were recruited from "SF" and are "$30 operators."

Fen decided to lay off awhile to look over his redwood forests. Spring fever, John. "Doc" gets that way every year down at Stockton. He's liable to bust in and tell us he's goin' fishin' most any day now.

Keet decided to stay at "PX" awhile. He almost went to Hollywood, though,

For the edification of those south of the Tehachapi, Merg to Irish to Murf is secret stuff. Murf put three on his nose and two on his ears the other day. He put some on his tail, too, but it oughta been salt.

Everybody answer the circuit chairman's letter today. Don't put it off or you'll find yourself out of luck after July. And don't think Dob is a mind-reader, either—he's going in there to bat for us, but he can't do a thing unless we back him up. Put it on paper and then stick to your word.

CONSOLIDATED PRESS NOTES

Washington-South-Sunshine Circuit

Several years ago a group of capable and ambitious newspaper men, with David Lawrence at the helm, entered upon a new adventure in the way of a modern press service. They felt the need of a special press service combining sports, business service, foreign news, political and financial news, including bond and curb market quotations,

When this adventure was first started some newspaper men and other press association officials shook their heads and declared such an undertaking could not be a success. In spite of all this these men, unmindful of the pitfalls and dangers they were entering upon, and realizing they had a rough and rugged road to travel, stuck to their task. Thus the Consolidated Press Association was born in the newspaper world and today their clients are numbered by scores from one end of the country to the other.

Say, you fellows on the New York, Washington, Chicago, San Francisco and other circuits, why don't you catch up with sleep and let us see a story from your circuit in the Journal every month.

There are not many changes to mention on the "Sunshine Circuit," although many new clients are expected to sign up all through Georgia and Florida within the near future.

W. E. Holley, New Orleans, has been transferred to Louisville, Ky. Sorry to see you leave us, "HQ," but trust you like your new home.

E. F. McCarthy, Washington, is Acting Southern Division Traffic Chief, and will probably receive that appointment soon.

Now for a little politics! We may be Democrats, Republicans, Independents, Socialists, etc., but all in all, we are just plain (not PLXN) working men, and the little pealm I am submitting for your approval seems to speak for the Republican administration. The author of this psalm is unknown to me, so you fellows who voted "for a change," need not jump on me if it hurts:

He maketh me to lie down on park benches,

He leadeth me beside free soup houses, He restoreth my doubts in the Grand Old Party

He leadeth me in the paths of destruction For his party's sake.

Yea! Though I walk through the valley of Starvation,

I do fear Evil for thou art against me, Thy Policies and Thy Profiteers They frighten me. Thou preparest a reduction of wages before me,

In the presence of mine enemies.
Thou anointest my income with taxes,
My expenses runneth over my income.

Surely, Poverty and Un-employment will follow me
All the days of this Nor-Mal-Cy Administration,

And I will dwell in a Rented House Forever.

WHEREABOUTS WANTED

Friends in Louisville, Ky., are anxious to know whereabouts of Arthur Eaton Lawson. Send information to Editor, Journal, 118 S. Ashland Blvd., Chicago.

Also whereabouts of Henry S. Levy, formerly with Postal in Chicago.

Frank R. Music's brother and sister would appreciate word from him. Formerly at Winnipeg and Sacramento, Cal.

NEW YORK PRESSMEN GET $6 RAISE

New York Pressmen's Union, No. 51, has just negotiated an agreement securing a $6-per-week increase in wages for the pressmen in that city. This brings the New York pressmen's scale to $53 per week of 44 hours. The agreement is the result of 95 per cent organization of pressmen of New York.

Printing Press Feeders and Assistants' Union, No. 23, of New York, has also negotiated an agreement specifying $6 increase per week in wages. The hours remain the same—44.

THE VIEWPOINT

By "Jim" Hosey

The Associated Press claims to be an open shop organization, but there is no such thing in reality. It must be either one of two things, a union closed shop or a non-union shop. The Associated Press has no union contract so it is positively a non-union news gathering association, and the Typographical union and all other affiliated unions, and friends of organized labor in general, should bear this in mind constantly, and especially when big news events are breaking in their camps, so that they may be able to favor the solidly unionized press associations, such as the United Press, United News, I. N. S., and Universal service, at all times.

Mr. Press Telegrapher, when anybody attempts to talk favorably of the open shop to you make up your mind immediately he is a "weak sister," and probably a henchman of the so-called "higher ups" trying to curry favor by doing their bidding.

Why do the A. P. union men organize secretly? It is simply because they know that they will be discriminated against if it becomes know by the management they are carrying union cards, and they have ample precedent for this knowledge, I believe.

I have reason to believe that the A. P. exercises today that inhuman, damnable and un-American weapon commonly known as the blacklist, and it carries its unrelenting spite back over a span of sixteen years, or since the unpleasant days of 1907. When an organization utilizes today an instrument that belongs to the dark ages of unenlightenment and the period of the Inquisition, there assuredly should be no place for it among self-respecting American institutions which stand for progress, liberty and freedom.

Nons Like Ramona Suckers

Non-union A. P. operators, and all non-union operators as a whole, remind me very much of Ramona suckers. These suckers are small fish, comparatively speaking, which ride and live on the backs of bigger fish, and suck their sustenance from them. This parallels the case of union and non-union men, I think. The union men pay all the bills, fight all the battles and procure all the good things that the toilers enjoy, while the non-union men do no fighting and pay nothing, but still ride on the backs of their unionized brothers and obstruct and burden them, and at the same time grab eagerly and greedily at all the financial fodder and better working conditions-which have been secured through the often-times heartbreaking efforts of union men and women and the use of union money.

This principle can be justly applied in the same way to the union and non-union press associations. Isn't it about time the A. P. was scheduled and put under contract? Hasn't it been riding on the backs of its bigger hearted and fairer dealing contemporaries, the unionized United Press, I. N. S., and other union press associations about long enough?

Down deep in your heart, Mr. Non-Union Operator, don't you feel a flutter of shame? And this includes you also, Mr. Non-Union Press Association. Doesn't your conscience bother you at times? And doesn't your manhood and better self assert itself occasionally, and permeate you with a sentiment and feeling of degradation and humiliation? Think it over seriously, brother, please? Shouldn't you be in line with the red blooded union men, and unionized press associations, who have procured for you everything you have in the way of wages and working conditions, without the cost of a single red penny to yourself?

I have heard a story that the A. P. volunteered to use its operators as so many chattel slaves, or servile menials, if they were desired, in order to help out another press association in the event of trouble last year. If this is true, Mr. A. P. Operator, what do you think of your management's opinion of you? Do you believe in truth that it thinks you are a normal man possessed of moral or physical courage?

Mr. A. P. Operator, do you know if the $2.50 a week bonus is still being paid to the "1907 loyalists"? Any discrimination in your case?

One A. P. operator's wife, I am creditably informed, actually bragged of the many things she bought as the result of her husband's getting big wages during the 1907 unpleasantness and wished the trouble had continued for a longer period. She didn't seem to have the intelligence to understand and realize that such money was gold sluiced from the heart's blood of brave and honest men, their wives and children, who were denying themselves and struggling for a principle that would make things even better for herself and husband in the long run.

Another A. P. operator complained of his telephone bill being increased because of the girl telephone operators winning their strike over in New England a few years ago, when I tried to sell him a union card. He couldn't or wouldn't understand that through union organization he, too, could be lifted to a higher standard of living conditions whereby he and his family could get more real joy and genuine pleasure out of life, as a result of his increased earning power.

Verily, there are many pimples where heads should be, and it is regrettable that the pimples are so slow in coming to a head. WAKE UP BROTHERS AND TRY TO REALIZE THAT THIS IS THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, AND THE TWENTIETH CENTURY IN WHICH YOU ARE LIVING.

Wallings of a Grouch?

According to announcement in the C. T. U. A. Journal, our Canadian brothers in the press field are advocating a minimum of $48 per week this year. In view of the fact that the press telegraphers in the United States have been working for a minimum of $5 a week less than their Canadian brothers, for the past four years, doesn't it strike you as being only fair, just and reasonable that the American press operators should be granted a minimum wage of $50 per week, commencing with the new contract to be negotiated this year?

You, Mr. Press Telegrapher, are expected to render strictly first class service on your link in the press associations' chains. Do you get a strictly first class living in return for it? WHY NOT? Don't you think you are entitled to it?

Do you know of any other department of the press association that you work for, or the newspaper that you work on, where they work under such high pressure and speed, and expend as much nervous, physical and mental energy in the course of a day's routine of duty as you do yourself? Does your paper realize the great strain, quick action and snap judgment involved in your job? THINK IT OVER BROTHER.

How do your living conditions compare? Start with the private mansions and come down by way of comparison, please! Do you rank as high as third class in this respect? I doubt that you do. Personally, I live in about a third class hotel in this little town of approximately 20,000 population. If I lived in the first class hotel here I would probably have to borrow money to pay for my laundry, or else do my own washing, to say nothing of pocket money and saving a few pennies for the proverbial rainy day.

Isn't your work important? Isn't it about as important to deliver the copy in first class shape to a newspaper as it is to prepare it for delivery? And don't you help to prepare it, too, in innumerable instances by inserting words, making sentences read correctly, etc.? Don't you have to do the capitalising, much of the punctuating and correct spelling in order to make the service strictly first class when it reaches your editor? Isn't it a fact that barely two or three sheets reach you at a time where the punctuation and spelling are not faulty, not to speak of the necessity of extra strain in often-times being compelled to make up for the lack of judgment of near-maniac code senders, because of their poor reasoning powers in utilizing hair-brained code product and failure to use space in transmitting? This is not, in the remotest sense, intended to belittle the importance of the work done by our so-called superiors. I have only the highest praise for them all. It is, however, an honest effort to get you to put on your thinking cap and think things over seriously.

The so-called "higher ups," in an official sense, are presumed to be men of high education and superior business acumen, but they all have precedent as a guide to follow in every branch of their work.

Might it not be a good idea for our committeemen to keep all this in mind when they go into conference with the press association representatives in New York City this year and see if they cannot get us some additional remuneration for serving on the receiving end of the wire as associate filing editors and senders, as well as receiving operators, in delivering the report in first class shape to our respective papers?

WHY TELEGRAPHERS SHOULD LEARN ESPERANTO

Among the rapidly increasing forces in this modern world that are working for the internationalisation of human relations, the telegraph, both wire and wireless, stand out in the front rank. Recently two British wireless telegraphers on board a freighter docked at Staten Island, heard heard me broadcasting from WJZ, Newark, on the subject of Esperanto. They came to me at the Evening Post the following day, secured Esperanto textbooks, took a lesson in the rudiments of this simple language, and started the day afterwards on a voyage to the Orient. I have just received a letter posted at Manila that they have already mastered Esperanto suffi-ciently to use it much to their profit in several Oriental ports, where Esperanto is being learned by thousands. Telegraphers, especially wireless, generally have a wide world viewpoint. Increasingly they will, in their activities, be brought more and more into contact with the need of the simple, wonderful international language, Esperanto. In a few weeks the sixteen easy rules of grammar, the regular and easy pronounciation and the extraordinary system of word building can be mastered by any person of the education usually possessed by telegraphers. By reading aloud the Esperanto text during the course of study, one can positively understand the language when hearing it first spoken by a foreigner.

Europe, the Far East and most of South America are far ahead of North America in taking up this marvelous language, but this continent is at last waking up. I have sold several sets of text books during the last few weeks, many of them to groups who are studying together. Any intelligent person can master Esperanto studying alone within one-tenth the time it takes to gain indifferent knowledge of a national, polyglot language. It is the science of language; it gives one access to a wonderful world literature; it broadens immeasurably the mind and viewpoint of its adepts.

My first object in offering the public Esperanto books is NOT to make money, but to advance a noble cause that is working for a brighter, happier humanity. I advertise the set as offered in an ad in this issue of the Journal in the public press at $2.00. I am so anxious to place before my fraternal brethren an opportunity to take up this interesting and beneficial study, that I will make readers of The Journal the special price indicated. I have received many letters from wireless operators in all parts of the Old World, including Africa, wanting to correspond in Esperanto with American operators.

J. W. FREEMAN, M. S. O.

Bro. Freeman of Baltimore has capably held so many responsible positions in the C. T. U. A. since his first card was taken out in 1902 that it would be hard to do justice to his record.

He has been an officer in one capacity or another of Baltimore local since 1906; delegate to four conventions; delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention in 1917 and circuit chairman of various I. N. S. circuits.

It was as member of the I. N. S. general committee from the time the division was formed until 1918 that his most valuable services were rendered to his fellow workers. His record as a "sticker" stands out most conspicuously.

SOVIET PROPAGANDA "DOESN'T CONCERN" THEM!

By Chester M. Wright

"Communism doesn't concern me."

"Soviet propaganda is nothing to worry about."

"Why should we get excited about the Reds?"

Even labor editors who ought to know what is going on have made remarks like these.

There is something astonishing about the indifference manifested by many persons concerning the most menacing propaganda American labor has ever had to fight against.

There is more Red propaganda in the United States today than could be described in many newspaper pages.

Men are going hither and thither trying to tear down the trade unions.

Paid agents—not just one or two, but many of them—are on the road constantly.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars have been poured into Red propaganda

Some of this money has come from Moscow, some from New York's rich fanatics of the lunatic fringe, some from the "art" colonies of various other cities, and some from labor-hating employers who can't see beyond their noses.

Writers, preachers, lawyers and other professional men and women belong to the Red propaganda machine. Some are just the unknowing tools of the Red outfit. Some are worse.

A labor editor introduces Foster at a mass meeting and says he isn't sure he agrees with ALL that Foster has to say! No. Mr. Hyena, I'm not sure I like everything you do, but I'll play with you a little, just to show there's no hard feeling.

So it goes. But remember this as hard fact: Communist distatorship in Russia has declared war on the American Federation of Labor; the Communists in the United States are following orders; every Red outfit in this country is directly linked with the main Red program. Monkey with one, you monkey with all.

Rich women, looking for excitement; fad crasy writers, looking for nobody knows just what; paid propagandists looking for pay-roll continuity; unbalanced fanatics driven by sick brains; calculating mercenaries and zealots hating everything democratic and American—all these hook up around the Red band wagon and do their deviltry in concert.

Somebody thinks this doesn't apply to his neck of the woods. It applies to EVERY neck of the American woods.

The Red propaganda, with its "amalgamation" bunk, its stealthy underground treachery, its sob-stuff about poor Russia, which was made poor by Red criminality, its railing against "reactionaries," its glowing, drunken promises of "deliverance," is a propaganda that is on the job every minute and that hits every place where trade unions exist.

The danger is only in going to sleep.

"THOU SHALT NOT ORGANIZE"

By S. J. Konenkamp

The United States District Court, sitting at Charleston, West Virginia, o March 20th, according to press reports, issued another injunction restraining th United Mine Workers of America from sending any money into West Virgini that would be used in that state to organize non-union miners; and the same cour at the same time enjoined the operators of union mines in that district from collecting any dues or assessments for the miners' union. Once more one of ou judicial rulers has hurled his commandment to the toilers, saying:

"Thou shalt not organize."

This writ of injunction is reported issued by U. S. Judge Geo. R. McClintic, who is the father of many other court-made laws trying to enforce the miners to obe his commandments. On one occasion he declared it unlawful for people to furnish shelter to locked-out workers and their families who had been driven from their homes; or to provide food to the women and children who were loyal to their husbands and fathers during a lock-out; or for any of them to live in tents or houses in the vicinity of the homes from which they had been driven; and even forbade native-born Americans, men and women, from spending their own money money that they had earned or was given to them, near their homes, because, in his judicial opinion, this was a source of danger to the mines, property and commerce of a certain non-union coal mine.

West Virginia has been the center of an industrial struggle for the right to belong to a labor union that has lasted for more than a generation. Private armies, supported by artillery and armed cars, made up of thugs gathered from everywhere and in the pay of the coal companies, have marched up and down the valleys for years with the sole purpose of trying to cow, browbeat and subdue the natives into accepting the slavery offered by the mine owners. The police and the state courts sometimes have aided these armies; and when they refused, then the federal judges have been brought in to show that the United States government stands behind these gunmen. Injunctions are an everbearing crop in West Virginia, but it is quite likely that this last commandment from a judge may help revive discussion and help mold public opinion with reference to our supreme law-making body—the judiciary. One must not forget the major part of our most vital laws are not made by the people through their legislatures, but by the judges.

Despite all the laws in our statute books, this last injunction if carried to the U. S. Supreme Court is likely to be sustained as good law because it is in line with the laws made by the Supreme Court in 1917. This was the time when patriotism and war fever to make the world safe for democracy were at their height. The workers everywhere were in ecstacy over what they were assured was to be the dawn of a new era. It was then that our rulers on the Supreme Court bench drafted some pretty severe laws directed against the workers everywhere, because these laws make the effective organization of labor unions impossible. These laws are now being clinched from time to time by later decisions, and their effect is to say to the toilers the same thing that Judge McClintic said: "Thou shalt not organize."

These laws are politely called judicial decisions, but since all the destruction of labor unions is carried on through the "equity power" of the courts; these decisions are followed in other injunctions and are in the nature of commands from the court to obey the judge's orders or go to jail until he sees fit to let you out.

The judge-made laws of 1917—made by the United States Supreme Court—say that under certain circumstances it is unlawful for union members to enter into a voluntary discussion of unionism with non-union workers; that a labor union had no right to ask non-union workers to quit their jobs; that where the employer has gone on record against his employes belonging to a union it is unlawful for union workers to invite such employes to join their labor union; that it is wrong for a worker to secretly join a labor union after accepting employment under anti-union conditions and before such a worker joins a union it is his duty to first resign from the service of his employer.

With these Supreme Court laws in mind, Judge McClintic's commandment is likely to be upheld. Despite all of this, the same court says workers have a right to join labor unions. The only conclusion one can reach after a practical analysis of conditions is that in the minds of the judges this right doesn't mean anything.

The situation confronting the workers because of these judicial commandments is told in the report of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in 1922, which says:

"Having been permitted to proceed without hindrance, our courts have become so bold that they hesitate no longer in declaring openly that the judiciary of our land represents, not the people, but a class interest, or, as Judge Van Sicklen of the Supreme Court of (Brooklyn) New York, when issuing an injunction against organized labor, said:

"The courts must stand at all times as the representatives of capital—of captains of industry."

The convention of the American Federation of Labor in the same year stated that after having appealed to all branches of the government for relief from these judge-made laws and finding none of them willing to aid in destroying this iniquitous practice, they found nothing else could be done except to appeal to the American people.

D. K. STEVENSON, M. B. O.

One of the oldest and hardest working officers in the C. T. U. A. is Bro. D. K. Stevenson of Pittsburgh now working for the Universal Service.

When "Faithful Steve" retired as General Secretary-Treasurer of United Press System Division No. 74 this year he completed 14 years of faithful service for that division. He was General Chairman for 12 of the 14 years and a good general chairman.

Brother Stevenson first joined the C. T. U. A. in Pittsburgh in January, in 1905, and has been a "Member But Once."

He has served as Chairman of the General Executive Board of the C. T. U. A. and has attended every C. T. U. A. convention as delegate since 1906.

RICHARD JONES, M. S. O.

The subject of our front page photo this month is Brother Richard Jones of Kansas City, Southwestern Director of the United States Department of Labor Employment Service.

Brother Jones broke into the telegraph game at the age of 12—probably the youngest working telegrapher at that time. He first joined the C. T. U. A. in Duluth, Minn., in 1902, being made secretary-treasurer the first year. He was one of the leaders during the 1907 strike and finding himself blacklisted, studied law and telegraphed wherever he could in brokerage and newspaper offices. He passed the bar examination in 1910.

In 1912, at the age of 25, he was elected state senator from Duluth, and was the father of numerous laws favorable to labor.

During the 1919 strike, although busily engaged as director of the Minnesota Dry Federation, he found time to lend valuable assistance to the C. T. U. A. work of organization. His proudest possession is an up-to-date card marked "Member Since Organized."

CANADIAN	TOPICS

By the Vice-President

The general committee of Canadian National Telegraphers System, Division No. 48, has served the management with 30 days' notice of revision of rules and rates of pay. Negotiations will take place at Toronto, commencing April 18th.

The proposed amendments to the schedule have for their purpose the standardising of wage rates with those now in effect on competing lines. The workers of the Canadian National have long been underpaid, the clerical staffs being especially hard hit. Exploited for years, the workers are at last determined to get justice.

The men and women of the Canadian National Telegraphs have every right to expect a just consideration because they have been the most important factor in the building up of a nationalized telegraph business which is making considerable profit. A decent living and saving wage is what the workers ask and they are determined to get it.

The higher paid workers are not at this time asking for an increase—God knows they need it—but are standing unselfishly, shoulder to shoulder behind their lower paid fellow-workers, with a steadfast determination to see that justice is done them.

The entire Canadian and U. S. membership have pledged their support, and we are ready for any eventuality. We don't want trouble, but we are prepared for it in case it is forced upon us.

As the result of representations by this organization, an agreement was entered  $\forall$  into with the management of the Canadian National Telegraphs which will govern the employment of married women.

The agreement, effective March 15th, is as follows:

"Married women who have husbands supporting them will not be employed after March 15th, unless there is a shortage of labor and it is impossible to secure other competent help."

The organization stood firmly on the principle that in times of unemployment, when the jobs are all too few to go around, married women with husbands supporting them should not be permitted to compete for the available jobs.

In certain quarters there is gnashing of teeth at this "terrible injustice?" but we are not concerned with the selfish interests of a few. Our business is to seek a broad principle and stand for it on behalf of the large majority. In this case, the large majority instructed us. Several of the married women affected by the agreement believed the organization was duty bound to make exceptions for them and keep them working. Our reply was that they had received full protection up to the time the majority voted to have the employment of married women regulated.

The Canadian Pacific Telegraphs Division, in order to prove conclusively to some doubters that real sentiment did not exist for a purely Canadian union of telegraphers, ordered a ballot of all workers in its jurisdiction, whether up-to-date members or not. The result of the ballot was as follows:

Total Votes Cast......757

If Pryde, Mitchell and Robinson are sincere they will accept the decision of the overwhelming majority and cease their foolish propaganda.

PROGRESS

Since the inauguration of the Eastern and Western Broker Divisions, the growth of the broker field and a similar growth in the number of telegraphers employed therein spread over a wide area has confronted the officers of the Eastern Broker Division with the problem of finding the best method of more effectively and economically applying our organising forces to increase the membership of the Division to the best interests of all units concerned.

The matter had been discussed at meetings of the General Committee of the E. B. D. consisting of representatives from the New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Baltimore Districts of the E. B. D. along with other matters of interest to the Division, but no definite plan had been reached at these meetings.

However, upon reviewing the causes for the steady increase in membership in the New York District, it was obvious that the establishment of a permanent head-quarters and Employment Service Bureau in charge of a full time Secretary was responsible for the present healthy condition of the New York District.

While we take a personal pride in the achievements of the New York District we nevertheless realise that we are but one of the links of the chain of Districts of the E. B. D. and that the strength of a chain is equal to that of its weakest link.

Therefore, in order to safeguard what we now have and to increase our membership to greater numbers, we aim to establish similar permanent Headquarters and Employment Service Bureaus in the Districts outside New York. To do this a re-apportionment of the territory of the E. B. D. was necessary, in order that each of the other units may have a field with adequate possible membership therein from which a corresponding increased revenue may be derived that would furnish the finances for the establishment of permanent headquarters in each headquarters effy.

Following out this plan, the Pittsburgh District of the E. B. D. applied for and received from International Headquarters a charter for a separate broker division to be known as the Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division with jurisdictional territory in that portion of the state of Pennsylvania West of a line drawn through the state from Tioga on the North to Waynesboro on the South and the entire states of West Virginia and South Carolina, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Philadelphia District of the E. B. D. has applied for and received a charter for a separate broker division to be known as the Philadelphia Broker Division with jurisdiction in that portion of the state of Pennsylvania East of a line drawn through the state from Tioga on the North to Waynesboro on the South; that portion of the state of New Jersey, South and West of and including Trenton, and the entire state of Delaware, with headquarters in Philadelphia, Pa.

The New York District of the E. B. D. shall retain the title of Eastern Broker Division with jurisdiction in that portion of the state of New Jersey North and East of Trenton; the states of New York and Connecticut, with headquarters in New York City.

The Baltimore District of the E. B. D. up to the time of going to press has not as yet received its charter for a separate broker division but when it does it shall have jurisdiction in the state of Maryland; the District of Columbia and the states of Virginia and North Carolina, with headquarters in Baltimore, Md.

We congratulate the new Divisions on the forward step they have taken and wish to assure them of our wholehearted support and co-operation.

We wish to thank the Western Broker Division for ceding the state of West Virginia to the E. B. D. in order that we may carry out plans of re-apportionment and which we in turn ceded to the Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division.

J. A. Hickey, Secretary-Treasurer, Eastern Broker Division.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES

At the regular meeting held on Saturday, March 24th, 1923, the By-laws Committee consisting of the members of Executive Board, appointed at the regular meeting held February 24th to re-write the by-laws of this Division to conform with the changed conditions due to the substitution of separate Broker Divisions for District units of the E. B. D., presented a draft of the pro-posed new by-laws for the consideration of the membership, which was adopted as read.

One of the principal changes in the new by-laws will be a change in meeting dates. Instead of two meetings a month during the winter months and one meeting a month during the summer months, we will hold but one meeting each month on the fourth Saturday.

Copies of the new by-laws will be mailed to members in good standing as soon as they are ready.

At the time of going to press we find Bros. "Bill" Russell of Josephthal's; Arthur Morgan of Jones & Baker's and "Jimmy" Ross of Jones & Baker's on the sick list. All three are in hospitals recuperating from operations.

What's the matter with the World War Veterans of the E. B. D.? We want to have a tablet made containing the names of members who served in the World War and we have received but few replies to our notice in last month's issue. Come on boys, give the Secretary your Name, Rank, Regiment, etc.

Bro. Patrick J. Browne, formerly of the Stock Exchange, has left the Street to embark in the Undertaking business. Browne's place of business is at 156 East 117th Street, New York. Our best wishes for your success go with you, "Paddy."

On April 29th, the members of the Eastern Broker Division, their families and friends will assemble at 3:30 p. m. at the grave of Professor Samuel F. B. Morse in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y., where appropriate ceremonies will be held to honor the memory of the father of the profession of telegraphy from which we earn our livelihood.

Following out the suggestion of our distinguished Bro. Police Commissioner Enright, that the telegraphers of this City make an annual pilgrimage to the grave of Professor Morse on his birthday, a Committee of which Deputy International President Percy Thomas was designated as Chairman, was appointed at the regular meeting of the E. B. D. held March 24th, to make the necessary arrangements for 'Morse Day."

As the date of Professor Morse's birth, April 27th, falls on a week day, this year, the Committee will make arrangements to hold these services on the Sunday nearest to April 27th, namely, April 29th.

A circular letter will be sent out from these Headquarters to the membership giving the information as to the location of the grave and how it can be reached. Prominent public officials, newspaper editors and former telegraphers now identified in the business and financial world will be invited to attend.

Thos. J. (Tommy) Dunn, an old time telegrapher and inventor of the "Dun" unit" telegraph "bug" died on April 1st.

N. Y. DISTRICT COUNCIL

At a regular meeting of New York District Council, No. 16, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, held on March 15th, 1923, the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS: We have learned with deep regret of the passing away of Brother Ernest L. Way, a member of the New York District Council, No. 16, C. T. U. of A.,

WHEREAS: We hereby desire to express to the family of our departed Brother our sincere and heartfelt condolence in their loss, which is our mutual loss, therefore

RESOLVED: That the New York District Council, No. 16, in regular meeting assembled hereby instruct the Secretary to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the family of our late Brother; to forward a copy to the Editor of the C. T. U. A. Journal for publication therein, and to have the charter of this Organization draped for a period of thirty days.

Attest: Bud F. Rupple, Secretary-Treasurer.

GEORGE SAINT-AMOUR

Bro. Saint-Amour, Martinsburg, W. Va., member of I. N. S. Div. No. 61, is the type of good union man who does not forget the C. T. U. A. after gaining successes outside of the telegraph. His sterling character as a 1907 striker and his valuable services at that time will be remembered by old-timers.

As a novelist and magazine writer, Bro. Saint-Amour has gained a world-wide reputation, his articles and stories having appeared in such magazines as the Blue Book, Top-Notch, Pearson's, Farm and Fireside, Munsey's, Overland Monthly, Waverly and National Magazines. His services as a special writer are also in demand by the Newspaper Enterprise Association, and Scripps-Howard League, and others.

Bro. Saint-Amour has kindly offered one of his stories for use in the Journal, the first installment of which the editor hoped to find space for in this issue. Space restrictions have made it impossible.

THE SPOTTER

By Edward L. Boole, Member General Executive Board.

Webster's condensed dictionary of the English language contains no definition of the term "Spotter," as commonly used in our latter day public prints in connection with this country's multitudinous labor troubles. The omission would signify that the simon pure spotter was not in vogue in Noah Webster's day. This loath-some menace to society is a product of the never ending struggle between capital and labor of the past two generations, as I will further on attempt to explain.

While the New National Encylopaedic Dictionary defines a spotter as a secret agent, a spy, and then an informer, the term itself carries far more weight and sting than its definitions would indicate. It was evidently coined to more fitly characterize the despicable machinations of a certain class of individuals who, by giving stolen information serving to seriously checkmate the efforts of fellow-craftsmen to gain better working conditions, waxed fat at the expense of their brothers.

If there is a class of workers upon this continent who have cause to intensely detest the nefarious system of espionage perfected by the simon pure specimen of spotter it is the telegraph profession. To this declaration there will not be a dissenting voice from any union telegrapher.

Spotters may be divided into legitimate and illegitimate classes, running all the way from the high class and worthy operatives of the government secret service to the low-down cravens who for monetary gain take a deadly hand at spying upon fellow-workers. I have no reason or desire to write about, much less stigmatize, the secret service operatives of the nation for the reason that their system of espionage must be looked upon as absolutely legitimate for the preservation of the government itself, nor of those in the next category of spydom—the individuals who are employed by the railway companies to keep a secret tally of the number of passengers carried and fares received in order to ferret out conductors suspicioned of dishonest practices. It is of the despicable creatures who inform on the doings of their comrades in arms that I would write.

Five years ago, when Local No. 1 (Chicago), of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, reinforced by the rank and file of the Western Broker Division, was engaged in the great organization movement of that era, our meetings were infested with several species of spotters. The two great telegraph companies at that time were under the control of the government, and it was but natural that its secret service men should be on the job in our midst for the purpose of ascertaining just what the movement meant, and if it was inimical to the government-controlled telegraph corporations. Be it said to the everlasting credit of Local No. 1, its doors were open and the world was cordially invited to enter the confines of its crowded halls to witness the procedure that meant so much to the telegraph workers of the country as a whole. No one was barred. It may be said in passing that this was the initial step in that great nation-wide telegraph organization movement, and the deliberations on the floors of Local No. 1 set the pace for an enveloping movement which eventually resulted in the solidification of the telegraph clans.

Embraced in the goodly number of informers of every breed who gained access to our conferences were telegraph operators whose names graced the payrolls of the Western Union Telegraph Company. These men made daily reports to the officials of that corporation. They were soon spotted by keen-eyed union men, but their presence was tolerated for the reason that even these disreputables were entitled to seats in our gatherings owing to the "open sesame" policy inaugurated by Local No. 1, and they were consequently permitted to come and go unmolested.

When an individual of the notorious stripe I have outlined stoops to underhanded means with absolutely no qualms of conscience to thwart the efforts of his fellows for the amelioration of unsatisfactory working conditions, and goes on record as receiving pay for such service, he is to be classed as lower than the most inferior of animals. Labor history has taught us that to men who pursue these sort of tactics there comes a day of reckoning. As hardened as they may seem they are possessed of the great human element that regulates the lives and destinies of all men—conscience. Some illustrious sage has opined that every man has his hour of meditation. And in that hour even informers revile and hate themselves for their dirty and unwarranted conduct toward their brothers.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES

Two Sooners Rejected

At the last meeting held Saturday, April 7th, the applications of Edward H. Spear, and Carl B. Ruble were rejected due to the fact that the former returned to work for the firm of Jas. E. Bennett and Co. one month and a half prior to the official calling off of the strike against that firm, and the latter engaged himself with the same firm five weeks prior to the official calling off of the strike.

All members desiring to take their vacations kindly call Wabash 1426 and secure a capable and reliable relief man.

Our meetings getting better and better in every way as we carry on.

Business conditions throughout the country, according to all reports at the expiration of the first quarter, indicate a splendid outlook for 1923. May we profit by these bullish returns.

Brother Edward L. Boole of Shearson-Hammill, absent from his regular haunts for ten days, is again in our midst. He was compelled to submit to an operation for the removal of an infected cyst. While somewhat frayed by his experience he is slowly rounding to his old time splendid physical form. Ed. jokingly says that the reason he went to the hospital was to keep on a par with his old side kick, Jack McCloskey, who was recently operated upon in New York.

Congratulations are extended to Brother and Mrs. Fred Leibrock on the arrival of little Miss Leibrock on the 12th of April.

We rejoice in your happiness. May this new life bring only comfort and joy to you through the years to come.

Recent arrivals are Brother Dargan, who has been with the United Press in Milwaukee for the past two or three months, also Brother G. I. Knapp from parts unknown.

Brother Edward O'Grady did the honors at Stein-Alstein last week in the absence of someone on account of sickness. Brother Jim Calder was at Jackson Bros. and Brother Duffy at Thompson-McKinnons.

Brother Joe Skelly has been added to the force of Blythe-Witter and Co. along with Brother Frank Quirk.

When the doors of Winton and Co. were thrown open in their new office in the O. C. L. Building, Brother Harry Silverstein promptly ensconced himself at the telegraph table, another good execution.

"Oh, Where, Oh, Where" is the editor of the Relay Oil? Now that the price of Crude Oil has been reduced in several sections of the country, may we not have a little injection of this precious fluid?

little injection of this precious fluid?

The "slow board" which has been arranged at headquarters for extra men has proven a very just and satisfactory way of controlling extra jobs and giving all an even break.

Our congratulations to Boardmarker W. G. Brown on the arrival of a 9-pound boy April 14. Jack Brown, Dave Ellington, Clare Yount, etc., etc., please copy.

Bill Bishop is back after a couple of weeks' rest.

Last Respects Paid to Brother John H. Gibson

On Saturday afternoon, March 31st. the remains of Brother John H. Gibson, a member of The Western Broker Division were put to rest in Oakwood Cemetery, where many prominent men from the division gathered at the grave-side to pay their last respects.

Those who were best acquainted with the activities of this worthy Brother will forever remember him. as a splendid character, and a true and faithful supporter of the organization of his craft.

The heartfelt sympathy of the entire division is extended to Mrs. Gibson and family in this heavy afflicrion

Among those who attended the funeral were: President McDaniel, Edward L. Boole, Geo. B. Miller, Geo. W. Lawson, John D. Miller, Edward O'Grady, J. J. Sullivan, Gus Hirsch, Ed. H. Strehloe, A. L. Bradley, E. C. Duffy and D. L. McCoy.

LAMSON BROS. NOTES

Greetings, brethern, can you match my ANNUAL?

We regret to record the departure of Bro. R. E. Knickle 73's, Nick.

Dave and Van still say "Gm." but it doesn't mean a thing.

Alderman Mull did a good give-up business in cotton over the telephone on April 9th. Eight days late, but what can we do when it comes on Sunday?????

Brother Tom Bange covers the receiving side of the duplex in PX office now instead of the single wire. This permits Tony to take refuge on the sending side all day with his wild bug. "Migosh," said the countess, "kydns."

A suggestion from a worthy brother resulted in the cranging about of several wires, thus contributing to the general efficiency of the office.

The above change also moved Bill Purse away from Dave's tobacco sack.

C. C. Arnall, formerly with Jackson Bros. at Omaha, is a new arrival. Welcome, Brother. Si Warner is a new arrival also, on a short trick.

Dave Ellington, married man, wants to take out some Life Insurance. Ho Hum! He felt safe enough when single.

Brother Paul Kopps, KB office, on the sick list. Hope it don't last long old timer.

Proc! Oh Proc! Sign over BUICK salesroom, Grand Blvd. and 39th St.: "We give away used cars."

JACKSON BROS. NOTES

Departed for parts unknown: One Claud Reese and Walter Loy, both nons.

Our Mr. George Miller, who is batting 100% on the Ny dux, purchased a new Auburn Six last Saturday. Sunday morning George decided to satisfy himself that there was plenty of "stuff" under the hood. Going about 55 per-plus-he overtook Result: two broken fenders. a taxicab. two non-illuminating headlights, bent axle. et cetera and seventy-five bucks. He ts not discouraged, however, as his curiosity was satisfied.

We regret to report the loss of Brother John H. Gibson, who, after five months of faithful service on the Josephthal wire, was called to rest on March 29. The boys at Josephthal's office and along the line expressed their sympathy by contributing a beautiful floral piece. He is survived by a wife, one son and a daughter.

Our aristocrat Brother Bill Fray, who resides in Wilmette during the winter, is getting ready to move to his summer home in Lake Forest, where he raises thoroughbred collies and airdales. He has supplied a number of the boys on the street with pupples at an exceptionally low cost, and anyone contemplating the purchase of a pup should see him. His dogs are all Blue-Ribbon winners.

Brother Jim Calder was with us several days this month, filling in for Brother Strehloe, who is on the sick list.

HARRIMAN & CO. NOTES

Brother Davidson still keeps smiling, even though the world seems to pass him by at times.

Johnny Jones appears retrospective. it 'cause he's married?

Brother Carpenter is about to leave the Benedicts' Club.

Brother Lewis is still very much alive, but the 9 a.m. trick is a little strenuous. ..

Brother Heckinger says the Union is the prace to go when looking for a sine. Door bell ringers, please copy.

Brother Mike Sprague hops around the office like a young fellow. Who said he wasn't?

Brother Stree, the saxophone kid. ac- 4 cording to wardrobe rumors has three new suits of clothes. Brother Bath still wears his old ones. Jimmy says the spring is the proper time to dress up.

Brother Gus Hirsch still batting and battling them out on the east.

E. LOWITZ & CO. NOTES

Brother Eddie Miller has been added to our Kansas City force. He is putting 'em over on the Atchison wire and the boys say he sure "knows his stuff." Glad to have you with us "Eddie."

Brother Bert Thornton's two little boys have been seriously ill and confined to the hospital the past two weeks, but they are both getting along fine.

Brother Jimmy Browner paid a visit to the dentist a few days ago. He now wears the smile that won't come off.

Have you heard the new song "Whispering," by Jack Miller?

Brother O'Brjen still copies the SUM-MARY with his overcoat on. Spring will soon be here, Carl.

Brother Baldwin is still marking the board. How do you like these fast grain markets, Baldy?

CHATEAU de RAMEZAY

MONTREAL AND QUEBEC
By Earle Hooker Eaton

Montreal, which will be the scene of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union convention October 1, is Canada's greatest city, and is second in picturesqueness only to quaint old Quebec, the "Citadel City" farther down the St. Lawrence. Montreal has a population of nearly a million, and is the commercial and financial metropolis of the Dominion. The world's seventh port in point of business done, it is 300 miles nearer to Liverpool than New York.

One of the most interesting buildings in Montreal is the quaint old Chateau de Ramezay, now a museum. Built in 1705, it was the official residence of both the French and British governors, and in 1775-6 Benjamin Franklin and the American Congressional Committee occupied it while endeavoring to persuade the Canadians to join the thirteen states. General Richard Montgomery, of New York, had captured the city, and was later killed during an attack upon Quebec.

Montreal, then the Indian village of Hochelaga, was discovered by Jacques Cartier 386 years ago. Hochelaga means "beaver meadow." There were about 50 lodges surrounded by a triple palisade. Cartier, who was much impressed by its beauty and charm, was followed by that brave and hardy group of French explorers including Champlain, Pere Marquette and the great LaSalle. Today an army of tourists throng its big hotels, view its historic scenes and—many of them—enjoy its real beer, real ale and real Scotch without being law-breakers.

THE TROUBLE DODGER

(Copyright, 1923, by John Blake.)

Success means fighting and conquering trouble.

It is easy enough to do routine work.

That is the reason why routine workers are paid routine wages.

Fifty per cent of the progress of an established business comes from momentum.

Fifty per cent of its employees only serve as power units in carrying that momentum along.

The other fifty per cent comes from extra thoughts, extra intelligence and extra energy.

These things all involve trouble.

Not all the other fifty per cent of the employees are called upon to face this trouble.

But those of them who are willing to face it, no matter at what cost of their own time and comfort, comprise the army from which the officers are recruited.

The crew of a passenger train may do their work without difficulty for a long period of time.

Then there is a wreck, or a landslide, or some other form of trouble.

The men who have given no thought to trouble—making it their business to dodge it when ever it reared its head—do not know what to do.

Those who have thought about trouble and fought with it mentally step in and take charge.

And they are the men who become superintendents and managers by-and-by.

In a list of railroad executives recently published more than three-quarters of the names were men who had been brakemen, or firemen, or trackmen, or rod and level men.

Pull did not make them what they are. Trouble-fighting was the sole source of their promotion.

It is as easy to dodge trouble as it is to dodge any form of duty.

But the trouble-dodger never learns to conquer it. And no man who ever amounted to anything achieved his eminence save through learning to face trouble and to find a way through it, rather than a way out of it.

This gem of uncommon sense is not only applicable to Chapel No. 1 but throughout our International Brotherhood, and its reproduction under "The Alarm" may be productive of creating incentive that is born of the proper thoughts for collective betterment through individual effort in proper organization with result and benefit to all.

Progress must be our report this month with another slight delay due to the lack of an all important report for which the Board of Estimate are waiting before rendering their decision.

However we will appear on their weekly calendar until the case is settled which is not as indefinite as it may seem.

The sincere sympathies of each and every member of Chapel No. 1 are extended to Bro. and Mrs. Winfield H. Snyder on the great loss they sustained with the death of their only child, Harvey, a fine promising youngster, 13 years old, who Bro. "Bill" always loved to call his "pal."

Dispatcher Albert B. Lamberson, passed away on March 14th after a lingering illness.

Absolutely helpless for several years due to paralysis he had been retired on a so-called "pension" which in reality was merely a pittance—a couple of hundred dollars a year. If it were not for his friends, Dr. Archer and the Cycle Club in particular, his last resting place might have been a public one.

This after more than 28 years service in the N. Y. F. D. telegraph bureau. Another instance of the glaring inequality of N. Y. F. D. pensions. Uniformed men receive half pay after 20 years service—dispatchers receive half pay based on their average yearly salary for ten years prior to retirement, after 35 years service, providing they are 70 years old!

Other large cities recognise and include their fire telegraph dispatchers as members of the uniformed force and as such are entitled to all the benefits attached thereto.

It would be a commendable performance if our department officials could see their way clear to place us in the Bureau of Fire, where we very properly belong, since they are unstinted in their praise of our dispatching ability and what it means to the chief officers at a large fire.

Perhaps some day they will reward us.

MEMBERS BUT ONCE-M. B. O.

The personal mention in the local notes of the Journal will tell many tales to those readers who know telegraphers from coast to coast. It is thus one follows the ups and downs of men and women in the telegraph. Each month tells us something new about our co-workers of former years.

We see mention in the Journal of one who for years prided himself as a hard-boiled non, absolutely anti-union, who is now chairman of some district or division, doing splendid work for the C. T. U. A.

There's a scab of former years who is now making amends as well as he can for betraying his fellow workers in his youth.

There is the former chief operator who couldn't see the union at all. "MY loyalty and MY interest in this firm forbids MY having a thing to do with the C. T. U. A." was the way he dismissed the subject of unionism. This firm in which he didn't have one penny's worth of an interest failed, so we read about the union helping him to get a day's work now and then, or a regular position. But it is OUR union that proves to be his salvation.

Then in the next paragraph one may see another name; the name of a member in a prominent brokerage firm that stirs up other memories. A name that brings to mind an experience involving him with the former chief operator. The C. O. all swelled up with his position spoke sneeringly when this broker's name was mentioned to him as one looking for a job.

"Can't use him; he is too prominent in the union."

Yet success hasn't changed our old time member; he is a stronger union man than ever, while we suspect the former C. O. hasn't reformed but is simply a card-holder for revenue purposes only.

Then there are the former boomers and blockites, who are now respected members of their division, showing how men by respecting themselves gain the respect of others.

The illustrations could be repeated over and over again, and like a kaleidoscope ever changing in form and position.

But through every issue of the Journal, year after year, one sees a certain element standing like a rock firm in their union principles, unchanged by either the successes or misfortunes that may come to mankind over night; whether poor or well-to-do; whether an extra man or a proprietor. No matter what their present station in life may be they stand true to their fellow workers; true to their union principles; bound together in an everlasting spirit of brotherhood—

The Members But Once of the C. T. U.

CERT. 1.

Conducted by The New England Brokers' Division, Headquarters and Employment Bureau, No. 7 State Street, Boston, Mass. Regular monthly meetings at Headquarters, last Monday in the month.

By J. A. Neimant

There are many considerations which affect the welfare of any organization, whether growing or established. Principal among these is the condition of heart and mind of its members known as the spirit of good-fellowship. Without this kindly sentiment no body of men can be expected to endure the buffets of fate.

In periods of adversity it is the spirit of genuine friendship, nurtured through the medium of tolerance and restraint, which gives us the courage to endure our trials, confident in the knowledge that the word "brother" means hearty co-operation, the prime requisite of solidarity.

The element of good-fellowship must be carefully fostered in order to survive the many trials which are bound to eventuate in the course of the social and economic existence of any organization. This sentiment can only be engendered and matured if the members all endeavor to avoid actions and reactions which may cause friction. The more harmony there is between us the better are our chances for success collectively and individually, for the condition of the body as a whole is bound to react eventually upon each and every one of us.

The difference between the civilized man and the barbarian is primarily in the superiority of the former over the latter in the matter of self-restraint. Without this important faculty the condition of modern civilization would be an impossible achievement. The gap between the cultured and uncultured person which resolves itself into the distinction between the educated and uneducated is easily discernible, even to the unpracticed eye, in the amount of habitual self-control possessed by each.

Why is it necessary to adopt the manners of those with whom we associate to such an extent that even in polite company we must forget ourselves occasionally? They say, "When in Rome do as the Romans do." But this is a very poor slogan, for it follows, "When amongst the hogs do as the hogs do"—and who wants to be a hog? No man is a gentleman who is a gentleman only when under observation. That is hypocrisy, man's most bitter enemy. Therefore, let us all strive to do everything to promote good feeling in our ranks, to avoid unpleasantness, and to see in what measure each one of us can deserve the sacred name of "Brother."

NOTES

In the springtime a man's fancy turns to thoughts of—flivvers. This summer, no doubt, will break all records. There probably will be so many that if some mischievous boy should happen to spread a few sheets of flypaper upon a busy highway, he would cause quite a congestion of traffic, if not some wrecks. Quite a few of the boys are "breaking out" with brand new cars, so I am writing this as a word of caution!

Pursuant to the above, potential Ford owners may be interested to know that Brother E. K. Burnham is now selling flivvers and would be pleased to hear from any prospects. His business address is 298 Moody Street, Waltham.

THE SOUNDER &

Conducted by Canadian Broker and Lensed Wire Division 21 Mooting Date: Second Wednesday of Back Month at Union of Commerce Hall, 140 Borri St., Montreal. —Organize—Co-operate—

Spring weather is at last with us. Every day, in every way, we are getting stronger and stronger.

Bro. Wisely returned from the East, after a few days' visit with his sick mother. Let's hope it's not serious. Bro. Goyette relieved him.

Bro. Lussey is at Shawinigan Falis for H. M. Connelly & Co. How do they look down there, Bob?

Bro. O'Donnell is now with the Montreal Mining Exchange. Where next, Jack?

Bro. Poulin is at Mount & Co., vice Bro. O'Donnell,

Bro. Cadorette is at Canadian Press Bureau temporarily.

Bro. McKenna is at Post and Flagg for a few weeks.

Bro. Andy Long, Laidlaw & Co., is back on the job after a few days' illness. Bro. McKenna sat in for Andy.

Bro. Merritt, late of Union Bank, is making reliefs at Royal Bank.

Why kick on the high cost of electricity? Ask Eddie Cohen how he keeps his light bill down.

We note that the General Secretary-Treasurer is sporting a new "Spring and Fall" just now, and otherwise looking prosperous. Guess the old boy isn't some cut-up now that he got that extra income voted him at the last budget.

Bro. "Mike" McFadden, of the Canadian Press Div., has not been seen around the old haunts since Mike McTique gave Siki the licking. We are wondering if Mickey got so prosperous with his winnings that he will not associate with us common slaves now.

The firm of O'Grady & Co., of Rutland, Vt., has opened a wire connection. We are wondering if our old friend, Dan Grady, has any connection with this firm. If so, 73's, Dan.

TORONTO NOTES

When you hear of a vacancy or a new position opening up, notify a member of your employment committee at once. Give us all the time possible to get one of our own members there FIRST. Don't tell the whole world about it.

There are only two classes of operators. Those with us and those against us. Don't make any mistake, if a man won't join our division he is not with us—he is against us. Therefore don't forget our policy. No card no favors—with a vengeance.

The minimum wage for leased wire operators is $45.00 a week. If you aren't getting that, your boss is holding out on you. Let every employer know this is the minimum union scale and emphasize the "minimum."

When you are arranging for your holidays or for any other relief be particular to see that a union man relieves you.

There are still 18 nons on leased wires in Toronto. Six in packing houses, six in bond houses and six in broker offices. Is there any one of these you could bring into line? Every member should be an organizer and not wait to be appointed to a special organizing committee. Our organization is strong enough now to protect itself, but don't be satisfied until it's 100 percent in numbers, and in enthusiasm.

If you have any complaints don't unburden yourself on a street corner; come up to your meeting—the third Tuesday of every month—and thresh it out there. If you have any suggestions or advice be sure to bring that along too. There is a lot of brain power on the "Street;" give us the benefit of it at the monthly meeting.

Our last meeting was a huge success and we were pleased to see so many of the old timers with us once more. Among those present were Brothers Bill Smart, Geo. Flannery, Bert Richardson, Charley Cumiford, Pete McArthur, Bill Watts, et al.

The gang at the slaughter house is down to a minimum and at times it is impossible to gather a quorum for a game of one and six. These Toronto girls sure know how to make 'em like it.

How come we don't see nuttin no how of Brother Jimmie LeGarde these days? What is the idea Jymes? Also Brother Don Cameron? Guess the wife makes him toe the mark now. Tough luck, Don.

Brother C. L. Andrews returned to work after a ten-day trip to Montreal. Haven't had a report yet from Andy as to the good beer and little French girls down there. Brother Gordon Cameron, C. P. R., relieved Brother Andrews.

Sister C. M. Gilmore, late with The Canadian Bank of Commerce, Foreign Exchange Dept., is now with Kerr, Fleming and Co. Congratulate, Maxie, on the change to a real live house.

We wonder what Brother Bill Watts is going to do with the cargo of Spirits of Juniper that he recently received from the City of Freedom? Guess we had better ask Brother Culkin about it. When do we drink, Bill?

Brother Jim Culkin is again with us after a trip to Montreal over the Easter holidays. Whatcha bring back in the grip, Jim?

There is some talk of a baseball team for the coming summer. Sounds good to us. How about it, gang?

We are gradually lining the gang up and only have a few nons on hand now and hope to soon put them in the regular feller's class. We also expect the circulars of the recent by-laws to be printed and issued to each member of the Commercial and Leased Wire Divisions. After that—Oh Daddy, Watch 'em squeal. We sure will be regular humdingers and deaf and dumb people will realize it.

EASY.

Toronto Notes

As far as known, all members on sick leave have returned. Sister Laugheed, who underwent a slight operation, is doing nicely and has been transferred to Montreal for a time, where she intends commencing her duties in "RA" office about April 10th.

Bro. Butwell, absent for about ten days suffering with a severe cold, has returned, looking none the worse. "You can't keep a good man down."

Sister Stickle's smiling face is again with us, after about eight days suffering with a sore throat.

Bro. R. Arbuckle, called to the bedside of his sick father at Wingham, is still absent. We extend our best wishes for a speedy recovery, also for an early return of our Brother to us.

We are glad to welcome back Bro. H. A. Ball, who has been in New York during the winter months.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by members and friends of the sick committee, on Wednesday, March 21st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Stewart, in Kelvin Park. The gathering was held in the form of a "surprise party" for Mrs. Stewart, who is leaving shortly for a visit to Los Angeles, Calif. Everyone expressed appreciation of the courtesy and welcome shown by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart.

Games of various kinds were taken part in, also dancing. Vocal selections were given by Mrs. E. A. Adams and Mr. James R. Hislop; impersonating readings, by Miss Anna Stickle; piano and banjo selections, by Messrs. Leonard and Frederick Jowett (visiting artists and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart). Every number on the programme being highly appreciated.

Towards the end of the programme, a most fitting speech was delivered by Convener W. A. Best, expressing delight and satisfaction of the sick committee on the occasion and presenting Mrs. Stewart with a handsome box of chocolates, also wishing her a pleasant journey, an enjoyable visit and a safe return.

NEW CHARTERS

Charters were issued during March to the Philadelphia Broker Division, Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division, Pittsburgh, Pa., and the Milwaukee District Council.

PITTSBURGH

Masten and Co., now have six operators. They have acquired J. S. Bache's wire to Ny, also their Ny-Chicago wire as a fall back in case of trouble; W. J. Wollman and Co.'s short wire to Ny and their Ny-Chicago wire as an emergency wire. These are supplemented by three of Logan's wires to Ny and Chicago with Oil-City on the side.

The force consists of E. W. Smith, Chief Operator, who has the snap of the office, the "Wheeling Branch," Paigo, Weaver, Miller and McGann alternating on Logan, Wollman, Bache and the Parkersburg-Marietta wire and McCuccaeon on Chicago-Grain and Oil City wires.

Bro. Flesher has changed from Parkersburg to Wheeling for Merriman and Co., and Bro. Fisher left Brast & Co., to take Flesher's place in Parkersburg, Bro. W. J. McDonnell, lately of the Oil country, taking the position resigned by Fisher.

Halsey and Co., recently opened a branch at Franklin, Pa. Oliver E. Hanson is the operator; Bro. Jimmie Dugan is covering the Pittsburgh end of the wire.

Bro. Patterson is temporarily out of a job, owing to failure of the firm he was with.

At Winkelman's, Bros. Woodhall and Robertson with the assistance of Mr. McCabe, an old timer, keep Messrs. Bowman at Uniontown and Davis at Greensburg busy and also Parkersburg office. Bro. Reits can be seen with a handful of chalk putting up Bro. Bill Adams' qtns. Bro. Thos. S. Barrett is the manager at McNulty & Co.

Chairman Laitta is with Taubman and Co.

Bro. Frank McKenna is with a sugar house in the Jenkins Arcade.

Bro. Hagan is now with the Ny News Bureau.

This Broker unit is now known as the Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division, the change having been made March 25th. There has been no change in officers. Dues are now in order and should be paid.

At Moore, Leonard and Lynch the same old crowd, Messrs. Inks, Moore, P. McPike, Moore and Colebrook doing the wire work and Messrs. Brockschmidt on the floor and Granville Lobaugh handling the orders. Billy McMoil is the manager.

Pete Wilbert and Charley Faulkner are very busy men at Obey Nuttalls.

Harry Armstrong is with a butter and egg concern in the Wabash Bldg.

PHILADELPHIA

Our March meeting was held as usual, on the third Saturday, with several of the members conspicuous by their absence, no doubt taking advantage of the first half-holiday with a touch of spring to stroll into the country in search of the bluebirds.

Among the absentees was Bro. Walter Barry. Understand he was down Jersey negotiating for the purchase of a farm where he can get more work and exercise—board-marking being too tame.

Bro. Sam Long has been added to the list of radiophans. Wouldn't be surprised to hear some good singing from station S-R-L most any night. Watch your cat's whisker boys!

Now that we are working directly with Chicago under our new charter, we take this opportunity to thank the officers and members of the Eastern Broker Division for their hearty co-operation with and their good fellowship toward the Philadelphia District in the past and sincerely hope it will not be lost to us in the future.

Another addition to the Philadelphia District—Bro. Edward M. McGrath of Ware & Co. Welcome Eddie! Ask Bro. Bernstein to chaperon you to our next meeting. He hasn't been with us for some time.

Sorry to hear Bro. Bell nad to dispose of some of his gilt-edged securities to pay for the damage done when he upset the telegraph table in his haste to get to our meeting—hope he didn't lose his berth also.

Our old friend and Bro. Fred Marcy of Atlantic City has been silent for a long time. Why not a few lines or one of those old time visits, Fred? Bring the rest of the seashore boys along, always glad to see you.

Ed Price now wears rubber boots while at the key—the only way to keep his feet dry and prevent pneumonia. He works besides Goshorn who never hit the cuspidor in his life.

MICHIGAN BROKER DIVISION

The Michigan Broker Division began to really function and get results from its organization at a well attended meeting held at the residence of Bro. Hugo Neumann on Friday, April 6, 1923. Bro. Al Day, chairman of the executive board. presided and the meeting lost no time in getting down to business.

President Guy Blakeley, wearing the highest and stiffest collar on record (the No-man's collar made famous in the case of Skink-vs-Gump) took the floor and kept it most of the evening. Tall and erect, with his six feet some odd inches of man and four inches of collar, Bro. Blakeley started out by introducing a motion to make the initiation fee for the Michigan Broker Division $10 instead of $5 as heretofore. in order to conform with the fee charged in other divisions. After a general discussion, during which the motion was amended to be passed on by a majority vote of the members and take effect in 30 days, the resolution was passed without a dissenting vote.

Bro. McElroy brought up a resolution to appoint a committee of three to investigate the matter of operators working two jobs and this started an interesting discussion which took up most of the evening and which grew warmer all the while. No sooner had the motion been supported than the honorable president was on his feet and at them. Bro. Blakeley cited the complaint that has come to us from some of the unionized press men that broker men are working extra at the I. N. S., Universal and elsewhere and making it difficult and well nigh impossible for extra press operators to make a living.

Bros. Neumann, Sherman and Alband were appointed by the chair to form a committee to look into the matter as well as the extra work being done around the Associated Press, which is reported to have changed its unfriendly attitude towards the union to one of a more passive nature, due to the fact that there is a shortage of high class men and most of the good men belong to the union. Chairman Day spoke at length on the subject and when he concluded it was the opinion of most of the members present that extra work done at either press associations or commercial companies by broker men was a detriment both to the men themselves and to the telegraph profession and should be discouraged in all ways possible and only practiced when necessary to protect contracts of a friendly association.

President Blakeley, Bro. McElroy and Bro. Leary were elected a Committee of three to arrange for our banquet and meeting on May 5. An invitation has been extended to the international officers and others to be present at this dinner.

Before adjourning a vote of thanks and appreciation was voted Bro. and Mrs. Neumann for the privilege of meeting in their home, and for the very nice luncheon served after the meeting.

A resolution of sympathy and condolence was voted to be extended to Bro. John H. (Hy) Lee at the meeting April 6, 1923, on the death of his mother in Kansas City.

Bro. Tom Baird relieved Bro. Lee at Harriman & Co. during his absence.

Bro. Joe McElroy took a few days off over Easter to visit his family in Zanesville, O. Bro. H. J. Nadeau took charge of the trading dept. at the Fletcher American Co., during Bro. McElroy's absence and Bro. Al Day filled in on the wire.

Among the young, good-looking and talented new members we have taken in this year let me mention Bro. Lloyd Barber with Redmond & Co. Detroit; A. W. Roby, with MacCrone & Co. Flint, and Frank O'Rourke, John Bogan and Henry Burghardt, with MacCrone & Co. Detroit, and Edw. Nadeau, with Hamlin, Kay & Nathan. Ed has something on the rest of them with his Charley Chaplin mustache.

Bro. Bob Score up in Saginaw with Mac-Crone & Co., has been buried all winter. but we hope he will be able to get into the city soon to meet a lot of his friends who have been waiting to buy him a drink.

Bro. C. E. Brower switched from K. N. & K. over to Jones & Baker the first of April to relieve Bro. Don Fiedler, resigned.

Bro. Don Fiedler is going into the real estate business as is also Bro. Al Day, the latter combining his efforts to sell subdivisions and Durant's Star cars. Good luck to you, boys, go ahead and sell the world, but don't go short as they may cover you before you can cover.

Bro. Joe Wick at Paine Webber & Co., with his famous smile looks as young as ever, says he don't worry, smokes little, drinks less and gets in the hay by 9 p. m. every night and is going to live to be 100 before his hair turns gray.

Bro. Bill Balmes at J. S. Bache & Co. has the old flivver running in good shape and gets home from work every night before dark. He has to do that or carry a lantern as the lights on his Ford have a habit of going out after night-fail.

Bro. Sherman with the First National of Boston has been very successful dodging passengers trains with his new Chevrolet sedan. They are still looking for his last car which got in the road of a fast railroad train and was annihilated. All the injury Sherm sustained was a scratch on the bean from the dome light as he went over the top.

Has anyone seen Bro. Pete Casey (Member Since Organised). We have been trying to catch him to take his picture for the Journal.

Bro. Frank Alband is sporting around a new model Reo closed car and is all stuck up on himself. We never will be able to stop him now (if he drives like he talks).

We received a communication from Bro. John Dugan last week in which he states he is making a living by hitting the ball around the I. N. S. and Universal, meanwhile keeping his eye open for a nice broker job (not to pay less than $100 per week).

Bro. Dennis J. Allison at Whittlesey Mc-Lean Co. on A. A. Housman's wire is planning on going back to the country after 20 years absence. Thinks he will move out in the suburbs where the world is softer, so to speak, in the spring. Clark, Childs & Co. have opened their own office in the Penobscot Bldg. with Bro. Bogus (who has been with Slaughter, et al. for the last half century) on the order wire. Welcome to our midst, old timer, come out with us and be one of the boys.

We beg to advise that the Michigan Broker Division has never been anywhere near as strong, either in membership or financially, as it is at the present time. We have a nice little bank account all saved up with more coming. We have taken in 7 or 8 additional members and have all the boys up to date and we won't let anyone get delinquent unless he has cashed in on the funeral benefit.

May 5th, we plan to hold a banquet at which we want to get the boys from out in the state and all the new members together and have invited the honorable international president and secretary-treasurer to be present if possible be present if possible.

Remember, boys, we have two more invitations out to little house parties for our next two meetings and after that will come our big picnic and all the boys with their new cars will come out strong to help with the transportation problem, and those with old cars can give them a good wash and do just as well.

Well Ash-can—So long for this month, see you again. Got to get busy and sign up three more nice boys.

Mike Nadeau.

HIS MASTER'S VOICE

"Let's make it (the A. W. E.) one our MASTER can be proud to look upon."—
"President" J. L. Bower, Nashville Assembly No. 45, A. W. E.

OHIO BROKER DIVISION

The April meeting of the Ohio Broker Division was well attended, and proved to be the most interesting we have had for months. Debates over various matters were productive of some very good oratorical outbursts, and so great was the interest of the members in these debates that we almost forgot to adjourn. Three applications were presented, one of which was rejected because of the fact that the applicant had been proven guilty of seeking positions secured by union members, at a greatly reduced salary.

The result of the balloting on the constitution and by-laws for the Division was tabulated and the announcement made that they had been adopted practically unanimously. These by-laws are very similar to those of the Eastern Broker Division.

The meeting time was changed from Saturday afternoons to 4 p. m. the first Friday of each month. This was done to allow members to enjoy the Saturday half-holiday at their favorite occupation—whatever it may be.

The meetings will be held at the same place as at present—in one of the rooms of G. F. Redmond & Co., Leader News Building. A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. F. W. Blaisdell, manager of Redmond & Co., for his splendid co-operation with the local union, and for his offer of the use of one of his rooms for meetings.

H. J. Kleinman, manager of L. L. Winkelman & Co., spent Easter in New York with old friends.

Fred W. Agnew's daughter, Winnie, is just recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

George T. Hattie of Jones and Baker is the proud step-father of a brand new Chevrolet sedan. Friends of George's down in Canton presented him with an exquisite vanity case, but the dashboard being already filled with the latest handy appliances, there wasn't a spot on which to park it, so George still carries the Mail Pouch in his hip pocket.

John G. Adams, "Broker Jack," having successfully terminated two leased wires, has installed and parked himself in the offices of Randolph Y. McCray, 504 Discount Building. McCray has an elegantly equipped new office and be it known he deals with none but union men. He tells us he is as afraid of a non-union man as we are of this wildcat likker that's doing such terrible damage.

R. G. Salisbury of Redmond & Co. is sporting a new Studebaker sedan. All the elevator boys now say "Mistah Sallsberry" instead of "mornin' Bob."

Harry Kope had an unique experience while enroute from Bass Lake to Cleveland recently. His car mired in a mudhole. He hired a farmer to pull him out with his team, explaining he was in a hurry. "No need to hurry," the farmer told Harry. "When you get out of this one, there's a few more down the road you will get into."

C. V. Alexander came to the meeting with as pretty a raincoat as you ever saw. He hung it over some steam heating lines. When he started home, instead of a one piece coat the pieces numbered about ten. What Alex said caused a porter to roll down the stairway to the second landing.

To the Membership of Canadian Marconi Wireless System, Div. No. 59:

It has been suggested that our "Agreement" be printed in book form so that each and every member may become possessed of the same and have it readily available at all times for reference.

I am in complete accord with this suggestion, but believe that such booklet should be coupled with a re-print of the System-Division's by-laws, along the lines adopted when the 1922 issue of our by-laws was prepared.

It will be recognized by those who take sufficient interest in matters pertaining to the good of the union, that some changes are necessary and to an extent vitally so, in the by-laws, before we can feel that existing conditions and requirements are adequately covered and provided for.

The peculiar conditions confronting us at all times in the matter of securing the voice and vote of the membership, are vividly in evidence when one reads Article 5, Clause A, of the by-laws, and when it is realized that what has to be done must be done quickly so that our time and attention will be available for matters which, if neglected, may easily enough render a stack of elaborately worded and clearly defined by-laws useless except as so much waste paper.

The taking of a referendum vote on the amending of the by-laws in certain respects is, out of sheer impossibility, not to be considered, but what changes are deemed desirable by the writer will be put before the membership in the only possible way open to us, viz., through the Journal, and ample time will be allowed for the filing of any objections to the proposed amendments before same will be considered as acceptable to the membership and before printing.

The writer has gone very carefully and minutely through the existing by-laws, and believes that he has in his proposed amendments covered the ground sufficiently to bring about such changes in the by-laws as are necessary to enable the Division to function satisfactorily throughout the current year.

A few drastic changes have been suggested, as certain articles or clauses of articles have become obsolete, and experience has clearly demonstrated that to comply with such items was impossible.

An attempt has been made to so amend the by-laws that nothing in the way of regulations, etc., will appear therein that cannot be lived up to, and this is practically my sole desire in urging that certain changes be effected.

It is assumed that every 1922 card-holder is in possession of a copy of last year's by-laws. The writer has on hand a small number of these and one will be mailed to any member requesting same.

It is necessary that you have one of the 1922 issues so that you can intelligently consider the proposed amendments, as only the suggested changes will appear in the Journal.

Elsewhere in the Radio Department of this issue will be found "Proposed Amendments to By-laws," and having studied them, you are urged to consider them as in the best interests of the Division, and accept them by not filing objection, but all objections will be courteously received, even if not welcomed, and full consideration will be given them by the General Committee, and if their receipt justifies modification in the amendments as proposed, such modification will be effected.

Objections should be filed without delay and suggestions tending to facilitate matters should accompany such objections. The gist of everything received will be sent by the writer to the several sub-division chairmen, so that matter received from the membership may be considered by the chairmen and by the meetings which will be held during the opening season.

Chairmen are asked to communicate to the General Chairman the result of deliberations without needless delay, thus materially assisting the General Secretary-Treasurer and myself in hurrying forward the printing and distribution of the combined "Agreement" and By-laws booklet.

Your energetic and generous assistance is solicited in this matter.

When things get moving and we are again in harness, we need our booklet in our pockets and not in the press or in the making.

F. CUTHBERT ALLEN, General Chairman.

GREAT LAKES BRIEFS

Completely overhauled from engines to paint, the Str. Dalhousie City (VEA), with Bro. Baldwin aboard, nosed her way through six inches of ice in Toronto bay on March 29th, marking the opening of navigation for the season of 1928.

Considerable delay was experienced in passing through the Welland Canal, as ice had to be broken all the way. Ice was also encountered for some ten miles out of Port Dalhousie, but beyond that, clear water made the going easy until ice was again met with some three miles outside the western channel.

The tug G. R. Geary (Capt. F. Cook) had been employed all morning keeping a channel open through Toronto Bay.

Commander J. F. Marigold of the Dalhousie City was waited upon by Deputy Harbor Master Allen and a gathering of representative citizens who congratulated him upon winning the silk tile, which is presented each year to the captain making the first trip.

Brother C. J. Prance, one of our Charter Members, and a pioneer in the establishing of Division 59, has severed his connection with Marconi and has prospects of a successful future in the electrical field.

We are sorry to lose you, Charlie, but your worth as a worker coupled with your upright character will, we know, assure your future success. Congratulations on having secured your I. C. S. diploma.

Another Charter member in the person of Brother R. B. Booth has also left the service, and our earnest hopes are that the future holds for him success in whatever line he may decide to follow.

Brother Soares of the Eastern sub-division was a welcome visitor to Toronto, following his return to Canada from California and the southern States where he had been spending an extended holiday.

Many and big changes have been the order since our new General Manager took office. One is glad to learn of the advancement that has been given to our worthy and well-liked accountant, Mr. Underwood. Here's hoping that his new office of Comptroller may be to him, everything that he and those who know him best could wish for.

Brother V. H. Soares, Local Chairman Eastern Sub-Division, was the guest of the General Chairman F. C. Allen at Toronto Island and several days were spent in shaping the affairs of the Eastern local which are now in ship-shape order, and the satisfactory functioning of this local assured. A capable and willing local committee

A capable and willing local committee has been appointed, and the final draft of the personnel of the Grievance body will, it is anticipated, be placed before the Eastern membership in the May issue of the Journal.

As a safeguard against the possibility of non-appearance in this issue as called for in Art. 14, Clause B, of By-laws, of the "Call for nominations," it is announced that:—

Election of Delegates to the General

Assembly

The General Committee have decided that ONE delegate shall be elected, and nominations are now in order and should be sent direct to the General Secretary-Treasurer, 71 Balmoral Avenue, Toronto, Ont. Your attention is called to Clause D of Article 14. Nomination blanks are NOT being sent out. Nominations close on May 31st. CERT. 1.

Proposed Amendments to By-Laws of System Division No. 59

Art. 2—Amend by inserting after the word "Wireless" the word "Telegraph."

Art. 3—Amend by eliminating the last four words, and by inserting after the word "Chairman," the word "and."

Art. 4—Amend by eliminating the final four words, and by inserting after the word "Chairman," the word "and," and by making this Clause A.

Further amend by addition of new clause "B" reading:—

Clause B—The General Secretary-Treasurer shall not be a member of the General Committee."

Art. 5.—Amend by substituting the following:—

"Clause A.—It may enact such by-laws as it may deem necessary in the interests of the membership, and subsequent contemplated changes in, or amendments to said by-laws shall be placed before the membership in the January issue of the Journal."

Further amend by insertion of three new clauses vis. B, C, and D, as follows:—

Clause B—Changes in the by-laws shall be made only during the month of March, and all proposals having for their object the amending of said by-laws shall be in possession of the General Secretary-Treasurer not later than December 15th.

Clause C—Objections to proposed amendments must be filed with the General Secretary-Treasurer on or before February 15th.

Clause D—All amendments are subject to approval by International President before final ratification and adoption.

Further amend this Article by making present clauses b, c, d, e, f, g, h, read:—

e, f, g, h, i, j, k.

Art. 6—Clause D. Amend by inserting after the words "consent of" the words "a majority of." Further amend this clause by inserting the words, "or chairmen" after the words "such secretaries."

Art. 7—Clause A. Amend by inserting

Art. 7—Clause A. Amend by inserting after the words "he shall submit to" the words "the General Chairman and to."

Clause E. Amend by erasing the words "Radio Editor."

Further amend this Article by adding a new clause (Clause H) reading:—

Clause H. "He shall without delay, advise the proper local secretary of dues, foes, etc., received by himself direct or via any medium other than the local secretary proper to the member concerned, said advice having reference only to such moneys as would ordinarily pass through the office of the local secretary.

Eliminate Article 9 in its entirety, calling existing Article 10, Article 9, and so on through the sequence.

Art. 11 (new Art. 10)—Clause A. Amend by making it read at the end:—"sub-division secretaries, the General Secretary-Treasurer, and the General Chairman"

Art. 18 (new Art. 12)—Amend Clause C by erasing the words "the Radio Editor." Further amend by placing a period after the word "large" and by reading the word

"providing" as "provided."

Further amend by addition of new sentence reading:—"Provided further that such nominees have received the nominations of at least three members holding up-to-date cards."

Further amend by adding new clause reading:—

Clause D.—"Officers functioning on the General, local, or other committees shall not, ipso facto, be excluded from holding office on the Grievance Committee." Eliminate the existing clause.

Amend Clause G by reading in place "as per Art. 13, Clause J" and by adding the words "and such count shall be made on October 1st or as soon thereafter as possible."

Further amend Art. 13 (new Art. 12), Clause I, by substituting therefor the following: —

Clause I—"No member shall hold two offices on the General Committee, and if nominated to two such offices he shall choose one office for the purpose of the ballot. Provided, however, that a member holding office on the General Committee may, for the sake of convenience, accept a second office pro tem should such second office be or become, from any cause, vacant.

Art. 14 (New Art. 13)—Amend Clause D by making it read in place:—"nominees in complete good standing for at least one year directly previous to the next convening of the General Assembly who have received the nominations of at least three members holding current Annual Cards, and who have signified, etc."

Amend Clause G by substituting the word "shall" for the word "will" in each of three cases where "will" occurs.

Amend Clause I by eliminating the word "any" after the word "take."

Amend Clause K by eliminating the words "and the Radio Editor."

Further amend Clause K by erasing the last sentence and substituting therefor the following:—"He shall cause to be published in the August issue of the Journal, the name (s) of the elected delegate (s).

Art. 15 (New Art. 14)—Amend Clause C by erasing the words "Radio Editor who will cause such result to appear in the."

Art. 16 (New Art. 15)—Amend Clause C by inserting after the words "seasonal service, and to" the word "compulsorily."

Amend Clause E by making it read in place:—"outlined in Art. 13, clauses F, G, and H.

Art. 18. (New Art. 17)—Amend by addition of new clause "C" reading:—

Clause C. Amendments to the Seniority List will be published in the Journal immediately following their receipt."

Amend Clause C by making it read in place "vote shall in so far as is practicable, be in accord with the procedure and laws outlined in Article 13, Clauses F, G, and

Amend Clause D by making it read in place. "cannot be again submitted within the year."

Respectfully submitted, F. CUTHBERT ALLEN. Genl. Chmn., Div. 59.

PRESS DIVISION NEWS

UNITED PRESS

Kansas City-Texas Circuit

Spring is coming by leaps and bounds and vacations will soon be in order. Understand several of the "brothers" out scouting for available subs to get an early start.

Sorry to lose our old sidekick, "Bill Young" at AK, but to use Bill's famous words: "There's no place like home—Texas." Bill left the service and is with the Universal at Wichita Falls, TEXAS. Sorry to see you go, Bill but good luck in your new surroundings.

Brother T. W. Oliver, lately with the Southern Pacific at Beaumont, relieved Bill at "AK" and from all indications will be assigned there regular, as no extra men on waiting list and no bids for vacancy. Welcome to our ranks, brother, and here's hoping you like your new "company."

"Big Boy" Spencer, the stud-poker shark, is still at Sapulpa, and the "fiaps" musta convinced him that Oklahoma is SOME STATE. About the only time we hear him is "GM and GN."

The well wishes of the "gang" are extended to Brothers Meek at Wichita and Baugh at "AN" for a speedy recovery. Meeks at "WB" is down with a light attack of "pnu" and Bau with a bad attack of the "fiu." Both, we hope. will be back and feeling fine before this leaves the press.

Business is "booming" and its very seldom nowadays that a pressman comes around looking for a "sine." Whenever one does show up, if he's got the "goods," we nearly always are able to take care of him. The whole country is in the throes of a "general boom" and we look for good times for a long time.

Day by day, in every way, Huck must be gettin' better 'n better—playing golf we mean—and he's figuring on challenging "Gene" Sarazan or some of the other "big boys" for the title.

"Max" Depew, the little "hustlin' bureau manager" at Houston, made a "one day" trip to the big city, and says he can stand to stay down in the swamps another six months. How does he get thata-way?

Chicago-South

Yes, we still have Brother Veitch at GX—The Great Lizzy expert. He admits a Ford is good but not as good as an Essex.

Brother Patrick Kerrigan, recently of the St. Louis Star, left our midst for California, after being displaced by Brother Frayne on account of moving the bureau there.

The St. Louis outfit had a little get together meeting and wished Pat all kinds of good luck and wishes.

We hated to see you go, old "Pal," and hope to look upon your countenance soon again.

Brother "DAN" at HX is going to make vacation reliefs at Minneapolis this year. Whose the girl, Dan?

There is quite an epidemic of CALLS being lost lately, that is it seems that way when one or two break.

We should be thankful to Brother Derry for his efforts on the new by-laws.

Where has the interest in our organization gone? What's the trouble with you fellows? Come on let's put some pep in it and get in behind the committee before they go to NX this year and STAY there.

By this time you have all received your questionnaire and I hope have returned it filled out intelligently and decisively.

How many of you fellows have thought over the fact that the arbitration clause in our 1921 contract still holds good and that we are liable to have to put any controversy into arbitration unless it is taken out of the next contract? That is a hard fact to look in the face, but in substance it is the truth, and it MUST not appear in the next contract. If you failed to make any remarks about that subject on your questionnaire write your committee a letter and instruct them accordingly, unless you wish to kick in with some more coin for the "arbitration fund."

Let's have the bulletin clause put back in the contract, too. Brother Veitch lost a place at London, Ont., that he might have had if the position had been bulletined and placed open for bids, and the same thing is likely to happen to any of us unless we protect ourselves by forcing the bulletining of all vacancies.

Muncie came back "home" after straying into foreign fields a year ago. Brother Smith from St. Louis doing the heavy stuff there. Glad to have you with us, "Ros."

It's Brother Danaher doing the bug wiggling stunt on the HX end now. Dan relieved Brother Heeter who has the alternating job with Brother "Bill" Bohan. Sorry to lose you "Red" but you miss a helluva lot of wire trouble these days.

Someone said "Red" was figuring up how much of his check he could spend for gasoline now that he has an Essex, but something tells me he's figuring how many times he is going to get "pinched" for speeding to work and how much "Hissoner" is going to stick on "Gus!" Good luck, Red, but you better stay away from Indianapolis. Mayor Shank still has his lunacy commission for examination of speeders!

DALE & JIM.

San Francisco-South Circuit

Brother É. R. Coons died March 25th in San Francisco of pneumonia. His death was sudden and saddened the hearts of all the boys on the wire where he had worked for the past ten years. His last assignment with the United Press was the Bulletin, which discontinued service a few months ago. After doing relief work around the bay district for some time he finally landed with the United News and was employed at the San Francisco Journal until his death. He had been with the United Press since May 28, 1912, coming to the coast from New York. Funeral services were conducted by the Elks in San Francisco and the body shipped east.

Everything O. K. and regular at SX with Fen back on the job. Little Drew sat in while Jack took his regular winter vacation trip to the wilds of Russian river.

Moffett goes back at the old stand on the SF Journal for the U. N.

We're all sorry to see Bob leave us at RF. Only man who thoroughly understands how to bawl out a repeater chief.

W. E. Chrouch of San Diego is the latest arrival at Visalia. Nickels, Bivens and Barton each stayed a few weeks after the office opened.

It is absolutely essential that every man write Dobyns in accordance with Chalrman Hubbard's letter. These replies must be in this month without fail—and that means everybody. The address is L. B. Dobyns, Seattle Star.

L N. S. NOTES

Chicago-Southwest Circuit

This is a new circuit combining part of the old Chicago-Pacific Coast circuit with the Kansas City-Texas lease. Due to the cities of Omaha, Sioux City and Des Moines coming into our fold in the Morse, coast routing was changed via those points, doing away with the Kansas City relay as a consequence.

We have with us: John Whalen at Springfield, "Bobby" Flowers, (who by the way is better known as the "sage of the Mississippi"), on the St. Louis Star and McNutt on the Times; Goodfellow on the K. C. Star, MacClements on the Post and McCloskey on the Kansas City Kansan; Matthews at Topeka, Miller at Wichita, Holder at Tulas, James at Oklahoma City, Studehalter at Fort Worth, "Mike" Dwyer at Dallas, Creager at Houston and Brock at San Antonio.

When the "KX" relay was discontinued Bro. P. P. Jones, chief operator, instead of using his right to "bump" decided to try his hand at something outside the "game." Here's hoping you have all the luck in the world, "PJ."

Bro. M. U. Caul took a 90-day furlough when the lease at Enid terminated, due to the News going into the morning field.

CONSOLIDATED PRESS

Washington-South. Sunshine Circuit

"The Li'l Ol' Sunshine Circuit" is beaming with smiles these pretty sunshiny days when one's thoughts turn to fishing, baseball and other outdoor sports. And it can well be proud of something it has accomplished within the past month.

We may arouse your curiosity for the time being, but just be patient; we will not hold you in suspense for long. KEEP YOUR EYES AND EARS OPEN FOR AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT WITHIN THE NEAR FUTURE!

The Consolidated Press is making wonderful strides these days and is making a record daily in handling the report and especially on Friday nights, when the boys are anxious to get away early and snatch a few hours' sleep before returning Saturday morning. One Friday night recently our old sidekick, M. M. Williams, at Washington, who has been dubbed "Milk Maid," cleared the wire about 11:30 p. m., starting at 5 p. m., 30 minutes out for lunch, two short reliefs, a little delay, and disposed of over 15,000 words, and Washington has copies of the complete report as copied. CAN YOU BEAT IT?

The following Friday night the famous George Nolan pitched, getting a bad start in the first inning, but finished strong in the ninth, handling about the same number of words that Williams handled, and cleared the wire about 30 minutes later than Williams. George then proceeded to broadcast to the world that "It appears to me the report is considerably longer tonight than usual!" Both are to be congratulated on their splendid work.

I do not like to impose upon good nature and cause you much pain and still more misery for casting your weary eyes upon my story every month, so right here and now I propose to make a suggestion, request or demand that we be given something new every month in the Journal. So beginning with May (that is the month of May) we will rotate each month in sending in a story on the circuit, starting with Lewis at Harrisburg, then three write-ups from Washington, then "Granny" Gravely at Richmond, and so on down the line until we get to Morris at Birmingham, who will wind up with a corking good story. No alibis will be accepted and a fine of 999,999,999,999 marks (approximately 6 bits) will be imposed for failure to write your story. Also a prize will be given to the one writing the best story. The prize will be a life size picture of (UTX) McCarthy, entitled: "Though you are as homely as a kitchen sink, we love you still."

J. N. HANNA.

Notes Not Covered In The Associated Press Service Bulletin

El Heraldó de Mexico has abandoned The Associated Press service, and is now receiving a service from The Universal Service-International News, same being "made up" at San Antonio, Texas.

The Associated Press appears to be very unfortunate in connection with its correspondents at Mexico City.

In the past, two correspondents have been expelled from the country through the application of "article 33" which has to do with "pernicious foreigners inimical to the best interests of the country."

The latest application of article "33" occurred about the 20th. ulto., a new man being sent to relieve the unfortunate correspondent.

THE VIEWPOINT

PRESS TELEGRAPHERS ARE UNDERPAID

The writer lives and labors in a town of about 175,000 population.

Linotype operators here average $1.10 per hour for day work and $1.21 per hour for night work, with time and one-half for overtime. Top-notchers average $1.25 and $1.25 per hour for day and night work, respectively.

Broker operators here receive $50 and $55 per week and they don't work on holidays.

"Bonus" commercial operators easily average $10 in an eight-hour day.

Canadian press operators receive $5 more per week than American press operators, and they are advocating a minimum of $48.00 this year.

My scale is $42.50 per week of 48 hours. I get $8.50 for Saturday night work, which is overtime.

These figures are representative and show conclusively that press telegraphers are under-paid when compared with other telegraphers and workers in the newspaper industry.

When our representatives go to New York this year we want them to GET THAT RAISE.

We don't ask for more money merely because other groups of workers are paid higher wages; they deserve all they get. We want more money because the class of work we do justifies more compensation than we now receive. The press associations require first class press telegraphers; a first class press telegrapher must be an all-around high class man. A first class man should receive compensation accordingly. Our work is more nerve-racking, more confining and more injurious to health than any other work connected with the publication of a newspaper.

Do we work "bonus"? Emphatically we do.

Why should we labor for less wage than other first class telegraphers?

Union press telegraphers mean to get that long over-due raise THIS YEAR. Every man of us backs our committees to the extent of a cessation of work if necessary, to obtain that which is justly and rightfully ours.

A. P. men, what are you going to do?
—Certificate 368.

PRINTERS COME TO BAT

The lineup: 45 minute lunch.

Time and a half for overtime.

Double time for the five big holidays. The foregoing is a record for committeemen to shoot at. The men we have picked to represent us best will soon be in conference with the press managements. So we should air our injured feelings and voice our anticipations now and not after. Much-wanted opinions given now are worth a page full of them in two or three months after the carnival is all history.

I am a printer man and I believe I am getting "jipped" on my wages as we get paid today. A fellow who can chase off 16,000 words or so a day is worth more than $32.50 per. That is about as much as a Morse man will tick off and consider the load pretty heavy. The men on the printers, without exception, are "old timers" at their trade. They pride themers" at their trade. They pride them-selves on "perfect copy" as does a Morse man. They are as conscientious in their work; as unswerving in their loyalty to their brotherhood; dependable by their managements, as the key tickler. And they turn out the work in as satisfactory a manner as is humanly possible. This is attested to by the scores of printers used by the major press associations, commercial companies, banks and the larger business houses. The only fault with the printers is their mythical "economic menace" to which Morse operators need never They are with us to stay—as is fear. the key and sounder. When the men gather around the conference table to discuss pending perplexities, the printer man knows he will not be without the unanimous support he deserves in his fight for a substantial hoist in wages. COMMIT-TEEMEN TAKE NOTICE! !! We're going to watch the results inning by inning.

As for the other luxuries which top this spasm, you all have heard speeches on them before. The fact that we DESERVE them should be enough to fight for them. It is right that we have them, so therefore let's get them.

A SATIRE-GOATED BRICK

To all fellow CTUA members. Leased wire operators especially. Highly skilled and intelligent recipients of the princely weekly pay check. Oh, stoop shouldered and nerve shattered brother telegraphers. Talented operators of demoniacal high speed press circuits. Dwellers in luxurious apartments and owners of costly motor cars. Do you know that certain malcontents are attempting to bring about a change in the present delightful scheme of organized and respectable society?

Listen.

"Lenin's Agent, W. Z. Foster, Advocates Amalgamation and Labor Party."

It is even so. Is it not startling, this revelation? It is. It is proper at this contingency to register apprehension and view with alarm. Our national security is threatened, our property rights jeopardized. We are drifting rapidly toward atheism and free love. Foster's plan may lead to Bolshevism itself. Shed a tear, brothers.

We may as well face the facts. Journal has sounded a timely note of warning for our benefit. A warning of the dire peril that is imminent, in the form of a Labor Party. However, it is well to add a word or so, that we may fully realize the menace of radicalism that confronts us. Dreadful foreign boll weevils and agitators are attempting to gain control of our American Federation of Labor under whose protective wing we have enjoyed these forty years of unlimited prosperity and freedom from industrial strifethey are attempting to transform it into a Labor Party, electing workmen to places of authority in our national congress. This, Terrible. in a democracy.

They would amalgamate our 3,500 local trade unions into "one or more easily controlled industrial organizations," spelling destruction to the present beautiful individualism of our various craft unions. It is unnecessary to comment at length here on the ultimate result of such a policy in America. In England the Labor Party has elected to parliament 169 representatives. This is the foreign meace. Ponder deeply, brothers, remembering the while your free American birthright and your Gomperish conservatism.

It has been rumored that William Z. Foster is connected with Nikolai Lenin, premier of Working Class Russia. This in itself should be enough to convince you of his criminal tendencies. In Russia there has been a revolution, establishing a dictatorship of the workers.

A revolution does not necessarily involve great bloodshed—it involves a great change. That's the point. We telegraphers do not want a change, of course. In this land of unlimited opportunities we have enjoyed forty years of untold prosperity and freedom from industrial strife under the A. F. O. L. Of course there have been years when 5,000,000 or so men were unemployed, but you understand such a condition is a mere psychological economic phenomena. Merely psychological. We do not want our interests menaced by an economic revolution. It is not even nice and proper to talk of a revolution that is pending. Therefore I will constrain myself. But it is perfectly proper and permissible to talk of revolutions that occurred a great many years ago. This is done in the best society, around flag draped speakers' platforms, to the noisy accompaniment of fireworks. So if you must talk of a revolution wait until the Fourth Otherwise you may be thrown of July. into jail.

William Z. Foster, not being entirely respectable, could not be admitted to our circles. He espouses the cause of the I. W. W. and mingles freely with them. Rough, coarse working men, who wear hickory shirts and work with their hands. White collared and talented brother telegraphers, remember your position, and intelligence. Reflect that a few years ago these I. W. W. had the audacity to protest against our war. Our war for liberty. Fortunately the department of justice attended to them, sending these socalled political prisoners to socalled jails. Be it to the everlasting credit of our fiery leader, Samuel Gompers, that he approved their imprisonment. The world was being made safe for democracy.

Scattered parlor Communists, agitate for something different if you must. Agitate for Foster and the end of our delectable industrial system if you will. Some of you may go to Russia. But keep your hands off the A. F. O. L. and your literature out of the hands of our highly skilled and intelligent telegraphers.

"A $40 press job, a jug of bootleg, a loaf of 'drifted snow' bread and Samuel Gompers singing beside me—Ah, America were paradise enow."

B. H. DUNCAN, San Francisco.

THE WAILINGS OF A GROUCH, PERHAPS

Fellow union press telegraphers, isn't it about time a halt was called on these so-called revisions of the original Phillips Code Book? Did you ever see the union label in one of those alleged (revised) code books? If there is no union label in the copy of the code book you possess it is a mon-union product. Can you as a union man be consistent if you use the contents of a "scab" code book as a part of your day's work in a unionised press association service? Don't you really think, when you give this code subject mature consideration, that it is running to the extreme and bordering on fanaticism? Did you ever meet anyone who had completely memorised the original Walter Phillips Code Book? Isn't there enough code in the original book to satisfy all requirements in the course of a day's work on a press wire?

Permit me to quote just a few of the freak code revisions among many:

The original code for "owing to" is "abe;" the revised product is "ot," which has been used ever since the invention of the telegraph to mean "on time."

"Apc" was the first code for "on account of," but the non-union "stuff" changes it to "oac." Can you justify this alteration?

"Spk" has been the standard code for "speak" for all time in ordinary wire conversation, "Spq" is what the new would-be framers of code words would make it. Can you see any reason, when you apply common sense, for this revision, or the other two revisions previously quoted?

On what or whose authority are these so-called revisions published in non-union form? Shouldn't these "scab" code books be tabooed by all self-respecting union men?

Among many orders of excellence and merit issued by Superintendent of Telegraphs Lynch, of the United Press Associations, was one which stated, if my memory serves me correctly, "Only the original straight Phillips code is to be used in wire transmission." I hold no brief for Mr. Lynch but I must take this opportunity to congratulate him on his display of excellent judgment and rare good common horse sense in issuing such an ultimatum.

Perhaps a slight amplification of the original Phillips code in some respects by a committee of union press operators would be beneficial in the handling of a full leased wire report and, if such a revision is desired, may I humbly suggest that such a committee should be selected from among union operators of recognized judgment and ability actively employed by unionized press associations, and other unionized branches in the telegraph field where code is sanctioned, for the purpose of making any changes or alterations which may be deemed advisable in the original Phillips Code Book.

"Jim" Hosey, Mt. Carmel, Pa.

AMALGAMATION

The opening editorial in the March Journal was certainly a welcome sight as it will evoke more constructive thought upon the part of readers of the Journal than anything in these columns since the G. O. campaign several years back.

Because of this fact it is regrettable that several salient points were slightly "gummed up" by confusing three entirely different subjects, each of which, for the sake of clarity, should be analysed independently.

Viewed from the point of cold logic, it is difficult to see what the personal record, or source of financial backing, of some individual, or group of individuals for that matter, has to do with the desirability of a certain union tactic—amalgamation for instance.

In considering a given policy its merits or faults alone should influence our judgment and not the personality of the individuals advocating or condemning it.

Maybe it was the rank and file of the many units of the A. F. of L. which have declared for amaigamation, that are "demanding action for their gold." The "gold" in that case being the union dues patiently paid in during a period of years.

NEW EDITION OF PHILLIPS' CODE.

The April 1st, 1923, edition of Phillips' Code, which has been in course of production for some time past, is now ready for delivery. This edition is up to the minute. Every abbreviation agreed upon during the past five years will be found in this book and many of the words brought into use during the war, which are now obsolete, have been eliminated so that the work as it now stands can be relied upon as accurate and complete to date. Phillips' Code is a thoroughly tested code of abbreviations, arranged for telegraphic purposes and contemplating the rapid transmission of press reports; also widely used as an easily acquired method of shorthand. This edition contains about 700 additions to the older code and is indispensable to the operator who aspires to the standard of proficiency required by press associations, which includes a knowledge of Phillips' Code. Flexible cover, pocket size, 3½ inches wide by 6% inches in length, $1.25 per copy. Address orders and make remittances to Frank B. Powers, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago.

C. N. T. COMMITTEE MAKING PROGRESS

The General Committee of Canadian National Tolegraphs System, Division No. 43, which has been negotiating with the management of the Canadian National Telegraphs for nearly a month, has made considerable progress towards a new schedule. Results to date provide as follows:

Electrical installers scheduled, with an average wage increase of 38 per cent and a big improvement in working conditions.

An amendment providing for cumulative seniority.

The right to carry seniority into other departments.

The eight-hour day at one-man line offices, the ninth hour, if worked, to be paid for at pro rata overtime rates.

Relieving supervisors to be paid supervising wage when ten days' relief work in any one month is performed.

Better working conditions and rules for clerks.

The negotiations have been transferred from Toronto to Montreal and should be concluded within a few weeks.

The committee is composed of General Chairman E. J. Young, Montreal; Robt. I. Bradley, Winnipeg, and Thos. Taylor, Toronto. Vice President for Canada Paul F. Schnur is advising and assisting the committee and has been recognized as the representative of the C. T. U. A. in the negotiations.

A. P. INCREASE OF $5 REPORTED

Numerous reports from widely divergent points are to the effect that the Associated Press contemplates announcing a general increase of $5 per week to all its operators. Our information is that this increase will be announced by the time this issue of The Journal reaches its readers.

Previous to the increase of $7.50 per week secured by the union shop press committees in 1920, the Associated Press awaited the result of press negotiations before announcing an increase. In 1920, however, an increase of $5 was granted "with a string to it," just prior to press negotiations. Shortly thereafter another $2.50 was added to conform with the union scale.

This year it is evident the Associated Press again hopes to anticipate the results of the press negotiations in order that they may claim their increase was not based on union negotiations.

Whether the Associated Press anticipates or follows the lead of the union press associations makes little difference to our Associated Press members. They know what prompts the actors from behind the scenes, the C. T. U. A.

MORSE DAY MEMORIAL RESOLUTION

By Percy Thomas

The Master of All, said, "Let there be light," and gave man dominion over all created things, and

WHEREAS, Samuel Finlay Breese Morse, Nature's appointed genius, was first to subject the mysterious electric flame to the will and practical service of Man through his epoch-making discovery of the Telegraph in the Nineteenth Century, and

WHEREAS, This great Revelation broadened the concept of Man from the narrow mental and territorial ambit in which he had existed for ages, bringing nations and cities into proximate relationship, even as the Telephone now joins the office with the home, and

WHEREAS, Telegraphy—"What God hath wrought,"—has proven a mighty agent in breaking up the old order with its chattel slavery and divine right superstitions, and sowing the seed of a new and progressive civilization, wherein Truth and Justice, perfect and sure, shall bestow their blessings upon Man to assist in his material and spiritual elevation, Therefore be it.

RESOLVED, That a delegation of not less than five members of the Eastern Broker Division be constituted a committee who with other members of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, their families and friends, on Sunday, April 29th., at 3 p. m., repair to Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, and there place upon the grave of Samuel F. B. Morse, a wreath or other suitable floral tribute, and be it further RESOLVED, That invitations to be present on this occasion be extended to the Governor of the State of New York, the Mayor of Greater New York, to the Judiciary, to the Members of the Press, and to others who love Progress and the Public Good.

C. T. U. A. HONORS MEMORY OF SAMUEL F. B. MORSE, INVENTOR OF THE TELEGRAPH

The first annual memorial service of the Eastern Broker Division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America in honor of the memory of Samuel Finlay Breese Morse, inventor of the electric telegraph, was held on Sunday ,April 29th., instead of April 27th., the 132nd anniversary of his birth, at his grave in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The eulogy was delivered by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright, and addresses were made by Percy Thomas, deputy international president of the union, and Frank A. O'Sullivan, president of the Eastern Broker Division.

Bleecker Morse, great-great grandson of the inventor, and Richard W. Morse, a great grandson, of Rutherford, N. J., were present at the services, Master Morse laying a wreath upon the marble column which surmounts the grave. A telegram expressing regrets that he was unable to attend the exercises because of illness was received from the inventor's son, Edward Linn Morse, of Pittsfield, Mass. International President Roscoe H. Johnson wired his regrets. The invocation and benediction were delivered by the Rev. Howard J. Melish of the Holy Trinity Church, Brooklyn.

Brother Enright's Eulogy.

Commissioner Enright told of the remarkable achievements wrought by Morse's invention and related the trials experienced by the inventor before his invention was accepted.

"Samuel Morse," said Commissioner Enright, "was a versatile genius. He did not give his entire attention to art or scientific invention, for he was also profoundly interested in chemistry and especially in electro-galvanic experiments.

"Professor Morse first conceived the idea of the electric telegraph while a passenger on board the packet ship Scully on his way home from Europe in 1832 and before the end of that year a portion of the apparatus he had devised had been constructed in New York. But it was not until three years later that in his quarters at New York University, he demonstrated his invention, now known as the telegraph."

He then told how the first public exhibition of Morse's invention was given in 1837, after many bitter experiences and discouraging efforts to gain recognition of his instrument. Morse finally succeeded in gaining an appropriation from Congress for an experimental line between Washigton and Baltimore. After another long period of difficulties, the line was established and the first words: "What God hath wrought," were sent from the rooms of the United States Supreme Court in the capitol to Baltimore on May 24, 1844.

"I am reliably informed," said the Commissioner, "that this was not, in fact. the first message. The first message, it is claimed by responsible authority, was preserved and enshrined in a suitable place and now hangs on the walls of Butler Hall, at New York University. It reads: 'Attention: The universe, by republics and kingdoms right wheel.' This message was sent over a wire which ran from one classroom to another in the old building on Washington Square, which was once the home of New York University. Attached to the date and efficient transcription of the message in Butler Hall runs this legend: 'First public telegram in the world sent and recorded in New York University.'

"From that time forth Morse's electric telegraph was an assured success, but the inventor's reward was tardy and discouraging. This brave soul was constantly involved in legal difficulties to maintain his patent rights of discovery and, after long years of waiting, his tremendous services to the world were finally recognized and the number and character of the honors bestowed upon him for scientific discovery have never been equalled in the case of any American citizen or the citizen of any other country."

President O'Sullivan then read the following despatch from the son of the inventor:

"Pittsfield, Mass., April 28, 1923
"John A. Hickey, Sccretary,
"Eastern Broker Division,
"Broad st.,

"New York City.

"Bitterly disappointed that illness prevents my being present. Warmest greetings to all.

(Signed,)

"EDWARD LINN MORSE."

Many Notables Present.

Brother Percy Thomas, on behalf of the international union, thanked the large gathering for their presence at the ceremony, mentioning by name Commissioner of Police Richard E. Enright, Martin M. Dolphin, Assistant District Attorney, Bleecker and Richard W. Morse, relatives of the inventor; Rev. Howard J. Melish, Mr. H. W. Watrous, vice president, Messrs. C. C. Curran, secretary, and Francis Jones. treasurer, representing the Academy of Design; Mr. J. C. Hubbard, of the University of the City of New York; Brother Ralph W. Pope, honorary secretary of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and Brother Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor. He also thanked Brothers President O'Sullivan, Secretaries Hickey and Barrett. Committeemen Towne, Culver and Campbell and Dr. Joseph B. Weighert, for their fraternal efforts to do honor to the Father of Telegraph.

Brother Thomas then read a telegram from President Roscoe H. Johnson of the International union as follows:

"Chicago, Ill., April 27, 1923.

"Mr. J. A. Hickey, Scoretary-Treasurer,
"Eastern Broker Division,
"New York City.

"I deeply regret that a last moment emergency prevents my presence at the Morse Memorial services on Sunday under the auspices of Union telegraphers of New York City and vicinity. The spirit of the immortal Samuel F. B. Morse will look down with mingled pride and pleasure on the representative gathering at his burial place on this splendid occasion. Drawn together at this hallowed spot will be telegraphers who have perpetuated with dignity and honor the great profession which Professor Morse's shining genius originated and dedicated to the peoples of this world. Many of our country's greatest figures have used the fruits of this man's genius as stepping stones to the highest positions of honor and responsibility at the disposal of our people, our industries and our government. Were it humanly possible to engrave the roll of those distinguished telegraphers who pay tribute this day to Samuel F. B. Morse either in person or spirit, it would include scientists, inventors, divines, educators, soldiers and statesmen. Union telegraphers and their friends throughout the world join in paying deserved respect and honor to Professor Morse's undying fame.

"(Signed,)

"Roscoe H. Johnson, "International President Commercial Telegraphers Union of America." A resolution by Brother Fred W. Towne, adopted by the Division, calls for a memorial service annually and the placing of a bronze tablet on the grave of the great inventor.

Another resolution by the Eastern Broker Division petitions the convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, to be held next October in Montreal, to take action to bring about the observance of April 27 as "Morse Day" by telegraphers and others in English-speaking countries. It is suggested that the convention memorialize legislatures and other lawmaking bodies to this effect. Organizations of telegraphers and all interested in kindred vocations, and in the field of electric research, likewise will be requested to aid in the development of interest in Prof.

Morse's birthday.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES.

The sympathies of the officers and members of this Division are extended to Brother Edgar C. Slagle, in the loss of his mother; to Brother Frank Newman and Sister K. N. Stetson in the loss of their brother, Michael Newman. Mr. Newman, although not a telegrapher, was very active in the interests of the Union, and rendered valuable service to the strikers in 1907.

A baby girl arrived at the home of 3rother "Bill" Harrell on April 24th. We re pleased to learn that both mother and aby are doing well. Congratulations,

A double wedding took place in the ome of Brother "Harry" Pfeiffer on April 7th., when Harry's daughter and son tepped off. Kinda lonesome, Harry, but a did it yerself, didn't cher? Extend our ongratulations to the young folks. larry.

Brother "Jack" Frawley of the New ngland Broker Division dropped in to y "hello" on a recent visit to New York.

Come again, "Jack," our latch string is always out.

"Big Jack" Prendergast, well known among the fraternity of the Postal and W. U., died in New York on April 9th. Former Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston arranged through the Eastern Broker Division to have the body shipped to Boston for interment in the city of his birth.

Have you one of these individuals in your city? If so, what are you going to do when he loses his job and again applies for membership?

A Telegrapher I knew Sought a card, With a job in view.

In the course of time The card by the way, Brought him promotion And higher pay.

Then the hand from which He was glad to feed, He turned and bit When not in need. And like a traitor to his Land He joins the old non-union band, Until he needs a helping hand.

LOGAN AND BRYAN NOTES.

By Mike Connelly

A lunatic recently escaped from Mattawan and lo, one fine morning he made his appearance in the wire-room of Logan and Bryan, New York. Believing him to be a distinguished visitor, he was given carte-blanche. He roamed about the room for quite some time. Occasionally he was observed to make notes upon a writing pad and when he finally left he handed the writer the following, which is forwarded to the Journal, without comment:

Bro. Gaffney has invented a new elbow motion,

For shooting dots and dashes into the Pacific ocean.

Bro. Walsh is in soft, in fact is in Jake, MR's on a blind side, and can't even break.

Bro. Randall is hitting the ball now-a-days, Thinks Ed. Place will observe it and give him a raise.

Bro. Campbell has no more fault with his liver.

Hedged on his income tax and bought a new flivver.

That noise that you hear is not a Springsonnet,

Louie Darm done bought him a new Easter bonnet.

McInerney is chewing at the bit again, Pining no doubt for his trip up in Maine.

The worst job of all, Bro. Alton gets the notion.

Is "carrying the hod" from ocean to ocean.

O'Reilly is busy—searching everywhere, For bull-dope to put in the "Here and there."

Bro. O'Sullivan is fast getting onto, The combinations of the gink in Toronto.

Bro. Saunders is pining, very much forlorn,

He lost his drawing of "September morn."

Bro. Rubenstein—say that boy is no fool, He invented a drink the boys call "White Mule."

Joe Rosenberg too—wears a curl on his lip,

It's seldom he hasn't something good on his hip.

O'Malley, the proud bucko, is wid again,

Fills out the battery on a fast string GN.

Cummings and Swackheimer, weigh a ton,

If they ain't getting fatter—I'm a soul a-gun.

Maury Monnet is doing his stuff of late of The string that runs away down to Day ton.

Bro. Ed. Rowland to me has confessed, He likes to give "30" to the Canadian North-west.

Martie Band is raking the kale in bunches,

The Bank of Montreal even pays for his lunches.

Bro. Aarons is in an awful fix,
Gets the Morse all balled up with the WIX.

Ed. Place is away, but when he gets back, He'll have a few new "good ones" in his pack.

With these few lines I think I'll depart.

Lest someone should think I'm too doggone smart.

AN OPERATOR'S DREAM.

My valet was tired and late with my bath, His deft fingers were clumsy and crude. My breakfast was awful, the coffee was

I scarcely could help being rude,
My chauffeur had trouble with the motor.
As we sped through the parks and the Drive,

I would be late for the officers' meeting, 'Twould be over 'ere we could arrive. My secretary too, was delinquent, All her morning's work was undone, My over-night mail was a shambles, And I had to play golf at one.

My broker was very unreasonable,
Called me for a million or more;
It seemed everything was upsetting,
I was beginning to feel rather sore.
My trip to Europe must be postponed,
President Harding needed advice;
The Prime-Minister called to pay his respects,

I'm afraid I wasn't—well, nice.
Then, some one shook me by the shoulder,
"Hubby, dear it's a quarter to eight,"
I make a wild dash for the sub-way,
And get to work—just ten minutes late.

JACK O'CONNELL.

The above is a splendid likeness of Brother Jack O'Connell, prominent member of Local 16, N. Y., who recently signed up with E. W. Scripps, of Press Association fame, and owner of the steam yacht "Ohio," for an extended trip around the world.

Jack is a staunch union man and universally popular and aside from being a first class broker-operator, is one of the best wireless radio men on the maritime register. He is not only thoroughly equipped in wireless, but can stand before the compass as a full fledged navigator, having sailed on the S. S. Susquehanna to European ports and aboard the S. S. Huron to Argentina in that capacity. He was also wirelessman aboard J. P. Morgan's yacht "Corsair."

Leaving New York the "Ohio" touched at Jacksonville, Key West, Havana, Caracoa, Maracaibo and Columbia, thence through the Panama Canal to San Diego, Calif. From there O'Connell "O. S.'s" himself in Honolulu from whence the ship weighed anchor for Japan.

Bro. O'Connell wirelesses that the Chinese bandits passed him up as being too tough and that he is safe and sound.

MACKAY'S PROFITS $8,000,000

That the Mackay Companies' profits have averaged $8,000,000 annually, and have not fallen below $5,600,000 annually in any single year in the last ten years, is shown by an article in the Wall Street Journal, which is as follows:

"Commercial Cable Company earnings over the last ten years have averaged $8,000,000 annually. In no single year was the amount less than $5,600,000. Deducting $800,000 interest on the $20,000,000 bond issue and $2,000,000 dividends on the 4 per cent preferred stock of Mackay Companies would leave a balance of $6,200,000 annually available for the 412,000 shares of Mackay common, equal to an annual average of $12.50 a share.

"In 1897, when the $20,000,000 bonds were issued, Commercial Cable had 9,110 miles of cables and 118,000 miles of telegraph wire. The present system consists of 18,850 miles of cables and 272,000 miles of telegraph wire.

"Commercial Cable's valuation is placed in excess of $80,000,000. This company has no floating indebtedness and owns a large amount of the very highest grade liquid securities. Combined surplus after dividends over the last ten years must have been close to $28,000,000. It is remarkable that the Commercial Cable Company has made such pronounced growth in the last 25 years without any increase in funded debt.

"The Mackay Companies, the holding company of the Commercal Cable Company, does not make public its actual annual earnings, reporting only dividends and a little over received from subsidiaries. The Commercial Cable Company's $20,000,000 first mortgage a per cent bonds are due January 1, 2397. Recently a portion of these bonds was offered to the public. The last sale on the New York Stock Exchange was at 74½."

Died—E. T. Moore of New York, member since organized until retirement to private life in 1917. Among the fraternity he was well known as "Roxy" Moore and his host of friends will miss him.

In 1907 he worked hard for the boys. He was employed by the New York Herald for twenty years prior to his retirement. 00

FRANK H. KNAPPEN, M. S. O.

The Journal is pleased to present the likeness of Brother Frank H. Knappen, Peoria, Ill., on the cover page this month. To say he has been a "Member Since Organized" hardly does justice to Brother Knappen's record for quiet, persistent and never-ceasing activities in the C. T. U. A. "Knap," as he is best known on the United Press South circuit began his telegraphic career in 1892 at Omaha and in 1896 hired out with the "old United press" at Council Bluffs, Iowa, remaining ar. After two years with the A. Kansas City, he re-entered the one year. United Press (then the Scripps-McRae) and has been with them continuously since that time. With the decease of our beloved Brother M. J. Tobin of Toledo, Brother Knappen probably holds the record for continuous service with the United Press, whether on the news or operating staff. He has been at the Peoria Star since 1900.

Brother Knappen is a press telegrapher with few equals. The oldest man on his circuit would have a hard task to remember when the last break from "PR" was Copy-readers on the Peoria registered.

M. B. D. ANNUAL DINNER IS BIG SUCCESS

The annual dinner of the Michigan Broker Division held at the Addison Hotel, Detroit, on Saturday. May 5, was one of the biggest and most successful events for over a period of 10 years in Michigan. The largest number of broker men who have ever gotten together in Detroit were seated about the tables, arranged in the shape of a large letter M.

International President Roscoe H. Johnson and International Secretary Treasurer Frank B. Powers motored over from Chicago and favored the men with two of the finest speeches they have ever had the pleasure to hear in regard to matters of their own chosen profession. President Johnson in the first part of his discourse sent about 15,000 words which were so full of facts and figures that they would fill a single copy of the Journal. The honorable president was never in better trim and we do not believe he ever had a more eager and attentive audience than that which listened for two hours and then after a short relief, during which Bro. Powers sat in and crowded a full night's report into thirty minutes, the members called for more and President Johnson finished the night by coming back at them and giving them all they asked for in the way of information and counsel. There was not a man present who did not appreciate the talks to the fullest extent and who did not leave the table with more knowledge of and more enthusiasm for the great organization of their craft than they have ever known or felt before.

An Impressive Scene,

'Twas an impressive scene. Our stately President Blakeley at the center flanked on one side by International President Johnson and Chairman Al Day, on the other by International Secretary-Treasurer Powers and irrepressible "Mike" Nadeau, Secretary-Treasurer.

International President Johnson made a deep impression upon the Detroit membership. He outlined his policies with respect to various matters of importance to the fraternity, displayed a keen perception of the problems to be met and rare good judgment as to how to meet them. He disclaimed intent or power of oratory, but paradoxically gave a demonstration of spellbinding of a high order. Much food for thought was contained in his remarks and the membership will without doubt meditate upon them to advantage.

No less interesting were the remarks of Bro. Powers, who presented most encouraging statistics relative to finances, membership, prospects and hopes. Manly chests expanded when he disclosed the fact that the Detroiters, whom he described as pioneers since they were first to take advantage of the W. B. D. plan for separate charters, have gathered more members than any of the lesser broker divisions and proved the benefits of localized divisions for organization.

New Enthusiasm Engendered.

The determination to construct a strong body here and then step out and do things worth while received a strong impetus. The boys dispersed feeling grateful to President Blakeley for having promoted the banquet, grateful to the International officers for having attended and, in short they "wouldn't have missed it for anything."

One of the features of the dinner was the presence of seven operators from the firm of E. E. Mac('rone & Co., one of the largest brokerage houses in the state with offices in Flint, Saginaw, Jackson, Lansing and Grand Rapids. The total of nine operators employed by them in Detroit are all members of the Michigan Broker Division, having been added to our large and rapidly increasing family in the last year. Our old friend Brother Henry Burghardt spoke a few words of thanks and appreciation for all the nice things that were said about the boys from MacCrone & Co. It was really a MacCrone evening for this fine group of Morse men were everywhere in evidence and occupied one whole side of the hall. Having the men from out in the state on hand helped the spirits of the Detroit men a whole lot and made the affair a representative gathering of the Michigan Broker Division.

Six New Members Accepted.

Just to show the international executive officers how it is done here, the names of six prospective members were presented and accepted at the meeting, which puts our division at least 10 or 12 ahead of the other new broker divisions in membership and the boys are all worked up to make this the first division to organize up to 100% or as near there as is possible, and thus prove we were right in our contentions for the last few years that smaller and localized divisions that can really cover the field are winners.

The next meeting of the Michigan Division will be held Friday, June 1, at the residence of Brother H. E. Leary, 1151 Arillery ave., on his kind invitation. It will be the first anniversary of the new division.

BANQUET NOTES.

A sight for sore eyes was the handsome septette from MacCrone & Co. Headed by our old friend Henry Burghardt, Brothers Bogan, Thompson, O'Rourke of Detroit, Roby of Flint and Score of Saginaw, graced the occasion with their presence and if it be true that the face is the mirror of the soul, they enjoyed themselves.

Manager "Bill" Stokeley of the I. N. S. chaperoned by Frankie Alband, of Bennett Smith & Co., was another dis-tinguished guest whose presence was appreciated. Stoke was a trifle tardy but the handicap bothered him not at all. An expert with table tools, he overcame the handicap in short order.

Bill Headley, of the Chicago Tribune wire, pranced in with Brother Ristel of Redmond & Co. Assisted by Brother U. P., and Brother Sherman First National Corp. of Boston, they polished off their section of the table "to the Queen's taste."

Brother Leary, Otis & Co., scored one for his beloved Buick Six when, shortly before the call to chow was sounded, transportation was needed for a hurry-up Secretary Mike, ever obliging, hopped out after his shiny new Hupp coupe, but Henry being some hopper himself, beat him to it. Mike threatened to even the score by hauling our delegate to the Montreal convention, but Leary says inasmuch as we are going to qualify for two delegates, Mike's young coach will be too small to accommodate the mob.

Brother Chambers, the trader at Howe, Snow & Bertles, was there in all his splendor but left his side-kick, Brother Cox, somewhere and so the new member of the firm lost out on the biggest affair he will get a chance to attend for at least Brothers Bill Balmes, Hugo Neumann and H. E. Leary occupied the extreme left wing of the tables where they could get a look out at the wild women passing in the hall and at the famous Florentine room where a wicked shimmy shake was going on.

Brother Hy Lee sat over in a corner and said nothing, but from all appearances he copied most of the stuff sent. You never could accuse Hy of "dropping out" on anything, but he doesn't care t send.

Brother Joe Wick likewise said little u but he was wide-awake and smiling and it took everything in and enjoyed partis ularly the highball which Brother Al Day the chairman, put in right after th shrimp and consomme.

ū

Secretary-Treasurer Mike Nadeau of the M. B. D. was particularly irrepressible and followed his shot with six bottles ginger ale which were in danger of being neglected, then made six speeches all d which were ruled out of order. He save the day, however, by reporting the name of six new members who were passed of and accepted, as follows: Arthur Risell with Redmond & Co.; H. W. Turner with Merrill Lynch & Co.; Frank Garcsal with the Bankers Trust; J. Lamont Co. with Howe Snow & Bertles; Hugh D. Thompson, MacCrone & Co., Lansing and Harbarath Herbstreith, with the same firm at Jack

Brother John Baker was in evidence again sitting in with a lot of first class men on the right side of the table ner to Brother Cocky Brower, but we haven heard all of the discussion yet.

The committee on arrangements did good job all around. The boys were all in good spirits and oiled up in fine shape The whole evening went through without a rattle or a knock. Wonder what grade of oil Roscoe uses in his Chevrolet? must be a swell car if it runs as smooth as he talks.

The president and international secre tary-treasurer spent the night in Detroit in a swell apartment and left an early call for 7 a. m. Sunday when they started on the Dixie Highway for Cleveland, thence home.

Two Detroiters in particular found pleasure in greeting President Johnson One was Brother Turner of Merrill, Lynch & Co., who served with Capt. Roscoe In France, and the other Brother Neuman who met Capt. Ros for the first tim despite the tack that they have need "friends by wire" for a score of year or more.

Brother Bogan was delighted to lean the whereabouts from Brother Powers of old friends both had known in the old days at Duluth.

ANNUAL DANCE TO BE HELD JUNE 22nd, 1923

By Pres. R. H. McDaniel

On Friday evening, June 22nd, 1923, the Western Broker Division will hold their Annual Dance in the Rose Room of the Morrison Hotel, Corner of Clark and Madison Streets, Chicago, Ills.

A committee composed of J. G. Jones, Chairman, R. W. Goodale, Secretary, J. J. Murray, H. R. Sliverstein, Carl B. Bell and F. A. Carpenter have full charge of all arrangements.

For some time the Entertainment Committee has had under consideration the idea of giving a dance for the benefit of the membership and their many friends.

At the last regular meeting, held May 5th, Brother Jones, Chairman of the Entertainment Committee, addressed the meeting at length, and appealed to those present to vote in favor of this affair, as the outlook for it being a grand success at this time was very favorable.

Advertising space in our program is being subscribed for very generously. The last Entertainment and Dance given by this division in 1921 will long be remembered by those who attended, and your Committee will spare no effort in making this affair a banner one of our career.

We have been assured of the presence of International President Roscoe H. Johnson and International Secretary-Treasurer Frank B. Powers if press negotiations in New York do not conflict with the date.

We appeal to each and everyone to give every possible assistance and encouragement.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES.

The By-Laws Committee, consisting of President McDaniel, Secretary Goodale and Edward L. Boole, appointed at the last meeting of the General Executive Board of this division, are working on the new by-laws, and will have things in readiness to present to the membership at the next regular meeting, Saturday, May 19th, for their consideration.

Chief among the changes to be made as suggested by all members of the Executive Board is the changing of our regular meeting dates from the first and third Saturday to the first and third Friday of each month, so that our meetings might be better attended. It was also suggested that one meeting a month during the summer months would be advisable.

John H. Gibson

At the last regular meeting held on May 5th a resolution was unantmously adopted to place the name of Mrs. John H. Gibson, wife of deceased Brother John H. Gibson, on the Western Broker Division mailing list indefinitely sothat a copy of the Journal of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America be forwarded her each month.

Hearty congratulations are extended to Brother and Mrs. William Force of Lafayette, Ind., on the arrival of Richard Clayton. May the new son grow up to be his parent's pride and joy.

Among the new arrivals are Brothers Keener and McGuirk of the Eastern Broker Division. Welcome, brothers, welcome.

Brother Edward O'Grady is with the new firm of Ryer-Whitney & Co., Brother Jack Miller with Kopenhagen and Co.; Brother Adolph Schmidt with Penn-Tobin and Co., and Brother Harry Silverstein at Winton and Co. constitute the big four on the Royal circuit.

Dance tickets are available at headquarters. Call on our congenial secretary; he will gladly accommodate you with as many as you wish.

Brother Jack Murray, our Executive Board Chairman, astonished the multitude by securing one hundred of the paste boards to start with. He has a little system of his own when it comes to approaching and disposing.

Brother George Lawson waited for the arrival of the tickets from the printer without saying a word to anyone, and upon their arrival requested that he be allowed to purchase ticket bearing serial number one. George is always among the first to help promote anything for the welfare of our organization.

Brother Claude Reiter of Paine-Weber & Co., after being sick for a few days is back with us again. Glad to see you, Claude.

We regret to announce that Mrs. Clarence E. Baker, wife of our hard working Eddie of Los Angeles, has been ill, and sincerely hope that she has entirely recovered by this time.

Brother Harry Kirk is the new addition at Harriman & Co., and Brother Frank Neal at Chapin and Co., during vacations.

The officers and members of the Western Broker Division of Chicago wish to express our sincerest thanks to the officers and members of Sub-Division No. 2 of Milwaukee for their whole-hearted support and co-operation.

APPRECIATION.

Mr. R. H. McDaniel,

Pres., Western Broker Divn. C. T. U. A. Chicago.

It is with a heartfelt appreciation for the thoughtfulness and kindness shown me and mine in our great loss, by the members of the Western Broker Division that I write. I wish to thank you personally for attending to the Funeral Benefit check which I have received.

It is wonderful to know that such a sincere offer of assistance is always available.

As a favor will you please send me the Journal as a remembrance of the Western Broker Division. We had always enjoyed reading it together.

Thanking you again, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

MRS. MARIE GIBSON.

Regular mouthly meetings at Headquarters, last Monday in the month.

BY J. A. NEIMANT.

Now that the warm weather is here there is a decided lull in union activities. This is, of course, to be expected, but even so, it is not such a bad idea to say "Hello" now and then, especially once at monthly meeting times. If every one took as little active part in the affairs of our organization as some do, I wonder where we would be!

Vacations are coming, and the employment committee is wondering who is going to do the work. It is a problem, but a pleasant one to face; a very comfortable feeling too,-everybody working and more work in prospect than we can handle. All this speaks for the healthy condition of our division.

With the warm winds and grateful sunshine comes the youthful malady comemonly termed "spring-fever." It is a temptation to assume liberty we are not entitled to by our positions in society. It must be remembered that whether or not our employers are paying us what we consider a fair return for our services, the fact that we accept a position at any rate at all implies a contract between employer and employee. It is neither fair nor sportsmanlike to fail to fulfill your part of the contract by allowing yourself to be "taken" by the "fever" every so often. Furthermore, you can never tell when you may overdo a "good thing." If this has no personal application, disregard it!

REDMOND NOTES.

Of fourteen operators at Redmond's, a dozen are driving automobiles. The other two are driving bargains.

Neimant heads the list of high grade car owners with a very handsome Columbia Six, disc wheels and permanent needle.

Kingsley and Horgan have just acquired Fords, by what manner or means we don't know.

Henry Carmine Brennan has been absent for a week, the proud possessor of a crop of boils on his neck. He also has a flock of callouses (they are not on his neck.) He comes into conflict with the traffic gendarmes quite frequently. They allege speeding. Red says no, that he cannot get more than forty mah out of the Ford.

Meyer Lipkind has been enjoying a few days respite with his tonsilitis six. There are worse things than tonsilitis, small-pox is one.

Tommy Doherty disclaims any relationship with Attorney General Daugherty. Announces with evenemence that his clamis "wet" proper.

Coupla order clerks visited HQ recent-They had been seeking an invitation to join at whist. They were welcomed: plenty. When they left they couldn't givea blind man a prayer. Two young men from the hill country took them with promptness and dispatch.

Vacations commence June 1st. After that date human lives on the boulevards won't be worth a dime a dozen. For the ensuing two months all the Rickenbackers and De Palmas from Redmond's newly fledged with "owner's licenses," clutter up the highways in a most approved manner.

Pop Mullin does not drive a car. He is practicing driving a flock of sending machines that he owns. His three favorites are, "Straight, Place and Show." owns more Vibroplexes than Mueller owns macaroni.

Conducted by Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division 21

Meeting Date: Second Wednesday of Each Month at Union of Commerce Hall. 149 Berri St., Montreal.

-Organize---Co-operate--

Bro. Joe McKenna is making a two weeks' relief at McCuaig Bros. & Co.

Who was responsible for the auto-bus service out Ville La Salie way? How much was the rake-off, Vach?

Scene:-St. Urbain St. Time:—late evening, May first.

"Hey dere, where you got dem Cop: furniture?"

Eddie Weston and Hy Schrader, (easing several pieces of household furniture from their shoulders to the sidewalk): "We're just going up the street with it.

After about five minutes sending, punctuated by flerce gesticulations on the part of the cop, our genial chairman finally convinced him that they were peaceable citizens, merely helping Bro. Bill Hartley beat "the high cost of moving."

Bro. Blehr spends the lunch hour on the water front now. Wonder whether the attraction is, the boats or the captain's private locker. What say, Skip?

Bro. Eddie Cohen says that he has paid his last income tax. We'll see whether he is a prophet or not.

Bro. Whitaker has accepted an offer to officiate at the piano at the big smoker, May 12. Them's the kind to get.

Brissons Beach officially closed May 1st. Wonder where Bros. Hartley and Schraeder are swapping stories these cold afternoons.

Here's hoping the broker men will turn out to the smoker. Some are slow paying their dues and then they ask why we don't do this and that. Some day some of these birds will find their names stricken from the list and then it will cost them some money to get back into the fold and enjoy the good things that are coming to the men in the street with an up-to-date A little more co-operation and a botter attendance at the regular monthly meeting would go a long way toward keeping the pot boiling.

Bro. Scriver of Laidlaws has bought a new car. Understand the name is "June Bride." Bro. Long can supply answer.

TORONTO DISTRICT

Don't forget what to do when you hear of a vacancy. The employment committee members are:

W. H. Carlton, Adelaide 3273.

W. R. Watts, Main 6969.

J. H. Culkin, Main 6120.

T. J. Clark, Adelaide 2246.

Help us to help the boys who are out of work.

Three more members and three more promises this month. And, we are going to duplicate that in May. After July 1st we are going to put a list of the nons in the Journal if there are any left by that time.

We have one non who can see many a fault in the union. He talks about it a lot. He isn't trying to knock us, just try-ing to kid himself. Don't let him kid

Six leased wire jobs blew up in the last six weeks. Better see to it that your boss isn't holding out on you or you may be short of funds if you happen to be next. How about holidays? Better make your reservations early.

Vote for the ten dollar initiation and let's raise it again soon. The C. T. U. A. is a high class union and shouldn't have a penny ante initiation. There are no nons who haven't had ample opportunity to join before this and besides we can use the money.

We don't need a wire test, but we do need our slogan-No card, No favorswith a vengeance.

One Toronto firm who likes non-union labor had to get along without a wire one day recently, when their operator laid off. Occurrences of this kind are regrettable, but unavoidable if a firm retains an employee who thinks more of $16.00 a year than he does of his employer's interests.

Toronto District is working out a scheme to guarantee every member an income. It may be only $10.00 a week to start, but even that is better than nothing at all if you are out of work.

Sweet Daddy, our gang is sure stepping on the gas these days! Ninety percent since the first of the year and only ten nons on the street now and half of them awakening to our cause.

We welcome the following new members to our ranks: Miss Dorothy Parker, Bank of Nova Scotia; Miss C. M. Gilmore, Kerr, Fleming; A. Richardson and Geo. Flannery, J. G. Beaty and Co.; H. M. Sylvas, A. E. Ames and Co.; Gordon Cameron, Stoble Forlong and Co.; Freddy Davis, Bongard and Co.

How come we don't see our friend Mickey Mara at the meetings these days? Where is the poker game, Mickey? Better change the date and attend our meetings. They are snappy.

We are wondering where Bro. Don Cameron learned to play pool. On second thought I would say, is he ever going to learn to play pool?

We wonder why Bro. Bill Watts is so fond of Burnett's Dry?

Bro. Frank Sterling relieved Bro. Jim Culkin at the National City Co., when Jim attended the National City Co. banquet at Montreal. Some bunkquet, we hear.

Bro. Tom Clark has a grouch these days. That darn fool dog of Tom's.

We are glad to see Bro. Tom Askin back again after a hurry up call to his mother's bedside. Glad to say his mother is improving. Bro. Bill Strong relieved Tom at Johnson and Ward.

Bro. Frank Sterling also relieved Bro. Bill McCance at Laidlaws while Bill was laid up with a slight attack of "LaGrippe."

Glad to see you back, Bill.

Now that the bowling season is over, we are wondering what alibi Bro. Eddie Byrne will have for not attending the meetings?

We were glad to see Bro. C. L. Andrews at our last meeting. How come, Andy? Did Muirhead make her work late? Stuff-

Only ten nons left now. Let's go, gang, and get them lined up by the first of July. Our new by-laws have started to work very nicely and we owe a hearty vote of thanks to the CPR and CNT operators for their stand. A non-member wanted a relief the other day and could not get one. Attapitchin gang. N. C. N. F. is our slogan from now on. "To he who hath shall be given. From he who hath not shall be taken."

WESTERN DISTRICT

Local Sec'y-Treas. Mayfield is in the hospital again. We hope to see you back on

QUEBEC NOTES

What was probably the largest meeting ever held by the Quebec Council-Brokers. Press. CNT and CPR-took place on Sunday morning, April 15, under most sealous and ardent auspices. Never has the C. T. U. A. spirit exerted itself so enthusiastically in the old Rock City, as at present. Every member-brother and sister—is filled with a keen sense of duty and should a pet name be given the local council, "OPTIMISM" is the sobri-

Chairman O'Brien called the meeting to order at 10:30 and with Brother Watt "doing his stuff" with his secretarial pen, all old business was rapidly cleared up.

It was suggested that a program of entertainments be carried out, and that the "hop-off" be made with a dance. This proposal was heartily received, and a committee was instructed to go ahead with arrangements.

Before adjourning Chairman O'Brien read the result of the CPR referendum, which wrecks the hopes of the "Wreckers." The result of the vote was received with long and vociferous cheers.

"ENTRE-NOUS."

TWO NEW CABLES

Port Alberni, B. C.—Contracts have been placed by the Pacific Cable Board with the Telegraph Construction & Maintenance Company, of Greenwich, England, for two new cables totalling 1,860 miles in length, the first step in the policy of cable duplication across the Pacific, it was announced here today. The cables will be made and laid before the end of next August. One will run from Sydney to Southport, near Brisbane, in Queensland, and the other from Auckland, N. Z., to Suva, Fiji Islands.

A SNAPPY COMEBACK

The secretary had written to a brother that he had advanced the last payment for him and unless he came across with some coin, he would be suspended. The secretary received the following reply:

"Dere Seccyterry—I got your leter about what I owe you. Now be pachunt. I aint forget you. Plees wate. When sum fools pay me I pay you. If this wuz judgment day and you wuz no more prepaired to meet your Maker as I am to meet your account you sure would have to go to hel. Trusting you will do this, I am."

MILWAUKEE STILL ON THE BATTLE LINE DISTRICT COUNCIL NO. 2 RE-ESTABLISHED

Once more good old Milwaukee has come forward in a step that, we hope, may broaden and strengthen the scope of the C. T. U. A. in this locality.

On April 12th, a meeting was called by W. J. McMahon, member of the General Executive board, C. T. U. A., which brought together every member of the Western Broker Division and each press division member in the city, either in person or by proxy, and at this meeting it was unanimously voted to re-establish the district council.

Under commission as deputy international president, Bro. McMahon conducted the election on the same night, which resulted as follows: Chairman, District Council No. 2, Earl King, of the United Press; Vice-Lhairman, A. J. Callen, W. B. D., with Paine Webber & Co.; Secretary-Treasurer, John F. Konzal, W. B. D., with Pynchon and Co.; Delegate to the Federated Trades Council, Earl King; Chairman Publicity, L. Chambers, also on this committee, E. C. Cotter and A. J. Callen.

Let us note here, that every time the United States has declared war it has been in the month of APRIL—and it may be a significant fact that our start in the same month will ultimately result in a like outcome—for our Uncle Samuel has never been beaten.

That the above revival is already bearing fruit is seen in the formation of rival baseball teams by the press operators and the broker men. It is planned to hold a number of match games during the coming summer, for a nominal cash prize, the winners being allowed to donate the amount won to the district council treasury—or to W. B. D. Sub-Division, as the case may be. Practice starts Sunday, May 6th, at Lake Park Stadium, where all who can possibly come will participate.

Chairman King announces the following line up for the press:

J. S. McGowan...C

King .....P

Ben Grandall...SS
E. C. Cotter...RF

Bro. McMahon has picked the following broker ball tossers:

J. L. Partington.SS
A. J. Caller....1B
A. R. Truss....2B

M. B. Blau....3B
Oscar Schroeder.LF
A. G. Olson...RF
J. D. Bussey...CF

Coaches, Walsh and McMahon.

A "movie" of the first game of these braves might be a weird spectacle—and it might not—you never can tell.

Some of these old timers may surprise us by rounding into form and playing real ball.

Bro. DeWolf is to relieve J. S. Mc-Gowan at the Journal night trick soon. McGowan going on days. This is fortunate for the district council as it will give us another "wheel horse" at our meetings.

Bro. Truss is now established at The Federal Rubber Co., at Cudahy, Wis.

Now that he's working for a "Rubber" concern, we expect to see him "bound" into our meetings and resume his old time activity.

-W. J. McMahon.

ADVANCE IN WIRELESS

Stockholm.—A remarkable machine which automatically turns radio telegrams into secret code at the sending station, and transfers these messages into straight text at the receiving station, has been invented and is being tried out in Sweden, thus signalling another stride in the rapid advances made in wireless communication.

The new machine, called a cryptograph, in receiving the message as originally written by the sender and enciphering it mechanically, eliminates the human factor of the code clerk, who is liable to error, and avoids the delays which have been costly annoyances under the old systems. One of the purposes of this machine is to make the message undecipherable by those for whom it was not originally meant if picked up while in the air, thus helping materially in the solution of the crucial problem of secrecy for radio messages.

The cryptograph probably will be installed at the new high-powered radio station at Grimeton, near Gothenburg, Sweden, designed for service between Scandinavian countries and America, which will be ready for use before the end of the year.

W. M. A. B. D. NOTES

NOTICE—To all members of Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division, formerly the Pittsburgh Unit of the Eastern Broker Division:

This is to inform you that we will meet no longer at the old Lodge Room, third floor of 231-233 Fifth Ave., as the lessees of the building were compelled to give up the building owing to excessive raises in the rent.

We have secured Walton Hall, third floor, Room 304, No. 220 Stanwix St., Pittsburgh, Pa., for our meeting place.

Meetings at 2 p. m., every third Saturday until further notice. This also applies to District No. 6.

Yours fraternally,

C. P. McCUTCHEON.

See'y Treasurer W. M. A. B. D. and District No. 6.

Business on the street has quieted down and there is not much news. Bro. Patterson still with Masten and Co. Bro. Haw is also with that firm quoting to Bro. McDonnell at Parkersburg and Marietta, Ohio.

Bro. Fisher is now with Merriman and Co., Parkersburg having switched from Brast and Co. Bro. Ben Hall is also with this firm.

Bro. W. G. Flesher is at Wheeling for the same firm, switching from Parkersburg. There are rumors to the effect that a firm up the street is going to discontinue their grain business in a short time. There is talk of new firms coming to town but cannot be confirmed.

Charley Miller is with the A. P. and Bro. Bob Patterson helps the U. P. out on Saturday nights, relieving Bro. Owens.

Bro. Howard Hinman is with Jones and Baker, having joined us lately.

Harriman and Co., is an addition to the brokerage houses on the street. Messrs. Cooney and Sullivan are the operators.

Pennett and Co., recently opened up here. Sammy Allen is the assistant manager and Joe Otto the operator. Sam was formerly order clerk with Bell and Co., who discontinued business.

Bro. Brockschmidt is with Moore, Leonard and Lynch and that quartet of good ones, Colebrook, Inks, Freddy Moore and Paul McPike, keep things moving on the dux and grain.

Bro. Tommy Stunt is with Hardy, Dana and Co., Huntington, and Bro. Steve Aubrey at Charleston.

Bro. Frank McKenna is still with a sugar house here.

Bro. H. W. Reitz has announced his committees to help him to get things in shape to hold our annual ball, which will be held along in September. The boys will be notified in time and we hope for a repetition of our success at the Schenley Hotel a couple of years ago.

O. R. T. BANK FORMED

The new Telegraphers' National bank will be open for business in St. Louis about June 1. The capital has been subscribed by members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and four outsiders, who are to be directors, according to E. J. Manion, president of the order, who will be president of the bank.

Otto Grossrau, for many years connected with the Southside Trust Company, St. Louis, will be vice-president in charge of banking operations.

The bank will have a capital of $500,000 and a surplus of $100,000. Only a small amount of stock has been sold to the four outsiders who are to be directors. A charter is expected within the next sixty days from the U. S. comptroller of currency. The new bank will be a member of the federal reserve system.

BORING FROM WITHIN

In a communication to Socialists and Communists of Canada, Nicholas Bucharin, of the executive committee of the Communists Internationale, Moscow, states that he deems the attitude of the Workers' Party of Canada "as from time to time expressed to us, to be the correct one."

Bucharin instructs the Workers' Party to concentrate upon the trades union movement. "Especially we would urge in the future in the trades union that you continue with intensity the good work you have already started and apply yourselves to the extending of active party groups in every trade union branch and section, as being one of the most important tasks in preparing for coming victories," is his advice.

Now that the legislature has finished the session at Albany perhaps many of the local matters will be cleaned up on our city calendar. Of course, the one important matter is that of the members of Chapel No. I, which has been postponed from week to week on account of the important city bills pending at Albany.

With all our city officials back home we may hear something 'most any day. During the apparent dormancy of our case your committee has been constantly on the go, so rest assured nothing is being neglected.

There seems to be an inclination on the part of some employees of our bureau to go around the different offices and openly voice their opinion that "the dispatchers are hurting the other fellow's case."

While the charge, if we may call it that, is ambiguous we want to take this occasion to let the linemen and the members of all other classifications in the bureau know that the dispatchers are battling their claims standing squarely on their own feet, and we have not found it necessary to resort to any methods not absolutely above board. While in this vein we may also remark that the linemen, cable splicers and electricians do now receive the prevailing rates of their respective crafts and as far as we are concerned we were not aware that they still had any further claims pending.

As a matter of fact if some of those in the grades mentioned were anyway appreciative they must not forget the helping hand of dispatchers that were extended to them on many occasions when they were trying to "master their jobs." And they are still with us.

From data kindly furnished by our good friend, Mr. Frank H. Wyman on his return from one of his regular trips abroad we learn that during the year 1921 the London Fire Brigade responded to 7,855 calls.

It may be interesting to know that during the same period (1921) the New York Fire Department responded to 12,002 regular alarms, exclusive of 6,567 "special calls" for Engine and Hook and Ladder companies.

Added to the above 18,569 signals handled by the Fire Telegraph Dispatchers during 1921 we received and took care of the following calls:

Ambulance	267
Boat Tender
Borough Signal	503
Fuel Wagon
Insurance Patrol	82
Accident Signal
Battalion Chief
Water Tower
Men Without Appara
	83

In addition, received and transmitted 132,188 messages exclusive of telephone calls handled by the telephone operators and not pertaining to fires. Incidentally we supervised the inspection of 18,383 fire alarm box tests, not mentioning the various wire and instrument troubles which were looked after and properly corrected.

Since the issue of our last Journal many inquiries have been made of the "platform" as to the condition of our good friend Deputy Chief and Medical Officer Harry M. Archer, who was recently injured in an accident while responding to a "second alarm" in the new department ambulance.

The doctor sustained a fracture of the right forearm necessitating the arm being put in splints. We are happy to announce at this writing that the arm is on the mend and that the genial disposition which has made "HM" (that's what he "signs") beloved by all is ever present.

Among the high lights present at the retirement dinner tendered to Deputy Chief John Burns at Healy's on the evening of May 7th were four former New York Fire Commissioners; John H. O'Brien, Rhinelander Waldo, Robert Adamson and Joseph Johnson; and Brother Dispatchers W. A. Martin, W. S. Riordan, J. H. Collins, J. F. Seymour and J. J. Bresnan. Counting Commissioner Drennan, the commissioners and dispatchers just broke even.

OLD-TIME TELEGRAPHER IS GIVEN "THIRTY"

Just recently at Visalia, California, the telegrapher who taught Edison the Morse code and who was General U. S. Grant's operator during the Civil War, was given "30" by the State Railroad Commission.

He is J. C. Ward, who as an incident to his own business has handled messages for the Postal Telegraph Company at Visalia for nearly forty years. Upon his retirement the company closed its Visalia office after application to the Railroad Commission for the necessary permission.

Testifying before Examiner Myron Westover of the commission, Ward said that pride in being the oldest telegraph operator in the United States has kept him at the key until now. Failing health will compel him to retire.

He also told how he discovered the wizard Edison.

"It was at Mount Clemens, Mich.," Ward said. "That was just before the Civil War, and the Grand Trunk line was carrying Edison, a newsboy, through the town daily. Edison was 16 years old and I was 18. We became chums.

"Every time the train stopped at Mount Clemens, Edison would rush into my operating room and there, in the few minutes he had while the train took water, he would learn more of the Morse code. On the train he thumped out his practice on a car seat. Occasionally at other stations friendly operators would let him 'sit in' and call Mount Clemens for him."

Ward and the wizard formed a friendship that has lasted until today. They exchange letters frequently.

Although born in Alabama, Ward joined the Union forces in the Civil War and during the latter part of 1862 was attached to Grant's staff. At 1863 at Corinth, Miss., a shell struck the building in which he was operating, so injuring his hand that he could no longer work the key. He returned to Chicago.

When he could return to work, he journeyed by stage to San Francisco and went to work for the Postal at Sacramento, just after the Civil War. After adventuring in Alaska, the Canadian Rockies and Nevada, he settled at Visalia.

LEVIATHAN TO HAVE BIGGEST RADIO

Eclipsed only in importance by her powerful machinery and delicate controls the radio installation aboard the "Leviathan" which re-enters the trans-Atlantic service some time in June flying the United States Lines flag will be the most powerful and elaborate steamship radio equipment in the world.

U. S. STATIONS ABANDONED.

The U.S. navy department has decided to abandon virtually all of its radio service on the Great Lakes, with the exception of the radio-compass stations, and will shortly advertise eight wireless stations for sale. Lack of men and money to operate them led to the decision to abandon the plants.

The stations to be abandoned are located at Alpena, Mich., Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Duluth, Mackinac Island, Milwaukee and Manistique, Mich.

SENDER OF FIRST CABLE DEAD

Port Chester, N. Y.—Captain Robert H. Smith, sender of the first cablegram across the Atlantic Ocean, in 1866, for Cyrus W. Field, who laid the cable, died today at his home here, of a complication of aliments, at the age of 82. During the Civil War Captain Smith was for a time personal telegrapher for President Lincoln. He worked as a boy with Thomas A. Edison, in Boston. He invented several improvements in telegraph instruments.

Bro. Schnur in the Chair.

Letter dated February 7th, 1923, read by Allen. Address by Allen.

Discussion by Prance, Strachan and Allen.

Chairman Schnur gives his experiences of Allen since 1920 and points out to those present the proper line of procedure in case of "trust" or "distrust."

Moved by Skinner, seconded by Titus, that a vote of confidence in the form of a resolution be passed and that this resolution be spread across the minutes of this meeting. Carried unanimously.

"Be it resolved that those in attendance at this special meeting of the Great Lakes Sub-Division Can. Mar. W. S. Div. No. 59, held in the Prince George Hotel at Toronto, Ont. on April 19th, 1923, do declare that the charges of favouritism and consequent wrecking of our union, as alleged against our General Chairman, Bro. F. Cuthbert Allen, in connection with this administration, such charges having been made by former Brother W. A. Slack, are, in the estimation of this meeting, entirely unwarranted, and are not based on fact and truth.

"It is therefore resolved that this meeting extend to our General Chairman, Bro. Allen, its expression of our fullest appreciation of his unceasing and unbiased devotion to the duties which we have imposed upon him, and it is further

"Resolved, that this vote of appreciation and hearty thanks shall also be confirmed as one of implicit confidence in Bro. Allen as our chief executive officer within the unit."

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT WIRELESS DIVISION, NUMBER 65.

In February our retiring General Secretary called for nominations for the District Committee of the B. C. District of Division The number of nominations received coincided with the number of offices to be filled, and the following committeemen were declared by Brother Parkin to be elected by acclamation: Brothers G. Gray (District Chairman), W. Busswood, F. J. Hollis, and W. T. Burford (District Secre-The omission of our east coast brothers to form any kind of a committee for their own District has hitherto made it necessary for the B. C. District Committee to function as a General Committee also, and until our friends on the Atlantic put their house in order it is evident that this practice must continue. If, however, any member of the Division desires to suggest a name other than those of the two District officers for the General offices he is cordially invited to do so, and an election will be held forthwith; nominations for the General Chairmanship and General Secretaryship are hereby declared open. Neither of the District officers has any desire to usurp further authority, in fact they have both accepted their present offices with reluctance, and only for the present year. Volunteers for the position of Journal correspondent are called for. It was stated by our worthy predecessor, in the October issue, that "the production of notes is not all lavender," and it is, therefore, hoped that one of those brothers who have in the past been so helpful with advice in this direction will step forward and fill the breach—and the column.

Brother Parkin's retirement from the positions of General and District Secretary is felt by every member of the Division as a severe loss to our unit. In the organization of the Division three years ago and in the many activities that have occurred since then, Brother Parkin's influence has proportionate to the prodigious amount of hard work he has creditably performed. As our representative at Ottawa in 1921, and in the routine work before and since, he has consistently filled his office with distinction, and the fact that in this little unit of the C. T. U. A. there have never been any of those internal dissensions or personal animosities that have sometimes disturbed the affairs of other divisions, must be attributed mainly to Brother Parkin's singleness of purpose and unfailing good temper.

Brother Busswood, after a year in the blistering aridity of Victoria, has decided to return to the more humid atmosphere of Prince Rupert. Brother Jim Harker, on the other hand, who recently came from Cape Lazo, believes that he can bear the heat a little longer.

We do not believe that in equipment the Canadian Government Radio Service differs much from the average commercial radio concern. Improvements are constantly being made, and stations soon become encumbered with gear which rapidly gets improved on again and becomes antique. In fact, to step into the engine-room of the average commercial station is almost as difficult as to enter the third ante-chamber of Tutankhamen's tomb. One has to look for foot-room for fear of stepping on the But in mechanical conancient relics. veniences for the operator there is often much room for advance, and it is a proud commercial station that can boast of being as modern as a good amateur one. of our disgruntled accomplices sings the following:

They say there are stations quite modern, With less than one amp, through the key,

Where a bug may be used without getting fused-

CONSOLIDATED PRESS NOTES

Sunshine Circuit, Washington—South

Hail the Sunshine Circuit, loyal and This motto surely justifies the efficient. photographer risking his camera. You will note the handsome countenances of the personnel of the circuit upon which rain never falls to dampen the ardor of their loyal spirit.

Every day in every way the Consolidated is growing and growing.

M. M. Williams (sender par excellence). minus sombrero and chaps, has come to the effete East from the Yellowstone re-gion, while J. P. Wilson left the city of smoke and politicians out near the state line to join the force in DW. Thrice welcome, both. Washington relay now consists of Southern Trame Chief McCarthy and operators Williams, Nolan and Wilson. Occasionally Hoyer slips back to the key.

During a recent trip to Washington I spied two restless, suspicious looking characters near the Poison Ivy Restaurant, which is the gang's rendezvous. proved to be Nolan accompanied by Heher. Reports in circulation around Washington discount Mac's activities, but Hagerstown fails to confirm.

Can a kingpin Durant compete with a rejuvenated Ford? Gravely denies and Hanna insists. Anyhow, the new system of adding a Packard part here and there with a few drops of adrenalin in the carburetor now and then enables Hanna to keep right up with the rest of the owners of high-powered cars which never fail to bring the boys down at 7 A. M., sharp. J. W. Foster is holding down the hot spot at Lynchburg and is perfectly satisfied.

Kendrick at Roanoke is also sitting tight, but has a desire to feel the breeze of Florida and the swaying of palm trees. (When do we start service to Palm Beach?)

All owners of Oakland cars take notice! following bulletin garnered from the editorial department:

"The Zeigielf Cigar Stores Company here today announced they would give an Oakland engine for every one of their coupons issued within the last six months.

"A chassis may be obtained for the second coupon and a closed car body will be given with the next ten million. The chassis is that ordinarily used on an Oakland and the body is that made by Henry Ford, and approved by Fisher."

Someone in Dw owes Morris an apology. While one of the senders in Dw decided to add a supplement to Phillips' code by using A. A. (arms and ammunition), the line remained silent. Morris' patience was exhausted first and he reached for the button. Morris had been quiet for the entire week and evidently he was thinking of the American Automobile Association like the rest of us Ford owners.

Come on you good writers, Hanna is rewarding the best writer with 999,999,999,999,999 in marks or the equivalent of six bits at the near beer stand for the best story. If Morris wins he will make arrangements to clean out his hay loft and prepare for the shipment of marks from Atlanta.

UNITED PRESS NOTES

Due to the fact that 86 members voted on the insurance plan—78 in the affirmative—that matter will be held in abeyance for the present.

After the rate had been agreed upon and accepted by the members, the insurance company notified our committee that the "employer would have to pay at least a portion of the premium" on each policy. In the judgment of the committeemen, this proposition smacked too much of "company union" and the insurance company was so notified. We are now waiting to hear from the insurance company as to whether it will accept premiums to be paid by the members of our division.

Fraternally yours,

CHAS. E. SHEA, General Chairman.

Chicago-North

"Ad" Addison, the genial automatic operator at St. Paul, who sometimes sits in on the Morse, is on a 20-day leave, visiting his father in Chicago, and incidentally looking around for a peanut stand or other "vocation" whereby he can increase his income. Good luck, Ad.

Ben Grandall, Milwaukee, is now designated as a realtor. Ben recently sold a house at a nice profit, after having purchased it but a few months ago.

Ed Cotter, the "dean" of the circuit, is vacationing down in old West Virginny, where the "moon" is still $2 a gallon. Grandall moved over to the Bureau, while Earl Driscoll, late of the brokers, sits in at Vic Berger's Leader.

Frank Raydl says he's going to spend his vacation fishing around Eau Claire "Costs too much to visit Chicago," Frank says. When things "cost too much" for a bachelor, it sometimes indicates the acceptance of "further responsibilities." Foolish boy.

Mr. C. E. Shea, General Chairman,

I wish to thank United Press Division No. 47 for the kind message of sympathy I received at Iron Mountain, Mich., on the death of my mother, April 25th.

Fraternally yours,
HERBERT EDLUND,
Fond du Lac, Wis., May 14, 1923.

"Cyclone Circuit West"

Bro. C. C. O'Donnell, St. Louis Star, was recently elected to represent U. F. S. at the New York festival in July. Brothers Solt, Estep and Koppes also ran. Your correspondent believes the majority again has demonstrated its good judgment in electing "Bud."

Wire trouble, resulting from April's unseasonal blizzards, has caused numerous interruptions to the service. The A. T. & T. reported half their poles down between Milton, Wis., and Chicago, with 13 gangs repairing the damage. Other leads out of Chicago suffered. We are all glad to know the A. T. & T. are "a fit."

Bro. Earl King. erstwhile speed demon and general dispenser of "fine stuff" from NX and HX, on April 9 retired from active participation in frenzied finance, and since then has been rusticating at the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Bro. Mike Healey relieved King for a day on the east end at HX. Understand Mike tried to change the call, but met with objections from NX, who insisted profanity was not included in the contract.

Bro. Ros Smith, recently with the A. P., relieved Healey at HX, where he has been stopping 'em on the east end.

Bro. Bert Grimes has been serving a fine brand of stuff from HX during the past two weeks.

Judging by the difficulty experienced in securing and holding capable senders on financial jobs, there must be a "fly in the ointment." Suggest a substantial differential over news wires as a stimulant.

Bro. Hurd, Des Moines Capital, reports his Chandler hitting on all six. S. R. O., you blondes!

Bro. Bill McAuley, formerly of Kansas City relay, now with the Universal at St. Louis, recently relieved Bro. O'Donnell for two days while "Bud" visited his brother, who was reported seriously ill, at Monmouth, Ill. It seemed nice to hear Bill "kick in" after his long absence.

Bro. Hall, Dallas, is an ambitious cuss. Not satisfied with bucking wire trouble all winter, he now wishes to assume sending responsibilities at HX. Mebbe he cherishes a desire to make his successor suffer.

Brothers Ira and Joe Carley, Kansas City, KP and KZ, respectively, manage to keep the Southwest on the financial map. Those two are a good pair to draw to.

Daylight saving time became effective in the East on April 30, necessitating an earlier "show-up" for west-enders, who now sign up at "a. m., standard time, instead of 9 a. m. The change works a pleasing arrangement during the summer months.

Due to the fact that the east end failed to "come through" with any news items, this eruption of cyclonic dust is devoted exclusively to the west end.

Indiana Circuit

Vacations now seem to have the floor and the motor "bugs" of gasoline alley with their flivvers are sure going to burn up some of these paved roads around Illinois, according to all indications. The Ford-Essex fight continues for supremacy of the Alley! On with the dance, you redmen!!!

Cartmill takes his vacation May 14th. Back to the sticks for you, boy. Better look out for them that night-riders around Hoss Cave. They may think you are going to try to organize the Moonshiners into an independent organization and decide to "shine" you a triffe!

The United News got one of the Public Ledger clients when the smash-up came. Brother Sandberg from Noo Yawk is doing the heavy work at the Indianapolis Commercial.

Thanks to Bro. Alcorn for the notes. Kick in, fellows, it won't hurt any. If it does, maybe Bro. Kenney can get some of that Tell City "medicine" they sell at EV to fix you up.

John Alcorn at Terre Haute is coming out in the baseball world. In addition to having been elected manager of the fast Terre Haute Post team, he was recently elected secretary of the City league, in which the Post is entered.

We have with us Frank M. Dinghofer, at Sterling, who relieved Otto Becker, the latter going to Muncie to relieve Roscoe Smith, who went to Chicago on the Financial. Although "Ding" is new on the U. P., he feels rather at home, having several comrades of the famous 1919 episode on the wire. Welcome to our happy family "Ding."

The Terro Haute Tribune has taken on their annual second Saturday night wire, manned by Brother F. A. Tigar.

Chicago Coast

Is our circuit an old timers' retreat?
In a recent attempt to locate a sleeper or two on our circuit the chairman received answers that went something like this: "I'm a charter member," "I had a card before your birth," "I always buy an annual," etc., etc.

"One Word Dan" and Bert Grimes, Chicago's "twin sheiks," have been having a most wonderful time alternating on the financial job or something.

Saxon recently arrived from NX and landed a regular "sine" at Santa Ana. Client quit the next day. Saxon then moved to Long Beach where the red ties flow.

We have been wondering what disposal Hurd made of his w. w. ? ? ?

Lest we forget—we didn't get a holiday last Christmas. Do we want one on the Fourth? All together men: I'LL SAY WE DO.

CANADIAN PRESS

Latest reports from Brother Brouillet seem more promising. Here's hoping for the best.

Another paper has been added to the list, "Nick" Carter having been appointed to deliver the goods at St. Catharines.

Brother Lynch replaces Brother Mowry at London, the latter going back to Mail and Empire, Toronto, vice Carter.

C. McCarthy, Ottawa, has again packed the furniture, and is at Kitchener days. Stay a while this time, Mac.

"Buck" Auger, another addition to our ranks, replaces McCarthy at Ottawa.

Hold her, Buck, but don't lay off.

Brother Bernstein, New York sender, according to reports, has struck a Klondike, and since he left the fold, there has been much dickering over the job. However, Brother W. R. Wheatley of Kitchener has at last been appointed, and the night men are juggling with two or three subs every night.

"Ossie" Pape is holding office at Le Canada, but it's rumored he can't forget a widow, and he's liable to be on the fly again soon.

Now that the cat is out of the bag, file your answers early and let's all go after a $50 minimum or at least a $3 increase (with apologies to A. T. M's.)

BRO. WRIGHT ON FOSTERISM.

Editor:

Bro. B. H. Duncan, San Francisco, in the April Journal, throws his hat into the ring for W. Z. Foster and sneers at the American Federation of Labor for not plunging into the murky pool of Fosterism head over heels.

Brother Duncan's palaver could pass if it were not for certain outright misstatements. He makes it appear fhat the A. F. of L. denounces Foster merely because he stands for something different—for a Labor party for example; and because Foster is "rumored" to be connected with Lenine "Premier of Working class Russia" where "there has been a revolution establishing a dictatorship of the workers."

When an American worker swallows the Foster-Lenine bunk something has gone wrong with that worker's head. Nobody is going crazy with joy at the conditions under which telegraphers and others labor in America. But whoever thinks things are better in Russia closes his eyes to a great truth.

I have watched developments in Russia about as closely as anybody. Perhaps not fifty have kept more intimately informed. I have no secret information, but I have simply not let information get by me.

"Working class Russia" is a sickening fake. "A dictatorship of the workers" is a myth. There is no working class Russia and no dictatorship of the workers. There is a hideous, broken, tragic Russia in which there is an iron-clad dictatorship OVER the workers by a handful of communists who are playing as ruthless and bloody a game as ever was played by a tyranny.

If one American telegrapher were to replace every wage earner that has been shot by the Lenine dictatorship, there would be no telegraphers left in America. That's what the dictatorship has meant to workers. And it is no mere rumor as to Foster's connection with Lenine. Why are some so blind that they prefer dreams to realities. Foster's connection is definite and beyond question.

Brother Duncan seems to think "amalgamation" would be a fine thing. Ah, yes, so simple. But these "easily controlled" amalgamations, if they ever came into being, would be under a high and mighty dictatorship and Brother Duncan would obey orders from on high or get him into outer darkness somewhere.

"We do not want our interests menaced by an economic revolution," sarcastically remarks Brother Duncan. Sarcasm is poor argument, but let it go at that. He is right. We do not want what chance for decency and progress we have to be smashed by any such catastrophe as has happened in Russia. We actually do prefer taking our chances in a democracy, much as that may surprise those whose heated heads are constantly in the clouds. Some people are built that way—trying to protect what freedom they have, building along, refusing to be fooled, refusing to tear down, refusing to go crazy.

As for Foster's willingness to mix with "coarse working men"—that's a back-handed accusation that isn't going to fool anybody. Foster isn't going to insult his meal ticket.

The whole Foster game is so obvious that nobody ought to be fooled. But some are. It isn't only the "foreign boll weevils" of which Brother Duncan speaks that upset things and get queer notions and forget facts and go chasing moonshine and fake rainbows. We also have some good, native born boll weevils that can be fooled and hoodwinked as easily as any immigrant that ever gave Ellis Island the scared once over.

Mr. Frank B. Powers, International Secretary-Treasurer, Chicago, Ill.

Will you please accept our thanks for the check you so kindly forwarded to us in settlement of the Funeral Benefit of my beloved brother. You certainly have a splendid organization and my sister and I sincerely appreciate the promptness with which you sent us your expressions of sympathy accompanied by the enclosure of the benefit sum.

We have lost one brother out of a thousand in unselfish kindness and devotion to those near and dear to him, and in fidelity and loyalty to all his ties in life—social, business and home ties.

Please extend to the Telegraphers' Union our sincere thanks for their remembrance in our hour of great sadness.

Sincerely yours, ANNA RICHMOND FRIEND, Middletown, N. Y., April 19, 1923.

NEW EDITION OF PHILLIPS' CODE.

The April 1st, 1923, edition of Phillips' Code, which has been in course of production for some time past, is now ready for delivery. This edition is up to the minute. Every abbreviation agreed upon during the past five years will be found in this book and many of the words brought into use during the war, which are now obsolete, have been eliminated so that the work as it now stands can be relied upon as accurate and complete to date. Phillips' Code is a thoroughly tested code of abbreviations, arranged for telegraphic purposes and contemplating the rapid transmission of press reports; also widely used as an easily acquired method of shorthand. This edition contains about 700 additions to the older code and is indispensable to the operator who aspires to the standard of proficiency required by associations, which includes knowledge of Phillips' Code. Flexible cover, pocket size, 31/2 inches wide by 6% inches in length, $1.25 per copy. Address orders and make remittances to Frank B. Powers, 113 So. Ashland Blvd.. Chicago.

NEW C. N. T. SCHEDULE SIGNED

Increases Aggregate $125,000 Per Year Retroactive to May 1st

On July 24th, the General Committee of Canadian National System Division No. 43 signed a new agreement with the Management, calling for a total yearly acrease in wages of $125,000 and dating back to May 1st with retroactive time.

Negotiations were commenced on April 18th. After several weeks it was found that the Committee and the Management were so far apart that further negotiations would be useless. The Committee thereupon applied for a Board of Conciliation and returned home to await the establishment of the Board.

On Monday, July 16th, the Board held its first sitting, having convened in Montreal under the chairmanship of Mr. F. H. McGuigan. The Company had as their representative Mr. F. H. Markey, K. C., and the Union's representative was Mr. David Campbell, K. C.

After hearing the general presentation of both sides, the chairman asked that another attempt be made to arrive at a mutually satisfactory settlement. This was done and resulted in an agreement being reached outside of the Board. This agreement was tentative and hinged upon acceptance by the various districts of the Division. The Company's final proposition was twice as good as their former best offer and was accepted by the rank and file, the General Committee being given authority to sign up.

The outsanding features of the new Agreement are as follows:

Average wage increase of thirty-eight per cent for Electrical Installers.

At all functional offices—Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, Ottawa, Quebec, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, London and Hamilton—the minimum for Morse telegraphers is set at $110.00 per month. At all other offices the Morse minimum will be $100.00 per month. Edmonton and Moncton are added to the percentage office groupings.

All minimum classifications of clerks are increased from ten to twenty dollars per month. Automatic Mechanics are increased from twelve fifty to thirty-two fifty per month.

Telephone Supervisiors and Operators are increased ten dollars per month. Routine Clerks are increased five to ten dollars.

Ticker Mechanics and Operators are increased ten to twenty dollars per month. Teletype Operators are increased fifteen dollars per month over the old minimum.

Cumulative seniority.

The right to carry seniority into other departments.

The eight hour day at one man line offices. (The ninth hour, if worked, to be paid for at pro rata overtime rates.)

Relieving supervisors to be paid supervising wage when ten days' relief work in one month is performed.

General tightening up of clerical staff working rules, which give all clerks more advantages and better working conditions.

Long service transportation privileges have also been secured for all employees of the Canadian National Telegraphs. This is being worked out now and will be in the hands of the employees within a short time.

PRESS COMMITTEES SIGN FOR INCREASE

U. P., I. N. S. and Universal Scale Raised $1.75 United News from $2.25 to $8.75

Contracts between the C. T. U. A. and the three press managements, Universal Service, Inc., International News Service and United Press Associations, were signed on July 18th and 19th calling for a general increase of from $1.75 to $8.75 per week, or approximately $40,000 per year. The increase is retroactive to July 1st. The vacation clause is retained as heretofore.

United News operators received the greatest increase, ranging from $2.25 to $8.75 per week in some cases. Their scale is now on an equal basis with that of the Universal Service. United News men will also receive double time for one of the five recognized legal holidays.

The three committees began negotiations on June 18th, making but little progress towards a settlement between that date and June 30th, at which time the arbitration period was automatically entered into.

The I. N. S. and Universal management was first to act under the arbitration clause and Mr. Walter L. Moss as arbitrator to represent the Hearst management while Bro. James F. Campbell was appointed by the I. N. S. and U. S. committees to represent their interests. As provided in the contract, these two arbitrators attempted to settle the points in dispute, but were unable even to agree on what were the points in dispute.

Arbitrator Campbell's position was that the only point in dispute was the wag: scale, while Arbitrator Moss contended for ten days that the entire contract was in dispute. Repeated conferences between the committees and management failed to result in agreement.

This principle appeared so vital that notice was finally served by the committees that the union would not arbitrate anything except those points which were in dispute, namely the wage scale.

Commissioner of Conciliation W. C. Liller of the U. S. Department of Labor appeared on the scene on July 11th. Through his efforts it was finally agreed that the wage scale and the vacation clause were to be the points in dispute before an arbitration board. The managements gave the Committees to understand that a strong effort would be made to eliminate vacations. Request was made by all three committees and managements to the Department of Labor for an arbitrator.

For purposes of economy the three committees on July 14th decided to leave two men to conduct proceedings before the arbitration board. Roscoe H. Johnson and Frank B. Powers were selected to act as representatives of all three committees by proxy, and proxies from all committeemen were delivered into their hands.

The representatives by proxy were notified on July 17th that Mr. Hywel Davies had been appointed arbitrator and would be prepared to hear both sides at 10 a.m., July 19th at the Imperial Hotel, New York City.

On the afternoon of the 18th, the representatives by proxy took under consideration a proposition advanced by the three managements for a settlement outside of arbitration on the basis above outlined.

The representatives by proxy analyzed the proposition from all angles, especially the recention of the vacation clause and their judgment was that the interests of all concerned would be best served by accepting.

Those conducting the negotiations were: Chas. E. Shea, General Chairman; A. T. Maddux, Eastern Committeeman, and L. B. Dobyns, Western Committeeman, United Press System Div. No. 47; E. C. Campbell, General Chairman, and O. A. Morris, Secretary-Treasurer, International News Service System Div. No. 61; C. F. Faller, General Chairman, and M. B. Norton, Secretary-Treasurer, Universal Service System Div. No. 97. International President Roscoe H. Johnson and International Secretary-Treasurer Frank B. Powers assisted and advised with the committees.

Following is the agreement, which applies to all three press managements:

LABOR DAY, 1923

By Frank Morrison, Scoretary, American Federation of Labor

On Labor Day, 1923, the organized workers are more conscious of their cause than ever before.

There can be no substitute for trade unionism because it grows out of the needs and experiences and necessities of the workers. It is not an artificial creation, nor has it been evolved from the brain of man.

It is a natural grouping of wage workers who are cemented by the same ideals and longings, the same opposition to social injustice and the same desire to improve their status in life. Those who would destroy us fail to offer a substitute for trade unionism. They promise much, but would deny that unity of action that has been the worker's protection and his hope.

In every instance the anti-unionist insists that he treat with workers as individuals. Occasionally, he forms a company "union" and dictates who shall represent employes.

If the trade unions accept individual bargaining, they sign their death warrant, for it is idle to talk of unity between workers if they agree not to function as an organization.

When the employer pleads for individual bargaining he strikes at the heart of trade unions. He would destroy the collective spirit of workers. He would make them impotent to correct injustice or protest against wrong.

Collective bargaining means more than wages and hours. It is a unity that begets confidence and equips workers for every activity that should interest good citizans.

When production was in the crude and laborious hand stage, individual bargaining would suffice. But not in an age of machine production and absentee ownership. Despite the excuses that surround it, individual bargaining does not make for willing associates in industry. It develops autocracy at one end of production and dependents at the other end.

As our country becomes more and more an industrial nation this problem becomes more acute. It affects every citizen, because there is no prospect of industrial harmony while captains of industry maintain their anti-union attitude that employes shall be denied the right to present grievances collectively.

No citizen can escape the influence of this vicious system that often controls government, degrades the judiciary and denies constitutional rights to wage workers who would resist the serf practices of employers.

There is no constructive program more important than this demand of labor to control their lives. This demand is the first essential in any policy that would bring industrial concord and social peace.

GEO. C. JONES SUCCEEDS PERRY ON C. N. T.

On July 31st it was announced that George D. Perry had resigned as general manager of the Canadian National Telegraphs, effective that date. Mr. Perry was general manager since 1911.

George C. Jones, Montreal, assistant general manager of the operating department of the Canadian National Railways, succeeded Mr. Perry as general manager of the Telegraphs.

Mr. Jones is an old railway man, with experience both in the United States and Canada. He was also a commercial and railroad telegrapher, having been for a time chief dispatcher of the Grand Trunk Lines in western Ontario.

The wide and varied experience of Mr. Jones augurs well for his ability to administer the vast affairs of the rapidly growing lines of the national telegraph system.

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America takes this opportunity to congratulate Mr. Jones and at the same time to assure him of the fullest co-operation of this organization in an endeavor to help him make a success of his new position.

C. T. U. A. CONVENTION CALL ISSUED

The Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of the Commercial telegraphers' Union of America will be held in the city of Montreal, beginning Monday, October 1st. The problems which the General Assembly will be called upon to tackle are vitally important and of immediate concern to every member and division of our organization. The short time intervening between now and October 1st should be devoted by every division to a reveiw of the more important issues which their delegates should bring before the gathering.

The two years that have passed since our last convention were eventful years in the two years that have passed since our last convention were eventual years in the life of every division of our International. It is essential that delegates should be prepared to place before the convention complete reports of the developments in their divisions, of the difficulties which they have been called upon to face and the methods employed for the solution of their specific problems. It will be a serious mistake if delegates arrive in Montreal with little more than a general acquaintance with the activities of the organizations they represent.

The coming convention will face enormous tasks. And the delegates must come prepared to accomplish these tasks in the light of experience and of the mature judgment of the membership. Let every delegate devote the short time intervening to serious thought and careful consideration of their divisional affairs, and of the best way by which our International union may meet the serious work ahead.

The Convention Call reads as follows:

CONVENTION CALL

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION OF AMERICA

113 South Ashland Boulevard CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

August 13th, 1923.

TO ALL SUBORDINATE UNITS, COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS UNION OF AMERICA.

Greeting:

You are hereby notified that the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America will be held at Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal Canada, beginning at 10 o'clock Monday morning, October 1. 1923, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the Convention has been completed.

It is, of course, unnecessary here to enumerate all the important subjects with which our forthcoming Convention will concern itself, but the reminder is not at all amiss that every effort must be made to broaden the field and means for the organization of the yet unorganized Postal, Western Union, broker, press, wireless and telegraphers employed in the oil fields; to strive to bring about more effectually than ever a better day in the lives and homes of the toilers; to defend and maintain by every honorable means in our power the right to organize for our common defense and advancement, for the exercise of our normal and constitutional activities to promote the rights and interests of telegraph workers; to aid our fellow-workers against the effort to entangle the workers in the meshes of litigation before the courts; to make effective in our every-day lives the principles declared in the law of our republic (the Clayton law), "That the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce"; to emphasize the dominating and determining economic character of our movement and to carry on such political action as the interests of labor will warrant. These and other great questions will, of necessity, occupy the attention of the Montreal Convention.

THEREFORE, THE IMPORTANCE OF OUR MOVEMENT, THE DUTY OF THE HOUR AND FOR THE FUTURE, DEMAND THAT EVERY SUBORDINATE UNIT ENTITLED TO REPRESENTATION SHALL SEND ITS FULL QUOTA OF DELEGATES TO THE MONTREAL CONVENTION, OCTOBER 1, 1923.

Composition

Article V., Section 2.—The General Assembly shall be composed of the International Officers, the General Executive Board and duly accredited delegates from the subordinate units elected on a basis of representation as hereinafter provided. each of whom shall be entitled to a vote and voice on all matters coming before the General Assembly.

Article VII. Section 1.—Each subordinate unit, except District Councils, chartered at least ninety days prior to the session of the General Assembly shall be entitled to one delegate and to one additional delegate for each one hundred members or major fraction thereof. Each delegate or alternate must be a member of the Union in good standing for at least one year directly previous to the convening of the General Assembly.

Section 2. District Councils with fifteen or more members directly attached thereto, and who do not come under the jurisdiction of any other subordinate unit. shall be entitled to representation on such membership on the same basis as other subordinate units.

Section 3. The basis of representation shall be computed on the membership of the subordinate unit in good standing at the end of the dues period immediately preceding the session of the General Assembly. The end of dues paying periods are June 30 and December 31.

Section 4. No subordinate unit shall be entitled to representation in the General Assembly which is indebted to the General Assembly or which shall fail to file annual reports, provided that this section may be suspended and the delegates of any subordinate unit be admitted if two-thirds of the members present vote in favor thereof.

Section 5. Delegates to the General Assembly must be members of the Union in good standing for at least one year directly previous to the convening of the General Assembly and must be members of the subordinate unit which they represent, provided that any member shall be eligible as a delegate or alternate from a newly organized subordinate unit ninety days after admission to the subordinate unit.

Section 6. The prima facie evidence of the election of a delegate or alternate shall be a certificate or duplicate thereof signed and sealed by the International President and International Secretary-Treasurer of the Union.

Election of Delegates

Article XXII., Section 9.—Delegates to the biennial convention shall be elected at the first regular meeting in August.

Delegates at Large

Article VI., Section 3.—The officers of the General Assembly and members of the General Executive Board shall be delegates at large and it shall be their additional duty to place before the convention for consideration and disposition every proposition referred to them by subordinate units or individual members.

Section 4.—Delegates at large shall not be eligible to election as delegates from subordinate units. Matters submitted to the Biennial Convention by subordinate units or members either directly or through delegates at large must be addressed to the General Assembly and not to a Committee thereof, and units or members shall supply three copies of all matter so submitted.

Amendments to Constitution

Article VIII., Section 1.—All amendments, resolutions and communications submitted to the General Assembly shall be read, filed with the International Secretary-Treasurer for arrangement according to article and section number, and taken up seriatim by the convention.

C. T. U. A. HEADQUARTERS

C T. U. A. Headquarters will be located at the Mount Royal Hotel. The Mount Royal is one of the largest hotels in the Dominion and is adequately equipped to care for all delegates and their families.

Fraternally yours,

ROSCOE H. JOHNSON, International President.

"GO AND DO LIKEWISE"

Magnus Johnson, United States Senator-elect from Minnesota, offers the soundest kind of advice to "white collar" workers who complain because common labor is getting better pay than they do.

Johnson's advice is summed up by "Go and do likewise." In answer to an inquiry from a Chicago newspaper, he urged workers in all trades and professions to take a leaf from the book of organized labor and organize to better their condition as workers in many trades have done. He said:

"There is much resentment, I find, amongst the poorly paid store clerks, the small professional man and the unsuccessful merchant expressed in these words: The common laborer gets more than I do. In other words, the laborer of 1923, due to his persistent efforts to reach a well-defined goal of the American standard of living, has succeeded in getting his one dollar per hour, whereas the clerk and the professional man has not been able to do as well.

"Now here is my theory: Instead of the clerk and the professional man finding fault with the carpenter and the plumber and the brick mason for his wages and thus joining the hue and cry of organized capital, let them go and do likewise; let them work hand in hand with organized labor to get their own incomes increased, rather than try to get Labor's reduced.

"Let all workers stick together, the white collar worker in the office and the brain workers in the professions and work hand in hand with organized carpenters and bricklavers to raise the wages of all. Capital is always sure of its own, regardless of how high wages may go. It means only a fairer division of the products of labor."

There's nothing new in Johnson's advice, but it is just as good now as when it was first given, perhaps thousands of years ago. The unorganized worker may complain until Doomsday, but it won't get him anywhere. His only salvation is in organization. The more this is emphasized the better off his chances of his acting instead of merely talking. And for stressing this truth and again bringing it before the public, Minnesota's new Senator-elect deserves the thanks of organized labor.

MONTREAL THE QUAINT

By Earle Hooker Eaton

If you are a lover of the quaint, the historic and the picturesque, you will enjoy Montreal when the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America holds its convention there in October, provided you have the good fortune to be "among those present."

The first thing you will notice as you approach the city on the Canadian Pacific is the odd sign at each railroad crossing, "Traverse du Chemin de Fer," which is your old English friend "Railroad Crossing, Look Out for the Cars" done into French, with modifications. So when you approach a "Crossing to the Road of Iron," stop, look and listen.

stop, look and listen.

This is only one evidence that Montreal is a bi-lingual city. Street names on corners are in English and French, and their names are called by car conductors in both languages. Far more French than English is heard.

Montreal has many splendid parks and statues of noted folk who made history there. The finest park is atop Mount Royal which towers nearly 1,000 feet above the city. The view of the St. Lawrence from the summit is well worth the climb afoot, but street cars and carriages take visitors up. On the way you get a glimpse of Montreal's beautiful residence quarter on the mountain-side. Visitors looking for thrills and a delightful trip on the St. Lawrence, go to Ste. Anne and shoot the famous Lachine rapids in a steamer. At Ste. Anne is the house in which Tom Moore, the poet, lived, and where he wrote that classic, the "Canadian Boat Song." Six hours distant from Montreal is historic Quebec, the most picturesque, interesting city in the New World, recalling the days of Champlain and Frontenac, Wolfe and Montcalm. Be sure to see Quebec before you sign "30" on the C. T. U. A. convention.

Montreal Convention Monday, October 1st, 1923.

NATION MOURNS PRESIDENT HARDING

Thirty-five officers of the labor organizations of Washington, including President Gompers and Secretary Morrison, adopted the following declaration in connection with the passing of President Harding:

The Declaration

We are profoundly grieved by the passing of President Harding. of his untimely and unexpected death brings to us a sorrow and a sense of loss that must be felt by all Americans. To Mrs. Harding we desire to express our deep sympathy and our great admiration for her devotion and sublime courage.

We believe we speak for the great masses of the wage earners of our country in our expression of sorrow in this hour of national sadness. It is a characteristic of our people that, differ though we may among ourselves over matters of policy and principle, we have an unfailing regard and respect for the President and the presidency.

Those who have sometimes opposed the President out of conviction feel no less deeply grieved today than do those who have been his consistent supporters. For ourselves, partisanship has never been a personal question. It has been and must always be a matter of conviction and principle—a matter of judgment in relation to issues, but not in relation to men. Our hope and effort is for humanity within our Republic and the perpetuity of its institutions.

In this spirit we join with our countrymen in mourning the death of a President who gave his life in the service of our nation. The burdens which he bore in a time of national stress and strain were inordinate, as were those of the President in whose suffering wake he followed. All Americans hope that the great burden of the presidency may be less exacting and trying for the successor to that exalted office. With the passing of President Harding the office devolves upon the Vice-President and we address ourselves now in a common citizenship to the new incumbent, President Coolidge. As to the future the wisest are blind and we cannot see what lies ahead. But we proffer to the new President our wholehearted consideration and co-operation in all that goes for the upbuilding of our country and for the welfare of our people.

In this spirit we bid our welcome to the man who comes now to take up the fallen mantle. We bow in grief and reverence before the bier of our fallen President; we offer our services as citizens, our thought and our strength, to our government under him who is now called forth to assume that commanding post of duty and service.

"A BIG OPERATOR"

At the corner of Wall Street and Broadway.

"There goes Tom Smith," said a man to his friend.

"Who is he?" asked the friend.

"One of the best operators in the Street," the informant answered. "He handles orders for thousands of shares all day long and keeps the wires hot all over the country."

"Is that so," drawled the friend as he watched Smith wend his way down Wall Street. "He surely doesn't look it."

"Oh! well, you know as well as I do that telegraph operators are not overpaid, although Tom is one of the best."—Wall St. Journal. We'll say they are not.

FRAYNE GETS DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL

By International Labor News Service.

NEW YORK—Friends of Hugh Frayne, long New York representative of the American Federation of Labor, are congratulating him on receiving the Distinguished Service Medal for his work as a member of the War Industries Board. The medal was presented to Mr. Frayne at Governor's Island, New York, with the following citation:

"Hugh Frayne, then Labor Commissioner, War Industries Board. For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services in a position of great responsibility in connection with the operations of the War Industries Board during the World War. As a member of the board he rendered. through his broad vision, distinguished capacity and organizing ability, services of inestimable value in marshaling the industrial forces of the nation and mobilizing its economic resources - marked factors in assisting to make military success attainable. As Labor Commissioner he contributed largely to the successful mobilization and conservation of man power for war industry. His untiring efforts and devotion to duty in this connection contributed markedly to the successful operations of the supply system of the Army."

ROGERS TELLS WHY GARY BALKS

Will Rogers, comedian and philosopher, explains why Judge Gary wants time to abolish the 12-hour work day. In his weekly syndicated article, Mr. Rogers says:

"Now Mr. Gary says it will take time. You see, a man who has been working for years for 12 to 14 hours a day, and you cut him down to eight, you have a physical wreck on your hands. You take a person who is used to the cool air of a steel furnace for half the 24 hours of each day and bring him into the stuffy atmosphere of outdoors, or a home, and he can't stand it."

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH

The Western Union Telegraph Company had net income of $6,802,603 for the first six months of 1923, as compared with $5,593,177 during the corresponding period of 1922, after all deductions, including interest. At that rate net income for 1923 would show an increase of more than $400,000 over 1922, when the company earned $13.19 on its capital stock, and an increase of about $4,000,000 as compared with 1922, when net earnings amounted to $9.65 on the capital stock.

BEWARE OF BABSON

A new danger threatens the welfare of wage-earners, not from the industrial situation itself, but from ill-considered advice being given to business men.

Babson's Statistical Organization, which has a large clientele, has recently been saying that an industrial depression may come soon, partly because high wages have boosted production costs so that customers will not buy freely at prevailing prices. He warns employers at the first opportunity to reduce wages. Babson advises employers to inform wage-earners of his predictions so that they will consent to readjustment downward.

Because so many people take Babson as gospel, both employer and employee are likely to be fooled by this advice, much to their own detriment. It is therefore necessary to turn a critical searchlight on Babson's methods.

Recognized scientific economists admit that they do not know enough yet to predict with certainty the ups and downs of Although they have learned business. much about the subject, no economist of high standing has endorsed the so-called "law" on which Babson's predictions are based. To quote the study of the National Bureau of Economic Research on "Business Cycles and Unemployment," "The mainstay of the Babson System is the assumption that in business as in physics the law holds that 'action and reaction are equal.' For every period of prosperity, by which is really meant 'over-expansion' there must be an equal period of depression or contraction. This equality has not been proved but is assumed at the outset." Also, the means which Babson uses to measure expansion and depression are not necessarily accurate, and are arbitrarily chosen. The uncertainty of his prediction is further increased by the fact that he has chosen an arbitrary way of fixing the "normal growth" of the country's business, against which ups and downs are meas-In addition to all this uncertainty, his system, according to the National Bureau, does not even pretend to "forecast the length or intensity of a period of expansion. It forecasts only the length or intensity of a depression after the previous period of over-expansion has been completed."

A striking instance of how Babson's predictions have gone wrong was recently pointed out by Mr. Barron, a financial Every week from March 6th to expert. June 26th, 1923, Babson advised his clients to hold on to their stocks, saying that the high point of the stock market During that time was not yet reached. the average of 20 industrial stocks fell from 104.79 to 91.48. On June 26th he advised his clients to sell. Since that time stocks have rallied and are at this writing. if anything, slightly higher than a month ago. It begins to look as if Babson had chosen the bottom of the market at which to give selling advice.

Babson's statement that retail buying will fall off on account of high wages is almost wholly unsupported by scientific evidence. In the first place, all the statistics indicate an increase of retail buying, except for ordinary seasonal fluctuations. In the second place, if retail buying did fall off on account of high prices there is no proof that these prices are caused by high wages. On the contrary, most of the evidence goes to show that they are caused by large profits. Average wholesale prices have risen more than average wages since Enormous profits are being made. 1921. and dividend distributions are steadily growing larger. It is true that wages have risen more than the cost of living, but the Federal Reserve Board agrees with us that this is a healthy sign of greater purchasing power on the part of the wageearner, and will help to sustain prosperity.

General wage reductions would do more to kill prosperity than almost anything else which might happen.

Most reliable authorities disagree with Rabson about the imminence of a depression. The following quotations make this clear:

Harvard Economic Service—"The business situation remains sound; and we forecast firm or rising commodity prices, and firm or rising money rates, for the remainder of 1923."

National Bank of Commerce—"It is fashionable just now to think that business is poor, but favorable factors continue to outweigh unfavorable factors and good business may be looked for during the autumn months."

Mechanics and Metals National Bank— "The degree of the country's activity surprises many people, yet there is substantial promise of profitable trade and full employment of labor through the remainder of the year."

'LAY OF LOONEY LOUIS' SUNG BY BRO. ENRIGHT

Or Why Don't Some Assemblymen Get Up Mornings

Police Commissioner Enright wrote the following letter to Mayor Hylan yesterday: "My dear Mr. Mayor:

"The other day I read in the papers that a certain member of the Legislature who had a great deal to say about the Police Department failed to turn up in court when a case in which he was acting as council was called for trial.

"I understand that this is a common practice of this gentleman, who collects his retainers and then fails to appear in court due to the fact that his practice and proceedings before the bar with the brass rail, the night before, leave him in a more or less hectic and extravagant condition of mind.

"Apropos of this news article you will be interested in the following popular ditty which for want of a better title, may be called "The Lay of Looney Louis." How well do I remember, 'twas along in last November

That I staggered down the street in drunken pride.

My feet began to stutter, so I dropped down in the gutter,

And a pig came by and lay down by my side

My heart was all affutter as I lay there in the gutter,

When a lady passing by was heard to say:

'You can tell a guy that boozes by the company that he chooses;

And the blooming pig got up and walked away.

The average temperature yesterday was 89, but it was hotter at certain hours during the day than it was at others.

R. E. L. RUSSELL, M. S. O.

When the telegrapher in Baltimore thinks of the C. T. U. A. he thinks of Bob Russell. M. S. O., the subject of our front page photo this month. Bro. Robert Edward Lee Russell's name has been synonymous with the C. T. U. A. for so many years as secretary or president of the local that when he insisted on withdrawing in favor of Bro. Schott, another M. S. O., two years ago the boys gave him a banquet and testimonial that will go down in local annals as a record-breaker.

Bro. Russell was born at Harpers Ferry, W. Va., on Christmas Eve, 1877. His father was a conductor on the B. & O. and

Bro. Russell entered the service of that road as messenger and later as operator in 1891.

He came to Baltimore nearly 30 years ago with the Postal, gravitating to the Baltimore Sun leased wire soon thereafter. For 20 years Bro. Russell worked every press circuit in Baltimore and was well known as a strictly first class all-round telegrapher. Since 1914 he has been with the brokerage firm of F. M. Lockwood & Co.

Bro. Russell married Miss Katie H. Marshall of Staunton, Va., in 1903 and is the proud father of two daughters, the eldest recently winning a scholarship in competition with students in the entire state of Maryland.

The service rendered the organized commercial telegraphers by such members and officers as Bro. Russell can never be computed or rewarded. We can only give due recognition and acknowledgment at various times and point with pride to an organization which can attract and hold such sterling characters.

UNITED STATES CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission announces the following open competitive examination:

Radio Engineer, $4,000 to $5,000 a year. Associate Radio Engineer, $3,000 to $4,000 a year. Assistant Radio Engineer, $2,000 to $3,000 a year.

Applications will be rated as received until October 30. The examinations are to fill vacancies in the positions named, or in positions requiring similar qualifications, in the Federal classified service throughout the United States.

The duties are to conduct or superintend the development, design, construction, installation, standardization, and the writings of specifications for practical and special apparatus and methods of radio communication, such apparatus to include sets for land use for more or less permanent stations, also for portable land stations, and for airplane and ship sets, and similar lines of work.

Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on the following subjects: Education and preliminary experience, 30%; special experience and fitness, 40%; publications, reports, or thesis, to be filed with application, 30%.

Full information and application blanks may be obtained from the United States Civil Service Commission, Washington. D. C., or the secretary of the board of U. S. civil-service examiners at the post office or customhouse in any city.

Montreal Convention Monday, October 1st, 1923

Conducted by Eastern Broker Division, Room 504, Number 44 Broad St., New York City

Meeting Days: Fourth Saturday of each month, 2:30 P. M.

Jurisdiction in the States of New York, Connecticut, and New Jersey, North and East of Trenton.

ANNUAL OUTING JULY 1st, ENJOYABLE OCCASION

On Sunday, July 1st, the steamer Seagate with the members of the Eastern Broker Division, their families and friends, on board, sailed up Long Island Sound for a day's recreation at Roton Point Park, South Norwalk, Conn.

We were keenly disappointed by the unavoidable absence of International President Roscoe H. Johnson, who was detained by a conference in connection with the press negotiations.

International Secretary-Treasurer Frank B. Powers, Committeemen Shea, Maddox and Dobyns of the U. P., E. C. Campbell of the I. N. S. and Norton of Universal, made the trip with us and renewed old acquaintances.

Just before the boat left, "Jim" Campbell received word that he had been appointed on the arbitration board to deal with the Press negotiations, and that he was wanted for an immediate conference. It was tough on us to have to pull away from the pier and leave "Jim" behind, but when it comes to a choice between organization work and pleasure, you all know where "Jim" stands.

Brother A. Goldschmidt of the South Norwalk firm of Maples and Goldschmidt motored to the Park to meet the boys and met many of his old friends as well as making new acquaintances.

Brother "Tom" Tiger, General Secretary of the New Haven O. R. T., with his brother-in-law, Jack McInerney, Assistant Chief Operator at Logan & Bryan's, met us at the Park.

A classy jazz band furnished the dancing music on the boat, and the center deck was a scene whirling couples who seemed to be enjoying the trip immensely.

President Frank O'Sullivan of the E. B. D. beamed with pride as he took a hand-shake here and replied to a "hello" there.

Secretary-Treasurer "Jack" Hickey, Mrs. Hickey and a couple of young "Hicks" were there.

First Vice-President "Joe" McGivern parked the young "Macs" at home with the old folks and sneaked off to the Outing with the missus.

Second Vice-President "Jim" Donnelly, Sr., and family, his son, Brother John Donnelly, and family made up a nice party for the trip.

Former President "Jack" Dunn's absence was due to the death of his mother at Ottawa, Ont. "Jack" never misses any of our affairs and we missed him this trip.

Brother "Dick" Scales of the Executive Board appeared comfortable and cool on the upper deck.

Brother "Bart" Kearney of the Executive Board was detained at home on account of illness of his sister.

Following the doctor's orders, Brother Harry Pfeiffer of the Executive Board was compelled to forego the trip.

Sergeant-at-Arms Ralph Johnson, due to the excellent behavior of the crowd, had a quiet time in his line of duty, which gave him plenty of time to entertain Mrs. Johnson and the little sergeants-at-arms, both on the boat and at the Park.

A vote of thanks and appreciation was accorded the Outing Committee, "Charley" Josephson, "Bud" Rupple, and Harry Cook, for their excellent work in arranging for and carrying out the details of the affair which was considered by all, "the best ever."

Former E. B. D. President W. F. (Buck) Ewing and family graced the occasion by their presence.

Brother Dave Talmage, Chairman of the Investigating Committee on New Applicants; Mrs. Talmage, and the Talmage children reported it a "wonderful affair."

Charley Correll, Chief Operator at Harris, Winthrop & Co., started from New Haven for Roton Point in his car, but had to give it up on account of the bad roads. Charley missed seeing his wire room boys at play.

The Daily Racing Form telegraph force was there 100% in the persons of Chief Operator Jimmy Gleason, Billy Dowd and Gene Donahue.

Brother Fred Towne, his family, and a party of friends from Newark were there on time even though they had to make the trip to the pier via the Erie. Fred knows Roton Point and that section of the country like we know Coney Island. He used to be a native of Connecticut and thereabouts.

Brother Ed Whittlesey and his family, which included his daughter, Miss Alene Whittlesey, formerly Assistant Secretary-Treasurer of the E. B. D., were with us. "Whit" had his fishing tackle along but forgot to bring his bait, and we saw him later whispering something to a native fisherman. We think "Whit" was in the market on the buy side—of fish preferred.

George Keener came aboard with Mrs. Keener, and a party of relatives, including his father-in-law. We noticed you stand in well with the "old boy," George,

The old reliable "Joe" Rosenberg and Mrs. "Joe" were espied over in a corner on the center deck. Second honeymoon, Joe?

Arthur Keefe, Bill McDonald and Frank Donovan spent most of the day on the beach and taking photos in the grove.

"Hughie" Hickey, delegate to the Central Trades & Labor Council, with his family and a party of relatives were observed in a quiet spot on the center deck. "Jimmy" Gilroy, Jack Martine and some friends made up a good sized party.

Harry Gates, Harry Green, Josh Jones, Billy Booth, Jack Dunham, Max Rose, S. J. Poorman, Joe Wenderoth, Joe Austin, Mike Fogarty, Eddie Grout, Dan Foley, Dick Hassinger, Morris Markson, Tommy Noone, Charley Schoonmaker and Louie Silverman were listed by our scribe as among those present

Silverman were listed by our scribe as among those present, Bob White, Frank Packard and Percy Bowling rolled up in their Rolls-Royce.

Joe B. Nelson, wife and son; J. B. Lew and party of friends; B. M. Morris, wife and baby; Johnny Curran, wife and baby; Dan Mahoney, wife and daughter; Tom Raidy and sister; Mrs. K. N. Stetson and her brother. Frank Newman; Sam Turner, wife and son; O. S. Waits and party; Mr. and Mrs. Sim Bodenheim; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Palmer; Mrs. Keenan, wife of our late Brother "Mike" Keenan, and children; Preston Provost; Miss Rebecca (Becky) Weissenberg, mother and sisters; and—our scribe's pencil and paper were used up here and he reports that he would have to call in the Trow directory people in order to list the names of all those present.

The Committee wishes to thank Brother Lorraine Larey for his assistance as a ticket taker while the rush was on at the gangplank.

ELECTION OF DELEGATES TO THE MONTREAL CONVENTION

Out of 554 ballots mailed out to the members of the E. B. D., but 392 members sent in their vote.

Six delegates were to be elected to represent this Division at the Convention.

The vote cast and tabulated by the tellers appointed by President O'Sullivan was as follows: J. A. Hickey, 367. F. A. O'Sullivan, 259. Jas. F. Campbell, 254.

E. B. Whittlesey, 237. J. W. Dunn, 232. F. W. Towne, 232.

B. L. Hinshaw, 182. Ralph Johnson, 181. B. J. Kearney, 171.

C. Josephson, 93.

Of the 13 candidates nominated at the June meeting, three of them, Brothers J. G. McCloskey, J. L. Croxton, and I. Schwadron withdrew.

The first named six were elected as delegates and the last four as alternates in the order named.

THE KNOCKER

One of our energetic contributors sends in the following:

"After the rattlesnake, the toad and the vampire had been made, there was some awful substance left, out of which was made the knocker.

"A knocker is a two-legged animal with a corkscrew soul, a water-sogged brain and a combination backbone made of jelly and glue. When the knockers come down the street honest men turn their backs. If one of the 'critters' happen to die people do not mourn, but angels weep tears in heaven and the devil shuts his gates to keep him out. No man has the right to knock as long as there is a pool of water deep enough to drown in or a rope to hang with."—N. Y. Eve. Mail.

GODS AND GODDESSES FOR A DAY

Be joyous and gay, today, Nor dream of sorrow; For aught we know, sorrow, May usher in the morrow.

Early they came, to the Battery, By subway, train and the El, Telegraphers of the E. B. D., Wives, children, cousins Kate and Nell. The kiddles were right on the job. Scampered aboard the Old Sea-Gate, Dragging Mama and Dad along, Deathly afraid of being late.

The Captain blew the whistle twice,
To hurry the crowd along.
The youngsters made the welkin ring,
With shouts of laughter and song.
The Committee, all dolled up with badges,
Beamed good nature as they walked around,
And bade the folks be sociable,
As we sailed up Long Island Sound.

Up past Blackwell's Island, City Point and Oyster Bay, Up through Hells Gate's narrow shores, The good boat nosed her way. Past Majestic ships, and fishing craft, Swift Yachts and Oyster Smack, Bright Canoes and white sail-boats, That careened as they sought to tack.

Soon the folks were landed,
And then the fun began,
Not a trace of care or worry,
Grief was an "Also ran".
Fair Sea-Nymphs and Neptunes bold,
Sweet Sirens that wooed and won
Your admiration (when Wifey wasn't looking)
Were basking in the Sun.

Peter-Pan, spade and a can, Built a house in the sand; Little Cinderella to try its strength, Upon its roof would stand. They ran down to the water's edge, To empty the Ocean quite dry, Peter-Pan stumbled and fell, And quickly began to cry.

Mercedes beat Atalantis, in a Marathon, (Atalantis never had a chance)
And as a reward for Victory,
Took Venus to the dance.
They danced all the new ones,
The square and Virginia reel,
Mercedes is SOME toddler,
And Venus shakes a wicked heel.

Apollo and Adonis strutted about, Kings of all that they surveyed; Recipients of adoring glances, In one-piece suits arrayed. That little Devil, Dan Cupid, Bows, arrows and birth-day suit, Seized upon every opportunity, His fatal darts to shoot.

Psyche—powder-puff and mirror,
Was crowned as Carnival Queen,
Wondrously fair Greek Goddesses,
Gamboled and frolicked on the green,
Tout ensemble, 'twas a wonderful time,
What with all the fun and good cheer,
The day will long be remembered,
'Tis hoped there'll be another—next year.
MIKE CONNELLY.

NIX ON THE WHITE COLLAR JOB

Reports from Pittsburg are that college men and high school boys, who turn to summer jobs as a means of working their way through the educational channels, are drifting away from the white collar jobs and are turning to manual labor. The reason is not hard to find. The white collar job is today one of the poorest paying jobs for the bulk of those who fill such occupations as bookkeepers, stenographers, salesmen and clerks. The man in overalls gets the money because he's able to enforce his demands. The white collar job has no such strength of solidarity.

The situation itself is an indictment of the labor situation in this country. So long as men can get only what they are strong enough to demand. dissatisfaction will be the lot of the many. It is a poor sign that wages go by class strength and not by integral worth. Business, in the main, has no more imagination than a dead lobster. The ideal situation is to pay each worker his just wage and then insist upon him performing his function. But business cannot see that. The whole tendency is to hire with reckless cheapness where this can be done and pay grudgingly where one must. It is, at best, a poor situation, for no business can be built on bedrock unless it is built principally on the loyalty and devotion of men.

DANGER IN PROFIT SHARING SCHEMES

By Wm. U. Tate, E. B. D.

In my opinion, the organised workers of the nation, in the maintenance of their individual freedom and the integrity of their trade unions, have a new and ever increasing serious industrial situation to face. That is the constantly growing tendency toward industrial feudalism—profit sharing plans—which if allowed to continue, will ultimately evolve along the lines of the serf feudalism of medievalism.

Since the institution and growth of trade unionism, the greatest obstacles that labor organizations have been forced to overcome are selfishness, greed and social prejudices. Industrial organizations and influential individuals who have exerted their every energy to make progress of the wage earners more difficult have had in so many cases the fullest co-operation of the political forces of the city, state and nation.

Wage earners of the past were almost if not entirely illiterate. They retained the easily aroused prejudices and suspicions that have always been synonymous with ignorance. During a strike our huge corporations were able to create dissensions in the ranks of the organized workers by the hiring of traitors from among the strikers as well as by other equally repugnant methods. By soft whisperings of the foulest sort of falsehoods they were often successful in breaking the ranks of the strikers. And the workers would finally return to their previous employment beaten and discouraged.

However, the extension of the public school system has provided an elementary education, at least, for the majority of the workers. This, together with a never ending agitation carried on by labor organizations, has welded the skilled as well as an increasing number of unskilled workers into highly disciplined trade unions, which has eliminated to a great extent the possibility of serious dissensions among the established organizations and successful strikes have become more and more the rule. The day, too, is passing when the great corporations can easily secure the services of political administrations to use the powers of the law to force wage earners to remain at underpaid and undesirable posts.

Agricultural feudalism, known as the manorial system, from the custom of establishing a manor house on large estates for the lord, surrounded by the huts of the peasants, was a system having similar characteristics throughout Europe during the Middle Ages. This system in the beginning had the approval of the peasants themselves and had some merits especially in view of the general social conditions existing at that time. But the lords, always ambitious to obtain greater power, soon began to alter the system by degrees. At the approach of the Fifteenth Century peasants formerly free were nothing more than serf slaves tied to the land, unable to leave and always faced with starration if they remained. Agriculture was the dominant economic phase of that time. Feudalism was the profit sharing system of medievalism.

This is the Twentieth Century. Where land feudalism left off the Commercial or Industrial Age began. Like agricultural feudalism the industrial system is somewhat similar throughout the modern world. From all appearances this Commercial Age in its present nature is reaching its peak. As America is the farthest advanced industrially, so the evolutionary aspects of industrialism are most noticeable here.

Labor organisations in the United States have made their greatest progress in the past ten years. As previously stated, strikes and negotiations have more and more culminated to the advantage of organized labor and to the workers generally. In view of this employers of labor have been forced to take steps to meet the situation in the protection of their alleged rights. This has resulted in the creation all over the country of "company" unions and the installation of profit sharing systems. The discarding of their unions and universal acceptance of these profit sharing schemes would create a dengerous situation for the working class of the whole world. Wage earners would be at the complete mercy of those who are always on the alert for an opportunity to further subordinate a class they detest. There are those who only look forward to the time when their influence in the financial and social world is infinite. To their minds democratic theories are wild dogmas only to be tolerated for a time.

When the profit sharing idea is installed in your plant you can assuredly look forward to the same gradual alterating process which will ultimately enslave you as the agricultural workers of medievalism were enslaved.

OBITUARY

Brother William Russell, who up to the time of his death was employed by Josephthal & Co., died July 18th at his home, 11 Vine street, Jersey City, at the age of fifty-five, from the effects of a surgical operation.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Mary Zicker Russell, he left four children: William. Jr.; Victor, Catherine and Lydia.

HEADQUARTER NOTES

Extracts from minutes of the Executive Board meeting held on July 6th, 1923:

Brother M. J. Conaughton appeared before the Board to answer to charges preferred against him by the Officers of the Division for conduct unbecoming a member at the Outing held on July 1st.

As a first offender, Brother Conaughton was severely reprimanded by the Board; prohibited from attending E. B. D. social functions for a period of two years, and cautioned that any further violations of the by-laws on his part will be met with drastic action.

Brother G. D. Bogue appeared before the Board to answer to a complaint made against him of conduct unbecoming a member of this Division while employed by the United Press at Albany, N. Y., on June 30th, 1923.

Brother Bogue also received a reprimand as a first offender; and was advised that another complaint against him would be met with drastic action.

Brother C. G. Donahue appeared before the Board to answer to charges preferred against him of violation of the "cardinal principles of unionism."

The Board, after due deliberation and consideration of the facts in the case, voted unanimously that Brother Donahue be expelled from th Eastern Broker Division. subject to ratification by the membership at the next regular meeting of the Division to be held on Saturday, July 28th.

Extracts from minutes of July meeting

An amendment to the by-laws to allow the playing of cards and other games in the Headquarters rooms came up for final reading and vote. The amendment when put to a vote was lost.

"Jack" Rutter wishes to serve notice on any of the boys who contemplate visiting him at his summer residence on the South Jersey shore that he does not object to them bringing their dogs with them, provided they are not half starved mongrels like the one Abernethy had on the end of a derrick rope when he drove up last week.

Brother "Jack" Dunn is spending his vacation at Stamford, N. Y. Brother "Charley" Josephson is vacationing at Greely, Pa.; Brother "Denny" Kelliher at Hampton Beach, N. H.; Brother "Bill" Sedgwick at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., and Brother "Barb" Lewis at Worcester, N. Y.

Brother "Charlie" Burgle spent his vacation on a motor trip through the Middle Atlantic states in his new Buick.

Brothers Sam Long of Philadelphia and Tarry of the United Press, Washington, D. C., were recent visitors to Headquarters.

Brother "Jim" Cullen has returned from a three months' trip on a steamship. "Jim" says that making out the payroll for a ship's crew is easier work than pounding a telegraph key.

The smypathies of these Headquarters are extended to Past President J. W. Dunn in the loss of his mother.

Brother Fred Brockschmidt of Pittsburgh was a recent visitor. Come again, 'Brock,' we are always glad to see you.

Brother Ike Schwadron is spending his vacation at Hurleyville, N. Y. We missed you at the Outing, Ike.

Brother Joe Austin is vacationing at Big Moose, N. Y. Joe says the moose flies are plentiful and took him for a bull and have been feeding off him for three days.

We are in receipt of a postal card from Japan from Brother Jack O'Connell on which he informs us that he has estab-lished a C. T. U. A. (Commercial Telegraphers Union of Asia) in Pekin, and that he held a preliminary meeting of the Asiatic Broker Division, at which Brother Charley Josephson was elected President. Jack reports "lob rab here".

Brother Eddie Cogan has returned from a vacation trip to the West by auto. Brother Ed Johnson of Brumley, Chamberlin & Co. is on the sick list.

Brother Mike Fogarty took his vacation at a local hospital, having an operation attended to.

Edward Linn Morse, son of Professor Morse, inventor of the telegraph, died on June 9th, at Pittsfield, Mass.

The following is an extract from one of the daily newspapers:

"A new security exchange, to be known as the Curb Stock and Bond Market of New York, Inc., is contemplated, according to a letter sent out by Mantell, Hirschfeld & Gorman to members of the Curb Market Association and other brokers. Mantell, Hirschfeld & Gorman are acting as agents in the organization. The sponsors include Thomas Cooke, A. R. Spacht and Charles Finninger."

Extracts from the Minutes of the Last Regular Meeting Held June 22rd.

New Business: The Secretary read a resolution signed by ten members for an amendment of Article 17 of the by-laws whereby members may be allowed to playchess, checkers, dominoes and innocent card games in the Headquarters. The resolution came up for its first reading to be re-read and voted on at the July meeting.

A resolution was read pledging moral and financial support of the E. B. D. to the press committee in New York for the purpose of negotiating a new wage schedule with the press associations. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Good of the order: The Chair annunced the presence of a number of distinguished guests, consisting of those of the press committees who found it possible to be at the meeting. Brother Shea, General Chairman of the United Press Division, was introduced as the first speaker and took for his subject, "Solidification". He told of the unsuccessful efforts to launch the O. B. U. (One Big Union) and of the more recent movement of the cardless organisation commonly known as the B. B. U. (Big Business Union). His grasp of current events unionwise proved very interesting as was evidenced by the generous applause accorded him.

International Secretary-Treasurer Powers followed. The outstanding feature of his talk was an outline of the remarkable progress made in reducing the indebtedness of the C. T. U. A. Brother Powers' speech was bullish for the organisation, and at the conclusion he was accorded a big hand.

Brother Percy Thomas excused himself from accepting the invitation of the Chair to say a few words, in order to conserve time for other speakers.

The Chair next introduced Brother Ralph W. Pope, the dean of telegraphers, who compared the struggles of the telegraphers as far back as 1868 and those of today. His interesting and instructive remarks were heartily welcomed.

International President Roscoe H. Johnson was the next and last speaker. President Johnson gave us a complete outline of everything that has been transpiring within the organization including the then ponding press schedule negotiations. His remarks with reference to the recent great strides made by the Western Broker Division was of especial interest to the members.

At this meeting six new applicants were admitted to membership in the E. B. D.

The boys on the Pacific Coast are laying plans for the establishment of a Pacific Coast Division. Members of the E. B. D. who work overland wires are urgently requested to do everything in their power to assist our Coast brothers in this direction.

In an editorial in a recent issue of the New York Journal, Damon Runyon, the writer, commenting on the retirement of Delaware B. (Baldy) Baldwin from the telegraph room of the Evening Journal, says in the last paragraph of his article: "The reader will perhaps gather that this writer has a very high opinion of telegraph operators. The reader is quite right." Many thanks, Damon, for the compliment. You are one friend that the oft misjudged "op" can bank on.

Just as we are going to press we have been informed that a baby boy arrived at the home of Brother E. O. Foster. Congratulations Brother Foster.

HARRIS, WINTHROP & CO.

Well here's another from the Harris Winthrop gang at N. Y.

Winthrop gang at N. Y.

"Buck" Ewing (Himself) is once more with us, as is Jack Phillips, old I. N. S'er.
Frank Cameron is knocking em over on the Otis N. Y. Circuit and correcting copy of our genial stenographer, Fitz. Bunyan
(Bun) is next to him on the old Boston loop, and Senator Burgee is still at the wheel of the Washington Richmond circuit. Bob Christian and Buck Ewing are the battery on the Pittsburgh line.

Jake Theis, our Parkersburg boy, is on the "press wire," Chicago and points west. Bob White, Jim Miller and Fred Rowe, when not relieving the skipper, are the boys on the Chicago wires. Joe McGivern is still on Wheeling, West Va.

Al LeGate and John McLaren are scratching along on the Phila duplex, and daily querying "who has the 'A' wire today?" The old reliable Joe Croxton is on the Hardy Dana outfit, running through West Virginia, and last but not least old "NB" Meade is quoting the market to the same gang. It's a hundred per cent outfit and as can be seen from the above line-up, all He-men.

"The Worm Turns"

This cuckoo bird which you have heard
Escaped the booby-hatch
And so arrived at this here dive and penned

That awful batch
Of rhymeless rhymes and senseless lines
And cock-eyed metaphor
Came snooping back to take a crack
At those he missed before.

The boys had wondered who in thunder'd Have the gall infernal,

To scribble wheezes such as these
That came out in the Journal.
So they set a trap and caught the yap
As he came through the door
And they socked him hard and soon this bard

He ope'd his eyes in great surprise
And gurgled "what's the matter?"
Said we, "you'll see, right suddenly,
So cease your idle chatter."

Lay dreaming on the floor.

"Bear this in mind, we're not the kind,
To harbor any ill-feeling.
But your offense against us gents,
Has set our senses reeling.
Now we'll agree to set you free
If you will just acquaint us
With your name and how you came
In verses punk to paint us."

A hurt expression took possession
Of his features hollow.
With heavy sighs and tearful eyes,
He spoke to us as follows:
"I'm called a nut, but brains I've got,
Sufficient to restrain me,
From writing guff like this here stuff,
For which you now detain me.

"If Connelly calls this fol-de-rol Poetic inspiration He'd better stick to the clickety-click Of telegraph operation.

"Well boys," said he, as we set him free,
"I feel no animosity,
But why the deuce is Connelly loose,
When they lock up harmless boobs like me."

"CO-OPERATION"

CO-OPERATION — The association, or collective action of persons for their common benefit, especially in industry.

Many of our members have the cooperative spirit. We regret to say we find it lacking in others. A splendid illustration of co-operation was furnished by the brother who recently telephoned to Secretary Hickey, and called his attention to an advertisement in a morning newspaper. As a direct result of this lead, two worthy brothers now enjoy permanent employment.

Another brother recently obtained a very satisfactory job in a Southern city as a result of co-operation.

A member of the New England Broker Division was placed permanently through the co-operation of an E. B. D. brother, Secretary Hickey and the Secretary of the N. E. B. D.

These recent cases are cited as examples of what is being done. Lack of space prevents us from citing many others. Have you the will to co-operate? If so you will find many opportunities.

Keep your ears open, and when you hear of a new wire connection, or a vacancy, or anything that may lead to a job, either in New York City or elsewhere, promptly notify Secretary Hickey and give him all the facts that you possess.

A splendid system of co-operation exists between the officials of the various Broker Divisions and Secretary Hickey, who has arranged methods of rapid communication with these officials. We can cover the job if it is in the United States, Canada or Cuba.

Now how about your good friend at the other end of the string. He is a good fellow and he co-operates with you. Traffic moves smoothly and rapidly because of this co-operation and as a result your employer is receiving splendid service.

When it will not interfere with your employer's business find out if your coworker enjoys the benefits of membership in our great brotherhood. If he does not, explain it to him, and when he is in a receptive mood, notify Secretary Hickey and he will do the rest.

Co-operate, help others and by so doing make your organization more powerful, thereby helping yourself.

Brother "Jack" McCloskey, who is now located at Buffalo, is working hard to line up the broker men in that city. A recent report received from Jack is very encouraging. A Sunday meeting is being planned to which all telegraphers of Buffalo will be invited. With Jack McCloskey, Bob Allen, P. H. Irey and Sister Mary Macauley working together to carry out the plans for an intensive campaign, success is assured.

Members of the E. B. D. and other Divisions are requested to co-operate in the campaign by getting names and addresses of telegraphers working the Buffalo end of their circuits and send these names in to Secretary Hickey.

THE SOUNDER OF

Conducted by Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division 21

Meeting Date: Second Wednesday of Each Month at Union of Commerce Hall, 149 Berri St., Montreal.

—Organize—Co-operate—

The initiation fee from now on is $10 (ten dollars). Don't forget it, Brothers, we have only a few left, and we would like to see 'em all in. We are sure their suggestions would be valuable, and with all in we might work up some plan for help in dull times, such as Toronto District is contemplating. No hard feelings now, felers, all get in. The street is almost 98 percent strong, and what a lot we could do if we got together strong at meetings. It takes enthusiasm to keep it going; once going good, don't let her drop. The commercial men are doing their share to keep up our conditions, so help yourselves by attending all meetings, and any suggestions will be thankfully received and considered. It's your Union, not the officers'. Finances are in better shape than ever; each local has a substantial fund and the general fund is good.

We thank Bro. Hickey, of the E. B. D., for all the flashes we get. If you don't hear from us often, it's because we are busy on our little work here. Mickey Mc-Fadden told us you were some bunch of hustlers.

BRIEFLETS

General Chairman Des Lauriers is on vacation. Logan & Bryan generally have a good showing at meetings, but how about Tom Walsh, Suggett, and a few others attending a little more regularly? Eddie Cohen, you'll get as good stuff at Berri St. as you'll get on that parlor set of your. Mebbe Walter Otten uses the radio on meeting nights. How about installing one at the meeting and broadcasting our stuff? Will you radio bugs pay the expenses, what?

Bro. Bob Lussey has returned from Shawinigan Falls, looking fine and burned up by the sun. How about the 3 dogs, Bob, are they coming by express or freight?

Bro. Andrew Long is on holiday. Shorty is sojourning in the mountains, with occasional trips to City, in fact is spreading the vacation out as much as possible, Shorty needs the rest after the strenuous days at Laidlaws, on East wire. Bro. Mc-Kenna is relieving him

Kenna is relieving him.

Local Chairman Edwin Weston is back from Plymouth, Mass., where he and Mrs. Weston spent their vacation. Ed's mother, we hear, is in good health, and he and Mrs. Weston arrived back in fine spirits. Ed says he lived on clams, mackerel and lobsters. Some change from the Montreal diet, say we.

Bro. Walter Otten threatens to take that car of his to Loose Ankle, or San Fran, we don't know which. Say Walter what about a trip to the meeting hall again for a change? You can drive some of the gang home, and get some boosters for your car.

Bro. Whitaker did not officiate at the piano at the big Smoker. He says the SONATA was not written in the right key, and though he hasn't lost his grip yet, the fingering was too hard.

Bro. McKenna told the writer once, that he couldn't handle the bow, or finger the strings, like he used to, but he can still send a mite with the violin upside down.

We extend best wishes to Bro. Heroux of Treis Rivieres, and to Bros. Albert Ross, Bill Perks, and Jack Lawson.

Jimmy Boston is all recuperated from the Smoker Evening.

Jimmy Ross, is doing the relieving at McDougall & Cowans. Welcome home. James. Too bad Jones & Baker had to blow up. Hope to see you around for a long time.

Bro. Castleman! how's the scenery crossing the Victoria Bridge these nights? Buy a return ticket for Berri Street Hall, next Wednesday, eh Cas?

A ball team is being talked about around Street. We will try to make arrangements to get the boys up to Fletcher's field and have a work out, then play the CNT or some other bunch.

Bro. Ernie Cole spent a few days at Morrison, north of Ste. Agathe, with Bro. Long. Any fish Ernie?

We hear Bro. Purcell of Halifax is Commodore of St. Mary's Boat Club, Halifax. Is this right, Hub? Hope the water's fine, ole scout.

Bro. Scriver takes his holidays in the fall to shoot ducks.

Congratulations to Toronto, Central District. Bros. Clarke and Jim Culkin are sure on the job. Wonder how Jimmy does it and 'tend ball games too, and dance the merry fantastic at the Island?

We hear of new arrivals at Bros. Larry Des Laurier's and Joe Roy's homes. Congratulations, boys. Bro. Gorman reports the arrival of a fine big boy at his home on June 23rd. Congratulations, George. Of course, you are a young man yet compared to the Logan & Bryan crowd.

We understand that Bro. Suggett, Logan & Bryan, is raising a moustache on the profit of poker games.

Bro. Jack O'Donnell ses the flies are awful out Verdun way. He and Mrs. O'Donnell have the house all screened up. Never mind, Jack, they only last about a fortnight, at least that's the dope from the suburbanites. Jack and Jack Wisely got a string of fish, but lost a five pound black bass, they say.

Bro. Merritt went and got spliced last month. Are we giving away any secret, Brother?

Bro. Major looks chipper these days. What's up, quit the Y. M. C. A.?

Wonder what makes Bro. Wishy Troy so happy these days?

Bro. Hines was at the last Smoker but minus the old cob pipe.

Bro. Voyer says he may spend the vacation at some resort on the Atlantic with the family. Hear the mother and child are both doing fine. Attaboy, Arthur.

This local is getting so big, we can't remember all the boys in one issue. Send us in a few lines when you have anything interesting about the gang.

We used to see Bro. Lavigne playing ball over at Lafontaine Park. Don't you think you could come up when we get the ball games started, Joe, and do a Babe Ruth for the leased wire boys?

How about our packing company friends, don't they ever attend a meeting? Someone take notice.

Names of nons, delinks, are to be exchanged with all secretaries, so don't have your name on that list. Come in fast before list is compiled.

Alas, and alack—our friend Bobby Strathdee of Nesbitt Thompson has gone and done it. Spent his money and honeymoon at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa. We hope, Bobby, that they will all be boys.

Are the ladies at the Royal Bank getting forgetful?

Sister Brotherton is still plugging away at the National City.

How come don't hear much about Ralph Dow these days?

Pay your dues early and help the secretary. He's got a lot to do. Pay 'em fast and 'tend the meetings. We can't have interesting meetings without a crowd. Don't get posted by underground channels, come to the hall.

TORONTO NOTES

Congratulations to Brother Bill Watts, who on July 1st, was appointed Manager of the New York stock department of Stewart, McNair & Co., members of the Toronto Stock Exchange and one of To-Brother Watts has ronto's best houses. been one of the best known and most loved members of the fraternity in Canada for the past 35 years. It was Brother Bill who fifteen years ago organized the first broker division in Canada. He is at present a member of the Local Executive Board of Central District Div. 21, and is president of the "Bulls and Bears," division's hockey team. His association with the stock brokerage business goes back 30 years, 14 of which were given to the firm of Brouse. Mitchell & Co.

While Bro. Watts goes up he will not go "out" and we will continue to have the benefit of his energy and advice. Bro. Watts' popularity among all classes in the financial district assures his success in his new position. The members of Division 21 extend him their heartfelt congratulations and every wish for good luck.

Bro. W. R. Watts

We welcome to the fold Miss Margaret Pfieffer, Union Bank of Canada, and Charlie Cantwell, McDougall and Cowans, also Bro. L. G. Leslie Johnston and Ward London, who is transferring from C. P. R. Division.

Only eight nons left in this district and we have hopes of landing them before the harvest season sets in.

Bro. Frank Sterling stepped in at Campbell Stratton & Co. and they like him much. Stick to it, Frank.

Only a few attended our last meeting, but the weather was awful hot. We hope for more this month.

Conducted by The New England Brokers' Division, Headquarters and Employment Bureau, No. 7 State Street, Boston, Mass.

Regular monthly meetings at Headquarters, last Monday in the month.

By J. A. Neimant

Now and then we have a misunderstanding and sometimes considerable by-play of talk because someone is not familiar with the by-laws. The employment situation is chiefly concerned in this matter.

If you read the by-laws you will understand that if you know of a vacancy, permanent or otherwise, even if it is only your own vacation scoop, you are supposed to notify a member of the employment committee and no one else. You are not permitted to negotiate the filling of the vacancy without the consent of the employment committee. If you have preference as to whom you want for the position, no objections will be raised; but you must notify the proper persons. Whether the candidate you select is a good union man or not has nothing to do with the case; the by-laws were adopted through the wishes and consent of the general membership, and it is for you and me to abide by them. Where authority is vested without power, there can be no control, which follows that any jurisdiction must be without avail and no organization can live if its members continually break the rules they themselves make. Hearty co-operation is the keynote to success.

The above has been stressed upon time and time again, but still some who should know better disregard it. New members take particular notice.

One of the most ambitious men I know is named Church. He works for Jackson & Curtis, Boston. He gets a nice long vacation, but is so keen for work that previous to his vacation he canvasses the street looking for a scoop during the time he is supposed to be resting from a year's labor. Mr. Church was dropped from membership some time ago for non-payment of dues. Previous to that he had been on the carpet for being too energetic in looking out for number one. This is the spirit we have to contend with in building up an organization. Let us hope we do not discover any more of this sort of piety.

The other day I met a former member who dropped out because he did not know any better. It is about a year since he lost his seat in the Sun. Since then he has had no permanent position, but through his energy manages to get a week here and a day there. He is a pleasant fellow and has a good personality—but is a bit obstinate. His refusal to pay a small assessment has cost him something. At that I admire his pride and restraint in not mentioning the affair when I talk to him. He knows he was wrong, and also that the knowledge comes too late.

At the June meeting it was voted to discontinue regular monthly meetings until September on account of the hot weather. However, the board of directors will meet to discuss any matters of importance which may arise. Headquarters will be open as usual and there will always be someone around to say "Hello."

Tuesday, June the third, the board of directors met to discuss action on the telephone strike which is now raging in New England. It was voted to give the strikers our moral and financial support as far as possible; to help persuade operators still at work to leave, and to endorse the strike in unanimity with other labor organizations of this territory.

At this time of the year the question of dues becomes an important one. It should not be necessary for the secretary to send out notices or to be forced to almost beg for them as if he were asking a favor; but it does seem sometimes as if some made it a rule to be behind time. The dates are the first of January and the first of July. If not paid within two months you are no longer in good standing, your funeral benefit protection becomes then inoperative until sixty days after the payment of your dues, and besides this, you do not get your Journal. So why not pay promptly and get your full money's worth. It also helps all around. It shows better spirit, helps you and helps us.

Send remittances to J. A. Neimant, 108 F. St., South Boston, Mass.

REDMOND NOTES By "Murf"

Vacations are still under way. The summary:

John A. Neimant squandered a week driving his Columbago-6 to Washington, via N. Y., Phila and Baltimore. He insists that he could have made the trip in four days had it not been for a slight delay of two hours in N. Y. waiting for the Aquitania to come out of dry-dock so they could put his dray in. All they could find on her underparts were a few roosters and several tortoises. When they pried the impedimenta off the gears Nemo started for Washington. He made splendid time (he had to). His total expenditures for the trip were for a post-card that he mailed to Joe Coughlin, in which he conveyed his kindest regards. No great interest was manifested.

Jake Horgan had a week's respite. He consumed it arguing with his brother over where they would take Jake's Fordie the following Sunday and brother had his say. It rained.

Ernest Shackford passed two-weeks up in Cow Hampshire. There was no way of spending it there,

Fred McKenna chose Canada for his. It will take him two weeks to check up the Quebec Central time-table with the Litany of the Saints. He thinks the Litany omits a few saints.

A hospital is an awful place to spend a vake. But Red Brennan looks forward with glee to awaking from ether to find a handsome nurse holding his hand and packing him in hot water bags. He is to undergo a minor operation, some small thing like having his upholstery renewed.

The famous Atkinson-Doherty duo will play Martha's Vineyard for two weeks. Matty will do the social stuff, he made lots of promises last year and those ladies will be joyful to see him. Tommy will choose a high spot on the cliff where he can watch the rum-runners skoot across the Sound and—just wish.

Harry Barron wouldn't divulge where he intends going. It is presumed that he is visiting the gent that works the other end of the wire. Two weeks won't be enough.

Brother Kingsley tempus fugited his week at Hope, R. I. That's where Whispering Hope was discovered. It is famous as the Metropolis of the Clam Chowder Zone. King's former neighbors wanted him to stay over till election day so that he could vote for Martin Van Buren.

Montreal Convention Monday, October 1st, 1923

·	MICHIGAN	BROKER	DIVISION
---	----------	--------	----------	--

Regular meeting held at residence of Bro. H. J. Nadeau, June 29th, 1923. Favorable action was taken upon the applications for membership of Earl W. Mayer, employed at Hornblower & Weeks; and E. C. Fink, employed at W. A. Harriman & Co.

The subject of vacation reliefs was introduced by President Blakeley, who stated that a relief man is wanted for Whittlesey McLean & Co., for July 8th. Discussion developed the fact that there are at present no MBD members available for relief work, but every effort will be made to provide subs for this as well as other vacations approaching. Members are asked to keep in touch with local officers in connection with this matter.

President Blakeley announced that the Canadian Press desires a man for London, Ont.; a permanent position. Bro. Thompson volunteered to pass the word to Bro. Pat Casey, now at Detroit Postal, as being the only known member likely to be interested. Bro. John Dugan, now subbing for Canadian Press at Windsor, will be notified.

A letter from the United Press System Division general committee, addressed to the members of that division and dated June 21, was read. The committee, headed by Charles Shea, general chairman, is in New York to meet the management and negotiate a contract for 1923-24. A resolution was unanimously adopted assuring the press Committees of our support.

H. G. NADEAU, Secretary.

The next order of business was nomination of candidates for delegate to the Montreal convention in October, 1923. A ballot carrying nine candidates was decided upon. Members will be furnished with these ballots on which they are asked to mark off the name of the candidate they wish to vote for. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected; the next in order shall be Alternate No. 1; the next, Alternate No. 2, etc. H. A. Kauhl and W. F. Balmes will have charge of the ballots when returned.

Bros. Blakeley, Nadeau and Neumann were appointed to arrange the next meeting, which will be held at country home of Bro. Edward Nadeau, near Redford, probably on a Saturday afternoon, Aug. 4.

NOTES

. We are very much pleased and gratified to report that our honorable president has landed one of the best jobs in the city, with the First National Co. of Detroit. He secured the job from a field of nearly 50, although he was the highest bidder for the place. All of which goes to show that a high class man doesn't have to go far before he lands in the best place. Bro. Al Day's services have been so much in demand for vacation work that he has had to neglect his real estate activities which have been very successful.

The secretary-treasurer received a letter from President Mickey McDaniels of the Western Broker Division who advises that he is going on a long vacation trip and try to recuperate a little bit after his strenuous activities in marking the big board at G. F. Redmonds in Chicago and covering the western half of the continent in the broker field. We promptly wired Mickey to include Detroit in his trip on his return and we will put on a "pep" party with the incomparable Mickey as the guest of honor. Mickey advised later that he will try to make it on his return or shortly thereafter and we are looking forward to having a real treat instilled and distilled into us. Bro. Ed Nadeau says he will be glad to open his country home as headquarters and the committee on arrangements is making every effort to try to arrange the affair as a real annual picnic with the ladies all present in goodly numbers. Probable date Saturday afternoon Aug. 4.

Bro. E. J. Morgan blew in town from Buffalo and points east last week and is doing a short turn at the Postal until he can make the right connection.

Bro. R. L. Shaffert, who returned from New York last month where he had a nice place with H. O. Hentz & Co., has lined himself up with Van Ness & Co.

Bro. Don Fiedler, formerly with Jones & Baker, is visiting folks down in Ohio and recovering from a partial nervous breakdown after taking a fling at the A. P.

If Bro. Hy Lee were as enthusiastic a fisherman as he is race-track follower, you could find him most any day on the banks of Lake St. Clair betting on the fish. We must agree, however, that Hy does know horsement pretty well, on form.

The dues have been coming through in fine style and we are steadily gaining and at no meeting in the last six months have we failed to add two or more members to our roster. If all members will pay up promptly we will be sitting pretty. We have grown to such an extent that we cannot sit idly by and let things ride as they have in the past. We must keep in closer touch and follow up our affairs closely even during the summer months, otherwise we cannot get the best results or benefits from the advantage of the strong position into which we have worked. We are going fine right now and it would be folly to sit down and let everything drift along until fall when we will have more time and feel more disposed to exert ourselves. By keeping things going as we now have them we won't have to go to the trouble of getting up steam again in the fall.

Pay your dues and keep in touch with things. Don't fall dead! Don't sit idly by, there is plenty for all to do.

W. M. A. B. D. NOTES

Things on the street are very quiet. Since our last appearance we have had another shock, the failure of L. L. Winkleman & Co. It left out Bros. Woodhall, McCabe and Robertson here and others at Uniontown and Wheeling where they had just opened a week previous.

Bro. Woodhall caught on subbing for Bro. Eddie Sullivan at Harriman's. Bro. Sullivan was taken to the hospital suffering from hernia, but is rapidly recovering and will be back in the saddle shortly. Bro. McCabe is filling in vacation time at Morris Brown & Co.

Bro. Cooney of Harriman's expects to be transferred to Chicago shortly.

Bros. Lafferty and "Jimmie" Dugan are the experts in charge of N. C. Halsey's city office. Bro. Hanson is at Franklin & Klee at Chambersburg.

Bro. M. J. Dougherty of Kay Richards & Co. is on his vacation and was relieved by Frank Barr. Bros. Shade and Homer Brown of the same firm will likely follow

Bro. Dougherty.

Bro. Steve Aubrey is now in the ice cream and confectionery business down in West Virginia. The firm he was with, Hardy Dana, reduced their overhead and let out three men. Bro. Tommy Stunt is also with this firm.

Bro. Lloyd Wilson is subbing at the A. P.

Bros. Howard and Fred Hinman are with the Consolidated and I. N. S. Bro. Bruce H. Owens is also with the I. N. S.

Messrs. Brockschmidt (Brock), Colebrook, Inks and Leiptzig are at Moore, Leonard & Lynch's.

Bro. Charlie Hagan is holding down the quotation wire for the New York News Bureau (Curb qtns.). Bro. B. H. Williams is with the new house, Nicholson, Oberman & Robinson, Wheeling, W. Va., correspondents of Sam Ungerleiter & Co., Cleveland.

Bro. Flesher is at the Wheeling end and Bros. Gerry Fisher and Ben Hall at the Parkersburg end for Merriman & Co.

Bro. Reits is still chalking them up for Frank McNulty.

OBITUARY

It is with the deepest regret that we chronicle news of Harry W. Orr's death at the age of 69.

Bro. Orr was one of the oldest and best known press telegraphers in the United States. He was one of the first to work for the Associated Press when they opened their own telegraph offices back in 1884. The office was in the basement of the old First National Bank Building. Bro. Jack McCloskey did the twirling from New York.

Bro. Orr was with all the press associations, but his last position was with the I. N. S. here and later he went East. Harry always carried a card while telegraphing and was the friend of every union operator.

The sympathy of the Pittsburg Unit is extended to the bereaved family.

DELEGATES ELECTED

At the election of delegates and alternates to the bi-ennial convention of the C. T. U. A., to be held at Montreal in October, the following members were elected:

Delegates for W. M. A. B. D. — C. P. McCutcheon, R. C. Patterson. Alternates, W. M. A. B. D. — H. W. Reitz, Lawrence Laitta.

Delegate for District No. 6.—C. P. Mc-Cutcheon. Alternate, District No. 6.—C. B. McCabe.

W. B. D. BALL PROVES BIG SUCCESS

By J. G. Jones, Chairman Entertainment Committee

Well, Folks, the "Big Ball" is over, and judging from the attendance and from those that verbally gave their expressions of entire satisfaction, congratulations, best wishes, etc., it was a howling success in every respect. If proof were needed, our ball proved the W. B. D. is still here, and rapidly progressing in every conceivable way. Watch our DUSTY TRAIL during the ensuing months.

I want to thank each and every one for their spirited co-operation in making our Dance such a grand success.

Socially it was one of the greatest achievements possible.

Financially, it was a much greater success than we had hoped for. This affair was merely the beginning of a long program of entertainments to be staged by this division. We would appreciate hearing from anyone with suggestions for the betterment of our future entertainments.

I wish especially to thank the different committees who so ably assisted me. During my varied experiences I can conscientiously say that I have at no time ever been accorded such wonderful co-operation. Without their hearty co-operation it would have been quite impossible to bring this affair to such a successful conclusion. I am convinced that with such able and willing workers in the organization the division will at no time find it difficult to successfully promote anything which they might undertake. I might add, however, that all of us should put our shoulders to the wheel and do everything possible to perfect our organization, solidify our craft, and bring about conditions that will benefit all of us.

A motto to be given serious consideration by many who have not stopped to consider what assistance they might be to the organization other than paying their dues is to THINK UNIONISM, TALK UNIONISM, and work for UNIONISM. Try this and it will be surprising just what the results will be.

NOTICE

I wish to thank the different Committees, the membership, and our many friends for their whole-hearted support and co-operation in making our Annual Dance a success.

R. H. McDANIEL, President.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES

Brother Henry J. ("Heinie") Wiegel, who has been laid up for several weeks following a serious street car accident, is once more on his old stamping grounds. Henry was struck by a surface line car on the Madison Street incline as he was crossing to the Northwestern Railroad depot. He was dragged some distance, rendered unconscious for several hours, his clothing was torn, and he sustained lacerations on the body and severe contusions on the head. For some time it was thought his skull was fractured. He is looking a bit frayed at the edges, but shows signs of soon regaining his old time physical form. Henry is immensely popular in "The Street." and his gerial personality is known far beyond the confines of the Chicago financial district. As a statesman in the telegraph world "Heinie" has many imitators but few, if any, equals. He has served Pynchon & Co. for many years. His many friends will be gratified to hear of his recovery.

That quiet and unobtrusive but withal versatile writer, "Give and Take," after much urging has consented to regale the membership with a second edition of "The Headless Morseman," which attracted general attention in The Journal several months ago. "Give and Take" has previously confined his literary efforts to the daily press, now and anon contributing to periodicals. He has kept abreast of the telegraph movement for many years, and none is better qualified to speak on that subject than he. A natural reticence has militated against a more prolific display of his literary wares from a telegraphic viewpoint.

Brothers W. A. Jacobus and Edward L. Boole played the star parts in the enrollment of converts during the month. They displayed salesmanship of a high order, garnering between them twenty-five proselytes. Coupled with his success in leading converts into the union fold, "Jake" disposed of fifty pasteboards to the ball, and thus scored "high gun" among the ticket sellers. He hypnotized "Ed" into purchasing his complement of tickets from him, but when Boole sought a bit of reciprocity in the way of joining the Old Time Telegraphers' and Historical Association he found "Jake" absolutely adamant. "The old hound is a prime seller, but a damned poor buyer," quoth Boole.

Brother H. L. Boggess has again returned to his old love, Chicago, after several swings around the circle and is permanently hooked with his former employers. A. O. Slaughter & Co. Hoy, one of the simon pure old timers, is an chipper as a two-year-old and as active. It would take a lightning calculator to compute the number of union cards Hoy has carried in his lifetime. He was a member of several telegraph unions long before the C. T. U. A. was conceived. Always a 100 per cent union man his brilliant example might well be copied with profit by many telegraphers of the present day.

Brother Ed Roole, after filling in a vacation stunt for Mc Donnell & Co.. the well known San Francisco brokerage concern, is now performing, for the fourth consecutive year, a similar service at the First National Bank, Chicago. Ed prefers the free lance system.

Brother Fred B. Claar, having severed his connection with J. S. Bache & Co., for good and divers reasons, has relieved Walter Bivin at J. H. Oliphant & Co., while the latter devotes himself to an extended automobile trip and camping out stunt throught the Northwest.

Brothers "Solly" Schreier and J. J. ("Big Shooter") Sullivan were hooked up on the fast Mc Donnell & Co., Frisco duplex (via Thomson & Mc Kinnon) during June. The raillery indulged in by this superb pair of experts was more than noticeable. General Gloom has to hide his unprepossessing physiognomy when "Solly" and "Sully" have an interchange of banter.

Harry Albaugh and "Jack" Murray are always on the job at meetings of the General Executive Board. The repartee indulged in by these two worthies acts as a tonic in the digestion of the problems coming before that body.

Brother George A. Ledsworth, of Thomson-Mc Kinnon, spent his well earned vacation in Chicago where he could be near the family physician. He has been suffering from a kidney complaint for several years, but this has yielded to the rest and medical treatment. George is noted for his geniality, and no matter how bad things break for him he is always optimistic. In fact some of the boys term him the advance agent of optimism.

Brother John H. Murphy, than whom no telegrapher is better known in the Chicago financial district, has forsaken the key and made a connection with the New York stock exchange house of Lage & Co., as a counting room solicitor. His many friends wish him success in his new field. John was under the gun for many years in the press and broker fields.

Harry M. Krone and "Zack" Purdy, the the original Bards of Tara, are again united. They comprised the Chicago telegraph force of E. F. Clark & Co., during that firm's meteoric rise and fall. After the failure Harry took to the road as a furniture salesman, but is again back in the street doing vacation work at Thomson-Mc Kinnon. "Zack" is with Logan & Bryan. No two bugs in a rug are chummier than these two bright young experts.

Brother Burton A. Dunlap is filling in a six weeks vacation period at Shearson-Hammill.

Brother Archibald V. Jordan, after filling in vacations at the Equitable Trust Co. has transferred his allegiance to Howe, Quissenberry & Co. Inc., on a similar mission.

Anyone wishing a picture of the Dance, or anyone who placed an order for one may secure same by calling on Secretary Goodale. Brother Goodale would like to dispose of as many of them as possible.

Brother Tom Costello is working vacations at Lowitz and Co. Tom was one of our unfortunate brothers to lose out when the New York curb house of Jones & Baker went to the wall. Tom wiggles a tantalizing bug and can deliver the goods at all stages of the game.

Brother Louis Kranisch, who was with the old established firm of Knauth, Nachod & Kuhne prior to their failure, has been assigned to vacation work at Hallgarten & Co., relieving Brother Fowles.

Brother Barney Quinn of Dean, Onativia & Co., announces that he is a full fledged agent for the Durant and Star Cars and will appreciate hearing from any of the brothers who are in the market for a real bus, Dorchester 7202 is Barney's home phone number.

Among the new arrivals are Brothers Martin and Keily of the Eastern Broker Division, and Alexander and Barber of the M. B. D. and O. B. D. Welcome to our city Brothers.

Brother Joseph Sussman is doing his stuff at the Tribune in the absence of Chief Operator Anderson, who attended the Dempsey-Gibbons exhibition at Shelby, on July 4th.

Brother Alexander is taking care of the vacations at Dean-Onativia, and Brother Kreeger doing likewise at Stein Alstrin & Co.

Brother and Mrs. B. A. Benson departed July 4th for an extended trip throughout the North Coast. We hated to see you go, Benny, and wish to extend our best wishes to you and Mrs. Benson for a pleasant trip.

Jack Surface has returned from his vacation, bringing back with him Mrs. Jack Surface. He confided his plans to no one in the office, but spent his honeymoon quietly at "The Dells," Kilbourne, Wisc. All hands were agreeably surprised when they heard the news. The boys on the line and the bond trades presented him with a bag of gold. Jack announced he is going to save it, and buy a baby carriage some day. Congratulations, Jack.

Brother Lou Howell is vacationing in Saugatuck, Mich. He brought along three sets of fishing rods with him. Lou is some angler. Let's hope he leaves a few fish for the natives out there.

Jack Martin, formerly with Livingston & Co., New York, is making the reliefs.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

At an enthusiastic meeting held in the Labor Temple, July 7th, the Pacific Coast membership of the Western Broker Division voted unanimously to petition the W. B. Now, boys, up and at 'em. Every member is an organizer.

We want a strong division and with the assistance of every member it won't take us long to get it.

The failure of A. W. Coote & Company, who maintained offices in several Southern California cities, liquidated about 28 men. Those having the proper credentials were able to make connections shortly after the failure. This bears out Bro. Mike Connelly's poem, "Tragedy," which appeared in last month's Journal. This article was read and enjoyed by all hands.

Bro. Ellis has just returned from his vacation, which was spent motoring in Northern California. He reports the apricot crop suffering from the boll weevil.

Bro. Acton is sojourning between Inglewood and Hawthorne, on his vacation, so it is said.

Bro. Bacon recently spent a week look-

SIX CANDIDATES IN W. B. D.

Election of delegates from the Western Broker Division to the biennial convention in Montreal will be held on August 17. Three are to be selected from the following list of six: E. L. Boole, J. J. Murray, R. H. McDaniel, G. B. Miller, R. W. Goodale and J. B. Alcorn. The three receiving the lowest number of votes will be declared alternate delegates.

OBITUARY

We regret to announce that another of our grand brothers has been called away. On Wednesday, June 27th, 1923, Brother Frank Schoenberg, well known throughout the telegraph and financial world for a number of years, passed away at his home, 2745 Jackson Blvd., Chicago.

Brother Schoenberg, who had been employed by the firm of Hulburd-Warren and Chandler for the past five or six years, will be missed by all. The entire division extends heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Schoenberg and relatives.

HARD W. B. D. WORKERS

Wireman Patrick McNulty of the Bureau, Fire Alarm Telegraph, N. Y. F. D., recently won another decision for the prevailing rate of wages for wiremen when the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court confirmed the decision of a lower court that he is entitled to the prevailing rate paid to wiremen in this district.

The decision carried with it permission to the City to appeal to the Appellate Division within twenty days, if so desired. And the City of New York has served notice of appeal!

A most peculiar case in itself, where in 1922 the City so far acknowledged Wireman McNulty's right to the prevailing rate that it paid him the amount which included several hundred dollars "back pay." This continued until Dec. 31, 1922, when the City put him back to the old lower rate and refused to provide for him in the 1923 budget.

Hence the court case with two legal victories for McNulty, but—not the money. The City must pay eventually, so why not now?

Our best wishes are with "Paddy" in his worthy fight and we all feel he has received mighty poor civic gratitude after his more than twenty years faithful service.

Our own case is lagging through no fault of our own. It will in all probability come up again about the 13th of July. In a way, we are about even up with the wireman's case, in so far as favorable decisions are concerned; the State Industrial Commission's report and that of the Corporation Counsel. So courage is the word and you may all be assured that your committee is still going strong—stronger if anything.

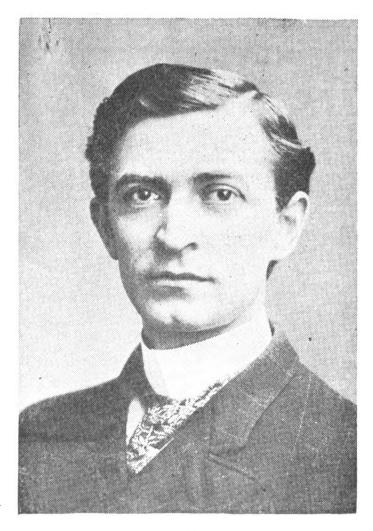

The Manhattan Dispatchers are indebted to Honorary Deputy Chief Robert H. Mainzer for his thoughtfulness in providing, at his own expense, three large first-class Westinghouse electric fans for use in the Manhattan office. They were a god-send during the extremely hot spell of June and the boys wish to assure the chief of their appreciation.

We are pleased to announce that Chapel No. 1 is now actively connected with the New York State Federation of Labor, being a holder of a certificate of membership.

The funds of the Chapel are now deposited with the Federation Bank of New York, 34th St and 8th Ave., of which Brother Peter J. Brady is president.

The transfer was made by Chairman Martin and Secretary-Treasurer Marshall early in July.

CANADIAN RADIO DIVISION, NUMBER 65

The invitation for nominations for the General Chairmanship and General Secretaryship of this Division made in the May issue of the Journal having brought no response, it is assumed that the members are satisfied with the arrangement hitherto adopted, of having the B. C. District Committee act also as General Committee. Nominations have therefore been closed, as from the end of June.

The International Officers have approved of the change of name for this Division which our headline indicates, with jurisdiction including all radiotelegraphers in Canada not covered already by other units. This much desired change of title removes any anomaly from our acceptance of other than government employees in Division 65, and we hope to recruit all the unattached radio men in Canada to our ranks. Canadian Radio Division aims to embrace the operators of all privately owned radio stations (other than those which fall under the Canadian Marconi Division, number 59), whether on ship or on shore. We particularly have in mind the thirty-odd private-firm stations operating at lumber and mining camps and the radio men of various lines of steamers who are directly employed by the shipowners. These men, some of whom have in the past applied for membership to either this or Division 59 and been refused or otherwise put off, will now have an opportunity to show their sympathy with a movement which aims to make radio in Canada "the job it ought to be." When all radio men are organized, there can be no impediment to our progress; we shall belong to a well-paid and respected profession. To the members of the Canadian Government Radio Service, on both the east and the west coast, who have brought the Canadian Radio Division into being, will belong a large share of the credit of making radio what it will be.

The holiday relief scheme recently promulgated at Victoria received a serious setback before it had begun to operate, and it is to be hoped that the practical experience of having two or three men on the sick list at one time will bring the authorities to recognize a fact that is patent to everyone else, namely, that you can't run stations giving "PG" service without an adequate staff.

Meet our two new members, Brother J. C. Stephen and Brother S. A. Galbraith. You may have heard of Steve before, as leader of the Alert Bay orchestra; Brother Galbraith is on the "Newington" and is by no means a dead one. Brother S. C. Jackson, in his launch "Marjax," is taking a 28-day trip down the coast of British Columbia. Considering that he built the ship himself, his only tools being a saw and a hammer, his departure from Prince Rupert was regarded as an event, and his return will be a miracle.

Some are members of a trade union from a strictly practical viewpoint, because they know the power of unionism. With others, the belief in unionism is an essential part of their mental make-up; it just happens to be there, and runs in the family like wooden legs. Although the writer belongs to the latter, the can't-help-it class, he has boundless admiration for his more logical brethren, who judge the principle solely by its effects in practice. But actually, the attitude of all of us is influenced, directly or indirectly, by the benefits accruing from our membership, and the most ardent adherent of any union would eventually become despondent if "results" were never forthcoming.

So it has done us all good to learn that our Canadian Vice - President, Brother Schnur, has succeeded in securing redress for a grievance which affected thirty-nine members of the staff of the Government Radiotelegraphers. As the result of persistent pressure on two government departments at Ottawa, the annual increments of that number of operators, which had been arbitrarily withheld, are now to be paid. It has before been an inestimable advantage to us to have Brother Schnur within easy reach of Ottawa, and this is another striking instance of the benefit of his serv-We may be sure that there are those at Ottawa who do not exactly enjoy the Canadian Vice-President's ability to bring our grievances to their front door; in the present instance we believe that the voice of conscience which he inspired was rendered all the more salutary by his expressed intention to have the matter brought up in Parliament if necessary.

It is such incidents as this that make one realize the advantage which a comparatively small group of telegraphers such as ourselves enjoy in our membership in an organization of the size and moral strength of the C. T. U. A. Our insignificance would indeed be pitiful were it not for the support which we receive from the great number of line telegraphers who form the body and the backbone of the C. T. U. A. Now, in our present condition as regards numbers, this is admirable; but many of us look forward to the day when the radio membership of the C. T. U. A., instead of being the minority will be the majority, and able to return the same kind of effective support to our brothers who work on wires. While we, in the particular service to which we are attached, remain solid, we have much to gain by our union membership; our union membership is our only visible mark of self-respect. only we could make union membership in radio-telegraphy carry the same weight that unionism carries in other trades, the outlook for radio as a job would be enhanced in every direction. Take the electricians, for instance. In almost any city, to be even an electrician's helper one has to hold a union card. The union card is the qualification for a job. It is a case of no card, no job. It is not a government ticket, like our own! We shall make our own trade equal to the electrician's when we take the same steps as he has taken organize. When we have done that we shall be just as able as he is to set the price of our labor.

We must have every radio-telegrapher in Canada in the C. T. U. A.; we must have every United States operator in, too. There are a vast number of radio men absolutely unorganized, and we are going to get them into the C. T. U. A. We want the help of each one of our members in this crusade. If you know of a non-union operator, Canadian or American, do your utmost to persuade him to join, and send his name to our Secretary. Let us all set to work with a will to MAKE RADIO THE JOB IT OUGHT TO BE.

Our present maximum salary will make a pretty fair minimum,

AUGUST NOTES

The announcement of the widened jurisdiction of this Division has been received with interest on all sides, among both our present members and those who will, we hope, soon be with us. The only complaint we have met is. "Why wasn't it done sooner?" Ah, that we cannot answer. We owe thanks to Vice President Schnur and to International President Johnson and International Secretary Powers for securing the change, and to our brothers of the Marconi Division (particularly to Chairman Allen) for raising no objection to it. To our Marconi brothers we must also tender thanks for their good wishes for our progress, and we would remind them that the way is still wide open for closer co-operation with them just as it was two years ago.

The advantage of having radiotelegraphers affoat and ashore in one unit of the C. T. U. A. is that this is the only means of preserving a solid organization. It is not yet fully realized, even by some of our own members, that, despite trivial differences, of interest, the main interest of all radio men is the same. Whether we are combining gas-engines with telegraphy and bookkeeping on a coast station, or mixing bills of lading, customs clearances and crystal reception on a passenger vessel or a tugboat, our profession is telegraphy and the rest are side-lines. It is not for the benefit of his telegraphers that an employer seeks to put their telegraph duties into the background and to call his operators by some other title. The necessity for carrying competent telegraphers is a sore point with some shipowners. If they had their way, they would choose their own standard of proficiency and carry amateurs. Being unable to do that, tney belittle the job as much as possible, and they have to some extent succeeded in lowering the radio man's estimate of his own importance and his expectations of salary. We must combat this tendency. Radiotelegraphers must develop more selfassertion, or other people cannot blamed for not taking them seriously.

Through our lack, until recently, of an adequate organization, we have been sub-ject to the dictates of officials who know less about our work than they do of the craters on the moon. Some time ago. for instance, a certain deputy minister visited one of the Canadian Government stations to "inspect" it. He looked around the office, detected a little dust on the windowsill, and remarked that the ceiling was black. Emboldened by these discoveries, he approached the operating desk. "What are those two little lights for?" he asked.
"Port and starboard, sir," answered the obsequious operator. Having thus learnt all about radiotelegraphy, the official shortly afterwards attended an international conference as a radio expert. No wonder the "Q" list is balled up; no wonder our working rules are a tangle: Old Port and Starboard had a finger in them.

There is a smell of petty tyranny about the instructions issued to officers in charge of coast stations to test Canadian ship stations in the rapidity with which they can bring their emergency sets into oper-

To whatever official may belong ation. the duty of checking up the maintenance of emergency apparatus, let him do it; the delegation of this work to the coast stations is not designed to promote goodwill between our brothers affoat and The ship operator is quite able to look after his gear—the government certifies to this effect—he is held responsible for it and should be paid in accordance with that responsibility. If there is any checking up needed, let the right man do Not all of us have the instincts of the policeman. Try as we will, we cannot imagine a United States commercial coast station saying to a boat: "Let's hear you on your coil." It sounds too much like certain inspections that happen in the You know-when they all line up, and the M. O. comes around.

To some this may seem a trivial thing to complain of, but it is in reality the straw that shows the way the wind blows. We are getting far too much regulation imposed on us from above. Laws are being passed, rules are being issued, to tighten up the task of the radioteleg-rapher, and those chiefly concerned are never consulted. In a word, we are being given a large dose of militarism, and we are letting the dictators of radio get away with it. And they will continue to get away with it until the C. T. U. A. represents a larger proportion of the radio men of North America than it does at present. When our organization is solid throughout Canada and the United States, it will be able to demand—and will be conceded the right to a voice in national and international radio policy. In those days we shall see to it that government regulations are not made to harass the radiotelegrapher, but rather to ensure that he is adequately paid.

What do we want an organization for, Brothers? To preserve our self-respect, to meet our employers on an equal footing, and to make radio one of the highest branches of the telegraph profession—the job it ought to be. Can we do it? If you'll let us.

-CERT. 22.

THE RADIO "IF"

(With Apologies to Mr. Kipling)

If you can keep your nerve when all about you

Are stations jamming hard and blaming you;

If you can "hold the air" though others flout you,

Until you get your last long message through;

If you can send, and not grow weary sending.

Nor over-tire the man who has to read; If your mistakes are rare, but prompt their mending,

If you believe that haste is never speed;

If you can calmly contemplate the chatter Of greenhorn operators fresh from school;

If you can sit with messages that matter, And wait until they've finished—and be cool; If you can read through half a dozen stations

The weaker signals that are meant for you,

And pick 'em out, with few interrogations, Yet never feel ashamed to ask those few:

If you're prepared to spend your hours of leisure

Repairing gear, and filling abstracts in; If watching through the night you count a pleasure

Like sleeping in the day-time and a din; If you can make your trade your recreation—

The pastime and the aim of your career—
If dwelling in the confines of your station
Is recompense for loss of things held
dear;

If you're a jack-of-all-trades, tinker, tailor, if there is scarce a thing you cannot do;

If you're an electrician and a sailor, Telegrapher, accountant, lawyer, too;

If you're propelled by energy that's tireless,
If you don't fear a job that's never done:
Then, take my word, you're fit to work at wireless,

And anything you get you'll earn, my son. W. T. B.

BUFFALO DISTRICT COUNCIL

Buffalo telegraphers' are putting in a very busy summer. The only worry most of us have is trying to dig up a vacation re-Of course, some of the jobs aren't paying all they should. As we increase our membership and have all operators co-operating, this condition will be rapidly overcome. One job went begging for a month here recently. After getting no response to newspaper advertising the firm raised the pay a couple dollars. This brought them a young non who was absolutely unsatisfactory. He was eventually replaced by another non who had some experience on a job paying $120 a month.

QUESTION: What would the firm pay an expert union telegrapher if they couldn't get a non to work for janitor wages?

The Supreme Court of the United States has upheld the right of workers to organize and regulate their salaries by collective bargaining. President Harding in a tour speech emphasized the fact that he is firm believer in organized labor and the principles it stands for; scored the capitalists who had thought to use his administration to destroy the unions and install the open shop; and declared, in effect, that organized labor was the foremost and principal uplifter and guardian of American standards and ideals.

To your mind, how does this decision of the highest judicial body and the public sentiments of the chief executive of the United States, compare with the selfish, shallow and short-sighted opinions of antiunion employers and non-union employees: opinions formed, not as the result of intelligent thinking, but opinions that are in reality alibis to cover up a selfish determination to take an immediate profit, regardless of the rights of others.

In the case of employers, this monetary consideration is coupled with a tyrannical and petty mind that takes keen delight in gloating over cowed and cringing workers, every one of which is working, without recourse, subject to the whims and brutalities of distorted mentality.

Bro. George Harding enjoyed a two weeks' rest at Lake of Bays, Ontario, and escaped the zigzag weather that prevailed here, when overcoats were in order one day and bathing suits, the next. George reports heavy casualties among the fish, but thinks there will be plenty again next year.

Mr. McLennon, operator and correspondent for 30 years for the Associated Press, has accepted appointment as city editor at the Buffalo Express. Congratulations, Mac. Bro. Tom Sweeney at United Press is off on an indefinite vacation. "Why work when one is wealthy" is probably Tom's alibi as he motors about the countryside.

Bro. Killoch, who relieved Tom, says he came here to take in the Hamilton races. He was unable to find a relief and had to spend his money with the local bookies.

Bro. Lawrence Dean at Central News and Bro. Leon Newton, International Acceptance Bank, took advantage of their vacations to enlist in the army that never won a battle. We were somewhat sympathetic upon hearing the news, but since meeting the brides, are inclined to be envious.

Calvin Austin, master telegrapher, is sojourning in Buffalo at present. "Aus" has been extremely bullish with several thousand(?) shares of Steel and Durant since last winter, so he will probably extend the sojourn for some time to come.

Jim Cooley at Gardner's says no more wakes for him. Whadya mean, Jim. Bro. Charley Tait and Bro. Bob Allen. at the same address, are having their ups and downs. Charley is sporting a new car with the fruits of Bob's market forecasts, while Bob is using the jitneys since following Charley's tips on the ponies.

The first week of August finds most of our vacations cleaned up, every one in possession of a job or having good prospects, and practically everyone paid up for the second half. Applications were not numerous in July, probably because of the intense heat, but prospects are bright for a record number of new members in August.

Bro. John G. McCloskey, of the Eastern Broker Division is in town and has volunteered to utilize his mornings calling on men who are not up to date. Closkey is an able and experienced organ-izer and will undoubtedly get results. All brothers are asked to refrain from making emergency reliefs for non-union operators where it will conflict with one of our own members who needs a relief at the same time. In other words, our own members must have the preference. course will not mean any financial loss for us as the best paying positions are filled by members of the council.

The regular meetings will be resumed the latter part of August and if you do not receive a notice, please make inquiries of the committee or secretary.

Bro. Jimmie Christy is the local Beau Brummel, and jest nacherly gravitates toward the society gathering places. Jimmie has been summering in Alaska and the latest flashes speak of an American telegrapher-linesman on the government railways who is pulling Rudy Valentino stuff on the Indian maidens.

Mebbe Jimmie got his tip from Johnny Champlain, the Sheik of Olean, who spent seven years in Alaska.

Since passage of the Canadian antibetting law, the Racing Form has been twing telephone wires and American operators at the Canadian tracks. Bro. Ted Steurnagel was the first to do any work under the new law when he went to Kenilworth recently. Some one up there told Ted the customs office was "riding" the wire to see if prices were transmitted and Ted had a bad hour deciding whether to mail the charts or to tear them up.

Brothers Myers and Jewell covered the Hamilton meeting and Bro. Mike Rab and Bro. "Red" Sackowitz split the work at Fort Erie. Bro. Bob Allen filled in at the local office because he can pick 'embetter (?) when he can't see them.

The heartfelt sympathy of District Council No. 7 is extended to Bro. Emil Myers in the loss of his father who died Saturday, July 28.

Bro. Leon Newton and Bro. Lawrence Dean, the newlyweds, were seen at the races with their new bosses recently. Our idea of a tough spot is to be gambling when the wife is present. If we win we lose the dough, and if we lose, we catch h—.

Bro. George Wright has been seen hanging around Newt and Dean, presumably getting info from them about the double harness role. George would dobetter by making his inquiries in more experienced quarters if he is contemplating a dive at the altar rail.

Erc. Tom Condon starts his vacation on the 13th and will have a decided edge on weather over those who motored through the June dust and camped in July mud.

Bro. Pat Irey was among those who picked July as a loafing spot. The beautiful weather this week makes Pat downhearted when he thinks of the morning he woke up to find that his cot had floated off on Lake Erie during the night.

U. S.-ITALIAN CABLE

The Western Union Telegraph Company announced today that it has signed a contract with the Italian Submarine Cable Company to establish jointly a direct cable line between the United States and Italy by way of the Azores. Supplementing Western Union's formal announcement, President Newcomb Carlton explained that the projected line would be the longest direct cable across the Atlantic. It will also be the highest capacity cable.

Over the new cable line the Western Union Telegraph Company and the Italian Submarine Cable Company will be able to transmit approximately 50,000,000 words a year. That is approximately five times the volume of business that can be handled by any existing cable of the Western Union, according to President Carlton.

NO WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION LAW IN MISSOURI

By Bro. Richard Jones, in New Republic, May 2, 1923.

For two years more at least Missouri will hold the distinction of being the only industrial state without a workmen's compensation law. The General Assembly, just adjourned, refused to enact into law either of the bills proposed during this session.

With the tremendous expansion of industry and the costly common law methods of dealing with industrial accidents and the experience of so many states as a guide. one would expect Missouri would provide some reasonable system of relief for those injured and the dependents of those killed in her industries. But the combination against compensation legislation was too powerful. The liability insurance companies, personal injury lawyers and certain employers blocked their passage and Missouri stands where she stood at the beginning, apparently indifferent to those engaged in extra-hazardous occupations, except for the questionable protection afforded by the common law and its rules of 'contributory negligence,' 'negligence of a fellow-servant,' 'assumption of risk,' etc.

Twice in former sessions the Assembly passed bills which were referred to the vote of the people under the referendum provision of the state constitution. They fell by the wayside.

The state is one of the less than half a dozen American commonwealths without adequate protection for her workers, and where those time-worn and unhonored rules of the common law will still be heard in the law courts and where juries will be called on to try, 'fairly, impartially and according to the evidence given you in the case,' and when the evidence is all in and the case completed, perhaps they will compromise the matter without regard to the equities in order to get out of a stuffy jury room and into a more wholesome atmosphere.

The absence of a fair compensation law will not be the best kind of advertising for Missouri, especially this year. Tremendous construction programs are under way and already there is a shortage of skilled labor which threatens to become acute very Workers acquainted with the shortly. fact that Missouri does not afford protection to those engaged in extra-hazardous occupations will not be attracted to that state when there is plenty of work elsewhere. Also, labor organizations have a habit of informing their memberships of the existence or non-existence of legislation which they deem essential for their protection. Missouri will find herself in no enviable position when the light is turned on.

THE VIEWPOINT

LETTER FROM "BUCK" HINER

Editor of the Journal:

Word comes that Herbert L. Dunn, division traffic chief at Chicago, has severed connections with the A. P. Now that he has come and gone, what benefit has he been to the telegraph profession? He was a good operator. Any one who worked with him on the wire knows that.

As he was of a disposition to carry out the policy of the big boss, regardless of the unjust, inhuman and un-American nature of that policy, he early worked himself in favor and was placed in authority over older and more considerate, broader and competent men.

But what did he do for the telegraph profession? He denied positions to scores of good reliable operators because they were union men. He has given positions to incompetent scabs, fresh from the A. W. E., discriminating against men better qualified by experience and ability.

He has served the A. P. faithfully, but what benefit has he been to the telegraph profession?

I would say, an infernal curse.

It has been twenty years since the writer has been in this part of the country. Worked in Fort Worth part of the summer of 1903. Great changes have taken place since then, but the spirit that was manifest among the operators of the South that day, when the Rock Island operators were completing their O. R. T. organization, and plans were being made for sending in the committees, is still noticeably distinct.

I never knew there were so many good card men working for the A. P. until I met them in the South. If they were the same in other parts of the country it would not be long until we could break and humble the few hide-bound tyrants and Americanize the A. P. System.

If we can't possibly do better than get an increase of one dollar seventy-five per week, let's accept and then send it in to headquarters for an organization fund. We simply must get the A. P. solid if we ever expect to get what we are really worth.

The A. P., as has been pointed out time and again, are everlastingly breaking in new men from the A. W. E. and making non-union press operators of them. They will take a green hand from the A. W. E. every time in preference to an experienced American who might have a card.

We are not only handicapped in this manner by the creating of a surplus by the

A. P., but there are even cases where chief operators on one of our own organized divisions employ these A. P.-made operators and send them out on a job without a card.

There are times when the organized press divisions are full-up and men are unable to work because they are barred by the A. P. With the A. P. solid all good union press operators could be taken care of.

The A. P. can and must be organized. We are not doing our duty as Union men unless we work unceasingly to that end.

We cannot exist half free and half slave.

After being detained for a while on the border at Marshall, Texas, we finally convinced the Louisiana authorities that Yankees do not really have horns, and proceeded to Shreveport.

Never knew how right Barnum was until after a few weeks telegraph work in an open forum where the public is around to interrupt. I see very plainly now why it is so easy to "put over" a Volstead on the people. Makes me wish I had chosen another vocation and had put in the time extracting from Barnum's pets.

the time extracting from Barnum's pets.
Following are a few examples of the interruptions:

Q-Will you please stop that clicking noise while I talk on the 'fone?

A-You will have to 'Fone Loughlin about that.

Q-Do we have a bus to Marshall tonight?

A-Profound silence.

Oh, I thank you!

Q-Will you please 'fone the Yellow Cab for me?

 $\Lambda$ —Will if you get the Times' permission to lose an item.

Q—You all have a bus to Sodus tonight?
A—Don't bothaw me niggah; get t—h—out o' heah.

Q—Are you writing that down as fast as it comes?

A—No, when it stops at 1 a.m. I keep on writing till daylight.

Yes the telegraph is very mystifying to the general public. More so than the flying machines, the radio and the submarines.

But the real mystery to this same public when they are let in on the secret is how come we don't get a hundred or more a week for such a task.

Fraternally,

BUCK HINER.

CANADIAN NATIONAL TELEGRAPHS AGREEMENT

The General Committee of Division No. 43 which negotiated the new agreement is composed of Edward J. Young, Eastern District Committeeman and General Chairman; Thomas Taylor, Central District Committeeman, and Robert I. Bradley, Western District Committeeman. Paul F. Schnur, Deputy International President for Canada of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, assisted the Committee.

The new Agreement is as follows:

Agreement between Canadian National Telegraphs Company and Canadian National System Division No. 43, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

TELEGRAPHERS' RULES

The following rules shall govern the telegraphers employed by the Canadian National Telegraphs.

ARTICLE I.

1. Employees assigned to commercial telegraph service, whether operated by Morse system, telephone or automatic device of any character, or who are required to devote any portion of their time to the transmission or receiving of telegraph matter by any device whatsoever, will be considered commercial telegraphers within the meaning of this schedule.

This does not apply to the following: All Traffic Managers, Assistant Traffic Managers at Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, All Early Night Traffic Managers, All Late Night Traffic Managers.

- 2. In the event of a Morse telegrapher being required by the Company to operate any automatic device, he shall not suffer any loss of rating during the time he is so employed.
- 3. When additional telegraph positions are created, compensation will be fixed in conformity with that for positions of the same class as shown in this schedule.

ARTICLE II.

- 1. Right of promotion will be governed by seniority where ability is equal and sufficient. Such right of promotion at non-functional offices will extend over the offices in the district which are under the jurisdiction of the District Superintendent.
- 2. Vacancies will be filled by the appointment of the senior competent telegrapher who makes application, the Company to be the judge of qualifications: the Company to bulletin locally all vacancies in special positions occupied by Morse telegraphers as such. Also vacancies in supervisory or like positions which are covered by these rules. Full information will be given on request regarding vacancies. Special positions are those held by telegraphers in newspaper offices, Grain Exchanges and Stock Exchanges.
- 3. Vacancies created through leave of absence for periods exceeding fifteen days will be filled during such leave of absence according to these rules.
- 3. A telegrapher employed will, after thirty days' continuous satisfactory service, be considered a regular employee.
- 5. A list showing the seniority and salary of telegraphers employed at each office will be posted on the bulletin board and revised monthly, within ten days from the first day of each month.

ARTICLE III.

1. In event of staff reduction, the junior telegrapher shall be dispensed with first.

This rule shall apply to employees within their own department, excepting where an employee is qualified and competent to operate apparatus of another department. In such case the seniority shall extend to Morse, Telephone and Automatic Departments, and an employee may bid in a position held by a junior. This exception will also apply to city branch offices which are operated by Morse, Telephone or any automatic device at the office affected.

The company will, where practicable, provide and extend facilities so that employees may qualify themselves to fill vacancies.

2. Any telegrapher in good standing whose services have been dispensed with on account of reduction of force, will be given a certificate and preference in filling news positions or vacancies.

ARTICLE IV.

- 1. Telegraphers declining promotion do not forfeit any rights to the same or any other position they may be entitled to when a vacancy occurs, but will rank junior to the telegrapher receiving promotion.
- 2. A telegrapher absent on leave when a vacancy occurs to which he is entitled, will not be prevented on return within thirty days, from claiming the position.
- 3. If a telegrapher be granted leave of absence by the Company for a period of three months or less (in any twelve months) he may retain the position for that period, after which time his position will be immediately bulletined vacant. This is not intended to apply in cases of bona fide sickness.
- 4. (a) In event of news supervisory positions being created, any employee required to perform the duties of a supervisor for a period exceeding thirty, days will, during the time he is so employed, be considered a supervisor and receive the salary allotted at the time to the position.
- (b) Any employee appointed to relieve or replace a supervisor for a period exceeding ten days within any thirty-day period, will, during the time he is so employed, be considered a supervisor and receive the salary allotted at the time to the position.

5. Senior qualified telegraphers will be deemed eligible and considered in line of promotion to the higher positions in the telegraph service.

6. In event of any telegrapher of at least two years' consecutive service desiring to be transferred to another office of the Company where a vacancy exists, he shall, upon application therefor, be given the preference, if duly qualified, but will not be allowed seniority in the ratings at the point transferred to.

7. In the absence of any good reason to the contrary, the last telegrapher automatically transferred into a higher rating, through the variation of the monthly list, shall, in case of reduction in the said rating, be the first one set back into the next lower rating.

8. Employees who are laid off owing to business depression will, upon returning to the Company's employ within six months, hold seniority for time actually worked

ARTICLE V.

1. No telegrapher shall (except for investigation) be suspended, discharged, or disciplined until has case has been investigated and he has been proven guilty of the offense charged against him, and upon his request to the Chief Operator, particulars of the charge will be given in writing. A telegrapher may, in such cases, have the assistance of a co-telegrapher, if he so desires. Should no decision be reached within ten days, he shall receive his regular pay until the decision is arrived at. If a telegrapher be found blameless of the matter under investigation, he will be paid his regular rating for all the time lost and necessary extra expense, while attending the investigation (if away from home) and reinstated. He will also have, without discrimination, the right to appeal from the local to the general officers of the Company.

ARTICLE VI.

1. Telegraphers shall be granted leave of absence each year with pay at regular wages as follows: One week after the first and second years', and two weeks after three years' service.

2. Application for leave of absence filed in December of each year will be given preference in order of seniority of applicants from point of service, and applicants will be advised in January of the dates allotted them. December applicants will have preference over later applicants. The Company will, whenever possible, arrange vacations between and including the months of April and October, when desired.

3. In the event of a telegrapher entitled to a vacation with pay being discharged or leaving the service of the Company on the proper notice before obtaining the vacation that has been deferred after time allotted, he shall be paid salary for same.

ARTICLE VII.

1. Half holidays will be allowed on the following public holidays: New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day (or King's Birthday), Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day.

2. A telegrapher when called upon to perform duties at other than his regular place of employment, shall be allowed all necessary expenses incurred in excess of his expense while at his regular place of employment, and overtime for travelling between the hours of 8 a. m. and 11 p. m., in excess of his regular trick. When assigned to such a duty a telegrapher shall be advanced a reasonable amount of expense money, when desired.

ARTICLE VIII.

1. When telegraphers are required to use typewriters, the same will be provided and maintained by the Company.

ARTICLE IX.

- 1. The Company will, upon request, meet a committee, which committee shall be known as the General Committee, for the purpose of adjusting grievances and negotiating schedules of rules and wages. When called upon to do so by the Company the committee shall produce proxies, showing that they are authorized by the majority of employees covered by these rules to represent such employees.
- 2. Any employee or employees having a grievance may take the matter up and may have the assistance of a co-employee (and personally or in writing), from the Chief Operator to the Traffic Superintendent and thence to the General Manager.

In the case of employees at non-functional offices, such employees' right of appeal will be to the District Superintendent and thence to the General Manager.

ARTICLE X.

- 1. A telegrapher discharged or leaving the service in good standing will be paid in full and given a certificate stating length and character of service, and, if discharged, the reason therefor. In case of delay, he will be paid regular wages for each day detained in excess of two days.
- 2. Telegraphers leaving the service of their own accord will be required to give the Company fifteen days' previous notice in writing. Before dispensing with the service (other than when discharged) the Company will give the telegrapher fifteen days' previous notice in writing. A telegrapher leaving the service in good standing will be given preference in re-employment over other applicants when a vacancy occurs.

ARTICLE XI.

1. The average minimum performance on all trunk circuits (not including automatic) of over five hundred miles shall be thirty messages per hour, and on all other first-class circuits thirty-three messages per hour, allowing thirty words or fraction thereof to count as one message in all other matter. Any loss through interruption to wire shall not be charged against the telegrapher's average, and in event of a telegrapher's average being challenged, the Company shall be required to furnish evidence to substantiate such charge.

ARTICLE XII.

- 1. At offices where two or more telegraphers are employed, the hours of duty shall be as follows: Eight hours shall constitute straight day duty, beginning and ending between seven a. m. and six p. m. Seven hours shall constitute all night duty, beginning at or later than eight p. m. Seven and one-half hours shall constitute all other tricks. No trick shall be split more than once, nor extend over twelve hours. At city one-man branch offices the hours of duty shall be eight hours of duty within ten consecutive hours.
- 2. (a) Overtime accruing within eight hours' service shall be paid for prorata. Overtime after eight or nine hours' service, as the case may be, shall be paid for at time and one-half.
- (b) At offices (aside from city branch offices) where only one man is employed, pro-rata time will be paid for the ninth hour and time and one-half thereafter.
- 3. All time worked on Sunday shall be paid on overtime basis, as per Paragraph 2, Article XII.

The Company may assign part of Saturday night staff to Sunday night duty on regular hours, such duty being considered part of the regular week's service. When telegraphers so assigned are required to perform service on Saturday nights, they will be paid for such service at overtime rates.

they will be paid for such service at overtime rates.
4. Employees working straight tours of duty will be granted short reliefs as follows:

Male—Ten minutes on each portion of tour.

Female—Fifteen minutes on each portion of tour.

Employees working split tours.

Male—Ten minutes on longer portion of tour.

Female—Fifteen minutes on longer portion of tour.

Where split tours are divided equally, employees will be entitled to one relief on each portion of tour.

RULES FOR CLERICAL STAFFS

ARTICLE I. 1. Right of promotion will be governed by seniority where ability is equal and sufficient. Such right of promotion at non-functional offices will extend over the offices in the district which are under the jurisdiction of the District Super-intendent.

2. Vacancies will be filled by the senior competent clerk, without discrimination, who makes application, and who, in the opinion of the proper authority, is capable of filling the position; the company to bulletin all vacancies locally.

3. A clerk will, from the time of employment, be considered a regular employee.

ARTICLE II.

1. In case of reduction of staff, otherwise than for personal cause, the clerk or clerks last employed will be dispensed with first.

2. Any clerk in good standing whose services have been dispensed with on account of reduction of force will be given a certificate of service and preference in filling new positions or vacancies.

ARTICLE III.

1. Clerks declining promotion do not forfeit any rights to any other position they may be entitled to when a vacancy occurs, but will rank junior to the clerk receiving the position.

2. Clerks absent on leave when a vacancy occurs to which they are entitled, will not be prevented, on return within thirty days, from claiming the position.

3. Senior qualified clerks will be deemed eligible and considered in line of promotion to the higher positions in the telegraph service.

4. In event of any clerk of at least two years' consecutive service desiring to be transferred to another office of the Company where a vacancy exists, he shall, if duly qualified, upon application therefor, be given the preference over any new employee, but will not be allowed seniority in the ratings at the point transferred to.

ARTICLE IV.

1. No clerk shall (except for investigation) be suspended, discharged or disciplined, until his case has been investigated and he has been proven guilty of the offense charged against him, and upon his request to the Manager, particulars of the charge will be given in writing. A clerk may, in such cases, have the assistance of a co-clerk, if he so desires. Should no decision be reached within ten days, he shall receive his regular pay until the decision is arrived at. If a clerk be found blameless of the matter under investigation, he will be paid his regular rating for all the time lost and necessary extra expense while attending the investigation (if away from home) and reinstated. He will also have, without discrimination, the right of appeal from the local to the general offices of the Company.

ARTICLE V.

1. Clerks shall be granted leave of absence each year with pay at regular wages, as follows: One week after the first and second years', and two weeks after three years' service.

2. Application for leave of absence filed in December of each year will be given preference in order of seniority of applicants from point of service, and applicants will be advised in January of the dates allotted to them. December applicants will have preference over later applicants. The Company will, whenever possible, arrange vacations between and including the months of April and October, when desired.

3. In the event of a clerk entitled to a vacation with pay being discharged or leaving the service of the Company on the proper notice before obtaining the vacation that has been deferred after time allotted, he shall be paid salary for same.

ARTICLE VI.

1. Half holidays will be allowed on the following public holidays: New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day (or King's Birthday), Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas Day. All time worked in excess of the half holiday shall be paid for at the rate of time and one half.

ARTICLE VII.

1. Any employee or employees having a grievance may take the matter up and may have the assistance of a co-employee, if he or they so desire, and all employees shall have the right of appeal, either alone or with the assistance of such co-employee (and personally or in writing), from the Manager to the District Superintendent where he has jurisdiction, and thence to the General Manager.

2. In the case of employees at non-functional offices, such employees' right of appeal will be to the District Superintendent, and thence to the General Manager.

ARTICLE VIII.

1. A clerk discharged or leaving the service in good standing will be paid in full and given a certificate stating length and character of service, and, if discharged, the reason therefor. In case of delay he will be paid regular wages for each day detained in excess of two days.

2. Clerks leaving the service of their own accord will be required to give the Company fifteen days' previous notice in writing. Before dispensing with the services (other than when discharged) the Company will give the clerk fifteen days' previous notice in writing. A clerk leaving the service in good standing will be given the preference in re-employment over other applicants when a vacancy occurs.

ARTICLE IX.

1. Eight hours shall constitute a day's duty. No trick shall be split more than once nor extended over twelve hours.

2. Overtime shall be paid at pro-rata rates, excepting Sunday work, which shall be paid for at the rate of time and one-half. The Company may assign part of Saturday night's staff to Sunday night duty as part of their regular week's assignment.

ARTICLE X.

1. Any employee who is required to do relief work for a period exceeding ten days within any thirty-day period will, during the time he is so employed, receive the same wages as the employee relieved, providing such wages are not less than his own.

DISCONTENTED BANK EMPLOYES ORGANIZE

By International Labor News Service NEW YORK, August 14.—New York's bank employes, long scornful of trade unionism, at last are looking with favor on the principle of organization.

The bank and trust company workers are beginning to realize that they need organization as much as the plumber or baker or other "common" laborer. As a result they are joining the Bookkeepers, Stenographers and Accountants Union.

The union has been conducting a campaign for the organization of bank employes, and has met with much success. It is rumored that the threat of unionization has already brought a change of heart on the part of the employers, who are said to be planning to discontinue Christmas bonuses and instead give larger monthly pay checks to the workers.

Explaining the situation which is causing bank employes to organize, Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Bookkeepers.

Stenographers and Accountants Union, said:

"Great discontent exists among bank employes because of the miserable salaries they are paid, but small raises of $5 or $10 a month will not accomplish what the bankers are aiming at.

"Just imagine expecting a married man, with an education and brains, and working fifty hours a week, to get along on $30 or $35 a week. Is it any wonder that so many defalcations occur?"

ANNUAL PICNIC HUGE SUCCESS

The annual picnic of members and friends of the "Sick Committee" of the Toronto C. T. U. A. took place at Centre Island, on July 18th.

Favored by ideal weather conditions, the event proved a marked success, there being over forty people present.

The program opened with a swimming contest, open-to-all. The winner, Mr. T. J. Stewart, was presented with a pretty silk polka-dot tie. The booby prize, won by Miss Thelma Jones, was a box of candypops. Fourteen contestants took part.

Next on the program was lunch, after which various games were played.

Towards the end of the program short speeches were delivered by Messrs. T. J. Stewart, F. Jennings, J. Hislop and W. A. Best. The latter, who is convener of the Sick Committee, expressed much satisfaction with the large turnout, also the enthusiastic manner in which all present took part in the various sports, games, etc.

This being over, the singing of the chorus part of "The Maple Leaf Forever" and the last verse of "A Perfect Day" concluded an event of recreation and outing which shall long remain in the memory of all those who were fortunate enough to be present.

CONSOLIDATED PRESS

"Empire State Circuit"

The surge of business has curtailed the volume of notes from out on the line, but we are still on terra firma and going strong.

Buffalo has been added to the second wire service, effective April 2. The client served there (Buffalo Evening News) now has the most complete market sheet of the afternoon papers in the Empire state outside of New York City. An old time Associated Press operator holding down the trick is one of the best in the game.

The Dispatch-Herald, Erie, Pa., was added to this circuit July 5, Homer Summers being sent there from Baltimore. We are glad to see you, Homer, and hope you will stay. You are in with a good bunch.

Sam Glober returned from two weeks' vacation, being relieved by C. J. Wickes from the Rochester office. Sam appears to have benefited from his annual fortnight recuperation. There is some talk that Glober and "Jawn" Johnson are perfecting a wireless still.

Sam might not be much of an inventor, but he sho do sling a wicked bug. Sambo is one of the cleanest and fastest senders—yes, on the hull C. P. A. system, not excluding Booth at Boston. The writer has worn out two mills under his regime and Wickes has worn out six keys and one bug—and the wild man still remains uncontrollable.

Red Wilson stopped over in New York for two weeks to give up some "old head" and incidentally acquaint the boys of the fact that he had done the Benedict Arnold. Wickes says Red is old enough to know better, but—. Anyhow, Red, here's KABW from us all.

"Tex" Snowden, the well known premier op, hasn't forgotten the mastery of the Vibro even though he labors under the well earned title of Eastern Traffic Chief. Tex does everything but deliver the copy and hang the mail for the "flyer." Tex goes on his "wacation" soon if he can inveigle McCarthy from Washington to relieve him. Here's hoping you have a good time, Tex.

Art Lee, formerly of the Tribune Service, is filling in at Rochester during Wickes' absence. The editorial staff on the Rochester Times-Union are up in arms and told Lee in the most empathic and convincing tones that he (Lee) must park that garbage incinerator in the alley when he comes in the office. But Art says it's a pipe and he will not budge from his conviction. It might not be in action very often, but when it is—.

Woods at Toronto, Buffington at Syracuse, Larraway at Utica, Browning at Albany and Devine at Manchester, N. H., are having some difficulty in locating vacation reliefs. Buff and Larry have the edge on the rest of the boys when they make a bid for a prospective relief man as they both have perfectly good cellars and are liberal minded along with it.

The man working the first wire at Buffalo has been fortunate in the matter of vacation relief, in that he was able to secure the services of an experienced man who needs no coaching. J. S. Jewell being that same gent in question.

Red Mattimore, who works the short trick at Worcester, has been in the hospital for some three weeks undergoing a rather serious operation. On behalf of the Empire State Circuit we wish him a speedy and successful recovery. It will be perhaps two weeks before Matty is able to resume his duties.

If you lads were as frugal with your money as you are with your notes, what a fine collection of plutocrats you would It has taken three months to glean these morsels of gossip. Don't you think outside your little sphere that is encompassed by the eight hours per diem? There must be someone interested in you outside the gang on the wire and the few Shylocks you have occasion to know through a business way. You know what that sockless philosopher once said, "young man, go west;" he didn't say "go rest." So kick in with some information. No, not the confidential brand-just the newsy stuff. And don't think that sockless philo was an operator either. That unshod condition of his pedal extremities was a matter of choice with him-he wasn't telegraphing for a living.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

Kansas City-South

The Kansas City-South circuit, after being consolidated with the Chicago-Southwest for three months, was re-established in July.

Bro. Walter Taylor, of "AM" Chicago, is our chief operator. Bro. MacClements remains with us.

The big question with most of the boys . "What shall I do with the 'one seventy-five' "?

Bro. Miller was reported to have purchased an inner tube with his back pay; Bro. MacClements took a tour over to Kansas City, Kansas, (from the Missouri side) and Bro. "Mike" Dwyer at Dallas is yet undecided what to do. Last reports were to the effect that he would start a chicken ranch.

Hot weather all along the line has taken all the pep out of most of us, but the boys on the north end have the worst end of the deal. Down in Dixie we have cool nights where we can sleep off the grouch, but farther up the line it remains hot until just thirty minutes before time to go to work.

-James, "KM."

Chicago-Southwest

Our chief, Jim Godfrey, sojourned in Denver arranging the relay established for the Shelby, Montana, fistic carnival. Bro. Walter Taylor, who slings the wickedest bug you ever heard, was in charge of the "gang" while Jim was in Denver.

Ike Godfrey, another good bug artist, is alleged to have laid off two days repairing his bug. Bobby Flowers at "AO" (St. Louis) told lke his dots were not round enough.

Somebody started a rumor that Mat O'Keefe and Ike Godfrey used the same bug and if true that is the reason why John "Whaling" Whelan at "NU" Springfield hasn't been able to distinguish them apart lately. It also gives opportunity to class Mat with the "wickedest bug slingers."

When Bobby Flowers took his vacation recently, it is reported he spent most of his time visiting Bro. McNutt over at "VS" St. Louis Times. They hadn't seen each other for several years but had struck up a friendship through co-operation in keeping down breaks from the two St. Louis offices.

Bro. MacClements, of "KX" Kansas City, rarely gets to sling a wicked bug these days except only on curb market and a "split" occasionally.

Bro. Matthews, "KA" Topeka, took his vacation in June being relieved by Bro. Sopher of Augusta, Kan. Bro. Sopher is a particular friend of Bro. Miller at Wichita and relieved him for vacation on these grounds, but he absolutely refuses to be quoted when asked to confirm "How many fish did Miller really catch?"

Sopher relieved Sam Goodfellow on "SX" Kansas City Star and later relieved Mac at "KX."

FLASH—Bro. McCloskey is located at "KC" Kansas City, Kan.

Bro. Creager of Houston took a vacation during June, relieved by Bro. Lancaster. Bro. "Mike" Dwyer "DY" Dallas, took vacation during July.

Bro. Holder, Tulsa, gave up his Saturday night "scoop" to Bro. Schultz, formerly at "WD", but now with D. R. Francis & company, brokers.

Atlanta-South

E. G. Russell, "the Morse maker," is back on his regular job, sending out of Atlanta. Russ was forced to cut his vacation short by going to Daytona, relieving Bro. Lamer who was suddenly called to his wife's bedside account of serious illness. They say Russ showed the Florider gals many new dance steps.

The circuit extends heartfelt sympathy to Bro. W. L. Lamar, who recently lost his wife.

The "Alaska Kid." Bro. Druly, still holds down Palm Beach and the only time you hear Druly is when wire trouble knocks him out. Newt says Druly is an old man but we don't believe it. Anybody want to trade jobs with Druly?

E. A. Cox, the "lightning guy," was with us for about a month making vacation relief at Atlanta. He sure makes you work.

Charlie Allison is still sending out of GX on the "mud line." We all think of you "Ally"—73.

E. M. Nash, of Augusta, Ga., relieving Landers at "VK."

Cliff Landers, of Jacksonville, began his long looked for vacation July 1.

"Mac" McGrew, of Nashville, is back on the job after an extended vacation of about 60 days. Newt reports that "Mac" nearly put the machines on the blink while attending the spring meet at the Downs.
Bro. Newton relieved Mac.

Casey Bell, of Chattanooga, spent his vacation at Chattanooga and vicinity. Newton relieved Bell and while in "CN," Newt nearly grabbed himself a "Viola," so Casey said—Carl Woolley pls copy.

Look out, boys, the A. P. inspector will get you if you try to organize their men. The inspector was suddenly called to Chattanooga on an important mission recently. Cert. 482.

W. S. Turner is relieving his brother, H. D. Turner, at Meridian, "H.D." being on a leave of absence.

Our old friend, Ben F. Anderson, did the pitching at the golf links in Birmingham during the tournament there. He seemed to be well acquainted on the wire. Brother Anderson is now an "osser," so he claims.

If any free lance brother is traveling through Little Rock about the first of September he could get two weeks work if o.k'd by Artie Shields, our genial chief operator, as Brother Bob Bollin would like to take a trip up home in Wyoming.

Regardless of wire trouble and other worries old Allie, our sender, gets better and better as he grows older.

Wanted—A Phillips code book "with a union stamp in it."

R. W. B.

UNITED PRESS NOTES

New York State-Canada

Tom Sweeney and Harry Zeigler were the first two on the State wire to get away on their annual two weeks' rest, both going on June 4th. David Killoch is doing the relief work at the Buffalo bureau and Eugene H. Shaw is taking Zeigler's place at the Parlor City, Binghamton. Shaw is no stranger to the old timers on the circuit, having worked at Olean some years ago. Very glad to have him with us again.

Brother Payne of Oswego was obliged to undergo an operation for appendicitis recently. At this writing he is rapidly recovering and his associates are pleased to know that he expects to leave the hospital within a few days. N. E. Denn, of Syracuse, is doing the heavy work at the Palladium.

Jimmy Blair, from Chicago, Oklahoma and points west, is batting them out at "NX" and giving a fine account of himself.

Cyclone Circuit-West

Ho, hum!

Yes, we have no bananas, Nor no differential today.

Not only for themselves, but for the good of the service in general, financial men expected a differential over news wires and adjustment of scale of men working in relay offices at conclusion of the committee's negotiations. 'Neither question was settled satisfactorily, but we live in hope.

Anyway, we now know what inspires the super-animation displayed in "The Spirit of '76."

Bro. Ernie Hall, Dallas Journal, recently showed his good judgment by purchasing a Chevrolet. Go to it, Ernie, we're with you!

Bro. Ralph Hurd, Des Moines Capital vacated the premises on July 23, to be away several weeks. Ralph was relieved by Bro. Bridgman, United News, who is turn was relieved by Bro. Charley Rowe. Charley hails from Chicago.

Bro. Bud O'Donnell, "HX", United Financial's special representative (Huh, scuse me, Bud!) at the recent New York festivities, flivered to Green Bay, where he spent the last week in July.

Bro. Len Danaher, who has been "on the road" for the last six weeks, relieving at St. Paul, Minneapolis and Eau Claire, Wis., returned to "HX" on August 7. It's an ill wind that blows no one any good, for instance, while the fairies on Nicollet Avenue miss the shiek, those on the Boulevard rejoice in their northern sisters' depression.

Bro. Lyttle sat in at Kansas City, "KZ", for several weeks, relieving Bro. Joe Carley, who sat in for his big brother, Ira, at "KP" while Ira subbed for Bro. Burr, ill.

Bro. Lancaster, lately of Dallas, relieved Bro. Lyttle at "KZ" on August 6, "Mister" Lyttle taking up his residence at Little Rock.

Bro. Scully, "HX", took advantage of Bro. Hurd's appearance in Chicago by putting Ralph to work for the week August 6-11.

We haven't heard Brothers Konzal, Milwaukee, and Ros Smith, St. Louis, make a noise during the last month. We know they are on the job because we heard them sign up in the morning. They are a couple of quiet birds on the wire.

AN A-1 CHAIN GANG BOSS

F. B. Attwood, Hearst leased wire filer in New York, and a former operator who will be remembered for his slave-driving tactics, is living up to his reputation and adding to it.

Attwood, who dropped his card in 1917, has tried for over a year to evade the Universal Service scale for night work on various Hearst leased wires which are not under schedule. His efforts have met with but little success, but he still nurses the delusion that he can get away with it.

Attwood's ambition the past few months has been to prove that he can secure press operators in Boston and New York for $7.50 per night. For some reason or another his recruits quit after one night or so, and Attwood is in an awful stew. We predict that his frame of mind will become more and more heated as time goes on.

Men of Attwood's caliber are out of place in the Hearst organization. They are not even fit to work as chain gang bosses.

UNIFORM AGREEMENT COVERING UNIONIZED PRESS SERVICES IN UNITED STATES

Editor's Note: The following schedule applies to United Press, United News, International News Service and Universal Service. Press operators should preserve this copy for reference and guidance.

Agreement with Universal Service, Inc., International News Service and United Press

Made this Eighteenth day of July, Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-Three at New York, N. Y., between (The Employer) a—corporation, hereinafter called (The Employer) and a subordinate unit of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, kr.ewn as—system Division No.—by its committee duly authorized to act in its behalf, and hereinafter called the Union.

WITNESSETH:

FIRST: That on and after July 1, 1923, the (The Employer) agrees to employ in its day, night, Saturday night Morse and automatic leased wire service only telegraphers or automatic operators who are members of the Union; provided said Union can furnish competent telegraphers and automatic operators:

SECOND: That right of seniority shall rule in all cases, ability and fitness being equal. It is agreed all persons working under this agreement are in line for promotion. Seniority shall rank from the date of last regular employment. Seniority shall not be retained for more than three months, on leave of absence. Except in cases of illness or military service.

THIRD: Eight hours, including thirty minutes lunch period and two tenminute rest periods, shall constitute a day's work on all circuits. Six days or six nights shall constitute a week.

FOURTH: Operators' grievances shall be submitted to the District Chief Operator within forty-eight (48) hours, with the right of appeal, either personally or through the Committee, to the President or Editor-Manager of (The Employer). No operator shall without just cause be transferred, suspended or discharged. Any operator feeling himself unfairly transferred, suspended or discharged, and disproving the charges made against him, shall be reinstated without prejudice and shall be reimbursed for all loss of pay and any reasonable and necessary expense which he may have incurred in proving his innocence. It is agreed that by Operators is meant both Morse and automatic telegraphers.

FIFTH: The Union agrees that any operator desiring to resign, shall give the District Chief Operator at least ten (10) days' notice of his intention or be fined or suspended or both by the Union, such fine to be used to reimburse any reasonable expense incurred by the (The Employer) in covering the position during the unfulfilled term of notice, and the (The Employer) agrees that any Operator shall be given ten (10) days' notice of any suspension of service or ten (10) days' equivalent in money or be transferred, railroad or boat fare to be paid by the tThe Employer).

SIXTH: (The Employer) agrees to make no additional leased-wire contracts wherein the client paper is permitted to employ the Operator, nor will (The Employer), sell its leased-wire report for distribution by any other news agency in the United States unless the Morse or automatic scale of such news agency shall be at least equal to that of (The Employer).

SEVENTH: In any difference of opinion as to the rights of the parties to this agreement, the question in dispute shall be submitted to arbitration, the decision of the arbitrators to be final and binding upon both sides. Arbitrators shall consist of one person selected by (The Employer), one selected by the Union, and third selected by the first-named two.

Bonuses:

It is agreed that bonuses shall not be paid, and both parties to this agreement shall adhere rigidly to the scale accepted herewith, the present scale superseding all general and individual agreements.

Holidays:

Double time shall be paid for not more than one of the following NIGHT: national legal holidays during the contract year to full time night Morse and automatic operators: New Year's Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day, Thanksgiving Day and Christmas, to be mutually agreed upon by the Chief or Division Chief Operator and the telegrapher.

Holidays:

DAY: A full day's pay for four hours' work up to noon or for four hours' work beginning at noon, on Christmas or the Fourth of July, and overtime for additional time.

Population Figures:

Ayer's 1923 Newspaper Annual population figures to govern.

Two weeks' vacation, with full pay, to be taken between May 1, and October 1, shall be granted annually to all leased wire machine operators, except Saturday night operators, of one year's continuous service. All vacations shall be taken at the time allotted by Chief Operators, or the Operator to secure his own competent substitute acceptable to the District Chief Operator.

The (The Employer) shall furnish, or cause to be furnished, to its telegraphers suitable typewriters, the maintenance of which shall be at the expense of the (The Employer) or its clients.

It is agreed that in the case of staff reductions or the abolition of any position, the Operator vacating such position shall have the right to the position held by the Junior Operator in his Chief Operator's District, providing that Operators transferring from one Chief Operator's District to another shall retain their seniority. Any operator desiring to transfer to another District or to another position in the same District shall file with the Circuit Chairman and Chief Operators of his own District and the District to which he desires transfer, General Chairman and Superintendent of Telegraph, duplicate copies of a standing bid for the position desired. Any operator desiring transfer from one Chief Operator's District to another shall have the same seniority rights as if he were already in the District to which he desires transfer. It is agreed that in the event of the position for which the bid is made becoming open, the vacancy shall be offered to the bidder, by message on the wire, whose seniority entitles him to first consideration. It is further agreed that his transfer shall be contingent upon the ability of the Union to supply competent operator to fill his position.

TWELFTH: It is agreed that, office facilities permitting, telegraphers shall be provided with separate offices, having adequate daylight, heat and ventilation.

THIRTEENTH: It is agreed that a complete list of Operators in the service shall be issued to the Committeemen by the Superintendent of Telegraph on May 15th of each year, showing the length of service of each Operator.

FOURTEENTH: This agreement shall be in effect for one year from July 1. 1923, superseding all previous agreements and shall thereafter renew itself for periods of one year, unless either party shall notify the other in writing at least sixty (60) days before the end of said yearly period of its desire to terminate this agreement; except that:

In the event of failure to agree upon a new contract on or before June 30. 1924, (or any succeeding June 30 occurring under a renewal of this agreement) this agreement shall continue in full effect for a period of thirty (30) days from July 1, during which time the points in dispute shall be subjected to arbitration.

Arbitrators shall consist of two persons, selected one by the Union and one by the (The Employer). If the two persons thus selected fail to reach an agreement within forty-eight (48) hours, they shall select a third person, the majority to decide the points at issue. Should the representatives of the Union and the (The Employer) fail to select a third arbitrator within forty-eight (48) hours after having failed to agree upon the points at issue, the third arbitrator shall be selected by the United States Department of Labor. The decision of the arbitrators having been announced, both parties bind themselves to accept or reject the award within five (5) days of its simultaneous announcement to the Union and to the (The Employer).

It is agreed that the award of the arbitrators, when accepted by both parties, shall be retroactive to the original date of expiration of this agreement.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, we have hereto affixed our hand and seal, this eighteenth day of July, 1923.

NEW EDITION OF PHILLIPS' CODE.

The April 1st, 1923, edition of Phillips' Code, which has been in course of production for some time past, is now ready for delivery. This edition is up to the minute. Every abbreviation agreed upon during the past five years will be found in this book and many of the words brought into use during the war, which are now obsolete, have been eliminated so that the work as it now stands can be relied upon as accurate and complete to date. Phillips' Code is a thoroughly tested code of abbreviations, arranged for telegraphic purposes and contemplating the rapid transmission of press reports; also widely used as an easily acquired method of shorthand. This edition contains about 700 additions to the older code and is indispensable to the operator who aspires to the standard of proficiency required by press associations, which includes a knowledge of Phillips' Code. Flexible cover, pocket size, 31/2 inches wide by 6% inches in length, $1.25 per copy. Address orders and make remittances to Frank B. Powers, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago.

ALL SET FOR MONTREAL, OCTOBER FIRST

Twelfth Convention Will Rival Toronto Meeting of 1921

Indications are that every subordinate unit of the organization will have a full quota of delegates present when the gavel bangs at 10 o'clock Monday morning, Oct. 1, convening the Twelfth regular and Ninth biennial General Assembly in Montreal.

Credentials have already been sent out for thirty-three delegates at this writing, with several large divisions to be heard from. The Toronto convention with 54 delegates will certainly be eclipsed in size.

Montreal members in entertaining their first convention are working hard to make the occasion one that will linger in the memories of delegates and visitors. Under the capable direction of the Committee on Arrangements, composed of Brothers W. H. Hartley, President; T. J. Walsh, Secretary; Thos. Carrothers, J. G. A. Decelles and V. Wallace, plans are rapidly being completed for the reception and entertainment of the many visitors.

The Eastern Broker Division delegation expects to make up a party of seven, comprising Chairman of the G. E. B. Jos. F. Mallon, President Frank O'Sullivan, Secretary-Treasurer Jack Hickey, E. B. Whittlesey, Jim Campbell, Fred Towne and Jack Dunn. George Truitt of Philadelphia, Charley McCutcheon and Bob Patterson of Pittsburgh, Vice President Bill Conry and "Pop" Mullen of Boston, president, N. E. B. D., may join with them.

A large delegation from the Chicago district will leave Chicago on a private car Saturday, Sept. 29th. International Officers Johnson, Newcomer and Powers; Past President Konenkamp; Members of the G. E. B. Seefred and McMahon of Indianapolis and Milwaukee respectively; Ralph McDaniel, Royce Goodale and Ed Boole of the Western Broker Division, Bud O'Donnell and Joe Frayne of the United Press will make up the party. Mike Nadeau of Detroit (Michigan Broker Division) expects to join them at Detroit.

Other delegates from the United States up to press time are C. J. McTiernan of Little Falls, N. Y., representing the United Press; Ed Campbell of Cleveland, for the I. N. S.

Elections are still in progress in the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Telegraphs, but full delegations from these two large divisions are assured. Following the usual custom, it is probable that each district of these divisions from coast to coast will be represented in Montreal. Canadian Marconi Division No. 59 will also have a full delegation present.

Delegates chosen by the Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division are General Chairman L. H. Des Lauriers and G. S. T. Gorman of Montreal and Chairman Tom Clark of Toronto.

The Canadian Press will be represented by General Chairman Jim Clark of Winnipeg and Committeeman Frank Gillis of Montreal.

Members who have not taken their vacation should arrange to be in Montreal the week of Oct. 1st. All members are cordially invited to attend the sessions.

PACIFIC COAST BROKERS GIVEN CHARTER

The biggest news of recent years to C. T. U. A. members on the Pacific coast was the issuance of a charter to the Pacific Coast Broker Division during the month of August.

The Western Broker Division waived its jurisdiction over the states of California, Montana, Utah, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Nevada, Arizona and Colorado, President McDaniel has encouraged and assisted Coast workers for several months.

Under the leadership of C. E. Baker, Los Angeles, temporary chairman, and R. C. Banner, Venice, Calif., temporary secretary-treasurer, and E. W. Shanks, organizer in San Francisco, broker operators in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other Coast cities are working as never before to place the Pacific Coast broker operators on a solid basis.

Following is the resolution unanimously passed by the Western Broker Division at a meeting, Aug. 17, 1923.

"The Western Broker Division unanimously goes on record as supporting the proposed Pacific Coast Broker Division of which our President is the advocator, and hereby instruct the President of this Division, known as the Western Broker Division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, to take the proper steps to have a separate charter issued to the division in question to be known as the Pacific Coast Broker Division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America with headquarters to be located in the state of California and the city of Los Angeles. We further agree that in addition to the territory embracing the states of Oregon, Washington and California, the states of Montana, Utah, Idaho, Nevada, Arizona and Colorado also be delivered to the Pacific Coast Broker Division of the C. T. U. A."

Best wishes for success and congratulations of the entire membership are extended to the Pacific Broker Division.

OUR RIGHT TO ORGANIZE

By Hugh Frayne, General Organizer, A. F. of L.

"Organize" has been the watchword of the American Federation of Labor for "Educate" has been likewise a slogan of labor for years. There are no better words today-no better guides to complete freedom, no better guides to the development of that industrial democracy which has come to be the dream of mankind and the hope of the race.

We claim the right to organize as workers. We claim the right to have a say in making the conditions under which the workers shall be employed, and the right of collective bargaining. We claim that the hours of employment should be reduced to the point where the health and safety of the workers must be safeguarded.

If those who seek to destroy the trade unions are successful in their efforts they will not have succeeded in solving the labor problem or in any way help to improve the industrial and economic conditions of the country.

Such a movement, if successful, would create a condition of radicalism and anarchy which would be uncontrollable. All of the things which are offered today as remedies have proven failures and instead of settling the workers' problems they have done nothing except to create bitterness and antagonism between the workers and the employers. That is not solving industrial unrest.

Organization establishes and maintains high standards of living for the American working man and his family. It eliminates the things that stand in the way of social and economic justice for all. All labor wants and insists upon having is the same right that is given to every one else under the law. It will steadily refuse to accept anything less.

If those who are seeking to destroy the trade unions are successful in their efforts they will not have succeeded in solving the labor problem or in any way help to improve the industrial and economic conditions of the country, but will widen the breach between the employer and the employee.

If social and economic justice to the workers is given due consideration the danger of the spread of Bolshevism will be entirely removed. This doctrine thrives upon industrial unrest and by removing the cause the disease will soon disappear.

We cannot solve problems by evading them and there is no use in any of us trying to evade responsibilities. This is a human problem and must be dealt with as such. The human element must always be taken into consideration if we ever expect to bring about more harmonious relations between employer and employee and bring about unity and cooperation among the people of our country.

TRADE UNIONISM IS FORCE THAT WILL NEVER DIE

By International Labor News Service

LONDON,-Trade unionism represents an undying force by which the worker seeks a fuller life for himself and his dependents.

This is the ringing declaration of the Industrial Christian Fellowship which numbers among its membership some of the foremost prelates of the Church of England. It appears in the form of an open letter to employers published as a tract by the Fellowship and written by A. Herbert Gray.

Mr. Gray questions whether the employer really tries to understand what lies behind the organization of the workers and their willingness to endure any sacrifices for the sake of their union. He suggests that the workers, by organizing, are seeking to win that fuller, richer life which the employers have already attained and urges that the spirit of trade unionism be studied with intelligence and sincerity.

Extracts from Mr. Gray's letter follows:

"You repeatedly say-publicly in measured words, and privately in other words that the real obstacle to progress is the unreasonable attitude of the workers. Their demands for wages are said to be extortionate. Their willingness to strike on any small provocation is pronounced fatal to settled business. You say they are both suspicious and unreliable; you give the country the impression that you believe them to be greedy, thriftless, ignorant, and selfish; your cry is that they should abandon strikes, settle down to hard work, and let us all get busy making up the wastage of the war.

"But have you sincerely tried to understand what lies behind this almost universal willingness to strike?

"I suggest that it would be worth your while to sit back and really study this titanic force that confronts you. It is essentially an undying force. Not till the spirit of man is finally broken (a thing unthinkable) will be cease to seek a fuller life for himself. You sought it and found it, and should therefore be able to sympathize.

"The essential trouble is that under the present system only the few can find that fullness of life. A few become employers and managers; a few direct and control, and have scope for initiative; a few find their opportunities equal to their abilities; but for the great majority none of these things are true.

"And it is the finer elements in our humanity which make the men revolt. You would revolt in their circumstances. If only you would believe that, a new day would begin to dawn at once.

"You are deeply disappointed that, though you think you have done much for your men, they are not more grateful, and do not alter their attitude. You have really tried to give good wages—at least some of you have; you have suggested schemes of profit-sharing; you have built recreation rooms; you have employed welfare workers; you have started magazines; you have tried to work up a sort of esprit de corps. And things are not much better. No wonder you are tempted to strong language. But you have not got down deep enough.

"It is true that our workers want a higher standard of material comfort. they do not believe you when you say it is economically impossible, for they know that the productive capacity of the nation is not nearly fully organized. Further, they are rather suspicious of rapid production just now, because it seems to glut the markets and so to decrease employment.

"But their entirely defensible craving for a higher standard of comfort is not the heart of this matter. They want a system within which there shall be real scope for their full humanity. They want a real share of control. They want responsible places within the industrial world-industrial citizenship, as they call it. And they will always want it till they get it."

CAN'T SUE LABOR UNION

Superior Court Judge Harding has ruled that labor organizations cannot be sued in North Carolina.

The decision was made in connection with a suit for $10,000 damages against the United Textile Workers of America, because the local union expelled one P. E. Tucker. Attorneys for the union held that a voluntary organization cannot be sued, and this was upheld by the court.

WANTED

Whereabouts of Albert Ben-Wanted: nett, sometimes known as A. A. Bennett or Fred A. Bennett. Please inform Frank B. Powers, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago, Illinois.

1907

The fall of 1907 found the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America burdened with an indebtedness of over $14,000 as a result of the historical strike of that year.

For three months, from August to November, the most unscrupulous and powerful combination of wealth and greed, the two telegraph corporations, had concentrated their financial and political strength against a noble band of telegraphers striving desperately against oppression.

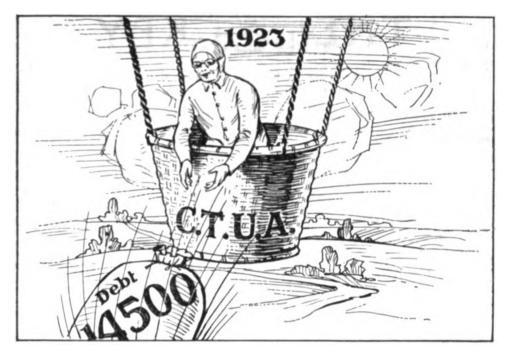

Those who went through that crucial test of honor and manhood can best testify that the strike was fought with every resource of money and labor at the command of the organization. Nothing was spared to relieve commercial telegraphers of their shackles.

Technically, perhaps, the strike of 1907 was a failure; but in reality it was a glorious victory in that everything the C. T. U. A. had fought for was granted by the telegraph companies.

One of the effects of that crucial three months, however, was the crushing indebtedness which faced the officers. Older members will never forget the wearisome and soul-rending struggles of the years immediately following. That indebtedness, enormous for those days, always acted as an invisible but ever-present anchor to the boundless energies and enthusiasms of officers and members.

The pilot of the Good Ship C. T. U. A. was ready to sail, but too much ballast had been taken aboard.

Montreal Convention, Monday, October 1, 1923

1923

The closing months of the year 1923 finds the last of the excess vallast of 1907 cast off.

The C. T. U. A. is free from debt,

The significance of this news can best be realized by those who have been members for a decade or more.

Volumes could be written of the events which have taken place since 1907—the organizing and scheduling of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company of Canada; the steady improvement of wages and conditions in the Canadian Pacific Division; the Western Associated Press; the St. Louis strike; the G. N. W. strikes; the innumerable lockouts incident to organizing campaigns in the United States; the investigation and report of the Industrial Relations Commission; the stirring days of 1918 and 1919; the growth and fights of the broker divisions; the constant improvement in conditions of press operators; the organizing and scheduling of the Canadian Marconi wireless operators.

Interwoven with and incident to the other activities of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America officers was the effort to lift the 1907 debt.

But little progress towards that end had been made up to the time of the 1919 strike, and the heavy expenses of that year left the organization in worst financial condition than it was in 1907.

Together with the regular work of the organization, efforts have been continued during the past four years to clear off this indebtedness.

With that obstacle successfully overcome, the C. T. U. A. faces the future with a clean slate.

FULL CO-OPERATION MEANS SUCCESS

By Wm. U. Tate, Chairman, Organization Committee

The regular annual organization campaign has started. The campaign of last fall netted between 60 and 70 new members and practically the same number who owed sums ranging from 6 months to 3 years' dues paid up. These accomplishments, however, have been recited heretofore. The idea of repetition is to impress upon the membership the potentialities of these campaigns if the rank and file gives the committee some co-operation.

The percentage of eligible telegraphers associating themselves with the Eastern Broker Division yearly creeps higher and higher, but par percent is the organization's ultimate goal and that is not mere optimism but a legitimate and possible ambition.

The purpose of our organization is to not only maintain the standards we have already created for our craft but to enhance those standards and it is the duty of the members to impress upon those withholding their support that they negate and handicap all our efforts.

Fifty applications as a result of this campaign will bring our total membership to an approximation of 750 members. That figure is far beyond the dreams of the organization of a few years ago. We do not ask for hard work on your part; we only ask for your interest.

E. B. D. MEETINGS

Our regular meetings are held on the FOURTH Saturday of each month at, 2:30 o'clock P. M.

Don't forget, the FOURTH SATURDAY.

If the demands on your time will not permit you to participate in the active constructive work of your organization, you can at least devote one hour, once a month, to attendance at meetings.

TELEGRAPHERS' CONVENTION CALL OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

The Journal is indebted to Bro. Ralph W. Pope, for the historical document reproduced on the opposite page.

When the nation-wide strike of telegraphers started in California, at the close of the year 1869, the Telegraphers' Protective League was at the peak of its development. With the spread of its activities to the most important cities of the country, and the necessity of preserving secrecy at least until it had attained sufficient numerical strength to warrant publicity, the question of distribution of official information to the various circuits grew in importance.

The manifolding process was simple and its use familiar. Ordinary printed circulars would meet all conditions except the danger of publicity. Some other solution would have to be found.

The inventive faculty of Thomas A. Edison readily solved the problem. He contributed a font of type to be used personally by the officers in printing communications. No press being available, nor really necessary for the limited number of copies required, they were printed in ordinary galley-proof form. The last circular issued was never distributed, as its date shows that the strike was on and the Convention off. The suggested program, here reproduced, was prompted by the various questions brought out in discussions at local meetings.

HISTORICAL CONVENTION CALL

New York Jan, 3rd .1870. Chief Op'r Circuit No.

Dear Sir:

The coming Convention will be one of great importance to every member of the League, and its deliberations should be characterised by the same practical legislation that has been a distinguishing seature of our society since its birth. It is our duty to economise in time and labor as well as in our expenditures. ery Delegate should go sully prepared to devote every possible moment to the business with which he is entrusted and to represent as nearly as may-be possible the views of his constituents. My correspondence with the officers of the various Circuits has fully convinced me that the proceedings will be generally harmonious, as the different sections of the country seem to be even now a unit on many of the questions that are likely to come before the Convention. With a view to the prompt transaction of business I have compiled the following list of some of the measures which will probably be acted up-

The adoption of uniform signals of recognition.

The establishment of degrees, imposing more binding obligations upon members.

A plan for providing for members out of employment.

The arrangement of a scale of prices and promotion.

Provisions for the trial and punishment of traitors.

The adoption of some system of diffusing prompt and full information regarding the affairs of the League to the different Circuits.

Pertaining to a charter.

Regulation of hours of labor and the location of offices with some regard to the health and comfort of operators.

Establishment of a Bureau for the collection of statistics and a census of all the operators in the country.

Defining the policy to be pursued in the event of a consolidation depriving members of employment.

Extra pay for extra service including

Sunday work.

The preparation of a general plan of action to be pursued by the various Circuits in unison at such time as may be hereafter determined upon.

Judging from the expressed views of many officers and members, as given through the medium of letters and resolutions, the above questions are among the principal ones to be considered.

With the aid of this partial programme, it is to be hoped that each Delegation will go fully prepared for the promps and intelligent transaction of this highly important business.

Praternally, your's

R. W. POPE.

DR. CRANE LEANING BACKWARDS

By Wm. U. TATE

During the existence of the very liberal New York Globe, Dr. Frank Crane was associated with that paper in the capacity of special editorial writer. At times his articles were worthwhile reading and contained some element of sensible logic.

When the Globe was taken over by Mr. Munsey's Evening Sun, Dr. Crane continued his efforts through the Telegram, also owned by Munsey. Now the Telegram is not very broad. Its editorial policy is deliberately or otherwise lacking in conception and perspective. Its attitude towards essential progress is sometimes reactionary to the extreme. Strikes are the fruits of energy exerted by the communists; all liberal inclinations are a tendency toward violent anarchism and enemies of the republic had a hand in the formation of the railroad and miners' unions, according to the Telegram's view.

Doctors of Divinity are supposedly not susceptible to influences of environment and that must be taken into account before it is concluded that Dr. Crane's recent editorials have been written in conformity to the atmosphere prevalent in the editorial rooms of the Telegram. However, the following excerpts from one of his editorials is sufficient to allow for some random speculation:

"There is a considerable number of apostles of unrest and protest who bark all night under the world's window . . .

"Their particular complaint is against the successful everywhere. They love failures, adore tramps, prostitutes and slobs . . .

"As a matter of fact the rich men of today are a better class of people than were the rich men of any preceding age.

"... (the) pyramids in Egypt, (were) built by an old king as a tomb, that his greatness might be advertised after his death.

"This pyramid contains no less than 2,300,000 blocks of stone of an average weight of two and a half tons. The blocks must have been pulled and pushed up an incline plane of earth, and it is calculated that it would take 100,000 men twenty years to build the pyramid, which was merely a tombstone to mark the grave of an ancient rich man....

"In England the rich men are being so heavily taxed that they are no longer able to maintain their great estates, and are selling out.

"In the United States wealthy men are taxed sixty per cent or seventy per cent of their incomes.

"The poor and not rich dominate the Congress and the Senate of the United States and the Parliament of England . . . ."

Up to the 15th century social ambitions of a member of the middle classes were necessarily limited. He was a trader and exchanger, nothing more. The son of a gladiator might become emperor of Rome but seldom did a bourgeois ever rise to any rank. In the 15th century continuous howlings and disturbances brought about a social revolution which created a condition that allowed them a wider field for social expansion. According to Dr. Crane, howling should have ended then. The social class that Dr. Crane is a member of had received its complete emancipation.

Never ending agitation brought about the public school system so that the children of wage earners could have an education. The same agitators aroused the wage earners out of their lethargy and brought about the passage of laws in their protection. They urged them to form trade unions and the present day labor organizations, which have obtained a high standard of wages and working conditions, are the results. But it was all accomplished against the bitter opposition of the employers and collaborated in by most of the middle class.

The rich men of the United States and England pay large tax amounts because the law compels them to do so. When the passage of laws was controlled by rich men they paid no taxes. They pay high taxes not from benevolence, I can assure you. In fact both in the United States and England the wealthy people are using all the power they possess to have the graduated tax eliminated and to have a sales tax instituted instead. If there had been no howling under the world's window we would still be pulling and pushing up blocks to mark the graves of rich men.

CO-OPERATION

On Aug. 13, a member of the E. B. D. working a wire to Chicago called Secretary Hickey on the phone and informed him that the Chicago man failed to answer the wire (it was then fifteen minutes before the opening of the market) and inquired if there was any way in which the Chicago headquarters could be notified to cover the job.

By phone to a New York house with a Chicago wire the word was passed to the Chicago operator, who in turn called W. B. D. headquarters on the phone with the result that the job was covered by a W. B. D. waiting list man before the market opened. A day's work was then secured for one of our members and at the same time the interests of the firm protected.

Another member of the E. B. D. working a Buffalo wire was told by the Buffalo operator (a non-member) that he was going to quit to go with another firm. The information was passed to Secretary Hickey, who in turn fiashed it to our representative in Buffalo immediately. The Buffalo representative investigated and reported that the firm in question was giving up their wire. Nevertheless, the Buffalo boys appreciated the co-operation of the E. B. D. member, and requested that we thank the member in their behalf.

Extracts from minutes of regular meeting held Aug. 25th.

Despite the extremely warm weather, and the absence of members on vacations, the meeting was well attended.

Three new applicants were accepted to membership.

No new cases of sickness or distress reported by the Committee.

The Committee reported that Bro. Ed. Schnitgen has fully recovered from his illness and will be back to work on Aug. 27th.

Under the head of Good and Welfare, President O'Sullivan, announced that the usual Fall Organization Campaign Committee would be inaugurated by District Organizer, Bro. Wm. U. Tate, in the near future and urged the co-operation of every member to make the Street 100%, striving for quality rather than quantity as the real objective. Bro. Tate was given the floor and gave an outline of the work to be carried on. He said every member would help him in the first step of the campaign by giving him the names of operators, both members and non-members, employed by the firms for which they are working. This, he said, would bring the file card index up to date and at the same time enable him to pick out the non-members.

Asked by Bro. Green, as to the number of delinquents, President O'Sullivan, replied that the response for payment of dues for the last half of 1923 was remarkable, ninety-five per cent having already paid up, a condition which has never existed in the organization before.

NINETY-FIVE PER CENT

Up to September first, ninety-five per cent of the membership of the Eastern Broker Division have paid dues up to January first, 1924. A few members have paid up to January first, 1925.

Montreal Convention, Monday, October 1, 1923

JACKSON BROS., PRODUCE EXCHANGE, NOTES

All vacations are over here and things are back to normal.

The boys at Jackson's are enthusastic over the recent change made here.

Bro. George Feild has been appointed Chief Operator, Vice Bro. Sitzenstatter. George is one fine boy and a hard worker in our cause. Congratulations and good luck to you, George.

Good natured Frank Thompson is hitting the ball on the Balto-Boston circuit and the "ole boy" can make some of the younger element step lively when he gets that good right hand warmed up.

Bros. Cogan and Taney are batting them out on Chicago duplex.

Bro. Cogan toured the middle west while on his vacation. He is now in Baltimore relieving Bro. Tom Fericot who is on his vacation. He reports that "Tom" is a fine chap.

We are all busy here, due in part to the fact that this is a relay office to a certain extent.

Our genial and beloved manager, Ernie Cleverley, while not an operator, is well-known as a "real square fellow" who commands the admiration and respect of members of our craft throughout the financial district.

Our floor man, "Jim" Cleary, just returned from his vacation. He spent most of it in the "Windy City" and came back f. o. p.

Bro. "Josh" Jones, formerly with J. & B. is filling in here during Bro. Cogan's absence and is sitting pretty on the Duplex.

VOTE "YES"

Brothers, Eastern Broker Division:

A referendum to increase the yearly pay of patrolmen will be submitted to you at the City elections to be held in November.

To my mind, generally speaking, they are deserving of the requested increase.

Also, to my mind, any movement to raise the standard of the living wage in one occupation, departmental or industrial, necessarily helps all workers. That means you—and me.

The Steel Company employees are now working eight hour shifts. That helps all labor.

VOTE "YES" ON THE REFERENDUM.
AND URGE YOUR FRIENDS TO DO LIKEWISE. —Cert. 36, E. B. D.

NOTICE

For the information of all members of the Eastern Broker Division:

Bro. C. G. Donahue, upon appeal, has had his case re-opened for consideration. and the recommendation of the Executive Board at its meeting of July 6th., that Bro. Donahue be expelled from the Organization, was not placed before the membership at the July meeting of the Division for ratification, because of the re-opening of the case.

Therefore, all members are hereby notified that Bro. Donahue is a member in good standing of the E. B. D. and is entitled to all privileges and consideration as such. subject to final disposition of the case.

The sympathies of the members of the E. B. D. are extended to Bro. Herbert Weir, of Pynchon's, in the death of his wife.

Editor's Note:—Even Wall Street's organ admits the operators are underpaid considering their responsibilities.

"A BIG OPERATOR"

At the corner of Wall Street and Broadway.

"There goes Tom Smith." said a man to his friend.

"Who is he?" asked the friend.

"One of the best operators in the Street," the informant answered. "He handles orders for thousands of shares all day long and keeps the wires hot all over the country."

"Is that so," drawled the friend as he watched Smith wend his way down Wall Street. "He surely doesn't look it."

"Oh! well, you know as well as I do that telegraph operators are not overpaid, although Tom is one of the best."

A BRIEF HISTORY OF LABOR UNIONS

By J. H. Milling, Cert. 540, U. P. Div. No. 47

This article, being an attempt to set forth a little of the history of trade unionism, its accomplishments and purposes, is offered for the information of those who think that it is not worth their while to join a union, and in the hope that it may inspire those who have supported the union in the past to greater zeal in the future.

When one scans the brief but active campaign of labor unions—dating back only 140 years—and views the accomplishment in shortening of hours, increasing wages and various safeguards that have been thrown around the wage earner through the effort of organized labor, one is at a loss to understand why any man should be found without the ranks of a labor union.

Bookbinders Had the Pep

It is recorded that in the year 1780 bookbinders in London, England, were working 14 hours a day, and were evidently the first to form themselves into a society or guild in an endeavor to better their working conditions. In 1786 their hours were shortened to 13 daily, the first concession to a labor union. In 1790 the hours of labor in England were practically unlimited, children working as many as 15 hours By 1794 the bookbinders, who seem to have had the "pep" in those days, had reduced their hours to a 12-hour day.

The "Gary's, ""Schwab's" and "Newcomb Carlton's" of that day became alarmed and in 1799 the "masters"—the same master the A. W. E. of Western Union fame would strive to please—succeeded in getting a bill through Parliament making every form of trade combinations unlawful. After much agitation and following the imprisonment of labor organizers and members of labor unions this bill was repealed in 1824, and by 1830 the labor movement began to assume a wider field. In 1840 President Van Buren declared a 10-hour day for the Navy Yard and other public works and many other industries fell into line. In 1847 the 10-hour day became law in England and France followed suit.

Steady March Onward

All these wonderful concessions—wonderful at that time—were the result of a few brave and sacrificing souls who dared to demand decent treatment and a living wage. The history of labor unionism in this country from 1850 onward is too well known to need reproducing here, but organized labor can point to laws and safety devices for the protection of labor; to the 8-hour day, which is an established fact today in this country, and the right of labor to organize, even against the wishes of Mr. Gary and the Western Union autocrats, as some of the most characteristic features of modern industrialism.

Men and women—you who are telegraphing—how can you remain indifferent in the face of all that has been accomplished for you and despite your refusal even to help those who were sacrificing for the good of all who labor? How can you sell your self-respect into the hands of those whose only interest in you is to exploit your skill and youth for profit? The A. W. E. was conceived in the brain of Newcomb

Carlton to defeat you. It was palmed off on you through his hirelings.

Spotters Still Ply Their Trade

The writer has proof that among the Western Union operators today are what is known as "spotters," whose business it is to keep the "master" informed as to what "his" operators are thinking about. Only recently a friend of the writer was approached by one of these mental and moral degenerates, with a proposition that he could earn some easy money by tipping off the "master"—one whom our master Ye Gods! My friend told this Judas Iscariot that his whole symcan be proud of! pathy was with the operators and that he intended to make known to them the fact that such scum as he was working among them.

There is a Mexican bootlegger in jail in a Texas town, who said he would have · his tongue cut out before he would betray the men who financed him. And I say though that Mexican is a confessed lawbreaker, he has a soul as white as snow when compared to the low-browed weaklings who are prostituting themselves before their "master" for a few dirty dollars a month.

The men and women who have put organized labor where it is today do not know defeat. They are unbeatable and unafraid. While we have had setbacks our faces are ever toward the front and it is our determination to organize every man and woman that is engaged in the telegraph business—that is in the business of communication by wire, whether automatic, Morse or radio. This is our challenge and we never falter.

WILL C. LONG, M. S. O.

Hats off to the first international president of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, Will C. Long, Member Since Organized!

Bro. Long has always been looked upon as the Grand Old Man of the C. T. U. A. by the younger generation and The Journal is glad of the opportunity to pay honor to

Will C. Long learned telegraphy on an old-fashioned paper register of the Pennsylvania Railroad in 1859 when 15 years He entered the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad shortly afterwards. Failing to pass examination at the outbreak of the Civil war, Bro. Long became the "end of track" operator on the P. & E. branch of the P. R. R. until Kane, Pa., was eached, where he was made division perator.

In 1866 he was discharged for attending he Telegraphers' National Union convenion at St Louis as a delegate. This union published "The Telegrapher" and lasted bout four years. Bro. Long then went to Baltimore as chief operator of the P. & A. Telegraph Co., later being promoted to vire chief of that company at Chicago and erving in that capacity until the Western Inion took the concern over.

He joined the Knights of Labor and with is two younger brothers went out on trike during the memorable days of 1883. Bro. Long's experiences during the next 0 years embraced newspaper work; adverising agent for the Union Pacific in maha; chief clerk to the General Westrn Passenger Agent of the New York entral; officer of the Mexico National at lonterey, Mexico, and operator for the ostal at Dallas, Texas.

Attending the first convention of the nalgamated International Union ommercial Telegraphers and the Order Commercial Telegraphers at New York s a delegate from Dallas, Bro. Long was ected as international president, suceding the two associate presidents, I. J. cDonald and Bro. Percy Thomas.

He declined nomination after one term id was elected editor of The Journal, rving until the editorship was amalgaated with that of the general secretary-easurer after the 1907 strike. His serves were then secured by The Railroad elegrapher as assistant editor.

The last convention of the Order of ilroad Telegraphers tendered Bro. Long unanimous vote of thanks for his many ars of faithful service as itor and published with his picture a ry eulogistic write-up of his work in 21. Failing health obliged Bro. Long go to Florida on an extended vacation it year. Believing that he was able to resume work, he returned to St. Louis last August, but suffered a relapse the latter part of March and he had to return to Florida, where he is slowly recovering.

Members of the C. T. U. A. will join in wishing for Bro. Long many years of good health and happiness to crown his long years of unselfish labor for the craft.

EX "IP's" FORM LAW FIRM

The Journal is in receipt of an announcement that a new firm has been established by D. G. Ramsey, S. J. Konenkamp and John C. DeWolfe under the firm name of Ramsay, Konenkamp and De-Wolfe with offices in the new Temple Building in Chicago.

Bro. Ramsay as a past Grand President of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and Bro. Konenkamp as former International President of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America have been prominent in union labor circles for many years and are among the best known veteran telegraphers in North America. They are active union members today despite their absence from the key.

Bro. Ramsay has been Assistant States Attorney for a number of years, having resigned recently to reenter private practice.

Mr. DeWolfe has acted as attorney for the C. T. U. A. on a number of occasions and has a wide acquaintance among telegraphers.

The new firm will be engaged in general practice but the long association of the firm members with the labor movement means that labor questions will be always of interest to them. The fact that all three members of the firm have been successful in the past promises well for their new venture. The Journal wishes the new firm its full measure of success.

O. A. MORRIS RESIGNS

Notice was received during July of the resignation of O. A. Morris as secretarytreasurer of International News Service System, Division No. 61. Through an oversight in getting out the unusually large August issue, the notice was inadvertently omitted.

General Chairman E. C. Campbell, 1666 E. 118th St., Cleveland, is acting secretarytreasurer.

ORGANIZE—CO-OPERATE

Meetings First and Third Fridays of each month excepting during months of June, July and August, when meetings will be held the Third Friday.

W. B. D. DELEGATES

The Western Broker Division will be represented at the Montreal convention by Delegates R. H. McDaniel, R. W. Goodale and E. L. Boole. Alternates are G. B. Miller, J. W. Murray and J. B. Alcorn.

Needless to say, the interests of the W. B. D. will be carefully and efficiently taken care of by this trio.

HEADQUARTERS NOTES

Bro. R. H. ("Mickey") McDaniel is spending his vacation at the old family homestead in Shreveport, La., taking a rest that he was sadly in need of. He has been afflicted for weeks with a summer cold that stubbornly refused to yield to treatment, and it was only by dint of his bulldog tenacity that he was enabled to remain on his dual jobs at Redmond & Co., and as executive of the division as long as he did. Word comes from him that the balmy air of the Southland has already worked wonders in his physical condition. sends a snapshot of the "ole swimmin' hole" where he and his care-free mates cavorted as barefooted urchins in the distant past. Many of these same pals are now leading business men of Shreveport.

Bro. S. S. Ulerich, who lost the chief operatorship in Chicago, when Jones & Baker, the big New York curb house, went to the wall, is doing an extra stunt at Harriman & Co. "Si" earned the everlasting gratitude of union telegraphers when, in 1907, he was mainly instrumental in building Chicago Local No. 1 to a total of 1,800 members. Unsurpassed as an organizer, the inherent instinct for that line of endeavor still manifests itself in his daily routine of converting the "hard boiled" element to the sound principles of unionism. The more power to you, "Si"!

Bro. John Douglas Miller, the Chesterfield of the telegraph craft in the La Salle Street financial district, has returned to our welcoming arms after a month's sojourn at Macomb, Ill., where he filled in a vacation period for Lamson Bros. & Co. "Jack" is the very essence of pulchritude, and this admirable trait combined with a courtliness of manner and a spontaneous urbanity mark him as one of the most picturesque figures in "The Street." The more power to this brilliant product of Old Kaintuck. The basic principles of unionism are steeped in his soul, and he is fearless in espousing them.

That original son of Momus, Claire Q. Yount, of Lamson Bros. & Co., honored headquarters with a visit recently. Few men have been blessed with the vivacious temperament possessed by this rollicking young blade. If Claire would but lay aside his sprightly ways and adapt himself to the more serious business of telegraph statesmanship, Bro. "Heinie" Wiegel would be forced to look to his laurels as the stellar attraction in that particular field.

A hilarious time was had at headquarters this week when Bro. Edward L. Boole, standing upon the threshold of his fiftieth year as an active telegraph worker, jocularly recited his swan song and burlesqued his retirement to the cumulative ranks of passive card holders. The divine tenor of his farewell lullaby all but brought tears to the eyes of his auditors. His touching effort the writer is unable to accurately recall because of its speed, but the rousing chorus, which was joined in heartily by all present, was about as follows:

Raccoon and 'possum down the branch, Down the branch a-fightin';

Old rabbit lay in the feace corner, Bust his sides a-laughin'.

Ed's multifarious activities in the financial district belie his having reached the deadline of passiveness by a wide margin.

Bro. Royce W. ("Red") Goodale, our genial general secretary-freasurer, who is nothing if not a philosopher, gave vent to this sage comment relative to the burletta staged by Bro. Boole:

"Seriously, there is more truth than poetry in the role enacted by the rabbit ensconced complacently in the fence corner watching his contemporaries do battle in that it has a fitting application to the careers of many telegraphers of the 'Let George do it' blend. This class of men are perfectly willing to lounge around the family hearthstone while the Georges unselfishly bring home the bacon. But there will come a day when these fellows will have cause to rue their reprehensible mode of reasoning. It will suddenly dawn upon their somnolent brains that there is something else required of them beside the mere carrying of a union card. Carrying a union card and remaining passive does not constitute the groundwork or first principle of unionism by any manner of means. Stepping boldly into the open and putting a willing shoulder to the wheel is the cardinal tenet upon which true unionism is based. Take home to yourselves that portion of Kipling's immortal poem which 82 YS:

"It's not the work of ONE man "That brings us to the goal, "It's the everlasting teamwork "Of every bloomin' soul."

That wise old owl, Tom Costello, formerly with the defunct curb firm of Jones & Baker, is still holding down what seems to have proved more than an extra sit-in at Lowitz & Co. Tom is a grand entertainer. "Billy" Emerson in his palmiest days never had it on Tom for quaint whimsicalities.

An apology is hereby extended by the writer to Bro. John G. Murphy for inadvertently chronicling in the August journal his advent into the service of a stock exchange firm under the name of John H. This apology is deemed necessary to distinguish John G. from the other Murphys' in the street, none of whom, with the exception of William H. of Hulburd, Warren & Chandler, has had the courage or decency to align himself with the hundreds of men who have been the means, in large part, of obtaining and sustaining the high salary schedules now in effect in the La Salle Street financial district.

Bro. E. L. Boole is relieving Bro. James E. Flanagan, at H. M. Byllesby & Co., during the latter's vacation. "Jim" slipped on a pair of overalls and is putting in the vacation period profitably as a near-mechanic on a dwelling he is erecting, having been forced to this dire extreme by the prohibitive flat rentals in this neck of the woods. "Jim" literally took the bull by the horns in this enterprise, and says he is going to have a villa of his own or die in the attempt.

Bro. Joe Skelley, the "John Bunte" of the telegraph world, is relieving Bro. Stevenson, at A. L. Baker & Co., during the latter's vacation.

Bros. Kreeger and Belding saw to it that Bros. Ray Walters and Geo. Miller departed for their fishing trip in the Wisconsin woods. Your jobs will be well protected, boys, during your absence by these two capable Brothers.

Bro. Richard J. Cogan, of the Eastern Broker Division, passed hurriedly through Chicago, Sunday, September 9, en route to Salt Lake City, Utah. The Mormon city is "Dick's" former home and his trip there is for the purpose of visiting his wife who was taken quite seriously ill while visiting relatives. He has been a 100 per cent union man all of his life, and is one of the "Member Since Organized" clan. He was one of the telegraph force of E. D. Dier & Co., New York, and following the failure of that well-known firm he made a connection with the big stock exchange house of Hornblower & Weeks.

Former President Bro. John B. Alcorn of the W. B. D. was a welcome visitor at head-quarters recently. John is now located with the United Press at Terre Haute, Ind., and came here to supervise the removal of his furniture to the Hoosier city. He was in the pink of condition and is much pleased with his position on the Terre Haute Star. He was warmly received by his old cohorts and carried with him the sincere wishes of scores of old friends when he took his departure for his new field of endeavor.

Former Vice-President Bro. G. E. (Ted) Williams was a recent visitor at head-quarters. It had been some time since the "GRAND LITTLE MAN" from Denver, had visited the old haunts around the Windy City. We were scrry to learn upon his arrival in Chicago, that he had recently lost his wife. We extend to you our sincerest sympathy, Ted, in this great affliction.

JACKSON BROS. NOTES

Vacations about over, two more to be made, Miller and West. However, Bro. Walters is going to accompany Bro. Miller, on a two weeks' fishing trip in Wisconsin. All the boys should be plentifully supplied with fish for a couple of weeks now. Miller says if a big one pulls little Ray out of the boat, he won't be held responsible.

Chief Operator Strobel spent two weeks in the Wisconsin fishing waters, but no reports as to all the fish caught yet. Dwight Clark acted as chief operator in Strobel's absence.

No changes in the office force for several months, the boys like to stay here, and that's all.

LAMSON BROS. & CO. NOTES

Ho hum! Vacations all over.

Colonel Dave Ellington was called to Memphis, Tenn., on account of the sudden death of his sister, Sept. 2. Sincere sympathy from all the brethren, Dave.

Listen mates! "DB" Tomlinson completed a 2,300 mile auto trip on his vacation and claims NO TROUBLE of any kind. Duke Martin is back from a fishin' trip in northern Wisconsin and fails to spring that one about the big fellow who got away. WHAT'S WRONG HERE?

There's something queer about Herb Smythe's cigars since Bob Tucker moved in next door to him.

Bro. Jere Cook, on his vacation, motored through Michigan and came back full of wim and wigor.

Great mystery in CB! Reward of 1,000,000 (German marks) for correct solution! Why does it take so long to break PX on the duplex?

Bill Purse has some new teeth, but he wears 'em in his pocket part of the time.

George DeMarke, stock order clerk and the last member of the Bachelor's Club, was married Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 5. Congratulations and very best wishes, George.

Bill Coyle said he caught six fish while on his vacation. According to the rule of substraction for fish stories he didn't even get a bite.

Frank Guest looks like a bank president in that new suit. Who is in the locker with you, Frank?

Colonel Ellington says his baby weighs 13 1-2 pounds, but wishes he wouldn't sing so much between 10 p.m. and 2 a.m.

ODE TO A BATHTUB

By Jim Cowhey, E. B. D.

A man named Bivin who worked at "RK", About motor cars would converse all the day.

He was wise so he thought to each part of a car,

He purchased a Marmon and since then there's been war.

Mrs. Bivin protested and claimed 'twas a truck.

And loudly insisted her husband was stuck. It rode like a pushcart and almost as slow, They thought 'twas a tractor wherever he'd go.

He bought shock absorbers to save the new top

From being perforated as the old tub would hop,

Up and down, bumpy bump, he was strapped to the seat.

As the heat from the engine was scalding his feet.

It took so much gas to run this old float, Mrs. Bivin proclaimed that by train or by boat,

In future she'd ride, yes a horse and a cart,

Would arrive in Milwaukee 'fore the Marmon could start.

Poor Biv started out for Wisconsin one day.

A hick stopped and asked him to help with the hay,

Saying I'll pay you well if that wagon you'll fill,

It's just made for the farm, so please say you will.

Then Bivin got sore and decided right there,

That if he got it back home right away he'd repair

To a second hand junk shop and offer for sale,

The darned old tub that he'd never bewail.

SAYS JIM TO HIS MAXWELL

By W. L. Birin, W. B. D.

Little car, please tell me why, All the junk piles pass you by, While at a snail's pace you crawl Haven't you no pride at all? It sure fills me with disgust When I take a flivver's dust.

Little car, I nearly choke
When you're the butt of every joke.
You do look fair but what you need 1s loads of pep, power and speed.
I cannot face any man's eye
When he looks at you with a sigh.

Little car, you're painted blue,
Though your old tin wheels ain't true.
They wobble this way and that 'Neath those fenders painted black.
I've often looked but never found
A single one that's truly round.

I've never found beneath your hood, A thing to make 'em call you good. Every day you're running sour, At a speed of twenty miles per hour But with your speeds of stop and slow, That's just as fast as you can go.

It gives me an awful shock.
To hear your little engine knock
And my heart with sorrow fills.
To have you towed up all the hills.
While on the downhill all cars pass
As though you're standing out of gas.

It surely fills my heart with gall
To hear your pistons slap the wall.
One thing that aids in your defeat,
Is that your valves they never seat.
And timing gears give forth a groan,
Like some big crusher, crushing stone.

Your old tin hood is full of squeaks,
All the water from your jacket leaks.
It to my soul no joy gives,
To have you leak like a flock of sieves.
Your pump doesn't work any more,
Your temperature's about two hundred four.

What is that funny knock and hum? Must be your fan belt on the bum. Your fan don't raise nuff breeze at best To blow a feather from a nest. Your wrist pins loose and the bearing knocks
Can easily be heard for forty blocks.

What really fills my heart with fear, is what you have for a steering gear. Until it's tried I never know Exactly which way you'll go. You weave and wobble o'er the street Like a drunken copper on his beat.

Little car, it's got me beat,
What is that stuff that pads your seat?
To make it easy all it lacks
Is a peck or two of good sharp tacks.
I can't ride a mile out on the lane,
Without my frame being wracked with pain.

It's always with a fearful sigh,
I ever let you into high.
Your carburetor seems to choke
And the engine almost croaks.
The old clutch slides and slips,
Has no more grip than a snake has hips.

Your universal always has a whip Like the ocean rocks about a ship. A heavy dew will wet your coil, You're always running out of oil. And talk of gas, I got to smile, You use four gallons to a mile.

Your differential most knocks me dead,
Better by far 'twere made of lead.
For every time you hit a hill
It sounds just like a planing mill.
Your axle must be broken through and through
Your tracks would break a snake in two.

The shoes on your tires flops,
I turn on the lights your engine stops.
Two days I sat you in the sun,
The paint blistered and started to run.
At that I was awful glad to know Something about you would run and go.

I have opinions of any man who'd tell A friend that you was a "GOOD MAX-WELL."

My summaries of you I know are true Now that I've looked you through and through.

To me you're just an old tin can Fit company for an Irishman.

Regular monthly meetings at Headquarters, last Monday in the month.

By J. A. Neimant

"POP" MULLEN ELECTED DELEGATE

Once again the integrity of the members in Boston, has been maintained. The New England Broker Division will be represented at the Biennial Convention at Montreal, on October first. If our members were prone to gamble, the betting would have been ten to one at the meeting held on the last Monday of August that the division would not be represented. So certain were those who were opposed to represensation that one enthusiast predicted the matter would be settled in five minutes after the meeting was opened. However, when the motion to waive our right to representation was offered it was debated pro and con for nearly an hour and then defeated.

A delegate was then elected, which proves that the division in Boston intends to be an active integral part of the International organization. The rank and file seemed to sense that the only ones who would be pleased to witness a retrogressive step, would be the employers of telegraphers, notably the Western Union, Postal and non-union press associations. Once the question was settled the division membership manifested an earnest desire to furnish the delegate with a plethora of funds to make the trip. The delegate-elect, J. F. ("Pop") Mullen, hastened to inform his friends that he appreciated the importance of the occasion and did not look upon the trip to Montreal as an opportunity for a junket.

The vacation period is now over and a considerable number are on the block, and as is usual at this time of year, some anxiety is felt, but the blockites have never starved during a winter yet and we don't believe they will this time. Though there are more than usual on the block, we would remind them to be careful to work in co-operation with the employment committee, Niemant and Feltus. There are a few "looking-out-for-myself" now outside the outfit that have worn out plenty of shoe-leather shuffling around the street.

As the popular chieftan at G. F. Redmond & Co., Joe Coughlin, was about to start on his vacation a certain well-known bird perched on his front piazza and dropped a quivering bit of humanity in the shape of a chubby baby girl. The gang is anxiously waiting for him to show up, not only to smoke his cigars, but to hear him humming "Rock-a-bye-baby," etc. As Matty would say, "G. L. to you and more power to you."

The driving ability of John Asquith Nemo Niemant has been criticized so much that he impounded the Prexy and Sailor Griffin in the rear of his now famous Columbia Six to act as a committee to witness his gyrations, and report thereon. If anybody ever saw Nemo play checkers, they could form some idea of the ordeal the committee went through. They shot out of State Street (formerly King Street) like a thunderbolt and they never came to until they reached South Boston, where the smell of home brew made the committee prick up their ears. Nemo did everything with that machine but make a somersault. It has leaked out that Nemo got a favorable report from the committee by treating them to lemonade.

The much heralded trip of Mr. Mackenzie to "Antagonish" has caused many of the bunch to wonder why all the "Buns" he has issued since his return refer to places situated entirely within the potato country in Northern Maine.

Something for every Telegrapher to repeat once in a while:
"IF EVERY MEMBER OF MY UNION WERE JUST LIKE ME, WHAT KIND OF A UNION WOULD MY UNION BE?"

Montreal Convention, Monday, October 1, 1923

MICHIGAN BROKER DIVISION NOTES

President Guy Blakeley has left the street temporarily (maybe for good) and has been meeting with wonderful success in selling real estate. Some might call it luck, but no matter what you call it Guy is there with the goods and sold eleven lots out Michigan avenue in the first week he started in the game and has added from two to five lots to his grand total each week since, all of which makes his commission checks look like he had been on the right side of the grain market for a long pull. Our worthy president surely can talk them out of their hard-earned cash in approved sub-division style and has all the confidence in the world and most of the luck. The funny part about it is that he told a little friend some months ago that he was going to be rich by Christmas and come to think of it he does look a little like Santa Claus.

Secretary-Treasurer H. J. (Mike) Nadeau is now laboring for E. E. MacCrone & Co. and between union affairs and affairs of the heart manages to keep very busy. He has proved a big help to Bro. John Bogan, assisting him to eat his lunch each noon and alternating every other week on the state wire where Bo has been carrying the hod for some time.

Bro. Francis O'Rourke has moved again so he can be nearer to the residence of Bro. Bogan. He heard the latter has a bottle hid somewhere in the house. These two are such close friends that when one is late in the morning, the other is, too, as they wait on the corner for one another to make sure both are able to get down. It is reported O'Rourke has been in training to meet Firpo in a drinking bout.

Bro. Henry Burghardt is trying to corner the market on German marks and it is reported he has been a heavy buyer for some weeks. He says he will buy all they put out if it costs him one hundred dollars.

Bro. John Murphy from Chicago visited us the first week in September and was last seen going north on a 12th street car full of 8 per cent beer (quantity one pint).

We have taken into our ranks recently two high class men employed by W. A. Harriman & Co., Inc. Bro. E. C. Fink joined us a few months ago and we wish to thank him for his assistance in getting us in touch with their man in Grand Rapids when the firm opened there.

Bro. Harold Card is our new member in Grand Rapids and the firm is to be congratulated on securing the services of men of this calibre. There are quite a number of houses in Grand Rapids employing wire men and these men could do a lot of good for their firms and themselves by joining the ranks of a live organization like the Michigan Broker Division. If the men out in the state only realized it, they are more in need of an organization to stand by them than the men in the large cities and the co-operation they will get from men in the central offices will prove beneficial in many ways both to the operators and the houses they are working for. Let us prove it to you, boys. The longer you maintain your policy of isolation and inactivity the more good chances you are missing to better your own condition.

Ex-Bro. Bert Thompson has resigned and left the city. So far only one or two sending machines have been reported missing and we suspect they went west, too. Bert is the champion of the world at bug pinching. Lock 'em up tight, Clark Childs & Co. closed their Detroit branch August 31 and the office force transferred to Ware & Co., who recently took over the Detroit office of Deakin & Co.

Bro. Shaffert recently connected with Van Ness & Co. Shaff still thinks he is a member of the E. B. D. and we didn't like to disappoint him so we just let him think that way. JAH please record.

Bro. Tom Baird is making the vacation relief for Bro. Hy Lee at Harriman & Co. for the month of September while Hy looks over the oil fields in Cement, Okla., and hunts in the Ozarks.

Bro. Bob Score had to get an injunction out to keep O'Rourke out of Saginaw after OB knocked down a tree and ruined his lawn with his flivver early one morning. Bob says Saginaw is too wet a place for a bird that drives like that.

Brothers Roby, Thompson and Herbstreith on E. E. MacCrone & Co. state wire are holding up fine considering the terrible sending and hideous comedy they have to suffer right along.

Detroit is not the only place where there are a lot of wild Indians. The Indian club in Saginaw has taken Bro. Score into their membership. They have a first class highly respected club of fellow workers but in another line of trade. As Guy Blakeley says, it beats everything how h-l keeps up!!

CANADIAN PRESS NOTES

ALL MEMBERS CANADIAN PRESS DIVISION NO. 52:

Following is a report of the recent election held to elect delegates to attend the International Convention in Montreal on Oct. 1:

Nominations were: Clark, 15; Mc-Dougall, 2; Coyle, 1; Skattebol, 1, and Tebo, 1. For a Western delegate: Gillis, 8; Tanton, 2; Lund, 1; Williams, 1, and Murray 2 for an Eastern delegate.

All nominees in the West withdrew excepting Chairman Clark which resulted in his election by acclamation.

The consequent vote for the Eastern delegate, after Murray and Lund withdrew, resulted in the election of Frank Gillis, who received 22 votes. Williams and Tanton received 7 and 5, respectively, with one spoiled ballot.

Brothers Skattebol and Gibbs, of Vancouver, acted as tellers in this election and for their assistance I beg to tender them thanks.

> J. A. McDOUGAL, Secretary-Treasurer.

CONSOLIDATED PRESS NOTES

Empire State Circuit

The boys are drifting back from their vacations. Buffington of Syracuse dropped in on his way to the Falls. "Buff" is the last of the vacationists. LaChasseur, after relieving Browning at the Albany Knicker-bocker, went to Utica to let Larry "ground" the alarm clock and whoop 'em up with the flivver for two weeks. LaChasseur is now at Syracuse.

"Red" Mattimore is back on the job at Worcester, Mass., after nearly two months in a local hospital. Devine is still hanging out the semaphore light at Manchester. He seems to like that part of the world very well.

Wickes cleaned up the vacations at NX and is back on the receiving side at Rochester. "Wix" has laid aside the reel and rod and now giving attention to his t—rusty Remington pump. Wix recently sold a fine wireless set he constructed, spending nights and Sundays on the "side issue."

Sammy Glober is back on the west wire. The boys on that string know a good thing when they hear it. "Brig" Johnson is on the short trick, having traded with "Please-make-it" Barbee, the change putting the latter on the Empire State. "Brig" puts 'em over the pan in grand shape and the boys get out early on that string, and have a little time in between acts.

McElroy is at Boston and doing fine. "Mc" is the only one of his family remaining in the States, the other three members being in Australia, Japan and China. But Mack's feet are itching—so he says—for strange thoroughtares.

Jewell is making the vacation relief on the second wire at Buffalo, McLennan, the regular man, taking his old friend, Hay Fever, to the Adirondacks for a rest.

Homer Summers, who only opens up to say "GM," is rather content to remain in Erie, Pa.

"Chick" Sterling who transferred from Philadelphia to Portland, Oregon, says he likes the west coast city and intends to throw out the anchor. We rather thought Chick would send us some apples from his "ranch" this year, but, of course, it was only a thought. Chick rides to work with the milkman and goes back home on the baker's wagon. No transportation problem in this case.

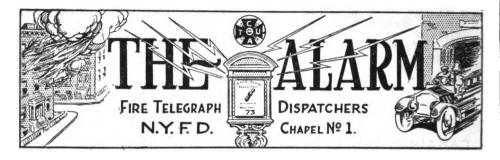

Thanks for the notes this month, boys. If you do this well next month we will tell you where the Ninth Biennial Convention was held.

No notes from the "Sunshine Circuit". Evidently there was a total eclipse of that solar body.

"Brig" Johnson handles a neat batch of report on the F. N. S. wire. For the first time in months "Red" Wilson at Philadelphia broke Friday night, Sept. 7, for a very good reason. The mill fell completely apart. It takes this much to make Red open 'er up. The mill problem on this particular wire seems to be growing more acute. The copy is wanted but the willingness to furnish a typewriter seems lagging.

Brig says he's about fed up. How come, ole top? The circuit would be lost without your clever head work.

Wickes is looking with longing eyes in the direction of the "Sunshine Circuit" for a winter sine. Wix don't like the idea of wearing an overcoat to the beach in August.

JOLTS

With Acknowledgments to John Blake

If it were not for the jolts life would be rather monotonous. Also it would be considerably harder to support.

Man has been learning by means of jolts since anything has been written about him.

It is so easy to fall into a beaten path, to do the same kind of work for the same kind of pay, taking it for granted that work and pay will continue forever, that nothing but a jolt will save a man from wearing a rut so deep that it will soon swallow him up.

The business man or clerk who goes to and from his work with faithful regularity day by day will continue to do so without any appreciable results till he gets some kind of a jolt.

Then he will wake up to the fact that one must look ahead while he is going ahead or he will be likely to hit something.

Those who have not had any jolts, but have proceeded on the theory that life would go on forever as it had been going, will not do so well—at first.

We all long for serenity and an even course through life, but that is the sure way to dry rot.

Don't worry about jolts! They are merely the little prods that keep us from sleeping on our feet.

We are pleased to report second half 1923 dues well up by all members of the Chapel, notwithstanding absentees on vacation leaves. This speaks well for our unit; showing we have attained the power to resist the "jolts."

Of course, this is as it should be and is a source of great encouragement to your committee in the splendid work they are doing. Incidentally it helps them ward off the many "jolts" they are bound to receive while working in your behalf.

With the perseverance and determination displayed by the committee members results of the desired kind are bound to come—jolts or no jolts.

Bro. "Bill" Riordan returned from his vacation with a new golf score to his credit but he won't say what it is.

Bros. Martin and Nolan are also back from long tours in their "Baby Lincolns."
We find out that Bro. Martin toured about all of New York state, but as Bro.

Nolan is "close" to the editor of "The Alarm" he won't tell where he has been.

Montreal Convention, Monday, October 1, 1923

BUFFALO DISTRICT COUNCIL

With the passing of summer and settlement of the coal strike everything points to a prosperous fall and winter. Brokerage houses will soon reflect this activity. The bond market is particularly active and it is quite probable that several new jobs will develop here in Buffalo in the next few months. Any member of District Council No. 7, who hears of these probable new jobs is urged to help fill it with a man in sympathy with our views.

In the meantime, there are a few prospects in the different broker houses and banks who will come in with a little urging from a union friend. If you are acquainted with these nons, who are fairly well-known to everyone, make it your business to explain our ambitions to them.

The ways to gain a new member are as varied as they are numerous. A man who has persistently rebuffed our approaches was lined up in this indirect way: A Brother was asked by a stenographer who works in the same office, if he knew so and so. Replying that he did, the stenog advanced the information that he was engaged to her sister. Our Brother immediately gave her a union talk and an application blank to pass on to her sister. The sister was impressed with our arguments as relayed by the stenog and has prevailed upon her future husband-operator to join the organization that is advancing the interests of telegraphers.

Tom Condon has returned from his well-earned vacation and is in fine fettle for another 52 weeks. Bob Allen did the relief stunt.

George Harding intends to motor to New York for the big fight. If he backs up his judgment on the outcome with real coin, we feel sorry for his B. R. Firpo has the same chance that the A. W. U. E. has of getting a square deal from its "union" leaders.

Jimmy Cooley broke his pledge about attending wakes the other night. On the way home he tripped over a sidewalk and sprained his wrist. Some folks think that Jim had been drinking ginger ale, but they are wrong. Jim doesn't drink any more . . . than he used to.

Jack McCloskey and Carl Bartness know where all the GOOD beer is in town, but Carl says it isn't cold enough.

Carl has been working in Rochester the past two weeks, relieving the Universal man who was unable to get a substitute. Bob Allen and Johnny Jewell covered the local job.

Charley Tait still has his Fierce Arrobut. He laid off so much since buying it that now he's looking for some one to stake him to "gas."

George Wright will have his vacation this month but he won't tell us what he's going to do.

Pat Irey says he won't need an overcoat or any coal this winter. He gets a roasting every day on the Consolidated string that keeps him warm till the next morning.

If the Brothers don't loosen up with some notes this column is going to look pretty sick next month.

The following newspaper article is that the worthy of reproduction here because of perished.

the fact that press associations are generally loathe to give up wire space to record the exploits of telegraphers:

Out of the appalling tragedy which has swept the two greatest cities of Japan has emerged another heroic wireless operator who, like the courageous Jack Binns of steamship Republic fame, stuck steadfastly to his key in the face of almost certain death and disaster.

Binns, on January 13, 1909, won the heartfelt plaudits of an entire world when, forgetting his own peril, he continued for hours to send out SOS calls from the sinking liner Republic, after she had been rammed by the Florida, and finally succeeded in guiding rescue craft to her side in time to save all on board.

Taki Yonemura, operator in charge of the Japanese government wireless station at Tomioka, 144 miles from Yokohama, is the man who will go down in history as one of the outstanding heroes of the terrible Japanese catastrophe.

The only man at the Tomioka station who understands English, and himself having only a limited knowledge of the tongue, Yonemura for three days and three nights, without a single respite, flashed to the outside world the only authentic first hand information concerning the world's greatest tragedy.

It was from Yonemura that the first word of the Yokohama earthquake came last Saturday. When the violent tremblers were followed by a succession of tidal waves which inundated that great city, again it was the little Japanese radio operator who, groping his way uncertainly, in a foreign tongue, flashed across 4,700 miles of broad Pacific the dread message that thousands of his countrymen had verished

THE SOUNDER OF

Conducted by Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division 21

Meeting Date: Second Wednesday of Each Month at Union of Commerce Hall,

—Organizo—Co-operato—

TORONTO DISTRICT

With the holiday season about ended, things are coming back to normalcy and the different members report having had a good time on their vacation and were very well pleased with the reliefs supplied by the division, namely Sammy Kamiker, Freddie Davis, Fred Smeardon and Bill Strong.

To show the cockeyed world that the Central District of Div. No. 21 is still alive we have organized a bowling league for the coming winter and have reserved alleys at Saunders Bowling Academy, on Temperance street, for every Friday night from 5:30 p.m. with six teams in the league and hope to have a great year. Eddie Hartford, Harold Sylvas, Eddie Byrne, George Flannery, Bert Richardson, George Slade, Les Carrie, et al, take notice.

We are also making our usual plans for the Bulls and Bears hockey team for the coming winter. Last year we finished in the KAN, but this year we hope to dig up a good goaler and step out some. With a few additions to our ranks for the coming winter in Cliff Fawthrop, Don and Gord Cameron we should do much better.

Bro. Tom Clark will represent this district at the convention to be held in Montreal, Oct. 1st, which means this district has no worries no how.

Bro. C. L. Andrews is doing a short stunt at Brantford for Stobie Forlong Co.

Better hurry back, Andy, we start the bowling league soon.

The boys are wagering as to how many pins Jack Mara can spot Eddie Hartford and George Flannery. Better get in some of the preliminary stuff, Mickey, you cannot sit in this game "pat."

Bro. Jim Culkin is back on the job after a vacation and a siege of illness which confined him to the Grace Hospital for ten days. All's well that ends well.

If you want a first class union operator, notify any member of the Leased Wire Division and you will get one. If you want a cheap, non-union operator phone George Paton, Local Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraph. He makes a specialty of supplying them.

When you are asking your boss to raise your salary to the minimum leased wire wage, be sure to phone promptly to George Paton, Local Agent, Canadian Pacific Railway Company's Telegraph. This will give George more time to dig up some one to scab your job.

We don't like to see any of the boys "stuck in," but anybody who goes short of VCS deserves to be.

Bro. Bill Watts spent Labor Day in Haliburton district getting a line on a few deer he intends shooting this fall.

Montreal Convention, Monday, October 1, 1923

W. M. A. B. D. NOTES

At the regular meeting of the Unit held on the 21st of July the election of delegates and alternates to the bi-ennial convention to be held at Montreal, Oct. 1st, was held and resulted in the selection of Bro. Patterson, our former Chairman, and Sec'y.-Treasurer McCutcheon. Chairman Laitta was elected as alternate to Bro. Patterson and Bro. Reits of F. H. McNulty & Co., as Bro. McCutcheon's alternate.

Things on the street have been very quiet this summer.

Bro. Leiptzig subbed for the boys at Moore, Leonard and Lynch and then relieved the boys at the Gulf Oil Co.

Bro. Wilson relieved Harry Ritchart at Neumann Bros.

Bro. Fred Moore was with the Fort Wayne Ry. a short time. Frank H. Betz, the genial old-timer, is filling in vacation time at Mastens. Bro. Young relieves the veteran Pete Wilbert at Obey and Nuttall.

Frank Barr, the chief in charge at Kay Richards and Co., relieved his men, owing to poor business.

Chairman Laitta is a busy man these days rounding up the nons in his spare time. Bill Flesher is still with our old friend. Jack Mess, at Merriman & Co., Wheeling, and Bro. Williams is with Nicholson Oberman & Co., Wheeling.

On the Parkersburg end of the Merriman wire are Bros. Ben Hall and "Jerry" Fisher, who by the way has just become a benedict.

The following was heard on the Ny-Pgh-Chicago wire of J. S. Bache during a lull in business the other day: Bro. Mallott, perpetrated the following:

A friend of mine went to the races to have a jolly time;

So did I. So did I;

He bet his money on a hoss, a dead sure thing;

So did I, So did I;

He placed it all on the "Nose" in the Saratoga Derby,

And who the H— do you think it was,

Nobody but Jack Kirby. (Words and Music by the Popular Composer William Mallott.)

Granville Lobaugh, formerly in charge at Moore, Leonard and Lynch, is on the sick list.

At C. D. Halsey's, Mr. Harry Platt relieved our old friends Lafferty "Jimmie" Dugan.

Bro. Stanley Kane is relieving Bro.

Hanson at Franklin.

Bro. Pernau of Kay Richards, Johnstown, was in town recently but we missed him.

Bro. "Butler" Smith is relieving Bro.

Eddie Murray at Butler.

Bro. McDonnell of Brast & Co., Parkersburg, has decided to make that city his permanent residence and has recently moved there.

Mr. Zornstorff is back at R. W. Evans

Co., the bond house.

Bro. Charlie McCabe is relieving Morris and Browns and Bro. Woodhall is at the Bureau of Markets.

Frank Dugan is subbing at the Carnegie

Steel office here.

Bro. Eddie Sullivan is back on the job after a couple weeks in the hospital.

Bro. Cooney, of Harriman & Co., has gone to Chicago. Bro. Howard Hinman is with Mike

O'Keefe in Chicago and Fred Hinman is subbing for Mr. Roscoe at the Gazette Times lease.

Bro. Bruce Owens is with the U. P. and

W. Dolan with the I. N. S.

Bro. J. Harry Bowman, who was with Winkleman prior to the failure, is in the auto business. Bro. Robertson, who was also with Winkleman, is understood to be in the same line of endeavor.

Bro. Charlie Miller is with the A. P.

DON'T BUY WARD PRODUCTS To Organized Labor, Friends and Sympathizers!

GREETINGS: - The Bakers' International Union of America wishes to once more bring some facts before the bread consuming public in regards to the Ward Baking Company Products.

On May 1st, last, the Ward Baking Company severed their agreement relations, which they held with the Bakers' International Union of America, and deliberately declared for the open shop.

The meaning of the open shop, you presumably all know, signifies longer hours, less wages and inhuman working conditions for the workers; but bigger profits for a greedy bread trust.

In 1922 the Ward Baking Company realized a profit of over two million dollars ($2,000,000); their slogan for 1923 is double that amount to be squeezed out of the workers and bread consumers.

The Ward Baking Company has disposed of all union men and are absolutely non-union in every respect.

The Bakery Workers do therefore appeal to you to refrain from buying the Ward products, and thus by noble deeds and acts, help to bring back humane conditions for your fellow workmen.

Any favors accorded will be greatly appreciated.

Fraternally yours, BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY WORKERS INTERNAT'L UNION OF AMERICA.

CANADIAN RADIO DIVISION, NO. 65

In view of the demand on space on account of the Convention, we must not impose on Editor Powers' generosity this month, and our notes are brief.

The privately-employed ship and shore radio men are coming in well, and we anticipate a considerable increase in our membership in the near future.

We regret to hear that Brother John T. Davidson of Cape Race is suffering from a complete nervous breakdown and is totally incapacitated. This condition was caused by overwork and the strain of watch-keeping at Cape Race. Bro. Davidson has the sympathy of his fellow-workers, and their heartfelt wishes for his speedy recovery.

We are glad to see Bro. F. Cornish back at Bull Harbour, after a sojourn in the hospital with lumbago.

Bro. C. R. Sprachlin, our shining star in the east, is going to make a determined effort in the next few weeks to stir up a little more enthusiasm among our east coast brothers. We hope that the east coasters will assist in the recruiting of the men employed on private stations. There are a considerable number of these stations in the east, and every eligible non-member in Canada has already received a personal invitation to join.

Next month Cert. 23 will write the notes; perhaps No. 24 will follow him.

---Cert. 22.

AUDITOR'S REPORT

Lumsden Building, Toronto, Ont. August 25th, 1923.

F. C. Allen, Esq.,

Marconi Wireless Station,

Toronto Island.

Dear Sir:

We beg to advise you that the Audit of the books for your Division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union has now been completed.

The audit covers the period of 1922 and up to June 30th, 1923.

The books have been kept in good shape, and to the best of our knowledge and belief, all receipts have been entered up, and proper distribution of the funds have been made.

All additions have been checked and verified, also vouchers are on hand for payments made.

The Bank account, after allowing for an item of interest which is to be credited up in the cash book, agrees with the amount the cash book calls for.

We therefore take pleasure in reporting that the work has been carried on satisfactorily, and that the books have been properly kept.

Yours truly,

NEW EDITION OF PHILLIPS' CODE.

The April 1st, 1923, edition of Phillips' Code, which has been in course of production for some time past, is now ready for delivery. This edition is up to the minute. Every abbreviation agreed upon during the past five years will be found in this book and many of the words brought into use during the war, which are now obsolete, have been eliminated so that the work as it now stands can be relied upon as accurate and complete to date. Phillips' Code is a thoroughly tested code of abbreviations, arranged for telegraphic purposes and contemplating the rapid transmission of press reports: also widely used as an easily acquired method of shorthand. This edition contains about 700 additions to the older code and is indispensable to the operator who aspires to the standard of proficiency required by press associations, which includes knowledge of Phillips' Code. Flexible cover, pocket size, 31/2 inches wide by 6% inches in length, $1.25 per copy. Address orders and make remittances to

MONTREAL CONVENTION CLOSES CONSTRUCTIVE SESSION

Provides for Raising of $100,000 Organization Fund

When the gavel sounded the closing of the sessions of the Montreal onvention at 12:43 a.m., Saturday, October 6th, 1923, all delegates were greed that the emancipation of the commercial telegraphers of America as closer at hand than at any time in several years. The number of deleates equalled that of two years ago at Toronto, the largest since 1904.

The most important legislation adopted was a proposition for the raising of a $100,000 fund for education and organization of the commercial legraphers of the United States.

Other important measures approved by the convention provided for mual memorial services throughout the continent in honor of Professor amuel F. B. Morse, inventor of the telegraph, and for the presentation of $4,000 bust of Prof. Morse to the Hall of Fame; organization work in aba; formation of a committee on State and National Legislation and ovision for associate memberships.

Montreal members outdone themselves in welcoming and entertaining e delegates and visitors. The entertainment committee, assisted by volteers, worked early and late and all agreed that Montreal "put it over" a grand scale.

Officers elected by the Montreal convention were as follows:

Roscoe H. Johnson, International President, re-elected.

Paul F. Schnur, Vice President for Canada, re-elected.

Frank B. Powers, International Secretary-Treasurer, re-elected.

Charles J. Seefred, W. J. McMahon, J. G. Az. Decelles, Joseph F. Mallon Alex S. Strachan, members of the General Executive Board, re-elected.

Charles J. Seefred was elected chairman and W. J. McMahon secretary the board members.

It would be difficult to decide whether the magnificent ball given by Montreal Entertainment Committee on October 2nd in the Mount Royal el ballroom, or the equally brilliant banquet on October 4th, followed by seing, was the outstanding feature of the week's social events.

It is hardly likely that anyone will ever forget the pleasure of mingling h 1,000 members and friends at the ball. Nor will the delegates soon get the bountiful repast and sparkling beverages, followed by the elent addresses and the fine entertainment on the evening of October 4th.

Even the elements were kind to the Montreal Entertainment Con When the delegates and visitors took their places in automobile mittee. for a drive through the beautiful city of churches on Friday, a stead downpour of rain threatened to mar the occasion. As the caravan dro up to the imposing monument of Cartier for the convention picture, bright sun broke through and shone over the gathering while the phot grapher was taking his "shots." Immediately afterwards the rain resume operations, considerately letting up as the delegates passed along the famous Lechine rapids and through the residential sections.

From an educational standpoint as well as socially the convention was a success. Delegates were there for business first and pleasure when the had the time. The feeling was one of optimism and enthusiasm. "We are out of debt for the first time in 16 years—Let's Go!"

The Spirit of the convention might best be exemplified in the word of Edward Lincoln Boole, delegate from the W. B. D., during one of his speeches:

"I have an abiding faith in the telegraph operator and I know that one day, although I may not live to see it, he will rise reinvigorated, rejuvenated and triumphant, like the fabled phoenix, from the ashes of discord and discontent.

The next session of the General Assembly will be held on the second Monday of September, 1925, at Winnipeg.

COMMITTEE ON LEGISLATION

Temporary headquarters of the newly elected Committee on State and National Legilation will be 113 South Ashland Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

Percy Thomas, past international president, is chairman; S. J. Konenkamp, past international national president, committeeman, and International President Roscoe H. Johnson et officio committeeman.

All members are requested to communicate any views or information in regard to state and national legislation as pertaining to the commercial telegraph to Chairman Perf Thomas, care of C. T. U. A., 113 South Ashland Boulevard, Chicago.

Permanent headquarters are expected to be established in Washington, D. C., in the spring of 1924.

MONTREAL CONVENTION BEST EVER

The Montreal Convention, according to many who were present and who have attended by such affairs of our property and many such affairs of our organization in the past, proved one of the most constructive and instructive are past of the most constructive and instructive area. instructive ever held by the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. Personally was one of the grandest description of the grandest description of the standard descrip was one of the grandest affairs I have ever had the pleasure of attending in the twenty years of my telegraphic contains I have ever had the pleasure of attending in the twenty years of my telegraphic contains I have ever had the pleasure of attending in the twenty years of my telegraphic contains I have ever had the pleasure of attending in the twenty years of my telegraphic contains a supplied to the pleasure of the pleasure years of my telegraphic career. I regret that many more of our Western Broker Division membership could not be membership could not be present.

I was especially impressed with our Canadian brothers. Nothing was left undone to them make things comfortable for our delegates, and I take this opportunity to extend to them my sincere appreciation. my sincere appreciation. Prior to the convention I was rather inclined to think that our next convention place should be held at some centralized point in the States, but after seeing the Canadian Was antitled to seeing the Canadian Way of doing things, I wish to say to all that they are entitled to the next convention, which is to be held in Winnipeg in 1925.

The delegates of this division were elated over the opportunity of meeting personally brother officers and months of the state of the s our brother officers and members of other divisions who were present. It gives all of the a clearer concention as the companion of the companion as the compani a clearer conception as to the workings of the different divisions, and naturally the bined efforts of averages. bined efforts of everyone who understands will eventually bring the entire membership to a better understands. a better understanding. When we meet united as we should be, throughout the United States and Canada we will be a supply the control of the c States and Canada, we will then realize what it means to understand each other.

I wish to thank all delegates who assisted the Western Broker Division delegation in way, and hope we will any way, and hope we will have the pleasure of meeting again.

VICTORY FOR FIRE DESPATCHERS Secure Prevailing Wage of $9 Per Day

By Brother John F. Nelan

Last month we harped on jolts. This month we play to Victory! A pleasant change in which everyone of us participates with that light-hearted exuberance which is akin to that satisfied feeling of something well performed and a desire to sit back, take long breaths and enjoy the results obtained.

You all know, by this time, what has happened, but for the benefit of our many very good friends, inside and outside of the C. T. U. A. who have been following our great struggle through our little page "The Alarm," let's give vent to our happiness with the announcement that, at last, the Board of Estimate on October 5th voted in the affirmative that we are entitled to the prevailing rate of wages as paid to electrical workers. It now only remains to fix the per annum total.

This is important. The prevailing rate decision must and does carry with it due consideration of duty performed nights, Sundays, Saturday afternoons and holidays.

As the duties, necessarily from the nature of the work involved, cover 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, the individual despatcher works more nights than days and averages 38 Sundays and 8 holidays "on duty" yearly.

Our brother despatchers of the Chicago Fire Department now lead with a minimum compensation well over $3,000 per annum. There is no good reason within the realm of justice why the great Municipality of New York should pay any less.

. . . .

Let Jerry Daly of The "Evening World" tell you of the Board of Estimate meeting; taken from The "Evening World" issue of October 6th:

Fire Despatchers Win

After a persistent effort lasting three years, the Fire Telegraph Despatchers finally were victorious before the Board of Estimate yesterday, when that body, after due and lengthy consideration and debate, voted the fire alarm "key" men the prevailing rate of wages—$9 a day. State Senator James J. Walker appeared on behalf of the despatchers and in a most eloquent and forceful argument told the members of the board that the fire-alarm despatchers were the "main-spring" of the fire service. He likened them to the nerve system of the department; he declared "they are the heart that throbs the pulses" which set the machinery of the fire fighting force in action once the alarm box on the street is pulled.

For many years fire-alarm despatchers have had, at one time or another, thirteen different grades of salary, among fifty-two men, almost all doing the same work, such as despatchers in charge of tours of duty and despatchers in charge of fire-alarm central offices in Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx, Queens and Richmond. The minimum salary for this all-important work for several years past has been $1,708, the maximum $2,544, and the average salary about $2,090.

The exactions of their duties require skill, training and experience of electrical workers, in addition to receiving and transmission of alarms, telephone calls, intradepartmental signals and calls.

Backed up by an opinion of the Corporation Counsel to the effect that the firealarm despatchers may be properly classed as electrical workers, Senator Walker urged the point with emphasis. Comptroller Craig fenced with the Senator on the merit of the Corporation Counsel's written opinion, whereupon Borough President Riegelmann called for the opinion and, reading it, said:

"That suits me."

Comptroller Craig then wanted the prevailing rates taken care of in the 1924 budget, but Senator Walker prevailed upon the board to vote on the resolution, offered by Acting President Collins of the Board of Aldermen, awarding the fire-alarm men the prevailing rates.

In his argument Mr. Walker told the members of the board that the City of Chicago pays its fire-alarm "key" men a minimum of $3,060 and a maximum of $3,702 per annum. He said the New York despatchers work on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays—day and night— and although civilian employees of every city department are ordinarily allowed off half a day Saturdays, all Sundays and holidays, the fire-alarm men enjoy no such system of duty.

There were several fire-alarm operators in the Board of Estimate chamber at the time the resolution was adopted. They were led by William A. Martin, a fire telegraph despatcher, who has worked unceasingly as Chairman of the New York Fire Department Chapel, No. 1, Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

That's good news, friends and brothers, and we know you all rejoice with us.

It is another great Victory for organization and we wish to extend to our paternal body our sincere thanks and deep appreciation for the wonderful help extended to us on every occasion when help was most needed. I would like to mention by name each and every one who has given their time and counsel but am fearful of overlooking someone, so we thank you all, sincerely from the bottom of our hearts.

WESLEY RUSSELL, M. S. O.

"When a feller needs a friend," is the predicament of the Editor in trying to do justice to this month's "M. S. O.," Bro. Wesley Russell, international secretary-treasurer for thirteen years, life-long union man and worker and probably known by more telegraphers than any other man in the business.

Bro. Russell served the C. T. U. A. during its most trying period, from 1903 to 1916. He served our Union with honesty, ability and integrity and an unswerving devotion to the Commercial Telegraphers of America. His faithfulness to the principle of justice for the weak and his courage through adversity are perhaps the traits by which we best remember him and do him honor.

Following is an extract from The Journal of December, 1903:

"Wesley Russell of Washington was elected on December 6th by the National Executive Board, vice Wilbur Eastlake.

"Bro. Russell was born in Chicago, Nov. 19, 1871. He learned the telegraph profession in the old Chicago Western Union office, having entered that office as a check boy in 1887 and taking his first position at the key about a year later.

"Bro. Russell has been an active member of every commercial telegraph organization since 1888 and was at one time secretary of the Order of Commercial Telegraphers at Galveston some twelve years ago.

"For the past three years Bro. Russell has been with the Associated Press at Washington, having previously been connected with the Postal Telegraph Company in that city for several years.

"To Bro. Russell's active and earnest work is due the staunch local of which all telegraphers in Washington are proud. He was the first in the field of organization here and no member of the Washington local claims credit for anything good in that organization but what Bro. Russell helped to bring about."

Bro. Russell resigned as international secretary-treasurer in 1916 to enter a brokerage house, taking with him the commendations and good wishes of the entire membership. He has been very successful, but his services and advice are always at the disposal of the C. T. U. A.

APPRECIATION

Because of Convention proceedings, local notes have been almost entirely eliminated in this issue.

We regret the necessity for curtailing many good local items of general interest and trust correspondents will not fall to send in newsy notes for November.

CANADIAN RADIO DIVISION No. 65

The thirty-nine men who have been waiting for their increments for periods ranging from six months to two years are doomed to disappointment owing to the Government decision to transfer them to the Civil Service dating from April 1, 1923, notwithstanding the fact, that in September, 1921, a memorandum was issued stating that "Transfer from the R. N. C. V. R. to the Civil Service took place on July 1, 1919, and the operators so transferred are in our opinion permanent from that date and must pay Retirement Fund from the same."

The Government has decided that when a promise is made to the Radiotelegraph Operators, being of such minor importance, it does not matter whether it is kept or broken, but we are of a different opinion and we will not hesitate to show that our importance is far greater, in the public eye, than ever befor realized.

Men have been asking for their increases repeatedly during the last two years and in each instance have been stood off with the excuse that the status of these men was uncertain but a settlement was expected at any time and back pay would then be forthcoming. Now the department has notified us that it has been decided to "Blanket in" these men from April 1, 1923, at the salary they are now receiving.

Upon receipt of this decision immediate action was deemed necessary and a deputation was formed to meet Mr. Moore, the President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, before he left for Ottawa. The deputation comprising Bros. Parkin, Daniel and Hollis, meet Mr. Moore at the C. N. R., Vancouver, on Sept. 15th and our grievances were fully discussed and much useful advice was received as to the lines to follow in order to effect a remedy. A letter of protest was forwarded to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, a copy of which was sent to the Minister of Labor.

Bro. Schnur was advised by wire of the decision handed down and asked to take steps immediately to have it reversed.

How I love to read the items, In the Belay and the Key, The Ticker or the Sounder, As the case may be. The Alarm and Radio Each give their share of news That draws my friends all nearer, When e'r I have the blues.

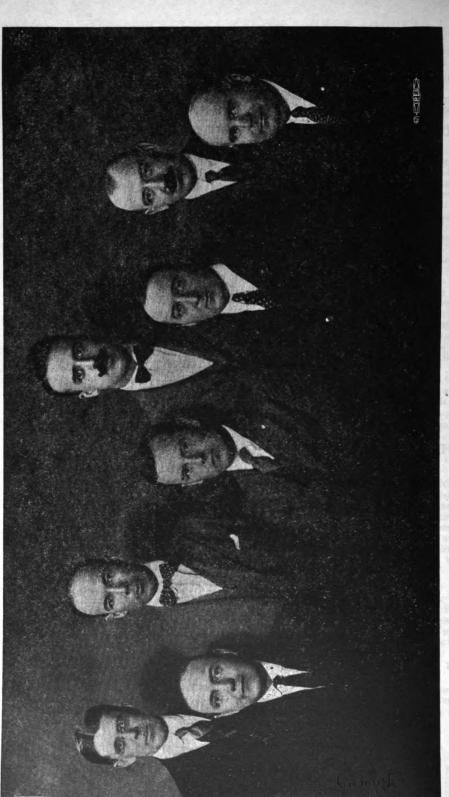

Jim's in the Knickerbocker village, Working what he calls a roast.
Bill is with a Broker house,
Up on our Northwest coast.
Mac is in Milwaukee,
That old man is never late.
Aubrey's out in Frisco,
Swinging on the Golden Gate.

I watch our Brother Canadians, Up across the line. Under the guiding hand of Paul, They sure are doing fine. I tell you Old Man Roscoe Is our one best bet. Since he's been in office, He has got us out of debt.

Out on LaSalle Street,
We have Old Ed Boole.
While we have that War Horse with us
The boys are hard to fool.
With Mickey at the Helm,
And "Red" to throw the ink,
This Western Broker Division,
Makes 'em sit up and think.

It sure helps in times of trouble, To follow up the boys
Through the items in the Journal, Share their tears and joys.
It binds us close together,
In a way that's bound to stick.
Makes us one band of Brothers,
That money cannot lick.

REPORT OF MONTREAL PROCEEDINGS MORNING SESSION, MONDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1923

The Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention met in the Salle Dorre room of the Mount Royal Hotel.

Delegates called to order at 10:28 a.m. by Temporary Chairman Paul F. Schnur, Vice-President for Canada.

His Honor, the Mayor of Montreal, Mederic Martin, member of the Cigarmakers Union and presiding officer of the City of Montreal for ten years, was introduced and welcomed the delegates and visitors. He declared that Labor's right to organize will always be respected in Montreal and that he lost no opportunity to assist the International Trade Union movement.

Honorable Senator Gideor D. Robertson, third Vice-President of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and former Minister of Labor of the Dominion, was next introduced. He said he had been instructed by President E. J. Manion to represent the Order of Railroad Telegraphers. He expressed appreciation of the invitation extended to him to address the Convention and spoke of the cordial relations existing between the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A.

Senator Robertson reviewed some of the important labor legislation in Canada and said he believed labor should be better represented in the parliments and legislatures of the American continent. The Canadian senate now has seven senators who were once telegraphers, Senator Robertson told the delegates.

- J. T. Foster, President of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council for fourteen years, welcomed the delegates in the name of the Montreal Trade Union movement. Bro. Foster strongly condemned those who attempted to create dissention in labor's ranks and said the watchword of the employers is to "divide and conquer." He spoke of the great tolerance of labor in the Province of Quebec. He asked the delegates to consider carefully the problems facing them, declaring the same problems existed in Quebec, in the Dominion and on the continent.
- A. Bastien, American Federation of Labor organizer, representing President Samuel Gompers, welcomed the delegates in the name of the American Federation of Labor.

International President Roscoe Johnson was then introduced and presented with a gavel suitably engraved with the compliments of the Montreal Convention Committee. He thanked the Montreal membership with an appropriate address.

Convention officially called to order at 11:45 a. m., President Johnson in the chair. The first order of business was the reading of the temporary roll:

WHEREAS:—Accusations having been made by certain interests in an attempt to defame the character of Brother Richard E. Buright, Police Commissioner of the City of New York, end

WHEREAS:—Brother Enright being a former telegrapher and member in good standing of the Bastern Broker Division, Commercial Telegraphers Union, in defending his honor has instituted suit for criminal libel against his accusers in the City of New York, therefore be it

RESOLVED:—That the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, in Convention assembled in Montreal, Canada, do hereby express our full confidence in the honor and integrity of Brother Enright, and be it further RESOLVED:—That a copy of this resolution be telegraphed Brother Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner, Police Headquarters, New York City, N. Y.

Committee concurs. M. and S. McMahon, Pawson, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

Thomas suggests all delegates, particularly from east, sign the resolution. No objection and so ordered.

BILL NO. 5, (MORSE MEMORIAL DAY) INTRODUCED BY TOWNE, EASTERN BROKER DIVISION

WHEREAS:—At the fourth annual entertainment and dance of the Bastern Broker Division, Held in the Grand Ball Room of the Hotel Pennsylvania, in the City of New York, on Friday evening, November 3rd., 1922, one of the Guests of Honor, Brother Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner of the City of New York, and a member of the Eastern Broker Division, C. T. U. A., addressed those present, and

WHEREAS:—Brother Enright, in the course of his remarks, did suggest that the members of the Eastern Broker Division pay honor and respect to the memory of the late Professor Samuel Finley Breese Morse, inventor of the telegraph, born April 27th, 1791, and

WHEREAS:—Acting on such suggestion, a resolution was adopted by the Eastern Broker Division, at a regular meeting held on December 15th., 1922, providing for the carrying out of such valuable suggestion, and

WHEREAS:—Suitable arrangements were made through a committee, composed of members of the Bastern Broker Division, for a memorial service to be held at the last resting place of Professor Morse, in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y., on Sunday, April 29th, 1923, where Brother Euright delivered a eulogy on the life and work of the great inventor, and

WHEREAS:—The Eastern Broker Division, having taken the initiative in arranging for such memorial service, which was attended by representatives from several societies and honorable bodies with which the great inventor was affiliated during his life time, and it was urged by both the press and those present that such a memorial be made an annual affair, therefore be it

RESOLVED:-That the twelfth regular and ninth biennial convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, in regular session assembled in the City of Montreal, Dominion of Canada, do hereby appoint and set aside the Sunday nearest to April 27th., each year to be known as "MORSE DAY," in order that each and every subordinate unit of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union may arrange a suitable memorial service to honor and respect the memory of Professor Morse in each and every locality where such units exist or may hereafter exist, and be it further

RESOLVED:-That a copy of this resolution be printed in the March issue of the official organ of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union each year to remind the membership of this duty and respect to the memory of Professor Morse, and be it further

RESOLVED:—That each unit of the Commercial Telegraphers Union shall mail to the Editor of the C. T. U. A. Journal a write-up of such memorial services held under the terms of this resolution, same to be printed in the May or June issue each year for the benefit of the entire mmbrship.

Committee concurs. M&S McMahon, Frayn, report of committee be adopted. Towns spoke in support of resolution. Said delegation from National Academy of Design of which Professor Morse was first president, attended "Morse Day Memorial Services" under auspices of Eastern Broker Division in April, 1923. Towne emphasized the great interest and publicity in the movement and declared that the New York Evening Post had given full credit to C. T. U. A. He declared that Police Commissioner Brother Enright of New York City had delivered a wonderful address at this first service. Towne mid the E. B. D. wants every unit in the U. S. and Canada to participate in the annual services and send suitable notices for publication in the Journal. He mentioned receipt of one out of many letters from a prominent resident of Montreal stating he was intimately acquainted with Mr. O. D. Woods, first superintendent of telegraph in Canada and the first student of telegraph under Prof. Morse.

Lynch opposes resolution because it is not a working class proposition. Morse will be a thing of the past in near future. Declares that if Prof. Morse had done anything in particular for organized labor we might honor him.

Thomas declares it is a good business proposition and good propaganda.

DesLauriers will recommend to Canadian Broker and Leased Wire Division that a date be set aside for annual Morse memorial services.

Towne closing debate, says if it were not for Prof. Morse we would not be here today. Report of committee adopted.

BILL NO. 1, (GREETINGS FROM O. R. T.), INTRODUCED BY R. H. JOHNSON

Mr. Roscoe H. Johnson, Pres., Commercial Telegraphers Union, 113 South Ashland Ave., Chicago, Ill. Dear Sir and Brother:-

Having reference to exchange of correspondence upon the subject matter of fraternal delegates to be exchanged between the two Organizations at Conventions and replying to your letter of September 5th wherein you advise that the Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers Union will be held in Montreal simultaneously with the opening of the American Federation of Labor Convention at Portland and extending to me an invitation to attend you Convention, I beg to advise that I have already arranged to attend the American Federation of Labor Convention and for that reason I will be unable to avail myself of your kind invitation.

I desire, however, to extend to you and your delegates my very best wishes for a harmonious and successful Convention and to reassure you that The Order of Railroad Telegraphers is deeply interested in your progress and ever ready to lend a helping hand towards completing the work of organization among your craft whenever and wherever we can do so.

To you and the delegates of your Convention I extend greetings of The Order of Railroad Telegraphers and wish you continued success and prosperity in the conduct of the affairs of the Commercial Telegraphers Union.

Fraternally yours,

E. J. MANION.

Committee's Report

The committee on resolutions and greetings recommend that the communication be accepted and that the International President be instructed to take advantage of the kind sentiment expressed in the second paragraph of this communication, with a view of making suitable arrangements with the Order of Railroad Telegraphers to have their paid organizers whenever they might come into contact with non-members eligible to membership in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, authorising such Order of Railroad Telegraphers' organizers to recruit these members into the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Respectfully submitted,

W. J. McMAHON, Chairman ROBERT C. PATTERSON

F. W. TOWNE E. F. MAJOR

O. L. NEWCOMER.

M&S, McMahon and Newcomer, report of committee be adopted.

Konenkamp suggests that committee set forth in the resolution our gratitude and appreciation for the help President Manion has rendered to our organization.

Pawson suggests two letters be drafted, one conforming to social amenities and the other taking advantage of his invitation.

M&S Konenkamp and Conry, as a substitute for report, that the greetings be referred back to committee. Carried.

BILLS NOS. 19, 20, 21 AND 22, (GREETINGS), INTRODUCED BY R. H. JOHNSON Committee on R&G recommends the greetings be accepted and suitably replied to. M&S, McMahon and Towne, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BIH No. 19

Ottawa, September 18, 1923.

Door Sir:

Acknowledging your kind invitation of September 15 to attend as one of the speakers at the opening day ceremonies in connection with your Biennial Convention to be held in Montreal commencing October 1, 1923.

While appreciating very much your kind invitation, I regret to advise that a prior engagement for October 1 will prevent my acceptance of your invitation.

My hope is that you may have a very pleasant and profitable convention.

Yours truly,

JAMES MURDOCK,
Minister of Labour.

Paul F. Schnur, Esq., Vice President, The Commercial Telegraphers' Union, 3502 Bremner St., Montreal, Que.

Bill No. 20

Washington, D. C., September 19, 1923.

Mr. Paul F. Schnur, Vice President, Commercial Teirgraphers' Union of America, 3502 Bremner Street, Montreal, Que., Conada. Dear Sir and Brother:

Your letter of the 15th instant received and contents noted.

I beg to assure you of my appreciation of the cordial invitation to attend the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention or your organization, which will be held at Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, October 1, 1923. The convention of the American Federation of Labor opens in Portland, Oregon, on that date, so you see that precludes the possibility of my attending your convention. However, I have requested Organizer A. B. Bastien to address your convention as the representative of the American Federation of Labor.

Permit me to take this opportunity to express to you and through you, the officers and delegates to your convention, my hearty good wishes and hopes for a successful convention.

I trust that your convention, meeting on the same date as does the convention of the American Federation of Labor, will not preclude your international union being duly represented in the Portland convention.

With kind regards, I am

Fraternally yours,
SAMUBL GOMPERS,
President, American Federation of Labor.

BIH No. 21

St. Louis, Mo., September 20, 1923.

Mr. Poul F. Schnur, Vice President, Commercial Telegraphers' Union, 3502 Bremner Street, Montreal, Que. Dear Brother Schnur:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of September 15th, announcing the convening of the next Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Session of the Grand Division of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America in Montreal, commercing Monday, October 1st, 1923. Your invitation that I address the delegates on the morning of Monday, October 1st, is fully appreciated and I only wish I might have this pleasure, but as you probably know, I will be in attendance at the American Federation of Labor Convention in Portland, Oregon, on that date.

I am, however, requesting our Third Vice President, the Honorable G. D. Robertson, to address your Convention in my behalf and in behalf of the Order of Railroad

Telegraphers, and I am sure that your delegates will appreciate the visit of our estimable Canadian Vice President.

Permit me at this time to extend to the delegates to your Convention the felicitations of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and to wish you a full measure of success in all of your deliberations, at the same time assuring you of our deep interest in the welfare of the members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. Kindly extend to the delegates, as a whole and individually, my very best wishes for complete harmony during the coming session of the Grand Division.

With best wishes, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

E. J. MANION.

Bill No. 22

1-6

Ottawa, Ont., September 24, 1923.

Mr. Paul F. Schnur, Vice President, The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, Montreal, Que.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Replying to your kindly invitation to address the delegates to your Twelfth Regular Convention, which will be held in Montreal commencing Monday, October 1st, I deeply regret that I shall be unable to avail myself of this opportunity to meet with the officers and members of your organization, as I am leaving on Saturday, the 29th of September, to attend the meetings of the Governing Body and the General Annual Conference of the International Labor Office in Geneva.

I wish to take this opportunity, however, of extending my most sincere wishes that your convention will be productive of results which will inspire your membership with the spirit of solidarity, and in an interchange of opinion which a convention makes possible, obtain fresh vigour to continue the battle for one hundred per cent organization and improvement in your standards of living, which can only be obtained through the united efforts made possible by thorough organization.

Extending my kind regards and expectations that the visit to Montreal will be not only profitable but also enjoyable to all concerned,

I remain,

Fraternally yours.

TOM MOORE.

BILL NO. 27, (OFFICERS MUST BE ACTIVE TELEGRAPHERS), INTRODUCED BY BOOLE

WHEREAS, It has always been the consensus of opinion of the Western Broker Division membership that no person not engaged as a telegrapher shall be carried on the division's roster as an executive officer or as a member of its general executive board, and

WHEREAS, That at a meeting of the general executive board of the division held on Friday, September 28, 1925, it was unanimously agreed to present to the Twelfth and Ninth Biennial Convention of the C. T. U. A. held at Montreal, Canada, a notice to the above effect, with the purpose in view of having our ruling adopted in an international sense; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we respectfully petition the General Assembly to adopt a resolution providing that no member of our organization be permitted to hold international office or official position in subordinate units unless said member is actively engaged as a telegrapher or is functioning in a telegraph capacity of some character.

E. L. BOOLE.

- Committee Non-Concurs

Committee on R&G non-concurs. M&S, McMahon and Schnur, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 25, (PAID ORGANIZER), INTRODUCED BY CONRY

WHEREAS, An organization's strength is proportionate to its progress, and a neglected field is a sign of weakness, and

WHEREAS, Secessionists and other disgrunted members within our ranks always have and always will make capital of our apparent failure to organize the Commercial field in the United States, and

WHEREAS, We believe that this organization is now in a position financially and otherwise to make steady, sane and lasting progress in organizing this field, the seed having been well sown during the past four years; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the incoming International Officers be INSTRUCTED by this convention to engage and send out not later than January first, nineteen twenty-four, one or more regularly paid permanent organizers throughout the commercial fields of the United States, to include Western Union, Postal Telegraph and all other fields of telegraph industry, the number of said organizers and the salaries to be paid them to be left to the discretion of the International Officers.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. E. CONRY,

International Vice President.

October 3, 1923.

Committee Non-Concurs

Committee on R&G non-concurs because subject matter is covered in the constitution. Schnur in chair. M&S, McMahon and McTiernan, Thomas, report of committee be adopted.

Conry says constitution does not instruct international president to employ organizers and his bill does. Says remarks of past two days would indicate to minds of incoming officers that a continuance of the voluntary system of organization was desired. Does not believe in printers' ink without paid organizers.

Seefred declares cannot instruct international president to do something and not provide something in the treasury to pay for it.

Lefebvre declares printers' ink will work and describes personal experience in proof. Pawson mays now that we are out of debt there will be some surplus in the near future. He believes we should have paid organizers in the field.

('arrothers speaks in favor of the resolution. Believes the great need is for paid organizers as experience has shown that organizing is not done successfully otherwise.

Towns says resolution does conflict with constitution. Before putting a paid organizer in the field, we must be in a position to pay him. Let international president decide when he is in position to hire organizers.

Konenkamp supports committee's report. Policy of paid organizers was abolished in 1905 because results did not warrant. No other organizers were sent out until 1907. Invariably paid organizers have not been able to accomplish anything because the seed was not sown properly. Through propaganda we built from 5,000 to 10,186 in 1906 and from 2,500 in 1917 to 13,000 in 1918. He is not opposed to paid organizers and never was. Objection to resolution is that it does not allow the international president to use his best judgment.

Russell spoke in favor of committee's report. Question involved is one of policy and tactics. He spoke of the great organizing work done by individual members.

Thomas spoke in favor of report, believing international president should not be forced to do something unless his judgment dictates.

Brooks told of the great need for the personal touch in organizing. Disagreed with Thomas that members will pay dues without the personal touch. Believes in paid organizers and wants to be able to report that something will be done in the way of going after the Western Union and Postal.

R. H. Johnson speaks in favor of the report, declaring his talk in Committee of the Whole was probably the cause for discussion on committee's report now. He touched on a certain plan in his previous talk, but only went into it partially. Declared that anyone who thought the plan simply called for the appointment of organizers without planting the seed of education and propaganda certainly was devoid of understanding. The seed will be sown before paid organizers are put in the field.

Lynch said it is a question of expediency.

M&S. Whittlesey and Newcomer, previous question. Defeated.

Hickey calls attention of delegates to work of organizing in other fields besides that of Western Union and Postal. Believes it should be left to judgment of international president as to proper time for putting paid organizers in the field.

Seefred speaks in favor of report.

Boole speaks in favor of the personal touch. Is in favor of the election of several paid vice-presidents and general organizers, with reputations for sobriety, integrity and frugality.

R. H. Johnson in chair.

Schnur speaks of viewpoint of Canadian delegates on the question of organization. Canadian delegates may get impression that there is a division between the Canadian and American delegates, but declared this is not true. Prays for the "lightning rod of an industrial disputes act" in the United States to give Americans the proper protection. Agrees with previous speakers in connection with printers' ink. No one more anxious to see United States telegraph workers organized, but we must be sure they can be given proper protection. Is in favor of committee's report.

Schnur in chair.

Carrothers declares his reason for supporting the resolution is hope that something may be done in the commercial field. Does not want to go on record as getting the organization in debt again. If there is any other way to organize in the United States than that outlined in the resolution would like to have it brought out. Does not want any resolution adopted that will create a nice little nest for some canaries. Quoted a Western Union superintendent (retired without pension) as saying, "Give the A. W. E. a few years and you will be able to take over a whole organized machine."

Pawson speaks against adoption of committee's report and in favor of resolution. Major believes question of organizing Western Union and Postal should be left to incoming officers.

McMahon reminds delegates of the opposition now confronting organizers as against that of years ago.

M&S, Whittlesey and Newcomer, previous question. Carried.

Conry as mover of bill closes debate. Asks if Canadian delegates are going back home and report that "some time, some day, something will be done to organize the Western Union and Postal." Declared that resolution instructed international president to hire organizers, but no salary is fixed. Says hint as to somebody making a job for themselves probably refers to another resolution, reducing number of vice-presidents. Says statement that telegraph operators are afraid is nothing new. Now is the time and if sufficient seed has not been sown in four years when will that time arrive.

Conry, Pawson, Clay, Bradley and G. Campbell call for roll call vote on adoption of committee's report, non-concurring on Bill No. 25.

Roll Call Vote

Ayes:—Johnson, R. H.; Schnur, Newcomer, Powers, Mallon, Seefred, McMahon, Young, O'Brien, Major, Godwin, Romeiser, O'Sullivan, Hickey, Campbell, J. E.; Towne, Whittlesey, McDaniel, Goodale, McTiernan, O'Donnell, Frayn, McCutcheon, Patterson, Campbell, E. C.; O'Keefe, Norton, Allen, Russell, Thomas-30.

Nays:—Conry, Decelles, Strachan, Carrothers, Clay, Pawson, Brooks, Campbell, G.; Johnson, C.; Brine, Anguish, Bradley, Boole, Lefebvre, Lynch, DesLauriers, Clark, T. J.; Nadeau, Clark, J.; Gillis—20.

Absent :- Dunn, Mullen, Soares. Report of committee adopted.

M&S, Russell and Konenkamp, adjourn until 9 a. m., Thursday.

M&S, Whittlesey and Carrothers, as amendment, adjourn until 8 p. m. Lost on show of hands, 28 to 18. Original motion carried. Adjourned at 5 p. m.

MORNING SESSION, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1923

Called to order at 9 a. m., Johnson in chair. No absentees. Minutes of previous day's session read and approved with corrections by Towne on Morse speech and Clay on his absence. Secretary instructed to make corrections.

BILL NO. 29, (W. I. I. U.), INTRODUCED BY LYNCH

WHEREAS, The world's wealth produced by the collective energies of the working class engaged in gainful occupations is absorbed by a stock-holding non-productive ownership.

WHEREAS, The Capitalist form of consolidation spells the organization of all branches of an industry into departmental autonomous units, which function through one central and directing executive; in short, organized on the industrial plan.

WHEREAS, The rapid gathering of wealth, and the centering of industries into fewer and fewer hands, makes the craft unions unable to cope with the ever growing power of the employing class, because the craft unions foster a state of things which allows one set of workers to be pitted against another set of workers in the same industry, thereby helping to defeat each other in wage-wars.

WHEREAS, The craft unions aid the employing class to mislead the workers into the belief that the working class have interests in common with their employers.

WHEREAS, The history of the American craft union movement is replete with fratricidal acts, such as one part of the workers in the employ of a particular corporation assisting the capitalists to defeat other workers on strike; the hauling of the capitalist's powers of reprisal the state and national troops by so-called organized workers to strike sections; treacherous voluntary scabbing of one craft upon another, particularly in railroad work; grafting and murderous union leaders in control of the unions; unending jurisdictional squabbles; in short, the proved socakness of economic power inherent in the craft form of organization; therefore, be it RESOLVED. That this convention go on record as recommending to the interns-tional membership to study the question of industrial unionism, as exemplified by the Workers' International Industrial Union.

H. LYNCH.

Committee Non-Concurs

Chairman McMahon of R&G committee reports non-concurrence. M&S, McMahon and Whittlesey, report be adopted.

Lynch speaks in favor of his resolution. One reason for the failure of the craft form of organization is that the work is contingent on the cost of living.

Konenkamp referred to the Weekly People, when Lynch was carrying on his propaganda, as a mud-slinging sheet.

Mullen speaks in favor of the resolution, as it recommends study and we should not refuse to study anything. Believes it should instruct rather than recommend.

M&S. Decelles and Newcomer, previous question. Carried.

Lynch closes debate. Says does not want to go into details as to the Weekly People, but referred to the "5 per cent strike" of 1919 as playing into the hands of the capitalist class.

Committee's report adopted, rising vote, 30 ayes, 18 nays.

BILL NO. 28, (ENTERTAINMENT OF DELEGATES), INTRODUCED BY LYNCH

WHEREAS, It is presumed that the regular biennial convention of the Commorcial Telegraphers' Union of America is for the purpose of its assembled delegates to devote their exclusive time in the interest of their fellow-workers.

WHEREAS, The recurring practice of "Entertainment" expense attending many craft union conventions, involving extravagant hotel expenses, for in escess of the worker's ability to pay; "Tom-fool joy-rides" through the palatial home districts of the wealthy; exorbitant banquet expenses running into hundreds of dollars, etc., are wholly unwarranted.

WHEREAS, Due to the strained financial condition of the O. T. U. A. such unnecessary expenses should be reserved for schedule, grievance, and other legitimate union expenses; therefore, be it RESOLVED. By the members of Central District, Canadian National Railway System Division, that our delegates to the Montreal convention go on record as recommending moderate headquarter expenses, and the elimination of any and all expenses sossed in hilarity at all future conventions.

H. LYNCH.

Committee Non-Concurs

Committee on R&G non-concurs. M&S, Konenkamp and Mullen, report be referred back to committee.

Konenkamp believes this resolution is for the purpose of breaking down the confidence of the membership in our present form of organization. Declares it is an insult to infer that delegates are here for a "joyride."

Lynch denies resolution is an insult to delegates.

Mulien speaks in favor of referring back to committee, to be rewritten and obnoxious parts taken out.

Powers opposes motion to refer back to committee, declaring whole matter should be disposed of by convention. Believes second paragraph of resolution is insult to Montreal membership who have spent their own money to entertain delegates.

Lynch says the resolution has no reference to Montreal. Appreciates Montreal's untiring efforts to entertain delegates. Intended to introduce same resolution at Washington convention of 1918.

Motion to refer back to committee defeated.

M&S. Powers and McMahon, Allen, committee report be defeated and resolution be amended by deleting second paragraph.

Pawson in favor amendment.

Towne asks if whole question is not covered in the constitution.

Lefebvre speaks in favor.

Patterson, member of committee, is against amendment. Wants original resolution buried.

Decelles in favor of committee's report. Calls attention to fact that convention committee of Montreal working long hours without pay and believes delegates are entitled to what relaxation it is possible to take.

McMahon as chairman of committee hopes resolution will be buried.

Carrothers deplores waste of time on question.

Allen asks if he can withdraw second to amendment.

Mallon makes suggestion to Lynch.

Previous question called for. Powers closes debate and hopes delegates will not bury the original question, which was offered by Toronto members in good faith.

Motion to amend defeated.

Motion to adopt report of committee (non-concurrence) carried.

Roll called for introduction of bills and resolutions.

Bill No. 33, Powers, Committee on Education, Propaganda and Organization. Referred to Committee of the Whole.

Bill No. 34, Romeiser, Schnur Letter on McNaughten's Accounts be Published. Referred to Committee on Officers' Reports.

Bill No. 35, Hickey, Continuous Membership. Referred to Committee of the Whole. M&S, Pawson and T. J. Clark, recess 10 minutes. Carried, 11 a. m.

Committee on R&G

Chairman McMahon of R&G committee makes following report on Bill No. 1:

Committee recommends that the following be sent to President Manion of the

O. R. T .: v The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America in convention assembled is in receipt of your kind greetings and good wishes for the success of our union. We deeply regret your inability to be with us, although delighted with your splendid representative, Brother Robertson. Our members cannot forget the splendid support and assistance that you in your capacity as president have given us during your administration and we take this opportunity of expressing our gratitude. We know we will co-operate in solving our mutual problems and that with the assistance of the members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers our union will continue its growth until we are as strong as our larger brother union so ably represented by you.

M&S, McMahon and Allen, committee's report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 3 ($4,000 MORSE BUST), INTRODUCED BY EASTERN BROKER DIVISION

WHEREAS, Mr. Robert Underwood Johnson, Director of the Hall of Fame, New York University, in a letter dated April 27th, 1923, addressed to "The Secretary Commercial Telegraphers' Union, 44 Broad Street, New York," extends to the Commercial Telegraphers' Union a cordial invitation to provide a bust (with pedestal) of Professor Morse, inventor of the telegraph, to be placed in the Hall of Fame, above the tablet already crected by the Hall of Fame, and WHEREAS, The Eastern Broker Division feels that an opportunity should be afforded all telegraphers to subscribe to the amount needed (approximately $4,000) for the bust and pedestal; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union, in regular session assembled in the City of Montreal, Dominion of Canada, hereby directs the International officers to accept the invitation on behalf of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union; to devise ways and means of raising the necessary funds, of which the International Secretary-Treasurer shall be custodian, and to appoint a committee comprised of one or more members from each Division to receive donations from the members of their respective Divisions as well as from sources outside the Union, and to assist the International officers in carrying on this work to its speedy completion.

Respectfully submitted,

F. W. TOWNE, Delegate, E. B. D. J. A. HICKEY, Delegate, E. B. D.

F. A. O'SULLIVAN, Delegate, E. B. D.

J. W. DUNN, Delegate, E. B. D. E. B. WHITTLESEY, Delegate, E. B. D.

J. F. CAMPBELL, Delegate, E. B. D.

Committee Concurs

Chairman Seefred of Finances and Salaries committee reports concurrence. Seefred and MaMahon, report of committee be adopted.

Lynch opposes report of committee.

O'Sullivan supports report, declaring there will be no cost to organization. Money to be raised by voluntary contributions.

Seefred points out the resolution is a fine opportunity to reach a closer touch with the O. R. T.

Major asks if it is purpose to place subscription lists in the hands of the A. W. E. as well as Postal employes.

Towne says all arrangements will be left in the hands of the committee.

Mallon and McMahon speak in favor of report.

Pawson would like to honor Morse's memory by bettering conditions of the operators now unorganized. Concurs in the sentiments expressed, but would like to defer action until more progress is made in organization of Western Union and Postal.

O'Donnell speaks in favor of report, declaring $4,000 worth of good will be accomplished.

Report of committee adopted.

Schnur announces afternoon entertainment postponed until Friday afternoon because of rain.

COMMITTEE ON OFFICERS' REPORTS

Chairman G. Campbell of Committee on Officers' Reports makes report.

Your Committee on General Officers' reports have given careful consideration to the reports of the International President, International Secretary-Treasurer and Canadian Vice-President.

We feel that the Union and its Officers are to be commended for the progress shown by the International Officers' reports, especially for the efficient manner in which the Organization has been placed on a comparatively sound financial basis. Your Committee feels that this achievement is one in which the entire membership should feel the greatest pride and gratifude.

It is also gratifying to note the increase in membership, especially in the Wireless and Canadian divisions. Eleven new charters having been granted is, to our mind, a healthy sign of progress in organizing in the United States and Canada.

Particular note should be taken of the growing organization in the brokerage field which has made great strides during the past few years.

We strongly recommend the adoption of a resolution to set aside the Sunday nearest April 27th of each year, to be known as "MORSE DAY," and urge that suitable memorial services be conducted by every subordinate unit in order that we may pay proper homage and respect to the memory of Professor S. F. B. Morse, the inventor of the Telegraph.

Your Committee feels that the International President's recommendations regarding the number of representatives on press committees is based on sound business and economic principles and we suggest that the recommendations of the International be adopted by the various subordinate divisions.

Press wage agreements in the United States now being uniform, the situation in this field appears more encouraging than for several years. New wage scales were negotiated the past year giving the workers an increase, all of which is highly gratifying.

Your Committee is pleased to call your attention to the result of a resolution adopted at Toronto in 1921 "instructing International Officers to communicate with the Officers of the O. R. T. with a view to exchanging fraternal delegates." Senator Robertson addressed the Convention as the personal representative of President Manion of the O. R. T., and your Committee feels that continued interchange of delegates between the two organizations will prove of vast benefit to all concerned.

We are gratified to learn of the increased membership in the Associated Press division and your Committee believes the organization of this field in the United States is the paramount problem facing our organization at this time.

We suggest that the General Assembly take some action toward the complete organization of the Associated Press and feel that it might be possible for the convention to work out a plan whereby we could utilize the services of our Vice Presidents toward this end.

The International Secretary-Treasurer is to be commended for his highly efficient work in conserving the resources of the organization and for the highly capable manner in which he has conducted The Joyrnal in giving to us a clear-cut, clean and constructive labor journal, which we consider the most effective organizing argument at our command.

The results achieved by the Vice President for Canada in organizing and negotiating wage contracts for the membership, especially the successful culmination of the negotiations with the C. N. T. and Marconi Wireless, and your committee feels that the Vice President for Canada cannot be too highly commended for the effectual work in Canada.

GEO. CAMPBELL, Chairman. R. H. McDANIEL. G. LEFEBVRE. C. J. McTIERNAN. E. B. WHITTLESEY.

 $M&S,\ G.$  Campbell and Towne, report be adopted. Carried. Chairman O'Sullivan of Committee on Constitution reports.

BILL NO. 6, (CUBAN ORGANIZATION), INTRODUCED BY BOOLE

WHEREAS, The commercial telegraphers of the Island of Cuba have for some time past been agitating the question of putting the West Indics on the telegraph map from a union labor standpoint, and

WHEREAS. While it is apparent that at the moment there are hardly enough commercial telegraphers in Cuba to warrant the establishment of a union local, the signs of the times point to the fact that the period is fast approaching when the requisite number of commercial telegraphers will have arrived on the ground to fill the quota desired; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this General Assembly see to it at once that ways and means be found whereby the C. T. U. A. exercise a protectorate over Cuba and that the island be represented, for the present, through the international president or such other grand officer as the General Assembly may designate.

EDWARD L. BOOLE.

Report of Committee on No. 6

The committee refers this resolution to the incoming international president with a recommendation that he give it favorable consideration. Since our jurisdictional limits include Cuba, no constitutional amendments are deemed necessary to permit the eligible telegraphers in that country becoming members of the general assembly or of forming a subordinate unit of their own. M&S O'Sullivan and O'Donnell, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 9. (AMENDMENTS BY SHEA). INTRODUCED BY FRAYN

Amend Article XXIV, Section IV, by inserting words "or mail vote taken by the divisional secretary."

Article XXII, Section 14: Eliminate the words "subject to the approval of the international president," after the words "with the constitution."

Article XII, Section 8: Eliminate words "international president," making it read: "Failing in this the general committee shall have authority to order a strike," etc.

Report of Committee on No. 9
Amendments to Article XXIV, Section 4—

The committee non-concurs for the reason that the proposed amendments can be properly taken care of by the by-laws of the subordinate units.

Amendments to Article XXII, Section 14-

The committee non-concurs for the reason that the I. P. is the executive head and where a subordinate unit feels that the I. P. is in error they always have the right to appeal to the general executive board.

Amendment to Article XII, Section 8—
The committee non-concurs for the reason that the General Assembly places the responsibility of a strike in the office of the I. P. and the time has not come when this union can throw away its safeguards.

Pawson in chair.

R. H. Johnson speaks against first section of report. Refers to Murchland case, resulting in fine of $50 by United Press division.

M&S, R. H. Johnson and Newcomer, first section of report be referred back to comcittee on constitution. Carried.

M&S, O'Sullivan and Whittlesey, committee's non-concurrence in Section 2, of No. 9.

be adopted. Carried.

M&S, O'Sullivan and J. F. Campbell, committee's non-concurrence in Section 3 of No. 9 be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 12, (WIRELESS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN

Amendment to Article XIV, Section 12— Second paragraph to read: "He shall also provide suitable annual cards for members desirous of paying dues in advance for such period, and specific Annuals shall be provided to meet the needs of certain branches of the Wireless membership." Committee on Constitution concurs.

M&S, O'Sullivan and Allen, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 13, (WIRELESS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN

Amendment to Article. XXII, Section 12-

Amend 2 by substituting for the word "Radio" the word "Wireless." Further amend 2 by the addition of a new sentence reading: "Where Annual Cards only are issued same shall be paid for in advance, and the date of expiry shall be clearly stated on the face of such cards."

Committee's Report

The committee agrees to the substitution of the word wireless for the word radio and non-concurs in the balance of the amendment.

The constitution provides that all cards shall be paid for in advance and membership cards show the date of expiry.

M&S, O'Sullivan and Patterson, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 14, (WIRELESS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN Amendment to Article XXVI, Section 1—

Amend by making it read in place as follows: "In all divisions where the Semi-annual card is made use of, a member neglecting, etc., etc."

Further amend this Article by substituting for the present Section 2 the following: "Sec. 2. In all divisions where Annual Cards only are used, a member neglecting or refusing to pay dues twelve months in advance in full is not in good standing after sixty days immediately following the expiry date of his last card." Further amend by calling the present Section 2, Section 3.

Committee's Report

Your committee offers as a substitute the following amendment: A member neglecting or refusing to pay dues in advance in full is not in good standing after a time limit set by the subordinate unit of which he is a member, in no case to be more than sixty days after the expiration of previous dues period. M&S, O'Sullivan and J. F. Campbell, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 15, (WIRELESS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN Amendment to Article XXIX, Section 4—

Eliminate in its entirety this section, substituting therefor the following: "It shall be unlawful for members of this organization to negotiate with the employer (s) or to present or close any proposed contract, set of rules, or schedule involving the employer (s) and the employees, unless duly signed proxies for a majority of the employees are held by the officers of the unit concerned."

Committee's Report

The committee non-concurs for the reason that the subject matter of this resolution is not applicable to our entire membership and can only be regulated by the bylaws of subordinate units.

M&S, O'Sullivan and Russell, report of committee be adopted.

Allen explains his resolution. M&S, Allen and Pawson, as an amendment that the bill be referred back to the committee. Carried.

BILL NO. 16, (AUDITS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN Amendment to Article XXII, Section 6—

Insert after the first paragraph, a second paragraph reading: "Provided that, where, in the judgment of those responsible for proper compliance with the foregoing, it is deemed impracticable, impossible, or (and) unsatisfactory, such audits may be made by a duly authorized and capable accountant who may be engaged by the Division for this work."

Committee's Report

The committee offers the following substitute for first paragraph, Article XXII, Section 6: "The General Chairman or president and General Committee shall arrange for the auditing of the accounts of the General Secretary-Treasurer either by committee or by a chartered or certified accountant, whenever a change in the office occurs, and also during the months of December and June each year for the preceding period. Such committee or accountant shall also verify the bank balance on deposit. The auditors named above shall report their findings in writing to the membership. The General Chairman or president shall attest the copy of the auditor's report and immediately forward same to the International Secretary-Treasurer."

M&S, O'Sullivan and J. Clark, report of committee be adopted. Allen speaks in favor of his resolution.

M&S, Pawson and Allen, as amendment that matter be referred back to committee Carried.

Schnur announces banquet at 8 p. m.

M&S, Schnur and Russell, adjourn. Carried. Adjourned 12:30 p. m. until 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1923

Called to order 2 p. m., Johnson in chair. No absentees.

Chairman O'Sullivan of Constitution committee continues report.

BILL NO. 9, SECTION 1, SUBSTITUTE, BY U. P. DELEGATES

Press and Wireless Divisions may enact by laws permitting the general officers to conduct all business by an initiative and referendum system. Constitution Committee concurs in substitute.

M&S, O'Sullivan and Allen, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 15. (WIRELESS). INTRODUCED BY ALLEN (SEE ABOVE) Committee non-concurs.

M&S, O'Sullivan and Dunn, report be adopted. Carried.

Digitized by Google

BILL NO. 16, (WIRELESS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN (SEE ABOVE) Committee offers substitute. M&S, O'Sullivan and McMahon, report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 17, (WIRELESS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN

Amendment to Article XVII, Section 2, Clause 2— Eliminate the word "Radio," substituting therefor the word "Wireless." Committee concurs. M&S, O'Sullivan and Nadeau report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 18, (WIRELESS ORGANIZATION), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN

WHEREAS, The experience of the past four years having clearly demonstrated to those actively interested in the welfare of this Division, the dire need of some definite and determined action along educational lines as pertaining to Trades Unionism, being taken in regard to isolated (and certain relatively convenient) wireless stations throughout the Dominion, and

WHEREAS. The unremitting efforts of the officers of the Canadian Marconi Division, supplemented by the unstinted endeavors of willing workers in our cause, have in many cases seemingly fallen on barren rock, and have failed to bring home to some in this service the true worth and vital need of Unionism, solidity, loyalty, and unselfishness, and

WHEREAS, It is our firm conviction that this state of affairs is due (more than to any contributory factor) to the lack of the personal touch and right influence which one capable of expounding the lesson of Unionism if only in its business light, or in its broader sense, could give and exert, and

WHEREAS, Notwithstanding its financial soundness, the Canadian Marconi Division of itself is not in a position from a pecuniary standpoint to undertake the financing of an officer whose entire time could be devoted to this necessary organization work; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That every effort be made by the incoming International Vice President for Canada to visit the several outlying stations of the Canadian Marconi Wireless System Division, interview their personnel, deliver the C. T. U. A. message, and by every legitimate means prevail upon the delinquents and nons to see the light and act accordingly, thus placing this Division in its rightful place as an all-important unit of the C. T. U. A.

Committee recommends reference to committee on Resolutions and Greetings. M&S, O'Sullivan and O'Donnell, report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 23, (PAST INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENTS MADE "DELEGATES AT LARGE"), INTRODUCED BY SCHNUR

Amend Article VI, Section 3, by inserting after the words General Assembly the additional words "All Past International Presidents who have remained in continuous good standing since leaving the office of President."

The Section will then read: "The officers of the General Assembly, all Past International Presidents who have remained in continuous good standing since leaving the office of President and members of the General Executive Board shall be delegates at large, and it shall be their additional duty to place before the convention for consideration and disposition every proposition referred to them by subordinate units or individual members."

This will strike out Section 3 as being superfluous.

Committee concurs. M&S, O'Sullivan and McMahon, Schnur, report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 24, (DATE OF CONVENTION), INTRODUCED BY PAWSON

Amend Article VI, Section 1, by striking out the words "the first Monday in October" and inserting the words "the last Monday in August."

The section will then read: "The General Assembly shall convene in regular session on the last Monday in August, biennially, at 10 o'clock A. M., in such city as may be determined by the previous session."

Committee's Report

The committee concurs except as to dates. We offer as a substitute the second Monday in September in place of the last Monday in August, for the reason that the last Monday in August comes during the vacation period and may also affect schedule negotiations.

M&S, O'Sullivan and McTiernan, report of committee be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 26, (VICE-PRESIDENTS), INTRODUCED BY EASTERN BROKER DIVISION

Amend Article XIII by striking out the word "three" and insert the word "two," The Article will then read: "Two International Vice Presidents shall be nominated and elected as provided in this constitution and shall hold office until their successors are duly selected and qualified. The ranking Vice President shall in all respects perform the duties of International President in his absence, or when incapacitated. The Vice Presidents shall at all times render such assistance to the Union as the International President may direct."

. Article II, Section 1— Committee's Report

We offer the following substitute: By striking out the word "three" in the fourth line and inserting the word "an." The line will then read: "An International Vice President."

Amend Article XIII, Section 1, to read as follows:

"An International Vice President shall be nominated and elected as provided in the constitution. He shall hold office until his successor is duly elected and qualified."

Section 2: "The Vice President shall devote his entire time, under the direction of the International President, to the interests of the union within the Dominion of Canada."

Article XIV. Make new Section 1 "A":

"Section 1a. He shall in all respects perform the duties of the International President in his absence or when incapacitated."

Newcomer asks question. Conry and Pawson speak in favor of report of the committee. Towne says cannot understand why substitute was offered by the committee. M&S, Konenkamp and Thomas, report of committee be tabled. Carried.

BILL NO. 30, (ASSOCIATE MEMBERS), INTRODUCED BY T. J. CLARK

(1) Members not actually employed in the Commercial Telegraph industry may, with the approval of the subordinate unit, become an Associate Member of this union, retaining his divisional certificate number and continuous membership, on the payment of $5.00 per year, all of which amount shall be remitted to the International Secretary-Treasurer.

(2) He shall have a voice but no vote in the subordinate unit.

(8) Associate members shall not be entitled to the benefits of full membership, other than the receipt of the official organ and Funeral Benefit Department. Nor shall they be eligible for election to the General Assembly, unless otherwise qualified.

(4) An Associate member returning to a position within the jurisdiction of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America must at the semi-annual period become an active member of the union, paying full membership dues.

(5) Any former telegrapher not actually engaged in the telegraph industry, may become an associate member of this union subject to the approval of the International President.

Amend Article XVII, Section 2, by adding:

"From Associate members:

"One dollar to the general fund, and fifty cents to the Journal fund."

Amend Article XVII, Section 1, Subsection B, by adding:

"From Associate members three dollars per year."

Committee concurs. M&S, O'Sullivan and J. F. Campbell report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 31, (COMMITTEE ON ORGANIZATION AND LEGISLATION), INTRODUCED BY E. C. CAMPBELL AND M. P. O'KEEFE

Amend Article XI, Section 1, by adding a new paragraph reading as follows: "And a committee on organization and legislation consisting of three members."

Amend the Constitution by adding a new article (XXV), entitled:

Duties of Committee on Organization and Legislation

"It shall be the duty of the Committee on Organization and Legislation to aid and assist the international officers in promoting the organization of unorganized telegraph workers throughout the jurisdiction of the C. T. U. A. by such means as are at their command, and to act as official representatives of the General Assembly in promoting legislation that may be beneficial to the members of this union and to organized labor. The International President shall be by virtue of his office a member of this committee."

Committee concurs. M&S, O'Sullivan and J. F. Campbell, report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 32, (DELEGATES' EXPENSES), INTRODUCED BY MULLEN Amendment to Constitution by adding new section to Article VII:

"Delegates to the convention shall be paid their railroad fare from the general fund,"

Committee non-concurs. M&S, O'Sullivan and J. F. Campbell, report be adopted. Carried.

BILL NO. 11, (WIRELESS ANNUAL CARDS), INTRODUCED BY ALLEN WHEREAS, The system of the issuance of half yearly cards is not at all advantageously applicable in practice to the needs of the Canadian Marconi Wireless Division, and

WHEREAS, Such semi-annual cards have never been in use in this Division.

Annuals only being used, and

WHEREAS, The vast majority of the operating personnel are engaged in the seasonal service, and take cards approximately between June and December, such cards being retroactive as from January 1st, leaving seasonal employees minus cards as from December 31st, and delinquent as from March 1st, while the retroactive feature in the case of new men just entering the telegraph field creates a peculiar and decided anomaly, and

WHEREAS, The demand by the seasonal men for a remedy for what is rightly claimed to be an injustice, and a very unfair deal to them, is decidedly pronounced, the existing arrangement requiring them to pay for a whole year, when they have often but a few months' employment in the calendar year. Be it therefore

RESOLVED, That some specific form of Annual Card be prepared and issued to such members of the Canadian Marconi Wireless Division as are affected by seasonal conditions as outlined, and be it further

RESOLVED, That such specific Annual Card shall embrace the period as from June 1st of the then current year, till June 30th of the newt year, and shall be issued only to those in whose particular interests such cards shall have been introduced, and on whose behalf application has been made by the General Secretary-Treasurer of the Canadian Marconi Wireless Division, whose application shall be deemed a guarantee that the case reported upon is in order and entitled to the benefit of the special card. Chair refers to Committee on R&G. No objections.

M&S, Pawson and T. J. Clark, Bill No. 26 (Vice-Presidents) be taken from table.

Carried.

M&S, Pawson and Russell, Bill No. 26 be referred to Committee on Constitution. Carried.

Chairman Seefred, Finances and Salaries Committee, reports:

BILL NO. 2, ($100,000 FUND), INTRODUCED BY McMAHON History is important in two respects: It throws the spotlight of memory on the errors of the past as well as showing clearly what we should emulate.

Applying this to the conduct of affairs of organized Labor, we find that those units of the American Federation of Labor, that have built for themselves a sturdy financial basis, are the ones that have little, if any, trouble in adjusting wages and conditions of employment, for it is a well known fact that most large companies and corporations know only the language of the dollar sign when dealing with employes.

To note only a few examples: See the standing and influence now of the Machinists' Union, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of the Railroad Telegraphers, and many others that have concentrated on the building up of their financial strength. These Unions are doing their own financing, with the result that their prestige has risen in proportion to their financial strength, and it follows naturally, their negotiations are correspondingly easy.

To follow the example of these successful Unions, I firmly believe, is the course of wisdom, and will mean rapid progress and a membership that will equal if not far surpass that in our books in 1918. Be it therefore

RESOLVED, That the General Assembly authorizes the establishment of a sinking fund of $100,000, to be used in negotiating initial schedules and in organization work, the amount to be apportioned according to membership in the different units and each quota to be supplied to the International Secretary-Treasurer in whatever manner the officers of the different units determine. And be it further RESOLVED, That when $20,000 has been supplied to the I. S. T., that the International Officers be authorized to begin organizing work, and be it further

RESOLVED. That on completion of the $100,000, the disposition of said fund be by referendum of the entire membership.

BILL NO. 10, (LABOR PARTY), INTRODUCED BY MULLEN. WHEREAS, In the struggle between the organized workers and the employers it has become more and more apparent that the power of the Governments is being used on the side of the bosses, as witnessed in the United States by the infamous Daugherty injunction against the railroad shopmen, the abolition of the Federal Child Labor Law

WHEREAS, To protect our interests the Workers must so organize politically that we can secure representation in the various governmental bodies, which are now entirely controlled by the employing interests; and

WHEREAS. To so protect our political interests we must have a political party of our own, the prevailing political policy of Labor being incapable of getting results, and WHEREAS, In many countries the Workers, notably in Great Britain, have built up powerful Labor parties which evert tremendous influence in arousing the masses toward unified independent political action and will ultimately wring concessions from their respective capitalist governments; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union declares that Labor must form an independent political party of its own, recruited from the trade unions and all other working class political organizations. Committee makes no recommendations.

M&S, Pawson and Lynch, report be referred to Committee of the Whole. Carried. MAS, Schnur and Boole, convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole. Carried, 8:80 p. m.

5:00 p. m. Chairman Konenkamp of Committee of the Whole reports progress. MAS. Russell and McDaniel, that the convention adjourn. Carried.

MORNING SESSION, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1923

Convention called to order at 9:05 a.m. Roll called, no absentees. Minutes of previous day's session read. Correction by McTiernan on Murchland case and Lynch, who said his explanation of Bill No. 28 not covered fairly in the minutes. Secretary instructed to make corrections and the minutes were then approved.

BILL NO. 34, (SCHNUR LETTER ON McNAUGHTEN AUDITS), INTRODUCED BY ROMEISER

WHEREAS, The C. N. T. Delegates have reviewed the endorsation of General Secretary Treasurer D. McNaughten's accounts;

RESOLVED, By the delegates of the C. N. T. Division No. 43, that a copy of International Vice President Schnur's letter of February 5th, 1923, to Bro. E. J. Young, General Chairman of C. N. T. Division No. 43, be published in full, in the October or November, 1923, issue of the Journal. B. J. ROMBISER.

Committee concurs. M&S, Brooks and Young, report be adopted. Carried.

SCHNUR LETTER TO McNAUGHTON

(Copy to District Chairmen Major, Farrell, Bradley and G. S. T. McNaughten) Montreal, Que., February 5, 1923.

E. J. Young, Esq., General Chairman, Division 43, C. T. U. A., 421 Decarie Blvd., Montreal, Que.

Dear Brother Young:

You will perhaps remember that the Toronto Convention instructed me to make on audit of your division books with a view to clearing up a discrepancy in figures between the division and International Headquarters. The Division showed a balance due the International of $712.64, while the books at International Headquarters debited the Division for $990.51. The disputed amount was $277.87.

This is to advise you that I have spent considerable time going over your division books and checking them over with the records at International Headquarters.

I have found that through a combination of circumstances it is impossible to find the disputed amount of $277.87, without going to a great deal of expense and time. It would be necessary to trace every cent your Division has handled since 1916. You will remember that during the years 1916 and 1917 it was a hard task that confronted G. S. T. McNaughten. The General Committee was collecting dues and using the money for expenses, etc., etc. Under those trying circumstances Brother McNaughten did the best he could, which was better than many of us could have done. At the same time International Secretary-Treasurer Russell resigned and we were without an I. S. T. at Chicago for almost two years. The discrepancy may have been caused by negligence of the clerical force at Chicago.

All these things have led me to recommend that the disputed balance of $277.87 be charged off and your Division figures of $712.64 accepted. I have just been advised that authority has been given me to carry out my recommendation and the whole proposition therefore has been straightened out. The Division now owes the International Headquarters $712.64, which G. S. T. McNaughten acknowledges. We know also that the Division is not able to liquidate this obligation at present and the disposition of the indebtedness will probably come up for discussion at our general committee meeting in Montreal this month.

With best wishes, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON FINANCE AND SALARIES

We, the Committee on Finance and Salaries, beg to report as follows:

We find that after all the General Assembly expenses of the 1923 Convention are paid, the balance in the General Fund of the C. T. U. A. will stand at approximately $1,750.00; and, that, in addition to an item of $500 on current account to be forthcoming very shortly, the prospective income of the Chicago headquarters is expected to average at least $1,000 per month during October, November and December of this year; and that the anticipated income for the year of 1924 approximates $50,000, with reasonable prospects for 1925 of revenue at least equalling that figure.

We find that this convention has not enacted any new legislation that may be considered as calling for any unusually heavy additional expenditure of funds. We recommend that the salaries of the International officers for the ensuing two-year term be fixed as follows:

International President, $4,300.00 per annum.

International Secretary-Treasurer, $3,800.00 per annum.

International Vice-President, $3,800.00 per annum.

Respectfully submitted.

BILL NO. 35, (CONTINUOUS MEMBERSHIP), INTRODUCED BY EASTERN BROKER DIVISION

WHEREAS, As the preference in employment assignments in the Eastern Broker Division is governed by the seniority of membership rule, several of our members have requested that they be permitted to bridge over, by payment of dues, certain periods during which they had for various reasons permitted their memberships to lapse, so that their records shall be made continuous from the time they first joined the organization, and

WHEREAS, The officers of the Eastern Broker Division feel that this question of special privilege is a matter beyond their jurisdiction, therefore be it

RESOLVED, That this proposition be referred to the General Assembly for consideration at the Ninth Bi-ennial Convention; and if the proposition meets with the approval of that body, that this privilege be extended to all members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union.

Committee of the Whole reports it is the sense of this Committee that members of the Union shall not be permitted to fill in the lapses in their memberships.

BILL NO. 33, (COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION, PROPAGANDA AND ORGANIZATION), INTRODUCED BY POWERS

WHEREAS, That the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, being free from debt for the first time in 16 years, is in a better position to continue the important work of organizing the commercial telegraphers of the United States than for many years, therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That a permanent committee on Education, Propaganda and Organization be named by this General Assembly for the purpose of carrying on this work, and be it further.

RESOLVED, That this committee shall be composed of the International President, International Secretary-Treasurer and one other member located within such a reasonable distance of Chicago as will enable frequent meetings of the committee, and be it further

RESOLVED, That this committee will make as rapid progress in the work of organizing commercial telegraphers secretly with the assistance of paid organizers as it finds possible with the finances now at hand or that may be at hand during the coming two years.

BILL NO. 7, (PRESS NEGOTIATIONS), INTRODUCED BY O'DONNELL, FRAYN AND McTIERNAN

WHEREAS, The press negotiations at New York during 1925 has caused considerable dissatisfaction among the members of Divisions No. 47, 61, and 97, and

WHEREAS, There are many conflicting reports as to the attitude of the International officers and the general committees and as to the responsibility for the settlement,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That a special committee of five be selected from this convention to investigate the negotiations and its findings shall be made a part of these convention proceedings.

REPORT OF PRESS INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE

To the International Officers and delegates in convention assembled:

Your committee met in the Mount Royal Hotel, Montreal, at 7 p. m., October 3rd, 1923, committeemen being W. E. Conry, chairman, R. H. McDaniel, O. L. Newcomer, C. C. O'Donnell (U. P. No. 47), M. P. O'Keefe (I. N. S. 61). Those present and giving testimony were International President Johnson, International Secretary-Treasurer Powers, Arbitrator J. F. Campbell, Percy Thomas, E. B. Whittlesey, C. J. Seefred (I. N. S.), E. C. Campbell (I. N. S.), C. J. McTiernan (U. P.) and M. B. Norton (U. S.)

Their testimony, in substance, follows:

President Johnson outlined the negotiations as follows: That the committees first agreed to act jointly with the International Officers and that no committee individually would negotiate with the employers and that the demands upon all the press associations would be for a fifty dollar minimum.

That within forty-eight hours the I. N. S. committeemen and Universal committeemen (E. C. Campbell, O. A. Morris, Carl Faller and M. B. Norton) violated their agreement and receded from the fifty dollar minimum to $48 with the Hearst management without the knowledge of the other committeemen or the International Officers. Norton admitted to the committee at this point that such was the truth, The committeemen then reported this fact to the other committeemen and International Officers and stated that the Hearst management had offered them $41.

The committees and the managements then stood pat until July 1, when the committees decided to let the matter go to arbitration, the committees naming Brother J. F. Campbell arbitrator for the I. N. S. and U. S. members and the I. N. S. and U. S. Management naming Walter Moss. Campbell was instructed by the committee after a referendum vote that if he could get a $2.50 raise he was to accept it (Morris being the only committeeman to take exception to the $2.50 amount). Arbitrator Campbell, failing to reach any compromise with Arbitrator Moss, reported to the committees that the only thing on which he could agree with Mr. Moss was that the wage question was the only point in dispute—a matter of $7.

Upon the next visit of the I. N. S.-U. S. committeemen to the Hearst management, the latter demanded that the entire contract be thrown into arbitration. President Johnson and the committeemen unanimously agreed that this was a violation of the contract, in view of the agreement above-mentioned reached between J. F. Campbell and Mr. Moss.

It was then decided to call a strike and President Johnson was instructed to go to Washington to seek the aid of the A. F. of L. While in conference with Secretary Morrison of the A. F. of L. he received a telegram signed Faller and Norton, stating that they believed their action hasty and their position untenable and suggested he try mediation. This placed President Johnson in a very embarrassing position when he was just asking assistance for a strike.

Johnson then proceeded to the Department of Labor and laid the entire matter before them, which resulted in sending Conciliator Liller immediately to New York. Upon arriving in New York, Liller held a conference with President Bickel of the U. P. and General Manager Shor of the I. N. S., as a result of which he reported to President Johnson and the committeemen at the Hotel Aberdeen that the managements had apprised him of the fact that they had been informed by a member of the committee that the committeemen would accept $2.50 and possibly less. Mr. Liller had been informed by the committee that the absolute minimum they would accept was $45 as a result of his efforts. The description given by Mr. Liller of the committeeman who had given the managements this information convinced President Johnson that Brother Carl Faller was the man. Under pressure of President Johnson's remarks Faller broke down and confessed.

President Johnson then suggested to the committeemen that inasmuch as the negotiations apparently would be much longer protracted and in view of the drain upon their funds and their necessity of returning to their homes and positions, it might be well for them to select what they considered the two best men to represent the entire committees and leave them in charge of further negotiations. President Johnson and Becretary Powers both declared they preferred the committeemen to select two men other than themselves (Johnson and Powers) for this work. The committeemen then insisted that Johnson and Powers were the men to represent them and they were unanimously chosen.

Johnson and Powers then stated they would not accept the assignment UNLESS THEY WERE GIVEN FULL POWER TO ACT "WITHOUT STRINGS" AND WERE GIVEN BIGNED PROXIES TO THAT EFFECT BY ALL THE COMMITTEEMEN. These proxies were given by all the members except Committeeman Morris, who had been asked by President Johnson to resign as committeeman on account of drunkenness and incapability. Morris had left his proxy with Committee member E. C. Campbell and returned home after giving President Johnson the requested resignation. The committeemen then returned to their homes.

Conciliator Liller then reported that conciliation seemed impossible and, therefore, according to the terms of contracts with the news managements, a third arbitrator in the person of Hywel Davics was named by the Department of Labor to act as chairman of the arbitration board, thus far composed of J. F. Campbell and Mr. Moss. It was learned that in the earlier conference between the Hearst committeemen and Mr. Shor of th I. N. B. that a proposition had been discussed which would give the men one dollar horizontal raise, take away their vacations and give them the equivalent in money in addition to the one dollar raise. E. C. Campbell at this point admitted to your committee that this proposition had been discussed by the Hearst committeemen with the management and that such a proposition MIGHT be accepted by the committee as a compromise.

On July 18th at 3 p. m., President Johnson was requested by President Bickel of the U. P. to meet himself and Shor. In the meantime the Department of Labor had notified President Johnson on July 16th that the arbitration board would sit at 10 o'clock a. m., July 19th-19 hours after the requested meeting with Bickel and Shor took place. Convinced that if the arbitration board did sit and get the matter in their hands the vacations would be lost, President Johnson and Scoretary Powers decided to attempt further negotiations directly with the managements and were told by Bickel (U. P.) and Shor (Hearst) that they would be willing to take the matter out of arbitration if the representatives of the press committeemen would accept $1.75 horizontal increase and increases for the United News men to bring that division up to the Universal schedule—increases ranging from $2.25 to $8.75, and leaving vacation clauses as they stood. Feeling that in the event of going to arbitration the best the committee could hope for would be an even split between $1 and $2.50 and the above mentioned loss of vacations, but with the equivalent in money, Johnson and Powers decided this was the best they could hope to get. They believed that the vacations were worth to the men at least the equivalent of 25 cents a week in wages, thereby equalizing the $2.00, the minimum amount which the committeemen authorized them to accept IN MONEY, together with the fact that they were explicitly and emphatically left to negottate WITHOUT ANY STRINGS.

The matter was closed with the managements on this basis on the night of July 18th. Therefore, the arbitration board with Mr. Davies as chairman had no action to take and did not sit.

The proxies above mentioned were turned over by President Johnson to Brother Percy Thomas for safe keeping and are still in his custody. Secretary Powers has exact copies, to which he and President Johnson will make oath at any time necessary.

Following is a copy of the proxy:

"In the event that the arbitration board hands down a decision calling for a $2.50 horizontal increase, day and night (Universal scale) and awards the equivalent in money for the present vacation clause, the representatives of the committees, Roscoe H. Johnson and Frank B. Powers, are authorized to accept, reject or refer to the membership.

"In the event that the board's decision calls for a $2.00 horizontal increase, day and night (Universal scale) and awards the equivalent in money for the present vacation clause, the representatives are authorized to accept, reject or refer to the membership.

"The representatives are instructed not to contend for a differential for Cosmopolitan and United Financial men and in the event a decision does not give these men a differential, the representatives are authorized to accept without reference to the membership."

The above evidence by President Johnson was fully corroborated by Brother Powers. Brothers Thomas, J. F. Campbell, Whittlesey, Norton and McTiernan, each of whom took some part in the press negotiations, corroborated the incidents leading up to the time Johnson and Powers were left to conduct arbitration proceedings.

Brother E. C. Campbell took several exceptions to the above testimony, but all the other witnesses substantiated President Johnson's statements. M. B. Norton, one of the committeemen who was with E. C. Campbell in negotiations with the management in violation of their pledge, admitted his culpability, for which he made ample and humble apologies and expressed regret, explicitly stating that his understanding of every point was in conformity with the testimony of President Johnson and the other witnesses and in direct contradiction of the exceptions taken by E. C. Campbell,

Brother Seefred read a letter written by E. C. Campbell to C. E. Shea, general chairman of the U. P. division, a copy of which E. C. Campbell sent to Brother Seefred with permission to use it in any way he saw fit. E. C. Campbell admitted this to your committee. This letter said to Shea, among other things, "We cannot shift the blame, for WE ARE TO BLAME."

Brother Seefred also read an excerpt of a letter addressed to him by Brother C. E. Shea saying, "Johnson and Powers did as well as could be expected after Faller spitt the beans."

In regard to the Cosmopolitan and United Financial differential wage rate desired by those workers, the committee voted unanimously, all seven men being present and voting, that they would not contend for a differential rate, and the proxy so states in these words:

"The representatives are instructed not to contend for a differential for Cosmopolitan and United Financial men and in the event a decision does not give these men a differential, the representatives are authorized to accept without reference to the membership."

Committee's Recommendation

Your committee recommends that President Johnson and Secretary Powers deserve the utmost credit for their faithful conduct of these negotiations, which were rendered almost hopeless from the start by the actions of certain of the committeemen themselves, as described in the above testimony.

Your committee further recommends that Brothers Carl Faller, E, C, Campbell, M. B. Norton and O. A. Morris deserve the most severe condemnation of the entire membership of the C. T. U. A.

Your committee further recommends that Brother O. A. Morris should be penalized to the extent of all moneys expended by him for the account of his division while engaged upon these negotiations in which he took no part of any value to the committee.

Your committee further recommends that Carl Faller of the Universal Service Committee, in view of his first violating his pledge to the other committeemen by offering to come down to $48, secondly by sending a telegram to President Johnson at Washington rescinding his action with the other committeemen pledging them to stick to the extent of a strike, thereby placing President Johnson in a very embarrassing light with the A. F. of L., and thirdly by going to Mr. Shor of the Hearst managements and telling him the men would accept $2.50 and possibly less, also placing President Johnson in an almost despicable light with the Department of Labor, deserves the condemnation of the membership of the C. T. U. A., and that Carl Faller be expelled from the C. T. U. A. either by this convention at once or through the ordinary course of procedure.

Your committee further recommends that all press committeemen attending the session of your committee on Wednesday night, October 3rd, be entitled to and authorized to procure and send out to their members copies of all letters, documents and proxies, etc., introduced at said meeting.

Montreal, October 5, 1923.

M&S, Boole and Decelles, McMahon, report be adopted. Towne in chair.

Roscoe Johnson says Faller is not a crook at heart. He has no feeling for the man himself, but we should all have feeling for his family and of still greater importance we must demonstrate a sincere regard for fundamental laws governing civilized humanity, the laws of our country and the written code governing our own organization—all of which laws guarantee to every human being the inalienable right to be heard in his own behalf before judgment is passed. "As a captain in the American Expeditionary Forces during the trying war days when hatred for the enemy burned deep in the heart of every soldier, I never heard of a spy or traitor being executed without first being accorded the right of defending himself. I am opposed to drumbead courtmartials or the rule of the mob." Suggests Committee report be amended so as not to expel Faller here and now. Also hopes E. C. Campbell, Norton and Morris will not be placed in same light as Faller. Their action was merely due to bad judgment and while their pledges proved worthless at times, there have been innumerable instances of weak knees when Committeemen get up against guns in schedule negotiations.

He called attention to the omission in the report to Norton's namé being coupled with Faller. It has been said that because Norton occupied the same room as Faller he must have known of the action of Faller.

"I have emphasized in every way possible that it is my belief that Norton knew nothing at any time of Faller's actions. It has been said that he must have known of it. He did not know of it. Everybody who was in New York says Norton did not know anything of Faller's actions. We must change the Committee report so as not to put E. C. Campbell, Morris and Norton in the same boat with Faller."

Asks Chairman Conry if report does not do this.

Conry answers question of R. H. Johnson. Believes Committee report should stand. "Faller's family deserves our sympathy, but we must consider the harm done to the members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and their families and avoid having it occur again in the future by letting Faller off too easy."

R. H. Johnson says reply does not answer satisfactorily his question. Johnson yields to Thomas.

Thomas says he would suggest that Faller be declared ineligible to hold office in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America for life. He would also suggest that Campbell, Morris and Norton be ineligible to hold office for two years. Declares will make amendment later to that effect.

M&S, Schnur and Thomas, adjourn until 5:30 p. m. Carried.

Adjourned, 1:15 p. m.

EVENING SESSION, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1923

Convention called to order at 5:30 p.m. There being no objection Convention was adjourned until 7:30 p.m.

Convention called to order 7:25 p. m. No absentees.

Thomas makes announcement of receipt of a telegram to the effect that the Fire Telegraph Dispatchers of New York had won their case that day. He congratulated Johnson and Hickey and asked the Convention to express thanks to Rupple, Martin, Meresches and others not present who had so much to do with the fight and settlement. Also makes mention of the assistance rendered by Police Commissioner Brother Enright. Carried unanimously.

Unfinished Business, Debate on Press Investigating Committee's Report

Russell hopes Chairman of the Press Investigating Committee is in a more forgiving mood after a hearty meal. Conry rises to point of order. Chair declares point well taken.

M&S, Thomas and Lynch, amend Committee report, inserting paragraph in the report making Faller ineligible to hold office for life.

Thomas says it matters not how guilty this man is, he believes we ought to treat

Faller with mercy.

O'Sullivan disagrees with remarks of Thomas. "If we tolerate this sort of thing where will we get? I would be ashamed to go back to New York and tell my members that we condoned such an offense. The punishment does not nearly fit the crime. Lucky Faller, that he belongs to such a tolerant organization as ours. I would feel sorry for his sake if he belonged to other organizations to which I have belonged. How any man can ask us to condone such an offense is more than I can understand.

Lynch rises to tell the delegate from New York that even Judas received more consideration than Faller. "You have got to deal with human nature. If we were in the revolutionary period we could shoot traitors, but we are not in that period. We must remember that even some scabs in 1907 were able to learn a lesson.

Boole tells of Faller as a two-jobman. "Two years ago President Alcorn of the Western Broker Division requested of the Universal that Faller be forced to give up his position as lunch relief man at Bache & Co. while working a full job. Faller refused, even though men were walking the streets. My heart is steeled against this man. We talk of the suffering of families. In 1883 Union men thought nothing of their families, but of a principle and went out on strike to better their condition. I almost insist this thing be passed as the Committee has reported on it."

Konenkamp says, "The first thought that comes to my mind is that this man is not here. The second thought is that this Committee has decided to do something that supports every secessionist movement ever promoted. You are denying the right of local autonomy. You members of the Western Broker Division, Rastern Broker Division and New England Broker Division, of the U. P., I. N. S.,, C. P. R., Canadian Press and Canadian Brokers, are going to join together to do something the constitution says is the perogative of the Universal Service Division. I am not going to speak in his defense. I am against mob rule. You are taking upon yourself the prerogative of a police magistrate. Remember that our principle is local autonomy."

On point of order Conry asked if Faller was not elected a delegate. Chair replies that Faller refused to accept nomination.

Konenkamp continues, "You may be the next victim. Let us do it in an orderly, fair way. Make your recommendations if you like but do not interfere with the prerogative of the subordinate units."

Newcomer, a member of the Committee, speaks as a representative of the Western Broker Division. He endorses everything Boole says of Faller. "Faller's record in Chicago has not been that of a Union man. Let us not get weak-kneed as some of the committeemen did in New York. While the Bennett strikers were on the street it was impossible to get Faller off his lunch relief job, paying $27.00 per week, because the firm was not a closed shop. Let's not let sympathy run away with our better judgment.

Chair states that it is his understanding of the report that the Committee merely recommends certain action on the part of the Divisions.

Conry states such is the intention of the report. "We have been charged with imperialism by the greatest imperialist who ever headed this organization."

Towne rises to point of information. "If report of the Committee is adopted will the member be expelled immediately?"

Russell rises on point of information. "Has not the Committee reported two alternate recommendations?"

Conry demands hecklers keep quiet and give him a chance to give information and not try to sway votes of this Convention with flowery speeches.

Konenkamp asks if Conry is speaking in favor of expelling Faller.

Conry says he is opposing amendment to Committee's report and has no interest in the matter except as Chairman of the Committee.

Conry says, "Would you rather be condemned in a resolution or sentenced for life as this amendment would do?"

M&S, J. Clark and Bradley, amendment to the amendment, refer the report of the Committee to the three Press Divisions to carry out the recommendations embodied therein in accordance with Article No. 22, Section No. 11 of the Constitution.

Russell wonders if we should pass judgment on this man. Believes International President would be competent to handle this man as he would handle a private in his Company during the war. Believes he would tell this man of his offense and declare him ineligible to ever hold office in this organization and pay a certain sum into the treasury of his Division. Believes this Convention should leave the matter to the International President, giving him authority to deliver the sentence of this Convention.

Bradley declares a captain in an army cannot sentence a man without him being present to defend himself. McMahon can see no excuse for this man's actions. Declares we must judge him as a warning to others so that others will never dare to do the same thing. Newcomer declares Faller was given an opportunity to be present with expenses paid.

Pawson says if amendment to the amendment is adopted, no way of forcing the three Press Divisions to act on the resolution.

Konenkamp speaks in favor of the amendment to the amendment. Does not want a precedent established by this Convention expelling a man not present. "If he were here you would have a perfect right to do so. I am not going to appeal for mercy for this individual. I am against this thing of letting the mob run away from their law."

Conry rises to question of personal privilege. "If this report is referred back to Committee I want another Chairman appointed."

O'Sullivan says this matter should be disposed of finally. It should not be referred to the Universal Division because it affects two other Press Divisions and the integrity of the International officers.

McMahon says our confidence in the International President is expressed by putting in his hands the duty of expelling Faller.

J. Clark says it is unconstitutional to expel this man here. Believes the matter should be referred back to the three Press Divisions.

Towne believes the three Press Divisions will act on the matter if recommended by the Convention.

Mullen asks if these Divisions have made any effort to expel this man.

Conry on point of order quotes constitution, giving General Assembly full power. Russell on point of order corrects Conry by saying no one has questioned the authority of the General Assembly.

Seefred calls attention to the fact that the United Press delegates were sent here to find out who was responsible for the failure of the press negotiations. "When this Convention finds out, its duty is done. If this report is made to the members of the Universal Division they will take care of Faller." Is in favor of the amendment to the amendment.

BILL NO. 8 (GROUP INSURANCE), INTRODUCED BY U. P. COMMITTEE

Believing that an insurance feature would not only hold our present membership but would be a potent factor in increasing our ranks and making membership in our union more inviting and permanent, it is hereby recommended that this general assembly direct the Insurance Committee to report within six months on the best terms on group insurance that may be obtained for the entire membership of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, the adoption of which to be submitted by referendum to the entire membership of our union.

JOSEPH P. FRAYN, CLARENCE C. O'DONNELL, C. J. McTIERNAN. United Press Committee.

Report of Committee

We recommend that the Permanent Insurance Committee be continued and that this proposition be referred to them.

Report of Insurance Committee.

M&S, Conry and McMahon, report be adopted. Carried.

M&S, R. H. Johnson and Russell, incoming International President and International Secretary-Treasurer be appointed a Committee of two for the purpose of preparing and editing the minutes for the Journal and respond to any resolutions and greetings not referred to the R&G Committee.

10:48 p. m. Nominations for International President.

O'Sullivan nominates R. H. Johnson. Seconded by Boole and Russell.

M&S, Conry and E. C. Campbell, vote be taken by rising vote. Carried.

Vote: Thomas, 36; Boole, 6.

Thomas declared elected alternate.

Thomas in chair. Nomination for next Convention city. Bradley nominated Winnipeg, declaring the "Peg" extends a cordial invitation to the General Assembly for 1925. Russell seconded.

Conry nominates Montreal.

Nadeau nominates Detroit, declaring that from the standpoint of accessibility and economy Detroit should be selected. Says that we should consider that many Divisions would not send delegates a great distance and that Detroit being nearer the border line believes many Canadian delegates would be able to come to Detroit.

E. C. Campbell goes on record as against Montreal, declaring that some criticism has arisen against holding a Convention in a wet territory.

Boole nominates Atlanta, declaring that the Washington Convention named Atlanta but circumstances made it necessary for a change and that we should now recognize Atlanta as a location.

Thomas seconds Winnipeg.

Boole withdraws Atlanta, but hopes some future Convention will meet in Atlanta.

On a rising vote, Winnipeg received 36 votes. Conry withdraws Montreal.

Nadeau withdraws Detroit.

Unanimous vote cast for Winnipeg.

BILL NO. 31 (COMMITTEE ON ORGANIZATION AND LEGISLATION), INTRODUCED BY E. C. CAMPBELL AND O'KEEFE

M&S, Thomas and Schnur, Convention adjourn sine die.

There being no objection, motion carried. Adjourned sine die 12:43 a.m. Saturday, October 6, 1923.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT

To the Officers and Delegates of the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. Greeting:

In accordance with the Constitution, I am submitting herewith for your information and guidance a report of my official acts as International President, together with recommendations for such changes as will, in my judgment, benefit our organization.

The announcement contained in International Secretary-Treasurer Powers' report to this Convention that after fifteen years of struggle the C. T. U. A. has at last completely freed itself of debt is, perhaps, the outstanding achievement of our organization since the Toronto Convention.

In 1919 the indebtedness of the International amounted to $14,365.19. This formidable obstacle to progress was rolled up during the years following the 1907 strike. Due to the efficient administration of Brother Paul Schnur as International Secretary-Treasurer, the Toronto Convention in 1921 found the indebtedness reduced to $4,890.18, all of which amount has been paid off during the past two years of Brother Powers' creditable and economic term of office.

Today, for the first time since 1907 the C. T. U. A. faces the world without a debt. How hard the struggle has been to reach this goal is probably better known and understood by those ever faithful and ceaseless workers in the interests of commercial telegraph workers, Wesley Russell, James Campbell, Paul Schnur and Frank Powers—past and present "custodians of the C. T. U. A. cash box."

It is gratifying to be able to report that during the past two years our organization in addition to absolving itself from debt has at the same time been able to make progress in the United States and Canada. Commercial, Wireless and Press divisions have negotiated new and better agreements. Broker divisions have continued their great work of organizing. Eleven new charters have issued. Joint O. R. T.—C. T. U. A. schedule with Canadian National Telegraphs has been renewed.

Broker Divisions

Seven new broker divisions have been chartered since October 1921—Michigan Broker Division, Ohio Broker Division, Philadelphia Broker Division, Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division (Pittsburgh), Southwest Broker Division (Kansas City), Maryland Broker Division and Pacific Coast Broker Division.

All of these new units are primarily the result of pioneer work performed by unselfish, broad-gauged executives of the Eastern and Western broker divisions. Brothers O'Sullivan and Hickey, E. B. D.; McDaniel and Goodale, W. B. D., have been untiring in their efforts to not only improve conditions within their respective organizations but to lend the hand of cooperation and experience in other districts. Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit, Kansas City and Los Angeles workers have done the rest with the result that the broker field today is better organized than at any previous time in the history of the C. T. U. A.

The Canadian Broker Division under the leadership of Brothers Lawson, Des-Lauriers, Gorman, Culkins and Clark and with the able help of Vice-President Schnur, have the leased wire field across the imaginary line almost completely organized.

E. B. D. "MORSE DAY"

The Eastern Broker Division should be commended for conceiving and carrying out the idea of perpetuating the memory of Samuel Finlay Breeze Morse, father of the telegraph through annual pilgrimages to and services at the grave of the great inventor. The first annual memorial services in honor of Professor Morse was held in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday, April 29th, 1923, under auspices of the Eastern Broker Division. Many notables were present.

Plans have been consummated by the Eastern Broker Division to elaborate on forthcoming pilgrimages. All telegraphers should take part in such services. It is recommended that this Convention give every consideration to plans which the E. B. D. may advance having for their purpose the broadening of the scope of future ceremonials in honor of the immortal Morse.

United Press, United News, International News Service and Universal Service

The three Union Shop press divisions in the United States have worked as a unit in conducting schedule negotiations during the years 1922-23. Negotiations concluded in July of this year resulted in increases for all Union Shop press telegraphers of $1.75 per week. Leveling off the night side (United News and Universal Service) resulted in increases ranging from $2.25 to $8.75 for many United News men. men. Press agreements are now uniform in every respect.

In view of the number of members involved—five hundred—and the heavy expense attached to sending general committeemen to New York each year, it would seem that that the committees might well be cut down. Universal Service, fifty members, sends two general committeemen to New York; I. N. S., 140 members, two committeemen and United Press—United News with 250 members, three committeemen. Negotiations are usually long drawn out and divisional funds quickly used up. A total of four general committeemen under existing conditions—2 U. P., 1 I. N. S. and 1 U. S.—would probably answer the purpose.

Round-table conferences, the three general committees meeting the three press managements simultaneously, would also, in the opinion of International officers, conserve much time and money.

The three press associations compete in the same field. Wage scales and working conditions of telegraph workers are identical. Why, then, not get together around the same table during negotiations?

Spending four or five weeks in New York each year jockeying one committee or management against another via the mail and telephone route is a ridiculous procedure and in the final analysis serves only to breed ill-feeling and distrust in the minds of all those involved in the burlesque.

While the General Assembly as such cannot concern itself directly, it is respectfully suggested that Press delegates to this Convention avail themselves of the present opportunity to caucus, discuss the above observations and if possible devise a more business-like program for conduct of future negotiations with the managements of Union Shop press services.

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America has been accorded every possible courtesy and assistance by our O. R. T. brothers during the past twenty-four months. The two international organisations worked together in renewing the joint C. T. U. A.-O. R. T. linemen's agreement with the Canadian National Telegraphs early in 1923.

The O. R. T. has taken a great forward step in its latest undertaking—establishment of The Telegraphers National Bank, founded by officers and members of that organization which opened for business in its own building in St. Louis on June 9th, 1923, the 37th anniversary of the foundation of the organization. The bank is patterned after the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Co-Operative National Bank of Cleveland, sharing earnings with depositors and using its funds for productive and not exploitative purposes. Commercial telegraphers should take advantage of this opportunity to place their savings in an entirely safe banking institution, one that may almost be called their own. Adequate facilities are provided for handling out-of-town accounts by mail.

C. T. U. A.-O. R. T. FRATERNAL DELEGATES

The Toronto Convention instructed incoming International officers "to communicate with the officers of the O. R. T. with a view to exchanging fraternal delegates." The following correspondence on this subject is self-explanatory:

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION OF AMERICA

Chicago, Ill., August 25, 1923.

Mr. E. J. Manion, President,

The Order of Railroad Telegraphers,

Missouri State Life Building, St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir and Brother:

The last Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, held in Toronto, October 3rd, 1921, passed a resolution providing in substance that incoming International officers communicate with officers of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers with a view to exchanging fraternal delegates.

The resolution as passed unanimously, follows:

"Whereas, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America are united by a common bond; and

"Whereas, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers have worked hand in hand with our organization, signing joint contracts with the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America; and

"Whereas, it is the opinion of this convention that close relationship between the two organizations is vital and essential; therefore, be it

"Resolved, that the incoming International Officers be and are hereby instructed to communicate with the officers of the O. R. T. with a view to exchanging fraternal delegates."

Speaking for commercial telegraphers, I am certain that an exchange of fraternal delegates between the two organizations of telegraph workers would provide a means of further cementing the bonds of friendship and cooperation which have been so manifest between the O. R. T. and C. T. U. A. during your most commendable administration.

It will be greatly appreciated if you can find it possible to communicate with me on this subject in time for a report to our Montreal Convention which convenes October 1st, next,

With best wishes, I am,

Sincerely and fraternally,
ROSCOE H. JOHNSON,
International President.

THE ORDER OF RAILROAD TELEGRAPHERS

St. Louis, Mo., August 27, 1923.

Mr. Roscoe H. Johnson, International President,

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America,

113 S. Ashland Bird., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir and Brother:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of August 18th advising that the last Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America held in Toronto, October 3, 1821, adopted a resolution providing for the exchange of fraternal delegates between the two organizations at Conventions and pubmitting a copy of the resolution to me for our consideration.

I will be glad indeed to submit this resolution to our next Convention and recommend that it be adopted and in this regard permit me to extend to you an invitation to visit us when we are in session in Cleveland commencing the second Monday in May, 1841.

With best wishes, I am.

Fraternally yours,
B. J. MANION.

COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS' UNION OF AMERICA

Chicago, Ill., September 5, 1903.

Mr. B. J. Manion, President,

The Order of Rollroad Telegraphers.

Missouri State IAfe Building, St. Louis, Mo.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Thank you very kindly for the reply to my letter of August 25th dealing with the subject of exchanging fraternal delegates between the two organizations at Conventions.

Your invitation to visit the O. R. T. Convention when in session in Cleveland commencing the second Monday in May, 1924, is also highly appreciated. I shall make every endeavor to be there.

Unfortunately the C. T. U. A. Convention convenes in Montreal simultaneously with opening of the A. P. of L. Convention in Portland this year. I suppose this conflict of convention dates will make it impossible for you to attend our deliberations. If, however, you should find it possible to do so, we shall certainly consider it an honor and pleasure to have you with us.

With best wishes, I am,

Rincerely and fraternally, ROSCOB H. JOHNSON.

Leased Wire Assessment

At the time of General Assembly deliberations in Toronto, our organization was in the midst of a strike against the Chicago grain firm of J. E. Bennett & Company. Proceedings of the Toronto Convention cover practically all aspects of this situation.

An assessment was levied on all leased wire divisions (Resolution No. 34, Toronto, 1921) the last resolve of which reads as follows:

"Resolved, by the General Assembly that an assessment of one dollar per week, effective October 15, 1921, shall be levied against all leased wire members. The assessment to be collected weekly by subordinate units affected, and remitted to the International Secretary-Treasurer. The funds derived from this assessment shall be used for strike purposes in the subordinate units contributing. This assessment shall run from week to week, and may be discontinued at the discretion of the International President."

Leased wire divisions in the United States and Canada responded nobly to the assessment call—a total of $7,652.13 being collected. The amount of $4,602.05 was required by the Western Broker Division in financing the Bennett strike. Assessment was terminated December 3, 1921, being effective a total of eight weeks. Nearly $3,000 remains to the credit of leased wire divisions which may be used for strike purposes by any division contributing to the fund.

Organization Work in Commercial Field

Owing to lack of finances the vast potential field of over fifty thousand Western Union and Postal telegraph workers remains practically unorganized. Printers ink and voluntary organizers have been used as in the past. These two methods of organizing the workers are insufficient in themselves to bring about real results. Arrayed against Western Union and Postal workers and the trades Union of their craft are the same financial interests which have fought every attempt of the American Federation of Labor to educate and organize the steel workers.

Our movement stands for the preservation and enlargement of fundamental rights and its first demand will always be in behalf of those rights.

Now that the C. T. U. A. has unshackled itself from the loadstone of debt the organization is one-small step in the direction of the dawn of better days in the lives of commercial telegraph workers.

Much will depend upon succeeding steps, the first of which should be taken by this Convention. Delegates may well devote much of their time in Committee of the Whole to the working out of comprehensive plans to govern the activities of our organization in the commercial field during the next two years.

Associated Press

Work of organizing Associated Press telegraphers has continued slowly but surely. While the A. P. roster contains more members than at any time since 1907 there are still many who are willing to lay back, doing nothing for themselves, seemingly satisfied to let the Union Shop divisions carry the entire load.

Persistent educational propaganda and organization work will finally bring all A. P. men to a realization of their duty.

"Organizing Week"

October 23-29, 1922 was designated as "C. T. U. A. Organizing Week." The results obtained during this period, especially in Montreal, Chicago and New York were greater than expected—approximately 500 new members being enrolled. September-October-November issues of our Journal carried full accounts of the plan, results obtained, etc.

Our Twentieth Anniversary

The C. T. U. A. has passed the twentieth milestone of its existence. The story of those twenty years of struggle in the interests of telegraph workers is probably better known to those gallant fighters who are registered at International Head-quarters under the cryptic caption "M. S. O."

International officers have endeavored to pay sincere homage to "Members Since Organized" during the past year. This Convention may desire to elaborate on the program in a more fitting manner. Certainly all honor is due to those Brothers and Sisters who have stood by during the many trying days in the progress of the organization.

C. T. U. A. Journal

No words are necessary here to express to Editor Powers the sincere appreciation of the readers of our official organ. He has indeed coped well with a serious problem, namely, keeping within a curtailed budget and at the same time furnishing the membership with one of the best labor journals in existence.

Vice-President for Canada

It is submitted that the creation of the office of paid Vice-President for Canada has fully justified the action of the Toronto Convention.

It is not my intention to take up space in this report regarding Canadian matters during the past two years. Brother Schnur's report will go fully into all phases of affairs as they pertain to the jurisdiction over which he has presided so efficiently during that time.

A full-time Vice-President for Canada is a proven necessity and it is recommended that the office be continued.

A. P. of L. Delegate

Your delegate attended the Forty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor at Cincinnati during the month of June, 1922. It was decided at Cincinnati to change the A. F. of L. Convention date to the first Monday in October for convening of 1923 sessions at Portland, Oregon.

In order that A. F. of L. and C. T. U. A. conventions may not be in session simultaneously as is the case this year, it is recommended that this Convention consider the proposition of fixing a non-conflicting date for the next session of the General Assembly.

Visitations

Lack of funds has made it impossible during the past two years to be on the road except when occasion made it imperative. Meetings were addressed at Montreal, Boston, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago.

Conclusion

In conclusion I desire to express to members of the General Executive Board my sincere appreciation for their individual and collective work together with the hearty cooperation received from that source which has so materially assisted International officers during the past two years.

I am particularly indebted to I. S. T. Powers for his help. Close association with a man of his fearless, upstanding caliber can only serve as a spur and an inspiration to accomplish the better things in life.

To the delegates of this Convention I extend best wishes for solution of the many problems which confront us at this time.

Respectfully submitted.

International President.

Koscoe H. Johnson

REPORT OF DEPUTY PRESIDENT FOR CANADA

To the Officers and Delegates of the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America. GREETING:

In accordance with our laws I am submitting for your information and guidance a report of the activities of my office for the two year term now ending, together with recommendations for the future.

It is with a feeling of pride in our Canadian membership I am able to report that we have, since our last convention, successfully passed through the most trying period in the organized history of the Canadian telegraph fraternity.

The 1921 Convention at Toronto had no sooner adjourned sine die than that group of insincere delegates who shouted the loudest for a scheme of federation came out openly and avowedly for secession from the International body. Thus it was proven that those men who questioned the sincerity of the Federationists had just grounds for suspicion.

From December, 1921, on, the campaign to destroy our organization in Canada was carried on vigorously and unremittingly by the self-appointed "leaders" of the secession movement until, in August of this year "finis" was written upon the latest attempt to alienate the Canadian members from their sisters and brothers across the boundary line. The movement failed because it was wrong.

The intelligent rank and file has repudiated and ostracised those traitors who have, by their insidious and treacherous methods, shown that they are deserving of nothing but the contempt of the sincere workers.

Coming through the fires of secession has left us stronger than ever numerically and has, at the same time, given us all an opportunity to gain a better understanding of the fundamental principles of trade unionism. Those who, at the start, followed blindly the patriotic appeal for a purely Canadian union have retraced their hasty footsteps, having become convinced after careful study and cool reasoning, that it would be reactionary folly to attempt destruction of the present form of organization and set up in its stead an organization that would be limited in scope and ability to deal with present day problems. So, once again, the Canadian membership is able to present an undivided front.

Whilst, in a sense, some good came out of the secession movement by reason of the fact that many of our formerly indifferent members now have a better understanding of trades union organization generally, yet it seems a pity that most of our time during the past two years should have been taken up with secession fighting when there were so many constructive things to be done. However, the increasing alertness of our members and their apparent willingness to assume a greater share of the responsibility of building up and maintaining the proper kind of organization augurs well for the future and surely this should give us no small amount of consolation. It is indeed cheering to know that in the face of innumerable obstacles we have successfully weathered all storms and secured improved wages and working conditions in the bargain. We are today standing as a united body of workers, tried by fire, on the threshold of opportunity. We shall profit immeasurably by our experiences in the past two years, for the labor pains of bringing about our present solidarity will be recompensed many-fold in the individual and collective dividends that must accrue to us as the result of conscious, sincere and cooperative effort.

General Organization Work

I have been enabled, during the course of my term, to address one or more meetings in each of the various districts of our subordinate units. With the assistance of divisional and local officers it has been possible to promote a much better spirit of co-operation between the various divisions.

There is yet much organization work to be done in Canada for, it must be remembered, our jurisdiction embraces a wide field. The Western Union workers in the Maritime Provinces have never been organized. The taking over of the Western Union properties in Canada by the Canadian National Telegraphs has been mooted for some time and its early accomplishment is looked for. We have recently been informed by the highest officials of the Canadian National Telegraphs that all preliminary arrangements have been made and the properties of the Western Union would be bought and taken over within a year. The British Columbia property of the American company has already been taken over. The culmination of present plans will give the National lines a vast transcontinental property which, when thoroughly organized and co-ordinated will give Canadian National System Division No. 43 a total membership approximating two thousand.

Organization on the lines of the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs is at the same point it was two years ago. Small points have been more or less neglected and that field, numbering some two hundred eligibles, should be brought into the fold in the very near future.

Leased wire organization goes on apace and a marked improvement has been shown in the past two years and that field is now 90 per cent organized.

Organization in the wireless field has had a temporary set-back but that jurisdiction is now showing signs of renewed and vigorous activity. It is the expressed belief of many of our wireless members that the two Canadian radio divisions—59 and 65—might well be amalgamated. This important matter will probably be fully discussed on the floor of this Convention.

The lines of the Dominion Government Telegraphs, which are under the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Works, have been materially shortened in the past two years. These lines are not operating in competition with the commercial companies, but have been erected and are being maintained solely as a necessary convenience to settlers in new communities. Some of these western communities have lately had sufficient growth in population to warrant the building of rail lines which in turn brought the commercial telegraph lines. When this happens the Government Telegraph Lines are either sold or dismantled. We have, therefore, suffered a considerable loss in membership on these lines in the last two years by reason of offices being absorbed or closed down. The Government is also planning to replace the Morse land line from Ashcroft, B. C., to Dawson City, Y. T., with wireless. When this is done some fifty more of our members on that line will be affected.

In view of the fact our jurisdiction on the government lines is at present confined to the three westernmost provinces—Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia—and that the potential field of Divisions 53 and 67 has already been and will further be materially reduced, it might be wise to consider the advisability of getting away from duplication of effort and shorten our lines of activity by amalgamating Divisions 53 and 67. It will be borne in mind that the members of these Divisions work for the same department of the government under like conditions of work and wage.

Agreements

Wage scales and working conditions on the lines of the C. P. R. Telegraphs have remained unchanged since June 1, 1920. There is, at present, a feeling of resentment towards the management of the C. P. R. Telegraphs due to the fact that the management has lately shown a marked disposition to violate not only the spirit but the letter of the Agreement. While the rank and file of C. P. R. Division No. 1 have tried to avoid contention with the Company the time has come when the management must have it impressed upon them that a signed agreement must be respected.

The attitude of the C. P. R. management is in strange contrast to the present amicable relationship between the organization and the new management of the Canadian National Telegraphs. The latter company is showing every disposition to be fair and sympathetic. Recent wage negotiations with the Canadian National Management brought about a vast improvement in working conditions and materially increased wage scales for the lower paid workers.

The wage scale of Canadian Press telegraphers has remained unchanged since September 1, 1920.

Government telegraphers of Divisions 53 and 67 have maintained wage scales which were put into effect April 1, 1920. This fact is significant for these workers are Civil Service employees and every other class of Civil Servants has suffered reductions through the loss of "cost of living bonuses," etc. The members of Divisions 53 and 67 have maintained their wages solely because of the fact that they were working under an agreement between the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and the Dominion Government.

Marconi Wireless Division No. 59 suffered a ten per cent wage reduction in September 1922 through the majority award of a Board of Conciliation. This subordinate unit has however, by the time this is read, served notice of a proposed revision upward and all indications point toward an equitable adjustment.

Broker and leased wire telegraphers of Division 21 have no contractual relations with their employers but have nevertheless been enabled to consistently improve their conditions of work and wage through organization and sound business perseverity. The two commercial divisions (One and Forty-Three) have assisted materially in the work of stabilizing wages in the leased wire field. The rock bottom minimum for this class of work has been set at forty-five dollars ($45) per week.

Canadian Radio Division No. 65, which is composed of government men whose wages are regulated by the Civil Service Commission, have secured numerous improvements in their working conditions in the past two years and it is also hoped to improve their wage standards in the near future. The interests of these men are so closely interwoven with those of Division 59 members that it becomes quite necessary to establish thorough coordination of these two groups.

Legislation

There has been no new legislation affecting telegraph workers in particular.

The rescinding of the Hanna non-political order last February enables en

The rescinding of the Hanna non-political order last February enables employees of the Canadian National Railways and Telegraphs to again exercise their franchise and aspire to public office.

The immigration policy of the present government has been stated to be one of encouragement only to agricultural settlers, farm laborers and domestic servants.

Resolutions authorizing the Federal Government to devise means of dealing with the unemployment problem and the establishment of a system of old age pensions were adopted by Parliament during its last session.

The Industrial Disputes Act has been amended by several changes which define more clearly the responsibility of employers.

Trades and Labor Congress of Canada

Our affiliation with the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has, in the past two years, been a valuable asset. The co-operation and timely advice of its officers has been an immeasurable benefit. To Brother Tom Moore, its president, should we be especially grateful for material assistance from time to time.

I had the pleasure of attending, as your delegate, the Thirty-Eighth Annual Convention of the Congress which was held in the City of Montreal, August 21st to 26th, 1922. Selected also as your delegate to the Thirty-Ninth Annual Convention of the Congress, which was held at Vancouver, B. C., commencing September 10th this year, I was forced, due to the close proximity of our own Convention, to forego the pleasure of attending and Brother Frank A. Coyle of Vancouver, was named as my alternate.

Recommendations

I would recommend to Canadian Pacific Division No. 1 and Canadian National Division No. 43 that an effort be made by these two divisions to bring about an early and general readjustment of wage scales in the commercial telegraph industry in Canada; that the general committees of these two divisions co-ordinate their efforts and draw up a standardized agreement to govern working conditions and rates of pay on both Canadian commercial telegraph lines and, that a strong endeavor be made to negotiate jointly with the two Companies not later than the Spring of 1924.

Conclusion

In concluding my report I wish to point out that it does not incorporate a full report of all my activities during the past two years. Many matters that I have dealt with have been of a routine nature, whilst reference to other matters will be made on the floor of the Convention.

What I have endeavored to do is to present in this report a condensed summary of my activities together with such recommendations as, to my mind, will have much to do with determining the future policies of our organization in Canada.

The present sound position of our Union has been reached only by long struggle and persistent effort, and the experiences thus gained should be carefully considered in the endeavor to reach a solution of our present day problems, as upon the constructive nature of the decisions made by this Assembly rests the future stability and success of our organization.

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to those officers and members who have assisted me in my work. Without their co-operation my own efforts would have been of little avail.

To the delegates of this Assembly is extended my best wishes with the hope that a successful solution of our many problems will be forthcoming.

Respectfully submitted,

Vice President for Canada.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL SECRETARY-TREASURER

To the Officers and Dolegates of the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Greetings:

In accordance with Article 14, Section 14, of the Constitution, I am herewith submitting a statement setting forth the transactions of my office during the past two years:

NEW CHARTERS

Eleven new charters have been issued since the Toronto convention, seven of which were broker divisions. The work of organising in the broker and leased wire field has been carried on steadily and consistently by officers and members of the various divisions. Early in 1922 the Western Broker Division released from its jurisdiction the territory surrounding Detroit, Kansas City, and Cleveland, and new charters were issued to the Michigan Broker Division, the Southwest Broker Division and the Ohio Broker Division.

The results were beneficial almost from the start, each new division exerting increased efforts to organize its territory and a healthy rivalry for supremacy developed.

Shortly afterwards, the Eastern Broker Division encouraged and alded in the formation of the Middle Western Atlantic Broker Division, the Philadelphia Broker Division and the Maryland Broker Division. These divisions have also made great progress and have more than justified the wisdom of forming small divisions for the purpose of organizing.

Other charters issued were to the Montreal District Council, the Quebec District Council, the Milwaukee District Council, the Buffalo District Council and the Pacific Coast Broker Division.

MEMBERSHIP

A total of 1,678 new members were initiated into the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America during the 24 months since Sept. 1, 1921. Nearly one-half or 642 have been initiated during the past six months. New members by months are as follows:

1921	1922	1923
September $2	35
October 62	5 5
November	85
December	78
January	59	47
February	50	38
March	48	90
April	47	65
May	47	114
June	49	145
July	86	86
August	74	142
Total	718	727	1678

While the business depression of 1921 had some effect on the membership, full recovery was made in 1922. The Organizing Week campaign, the latter part of 1922, brought the membership to the highest mark of the year. A steady increase has continued during the first eight months of 1923.

One of the original intentions of the Organizing Week campaign was to recognize and reward the individual workers, but this proved impracticable. Some means of recognizing publicly the excellent work performed by our voluntary organizers can and should be worked out. They do not desire any recognition or reward, for the satisfaction of duty well performed in a glorious cause is sufficient reward. Nevertheless, the fine spirit and enthusiasm of a sealous organizer can easily be dampened by apparent indifference.

TRIPS

Because of a desire to conserve finances, visits to the various subordinate units were kept to an absolute minimum. Meetings and conferences were attended at Kansas City, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, Toronto and New York. A total of $720.79 was expended on expenses. One-half of my expenses in New York during press negotiations were paid by the press divisions.

FINANCES

For the first time since 1907 the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America is completely free from debt. A sufficient cash balance is on hand to care for convention expenses and current bills for the month of September.

Supplementing Public Accountant Finney's report, which was made up on June 30th, 1923, I am submitting the following financial statement as of Sept. 15, 1923:

I am deeply indebted to International President Johnson for his advice and active co-operation in the work of liquidating the indebtedness of the C. T. U. A. Strict economy in all departments and reduction of the office force aided in reducing the debt, but without his co-operation it would have been impossible.

My predecessor, Bro. Schnur, had reduced the indebtedness from over $13,000 in 1919, to $5,329.45 on June 30, 1921. I was determined to continue the good work. An added expenditure was faced through the creation of the office of Canadian vicepresident at the Toronto convention, but to offset this the International proportion of the dues was increased from $5 to $8 per year. These two items just about balanced each other.

One clerk and stenographer was eliminated from the office force, the International President and myself doing our own stenographic work.

A saving of over $1,000 in the past two years as compared with the previous two years has been effected because of the return of Canadian exchange to near normal.

Saving on printing, postage, office and miscellaneous supplies was over $1,000.

I wish to take this opportunity to acknowledge the faithful, loyal and efficient services of Chief Clerk Frank C. Rausch of the Headquarters office. He has supervised the office work of the organization in a most capable manner, and his assistance and co-operation has helped materially in reducing expenses in the office.

JOURNAL

The size of the Journal has been reduced to 32 pages with a plain cover. Every effort has been made to publish an educational and at the same time a newsy and entertaining journal. Divisions have been encouraged to continue the departments started by my predecessor. New departments have been added. More money has been expended on pictures, particularly pictures of members who have completed twenty years of continuous membership in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

A gain of $2,740.79 has been made in the operation of The Journal during the past 18 months, which sum has been turned over to the general fund.

I hereby certify that I have examined the books of accounts and records of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and the foregoing financial reports reflect the condition as of June 30th, 1923. I have reconciled the bank balance with bank statement and made test postings to satisfy myself of the correctness of this report.

O. FINNEY, Public Accountant.

CONCLUSION

In conclusion I wish to express my gratitude to the officers of subordinate units who have co-operated in making the work of my office easier and more efficient, during the past two years. Complaints of cards and Journals misdirected have been held down to a minimum through careful checking of addresses with subordinate officials. Practically every case of lost card or Journal has been the result of neglect on the part of the member, to notify my office of a change in address.

The future of the C. T. U. A. never looked more encouraging. Freedom from debt makes it possible to continue more vigorously than ever the work of improving conditions in the telegraphic industry. I was never more confident that our organization, which has fought and won many great victories against overwhelming odds during its 21 years of existence, will eventually win for all commercial telegraphers the fullest measure of protection and prosperity.

International Secretary-Treasurer.

REPORT OF INSURANCE COMMITTEE

To the Officers and Delegates of the Twelfth Regular and Ninth Biennial Convention of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Greetings:

The Toronto Convention appointed the undersigned as members of the Insurance Committee with instructions to proceed to the work of drafting up a plan for death benefits. Your committee was instructed to place this plan before the General Executive Board and, upon approval, that body to place the proposition before the membership for acceptance or rejection.

In compliance with the above outlined instructions (see official proceedings Toronto Convention p. 407-8 October, 1921, Journal), we, your Insurance Committee, beg to submit the following as our report and recommendations:

A plan containing a tentative draft of by-laws was submitted to the General Executive Board during the month of February, 1922. The General Executive Board approved of and placed the plan before the membership through the medium of the April, 1922, Journal (p. 98-99-100-101-102).

The plan which is now in effect was adopted by a referendum vote of the membership, only five negative votes being cast. (August, 1922, Journal, p. 245-46).

The residue of the abolished Mutual Benefit Department amounting to $2,160.03, was used as the foundation for the Funeral Benefit Department. Beginning June 30th, 1923, and continuing thereafter the sum of twenty-five cents was ordered and has been deducted from the General Fund semi-annual proportion of each member's dues. This amount has been added to the residue left over from the M. B. D.

A total of 22 claims for a total of $1,600 have been paid during the first year of operation. The department has unquestionably justified itself. Distressed families and relatives of departed members have been assisted. The C. T. U. A. membership has been stabilised to a very perceptible extent.

The financial statement on Sept. 1, 1923, is as follows:

RECEIPTS

Furniture from M. B. D.  Cash balance residue from M. B. D.  Receipts, C. T. U. A. per capita.  Interest, Liberty Bonds.  Accrued Interest, Liberty Bonds.  Liberty Bonds Sold.	2,160. 651. 42. 7. 989.	03 50 45 08 42
	$8, 931.	48
DISBURSEMENTS
Claims Paid	73. 1,003.	55 20
BALANCE	$2,697. $1,233.	66 82
NET WORTH
Cash in Bank. Checks Undeposited Liberty Bonds on Hand. Accrued Interest, Liberty Bonds. Furniture	282. 501.	75 60 08

In analyzing the above figures, it must be borne in mind that the department was operated from August, 1922, until July, 1923, without any income, all death claims having been paid out of the residue from the Mutual Benefit Department.

NET WORTH, Sept. 1, 1923......$1,233.82

The C. T. U. A. per capita represents income for July and August, 1923, only. Under these circumstances we believe it is too early to accurately determine if the present revenue is adequate.

Therefore your committee recommends that this convention authorize the incoming international officers, with the approval of the General Executive Board, to increase the per capita to be applied from the C. T. U. A. General Fund to the Funeral Benefit Department, said per capita not to exceed seventy-five cents per annum.

Two more years of operation of the Funeral Benefit Department will no doubt develop sufficient data in connection with its financing. Then a fixed per capita can more readily be determined.

By ROSCOE H. JOHNSON

Whether one agrees with all the pronouncements of the recent American Federation of Labor Convention, the resolution condemning the Ku Klux Klan cannot KICK OUT THE help but meet with general approval.

KLUXERS!

The Ku Klux Klan is the antithesis of Americanism as exemplified by labor movement of this country.

One of the cardinal principles of the American Federation of Labor-"that the working people must UNITE and organize, IRRESPECTIVE OF CREED, SEX, NATION-ALITY OR POLITICS"-was laid down in 1893.

Since that time Conventions of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America and the A. F. of L. have ratified the principle.

No member of the C. T. U of A. can consistently participate in the activities of the Ku Klux Klan or any similar body of unprincipled hooded hoodlums and retain the respect of the manhood and womanhood of our organization, composed of workers "irrespective of creed, sex, nationality or politics."

The Klan is a menace to decency and law. Its professions sound noble, but mean nothing in view of what the Klan has done and is doing.

The Ku Klux is vicious and unprincipled. The worker has his choice between the visible government of the United States, the American Federation of Labor and the invisible empire of the Klan.

It is high time that a movement be set on foot to eliminate from our ranks by expulsion those who subscribe to Klan principles.

Kick out the Kluxers!

Two million Yanks fought and many of them died in France that democracy of the SAFE FOR world might live. What has happened to democracy since the World War DEMOCRACY is told in the news of the day.

Bulgaria is governed by a self-appointed dictatorship which killed the peasant dictator Stambulisky.

Greece is governed by a military dictatorship which came into power by shooting the cabinet.

Hungary is ruled by Admiral Hortz who derives his just powers from machine guns. Russia is ruled by a dictatorship backed up with bayonets.

Italy is ramrodded by Mussolini and his black shirt black handers.

Germany is talking of sending for the Kaiser.

Oklahoma is governed by martial law and the United States is governed by Brother Cal who rose into pre-eminence by breaking the Boston policemen's strike.

American labor is governed by injunctions.

Judiciary in some parts of the country is governed by hooded hoodlums of the K. K. And just think, it only cost two hundred and eighty-seven thousand million dollars and thirty million lives to make this old planet of ours "safe for democracy."

Prohibition nuts and paid reformers who sought to improve on God's decalogue by "THOU SHALT NOT DRINK" have an answer from real he-men of Alberta.

After seven years of alleged prohibition, finding it a travesty and a failure, Albertains vote to return to the wet column by 40,000 majority.

From now on a sensible Canadian people will buy good wine, beers and other liquors, at fair prices from the government. The profits will go into roads, schools and the like, instead of lining the pockets of bootleggers with gold.

Prohibition hysteria in Canada is on its last legs.

Alberta has lined up with Quebec, British Columbia and Manitoba. Ontario will follow shortly.

Canadians are too honest with themselves to continue a criminal farce in the name of temperance.

Prohibition in the United States was slipped over while our boys were in the trenches. They are out, temporarily at least.

It isn't hard to conceive what will bappen the first time an enlightened population gets a crack at the question in this country.

Pussyfooters will be drowned in a flood of beer-and-wine ballots.

Foolish laws tend to destroy respect for all laws.

Every unorganized telegraph worker has one or more excuses for not belonging to the ACHIEVEMENTS
OF THE kept busy knocking down the straw dummies set up by non-union UNORGANIZED telegraphers who always offer feeble excuses or unfair criticism as reasons for remaining in a disorganized state.

Given the opportunity to join, the non-union telegraph worker finds fault with the Union.

"Unions have never done anything; they are the cause of strikes and are always stirring up trouble; Union officers are crooks and grafters; telegraph workers never stick together anyway; the Unions are too radical and are not run right"—and so on and so on from Alpha to Omega.

Unorganized telegraph workers have never done anything but stand at the side lines looking on while organized craftsmen make this a better world to live in.

They take advantage of the toil and sacrifices of the organized without even giving credit to those who are directly responsible for the creation of better conditions.

What have the unorganized telegraph workers ever done to shorten the hours of labor? Nothing!

What have the unorganized telegraph workers ever done to increase the size of pay envelopes? Nothing!

What have the unorganized telegraph workers ever done to curb the power of unjust and unfair officials? Nothing!

What have the unorganized telegraph workers done to educate the workers and to elevate them mentally? Nothing!

Is there any advance that has ever been made in the telegraph field that the unorganized have been responsible for? No!

The unorganized are the millstones around the neck of progress; they are the dead weight, the inert, sodden, inarticulate mass that must be dragged up whenever an advance is made. They are the blind that lead the blind; they stand in their own light and bite the hand that feeds them.

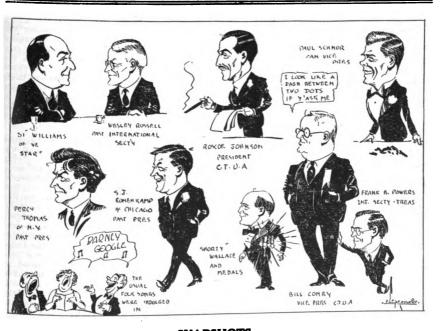

They are the bulwark of such corporations as the Western Union, Postal and the Associated Press.

The C. T. U. A. may have many faults and short comings. We may sometimes fail to accomplish as much as we should. Strikes may be lost and the advance of telegraph workers may be slow, but if these things are true it is because the patient and faithful Union workers have many obstacles to overcome; a hard road to travel, a heavy pack to carry. All of which is due to the fact that the unorganized are not organized.

So after all, what have the unorganized telegraph workers accomplished? The sum total of their achievements is nothing!

Why talk so much about nothing?

Doing for people what they can and ought to do for themselves is a dangerous experiment. In the last analysis the welfare of the workers depends upon their own initiative. Whatever is done under the guise of philanthropy or social morality which in any way lessens initiative is the greatest crime that can be committed against the toilers.—Samuel Gompers.

WHAT A. F. OF L. DID AT PORTLAND

Here are the important decisions and actions of the American Federation of Labor convention, held in Portland, Ore.:

Declaration for determined. conscious crusade for industrial democracy.

Opposition to the Soviet tyranny and to communist propaganda in the United States.

Opposition to the Ku Klux Klan and the Fascisti.

Unseated William F. Dunne as a communist and representative of Moscow.

Directed intensification of national campaign to organize steel workers.

Directed national conference to inaugurate sweeping campaign to organize women wage

Directed that assistance be given in organizing textile workers.

Demanded amendment to Constitution to prohibit child labor.

Demanded amendment to Constitution giving Congress power to re-enact laws declared unconstitutional by supreme court.

Directed greater effort than ever in coming national non-partisan political campaign and asked national and international unions to furnish generous financial support.

Denounced so-called amalgamation scheme and overwhelmingly defeated resolution introduced in its behalf.

Defeated resolutions calling for independent labor political party.

Reaffirmed demand for modification of Volstead Act .

Voted support to rehabilitation work of Veterans' Bureau.

Ordered investigation of I. W. W. and its relation to hostile employers and private detective agencies.

Directed that efforts be made to secure prohibition of use of injunction in industrial disputes in cases where no injunction would lie if no industrial dispute were in evidence.

Regarded labor banks as "helpful" and "much nearer the people" than Wall Street, but not as a cure for industrial evils.

Pronounced in favor of continuing "friendly and co-operative" relations with American Legion.

Instructed Executive Council to present labor's demands to national political party convention for incorporation in party platforms. State Federations are asked to take similar action in State political party conventions.

Called upon Federal Trades Commission to investigate practices of American Bell Telephone Company and its "monopolistic control of the communicating industry."

Endorsed nation-wide campaign to organize office or "white collar" workers.

Directed Executive Council to call upon federal government to take steps to stop profiteering and reduce cost of living.

Instructed Executive Council to petition Congress for a constitutional amendment for the election of federal judges.

Selected El Paso, Texas, as the next convention city.

C. P. McCUTCHEON, M. S. O.

Brother Chas. P. McCutcheon (Little Mac. of Local 6) was Night Chief Operator of the Western Union at Pittsburgh, Pa., in 1902. He was discharged in that year for the last time for "agitating" and has lived happily ever since, as an open, active and continuous member of the C. T. U. A. "since organized."

Brother McCutcheon was born in Allegheny, Pa., now a part of Pittsburgh. Like many other old timers, he entered the industrial field at an early age and had his first strike at the age of 12 while working in the Rochester, Pa., Tumbler Works as a "carrying-in" boy. He became a messenger for the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago R. R. at Rochester, Pa., in 1877; became a telegrapher in 1879 and remained there until 1883. He entered the service of the W. U. in time to get in the trike of '83. He struck and stuck to the end. In 1885 Brother Mc-Cutcheon went to Chicago. For a number of years he held many positions in the rail-road, commercial and cable service of the country, including the cable offices of Vera Cruz, Galveston and New York, the old U. P., A. P., P. P. A. and pool rooms in many states and more cities all the way from Boston to San Francisco, and south into Mexico. For the last 20 years "Mac." has been anchored in the Pittsburgh Brokerage district.

Brother McCutcheon's union record dates from 1881, when Tom Egan, Master Workman of Lodge 1664, Brotherhood of Telegraphers, initiated him and he held his membership until 1885. When the Commercial Telegraphers joined the A. R. U. in 1895 Brother McCutcheon was among the number who joined in Pittsburgh and was fired for it. When former President Konenkamp organized Pittsburgh Local No. 6, he was fired again for unionism. Undaunted, Brother McCutcheon took an active part in the Union and for more than 15 years has been a tried and true officer. He has always stood up under any kind of a test and the proud record of Local No. 6 as one of the few local unions that has functioned, met regularly. and with its full quota of officers during the last 20 years, is due to him and his coworkers of that district.

Brother McCutcheon has also been secretary-treasurer of the Pittsburgh district of the E. B. D. since its inception, and is now secretary-treasurer of the Middle Western Atlantic Broker Division.

THE 1924 CARDS will be ready for distribution when this issue of the Journal reaches you. Make yourself a Christmas present. Get an Annual.

BROTHERS AND SISTERS in Milwaukee are the first to open the winter social season. They are putting on a ball on the evening of November 21st. A goodly number from Chicago will transport their dancing pumps northward, knowing they are always sure of a good time.

THE STORY of how the A. P. aided the coal trust to "educate" the people of the United States into paying $000,000,000 excess coal profits in 1920 is told in the October issue of LaFollette's Magazine. Extracts from reports of secret meetings of the National Coal Association have the methods used to put over the fake coal shortage propaganda through the press.

Read this and weep, as ex-Congressman Baer would say:

"The Associated Press carried a news report of over 1,000 words to its 3,500 or more newspaper plants written by its Cleveland manager after consultation with the publicity director," said Vice-President Jenkins of the Hutchinson Coal Co., to directors of the Coal Trust in October, 1920.

"It is not straining the fact—and this is imparted in the utmost confidence—to say that the Associated Press story was, to a very large extent, the word-to-word product of the publicity department.

"The great advantage of this report from the operators' viewpoint lay in the fact that the National Coal Association nowhere was quoted as authority for the A. P. statements, the A. P. making them on its own responsibility. In this way they were of more convincing effect than had they been qualified with the inference of partisanship.

THE $100,000 SINKING FUND for the organization of commercial telegraphers, provided for by the Montreal Convention, has been opened in the Telegraphers National Bank of St. Louis. A number of members have already pledged to give a certain sum weekly. The various units of the C. T.

U. A. are laying plans for the raising of their quota of the initial $5,000. The raising of this huge sum is a task worthy of an organization that has kept its colors flying for 21 years despite obstacles that have foundered stronger unions than the C. T. U. A. We will succeed because we are right.

ATTENTION 18 CALLED to news of the National Auction Co. leased wire system under the W. M. A. B. D. Notes. Every man on the system is a first class operator with an up-to-date card. Another firm, the F. O. B. Auction Co., has opened up with union men at eight cities. The scale is $60 per week, overtime $1.50 per hour, and every man is getting the scale.

FIFTY THOUSAND DOLLARS in brand new, clean and crisp $5, $10 and $20 bills are now in circulation with the signatures of E. J. Manion, and L. J. Ross, president and treasurer respectively of the Telegraphers National Bank of St. Louis. The O. R. T. bank deposits on September 14, 1923, were $2,650,861.14. Gives you a feeling of pride in our sister organization, eh?

THE PUBLICATIONS of the Crowell Co., the American Magazine, Woman's Home Companion, Farm and Fireside, and the Mentor are printed in an unfair plant. Collier's Weekly is also owned by the Crowell Co. Good union men can struggle along without buying publications printed by rats in rat shops.

MAN BY THE NAME of Brayton, formerly with the Racing Form in Chicago, who has been making strenuous efforts to join the C. T. U. A., has been rejected by the General Assembly and the I. N. S. division. As has been stated many times, the C. T. U. A. has passed the stage in its progress when it offers shelter to men who only want cards for job-seeking purposes. One or two manage to slip in now and then, but not many.

ANOTHER MEMBER has been brought up short for throwing down a fair employer, Universal Service, being placed on probation for one year. Numerous members in the past year have quit fair firms on short notice, or otherwise conducted themselves unworthily. Every one of them have been disciplined and made to understand that they are not only putting themselves in wrong, but are directing a back-handed slap at their brother and sister members who believe in "Distinguishing the work performed by members of the Union and making it preferred."

THE EDITORIAL, "Sincere," under the W. B. D. Notes, is worthy of our perusal and digestion. The broker divisions have built up a reputation for supplying competent telegraphers "sina cera—without defect." Dealing with humanity and not sculpture, they occasionally find an imperfection, but the motto is a worthy one for all of us to shoot at.

It may not be generally known, but the famous A. P. $5 bonus "with a string" is not paid to men on vacations. The bonus was granted in 1920 "apc h. c. l."—in reality because the C. T. U. A. raised the minimum press scale to $40. Apparently the h. c. l. goes down while a man is on vacation.

The latest A. W. E. imposition was a banquet to an official in San Antonio, paid for by the "check-off" system. Fifty cents was deducted from the pay envelopes of each employe, whether they were invited or not. A few tricks like that and the employes will be assessing themselves to buy a few neckties—hemp.

Robert L. Beal, who is believed to be the first telegraph operator in Texas to use a mill, died in Galveston last month, aged 55. He was a well known commercial and press operator.

Why not union labels for union telegraphers? Casey Bell, I. N. S. man at Chattanooga, suggests a card "Manned by C. T. U. A. Telegraphers" in large letters, to be hung over the desk of press operators. He calls attention to a certain class of nons who "used to belong" or who tell typo members that they do belong and get away with it.

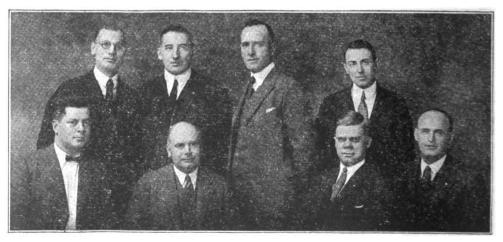

Present address of C. B. Arrington wanted. Formerly of Baltimore and San Francisco. Advise Frank B. Powers, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago.

Don't delay remitting for your 1924 dues.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON STARTS BALL ROLLING

The first contributor to the $100,000 Sinking Fund of the C. T. U. A. was Roscoe H. Johnson, who pledged $5.77 weekly for one year shortly after the resolution was passed at Montreal.

MONTREAL NOTES

Witness Eastern District, Division No. 43, crawling back into the limelight!

Someone at the last meeting proposed that a scribe be appointed to send in Journal notes and for his pains the job was wished on himself. Well, I'll do my best, so here goes.

Everybody is still talking about the wonderful dance and banquet put on by the Entertainment Committee during the convention. Sorry we couldn't offer better weather to the delegates for the drive. Grievance Committee has taken the matter up with the weather man. Think he will be suspended or put on probation.

Old Dan Cupid with his deadly bow and arrow has been playing havoc in this office.

General Chairman Young grabbed one of our prettiest little girls, Sister Guerin.

Bros. Robertson, Sallaway, Lyster, Lavallee, Banville, Bouilaine and Maille also have fallen, pierced with one of the well-known arrows that Dan always has handy. Hear Bro. Trudea, manager at RS, will be the next victim. Sisters Saxe and Mc-Collough have gone the same route. Best wishes from the force go with the happy couples.

Bro. Wood believes in getting everyone into the Union that draws a salary. No less than 24 new applications were accepted for membership at the last two local meetings. Congratulations, Bro. Wood. If you were in the army, they would give you a medal for that kind of work.

We are giad to have Bro. Barclay with us again after a few weeks illness. Hope you fool the doctor in the future, Walter.

Nomination ballots are out for the 1924 slate. There is not much room for improvement over the 1923 officers. This district sure knows how to select worthy brothers to carry on the good work.

Our last meeting was one of the best held for many a day. Brother Major, in the chair, was highly pleased with the interest and pep shown.

The "no card, no favor" slogan is gaining ground. For the benefit of those who habitually bold out with their dues, I would remind them that in the future those who are sixty days behind will find their names published in the Journal in the stragglers' list.

Don't be a straggler. Keep up to date. The 1924 cards are now ready.

Make yourself a Christmas present of a 1924 card.

IMBALDIE.

TORONTO NOTES

Did someone say Toronto C. N. T. local was dead?

You won't think so after watching this column the next few months. Bowling seems to have taken a strong hold on everybody in this locality. We have six teams going full blast every Friday night. Printers "A" hold top position in the league so far with 16 wins and only 2 defeats. The best bowler of the league is Bert Daniels, who made a score of 600 recently. Printers "B" can also knock 'em dead judging by their last game on Friday when they ran up a score of 1061. The following stand out on top for their respective teams: Daniels, Printers "A:" Jackson, Printers "B:" Lawrason, Clerks "B;" Mathews, Clerks "A:" Magarry, Morse "A," and Stein, Morse "B."

Oh boy, you should see our flock of messengers attired in their new uniforms. Who wouldn't be a messenger now? Even Daisy, Myrtle and a few others feel very envious towards them.

Among those who took the path of the benedicts are two from the Morse department namely Frank Smith, who went afar, aye, Halifax, it is said, to take the fatal step. Another is Tracey Kew, who was "vamped" by a local maiden. Well boys, here's to the health and prosperity of you both from the gang.

The staff received their back increases dating May 1st. Every one who enjoyed the privilege of signing their check are wearing a broad smile.

The telephone operators don't seem to realize that the Union has done anything for them, and refuse to come across with their first month's increase to help carry on. Perhaps the day supervisor has something to do with this.

Our local secretary is strictly forbidden to enter the Telephone room, claiming it interferes with the work of the telephone operators. A little bit of narrow mindedness on the part of some one, eh? Not so long since Fone Operators were threatened if they joined up.

Those who haven't sent in their first month's increase will do the secretary a great favor by doing so soon as possible.

Bros. Max Stein, Leonard Stein and Max Fox returned last Monday after spending two weeks in New York. They brought back Broadway's latest styles from "Chatham Square."

Sister Lena Merker also spent her holidays in New York around 42nd St. and Broadway.

The same old stuff is being pulled off at World building. If there is nothing for those "listeners-in" at World building to do, we can find work for them at the main office.

Business is much better than in previous years.

_____

Jack Anderson spent his two weeks holiday up north deer hunting with good results. Jack brought back all the law allows (one He contemplated having the head mounted and presented to the champion bowling team at end of season.

Bro. Tom Taylor, our popular local chairman, has been promoted to night supervisor. Bro. A. E. "Lary" Burns goes on days and Bro. Sol Havelock was promoted to all night assistant traffic manager. Bro. R. C. Barker was promoted to superintendent of Mornrums.

A new switchboard is being installed in the operating room. Looks as if we were going to stick in the old Noah's Ark for some time to come. We don't mind white-washed walls and ceilings. We are quite used to it.

CERT. 1467.

LONDON NOTES

Well the new sked came through at last and while we can't all be millionaires in a day, a bunch of the gang sure did swell their chests, and almost fill their pockets when those back time checks came through. The improvements in working conditions, too, improvements in working conditions, show great progress. If this were 1915, instead of O. T. A. times, we might be tempted to buy some of the chairmen a highball.

Wasn't that some smile that Bro. Westlake cracked when he saw visions of twentyfive more berries on his check every month?

Bro. Arch. McTaggart, hasn't been the "Spot" reports some same since either. real sport at the fishing and hunting grounds, up the "Kapuskinski" river. There must be a real attraction up there, Mac.

A recent arrival is Bro. Lorne C. Sampson, formerly of Port Stanley, and once in a while Greetings, little fellow, from Ridgetown. here's hoping your shadow never grows less.

The good wishes of all are extended to General Chairman Young, who recently took the step into the sea of matrimony. May your new venture be as great a success as your official duties as leader of Division No. 43.

Sister Jean Beatties took a trip to Regina on her vacation. Reports a splendid trip. The "Elder" Sampson is sure burning up the 29 cent gas on the big Studebaker. Go easy on that provincial highway tho, Sam, some of General Williams' apostles will catch you.

Bro. Raine is holding down the Toronto buzz wire for further orders. Claims some of these days he is going to hit a home run on the bird that sent him "Kris" for "Keys" without even winking an eyelid.

Brother Jack Wilson's days as a baseball fan are about ended for the season. Never mind, John, the football season has greater charms for a "box relay" artist than ever did the "play ball" game.

Let's put the "N. C. N. F." bee in the ear of the few holders-out left. We all know who they are and why they exist, etc.

By the way what has become of the little booklet from the West that used to say such nice things about the C. T. U. of A.? Some one please inform us.

CERT. 352.

HAMILTON NOTES

A special meeting was held on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4th, presided over by Chairman Taylor and Secretary C. A. Godwin, both coming up from Toronto. A full turn out of members was present, also a few nons, who have their applications already made out.

A number of local grievances were gone into, which will be laid before the General Manager for adjustment within a short time.

Bro. Newsom came along with his Flivver from Freeman, picking up Tommy Richardson.

Tom had a few words to get off his chest, and he has some chest at that.

Johnny Letts, automatic mechanic, fared well with the last increase. Don't forget, John, we have a secretary that's waiting for thee.

The secretary has a special invitation to visit Hamilton to make the acquaintance of a few nons.

The announcement that annual trip passes will be coming along very shortly, and also foreign transportation to those wishing to take a trip to the U. S. was received with much appreciation. We congratulate the general committee upon their untiring work in securing same.

CLIQUE.

What is a clique? Time body of men If he attend every meeting, not just now and

If he don't miss a meeting unless they are sick, These are the men that the grouch calls the clique.

Who don't make a farce of the sacred word Brother,

Who believe in the motto: "Help one another," Who never resort to a dishonest trick.

These are the men whom some call the clique.

The men who are seldom behind in their dues. And who, from the meeting do not carry news; II he attend to their duties and visit the sick, These are the men that the cranks call the clique.

We should all be proud of members like these, They call them the clique, or whatever they please ;

They never attempt any duties to dodge, They are the clique that run most every lodge.

But there are some people that always find fault, And most of this kind are not worth their salt; They like to start trouble, but seldom will stick, They put all the work on the so-called clique.

MONTREAL DISTRICT

Well, Brothers, things are pretty good around the Street, two Brothers subbing, one getting half a day, other subbing where he CRD.

If members would only attend the meetings, they would find out that affairs are going very well. If they have any suggestions, why not come to the meeting and give them on the floor, where they can be talked over and discussed. Perhaps in this way, some of the difficulties and stone walls we run against would be overcome.

Some sign an application form, and never attend a meeting perhaps for three years. That obligation binds you to do all possible to aid the organization. Don't be ashamed of it. It's only as good as you help make it. Things only fall through when there is lack of interest, or small bickerings, which might better be brought out into broad daylight.

Co-operation and Protection

You now have added protection under the signed agreement, made April 4th, 1923, that any member of the C. N. T. or C. P. R. divisions will not make a relief on a leased wire for less than $45.00 per week, or $8.00 a day, Saturday to be counted a full day.

Also, and bear this in mind, no member of the C. P. R. or C. N. T. will relieve a nonmember on a leased wire under any circumstances.

Neither will members of the C. P. R. or C. N. T. work on a position where a leased wire operator is asking for an increase in WASES.

Are these not important? Do they not show the willingness of commercial operators to co-operate with broker men?

Now what is required of us? Nothing except that we will not work in a commercial office for the COMPANY, under any circumstances, but we may sub for a commercial member in case of emergency, and then only if paid by the commercial member. This EMERGENCY will arise only when a com-mercial man wishing to get off, must supply a sub. A leased wire man being available, the chairman of the C. T. U. of A., in the commercial office will notify the leased wire sub, that he is to work for this man, and be paid by him. Then there will be no doubt as to whether the leased wire man is working for a member, and paid by him, or working for the COMPANY.

And Brothers, when you hear of a prospective opening, tell the General Chairman. An eligible card man will get the position. doing this you will keep the news of the job from some undesirable. This organization has been supplying men to leased wire houses, securing the confidence of the broker houses, banks and others that they will get good reliable men, who will stick and do the work. We have convinced them that it pays to pay a living wage to a man who belongs to an organization that he takes pride in.

This organization is not antagonizing any person, or firm. We are striving to get a living wage, and show that we can come clean at all times. If some of the members had only attended some of the sessions at the recent Convention held here (and it is to be regretted that all were not aware until the last day or so that they were open to all members), they would have found that some of the remarks passed about the C. T. U. of A. were unfounded.

95 Per Cent Solid

The Street is now 95 per cent Paid UP. Toronto is nearer 100 per cent, and the west coming strong. You members know the nons around town. Why not talk to them of the benefits that could be derived by becoming members? Don't browbeat any one, but at the same time don't forget NO card, NO favors, and once in they are as good as the ones in for ten years, and deserve all respect.

Bro. Joe. McKenna is relieving Bro. Julius Scriver at Laidlaw & Co., who is away on a duck hunting expedition.

The initiation is now $10.00 and members from other divisions transferring must pay the difference.

We were all glad to see Tom Clark (Tom says there is no E to his name). Tom is a great delegate and full of good ideas and a hard worker. He and his able secretary, Jim Culkin, have Toronto District in great shape. Jim has had conferences with employers and finds they think a great deal of us. Mrs. Clark enjoyed her stay in Montreal, we are sure, though Tom was so busy that all he saw was St. Catherine Street around the hotel, went on the drive, and attended the dance and banquet. If any one tells you a delegate's work is a cinch, and he gets soft money for it, let 'em try it once, or tell Tom that.

Jim Ross is doing the lunch reliefs at McD. and C. Jim is a great fellow, going to join the N. A. A. A. and show Cherrier Street some athletic work.

Bro. Keith Jack, Chairman of Winnipeg District, sends his 73's and says we will hear more of his district. Bro. Mayfield is also optimistic. "Dip" has been a sick man for some time, but we trust he is fully recovered.

How about Hub Purcell. The only time we hear from Hub is when he sends along his dues, and that's mighty prompt. Wishing you the best of everything from the west, Hub.

Bro. Andrews also wishes to be remembered. J. G. is in Quebec working hard all the time.

Buck Auger still in Ottawa.

Bro. Frechette, of Sherbrooke, is another out of town member we don't hear much of. Sister Vibert is still in Quebec.

Jawn Gayley is bowling somewhere along Main St., Richmond, Va.

Bro. Lussey relieved Bro. Heroux at Beaubien & Cie, Three Rivers, Que., and returned safely. How did you find the cat on your return, Bob?

The Banquet

The Banquet, which was held in the "Salle Doree," of the Mount Royal Hotel, was an immense success in every way, extra covers being necessary at the last moment to accommodate the large number who attended.

The singing, under the leadership of Jimmie Rice, Montreal's famous entertainer, was enjoyed by all, everybody joining in the choruses.

The speeches were varied and interesting, those of International President Johnson, Senator Robertson, Past Presidents Percy Thomas and Konenkamp and Bro. McMahon being of serious nature, dealing with matters pertaining to the organization, while Bro. Conry of Boston made a humorous speech, which was enthusiastically received.

Upon conclusion of the speeches, the Banquet Hall was cleared and dancing indulged in until the wee sma' hours.

Nothing but praise was heard from all delegates, members and friends upon the excellent menu and entertainment furnished by the Convention Committee. The sincere thanks of everyone is extended to this highly efficient committee, every member of which worked unceasingly to make the stay of the delegates, their wives and friends a pleasant one, which they succeeded in doing.

The local members, who attended the Banquet, were so much impressed with the success of the Committee's efforts that they are enthusiastically in favor of holding an annual banquet under the joint auspices of the various Montreal Locals. We think this would be one of the best forms of advertising our organization could have as it shows to each and every telegraph operator that his fellow worker is a self-respecting citizen and that he or she can participate in other than the serious side of life in a dignified and yet pleasant manner, which not only reflects great credit upon themselves but also their employers, many of the latter having had the opportunity, during Convention Week, of observing in what manner their employees conduct themselves outside of business hours.

TORONTO DISTRICT

In view of the unemployment condition in our district, members are urged to remember their duty to the organization and notify the Secretary of any chance you hear of to place a man, whether permanently or for one day only.

Now that the shorts in VCS have covered, the market is improving. Bill says he is glad it wasn't BHT he was short of.

President Watts and Manager Carlton are calling a meeting of the Bulls and Bears Hockey section. Let's all work hard for a big winter's sport. How would the City Championship do?

It looks as though Toronto would have the worst unemployment situation for several years. Our advice to operators is to keep away from Toronto.

Our last meeting was well attended and the gang showed signs of great interest in the organization. Keep up the good work, fellows.

Our late member, Les Carrie, who recently resigned from J. Richardson and Co. has arrived safely in Los Angeles and expects to start working there abortly. Best of luck to you, Les, and 78's from this district to yourself and Mrs.

Bro. T. J. Clark reported a very successful trip to Montreal Convention but Tom says he was sober. We will believe him,

Our bowling league is traveling at a fast clip these days and our trouble nowadays is to place everybody who wants to roll.

Our last meeting of Friday night when Harry Sylvas' Bulls stepped on the tails of Eddies Hartford's Bullpups for two games out of three. Mickey Mara's Bulls tackled George Flannery's Bearskness around the ankles and planted them for two out of the three games. Bill Watt's Bearcam poked a couple of wins into Krug Cantwell's Bullseyes.

The league standing to date— W I,
Bullpupa (Capt. Eddle Hartford)...16 8
Bulls (Capt. Mickey Mara)......12 12
Bearcats (Capt. Bill Watts).....12 12
Bearsknees (Capt. George Flannery)12 12
Bullseyes (Capt. Krug Cantwell)...10 14
Bears (Capt. Harry Sylvas).....10 14
The slogan now is to get Eddle Hartford's Bullpups out of first place.

Well, gang, we have only one delink in town and he will be in and up to date shortly. We also have six nons on the Street who are not of much use to us, even if we did have them in. But we will get them yet.

Bro. Bill Strong is now with Jas. Richardson and Sons. Working hard, Bill?

We wonder how it feels to be sober, yet not know it has been raining for three days. Personally, I don't believe it can be done.

EASY.

OHIO BROKER DIVISION

The reason you don't see more news from Ohio is because you Ohio boys don't send the notes to the Secretary. Send in a few and see if there isn't "something in about the O. B. D." Just because we had a cartoon of a "nut" always saying "I'm going to quit this game soon" doesn't mean we have done so.

Bert Willisms of Cleveland is with Ungerleider & Co., at Wheeling. Therefore he transferred to the M. W. A. B. D. We were sorry he received such a rotten send-off. Shortly before leaving a stick-up man took Bert's roll, watch and shiner Bert's roll, watch and shiner.

George T. Hattle, our genial vice-president, has located at Canton (Ohio) Daily News, on the Consolidated Press circuit. George is right at home there as the United Press was honored with eight years of George's steel cut copy there previously.

"Johnny" Walker, formerly with "Winks" at Marietta, sent up a "flare" from "Way Down in West Virginia." We hope he don't get so far that he can't find the way back.

Paul Martin, formerly of "Winks" at Findlay, is located with the A. P. at Columbus. Charles B. Carnall, who recently came through and attack of pneumonia, is on the job again, strong as ever.

Claude Hawkins, who claims Newark, O., as his home, was in town, stopping at the I. N. S., while Ed Campbell conventioned at Montreal.

Esther Berkowitz, who has gained considerable attention as an expert printer transmitter, relieved Lew Wexler at the U. P. for his much heraided "swing around the circuit," and also while Lew went to Columbus to vacation Joe O'Brien. Esther is awfully handy to have around, for she's so expert in washing the lunch dishes, coffee buckets, etc.

W. M. A. B. D. NOTES

The Street is passing through a very quiet period. Taubman and Co. retired from business thus releasing Chairman Laitta who is filling in at the A. P.. Bro. Charley Hagan is with the Ny. News Bureau. Charley Miller has left for Huntington, W. Va., having secured a position with Hardy Dana & Co.

The National Auction Co, started their transcontinental leased wire the fore part of October. Their wire includes Boston, New York, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Los Angeles, with Pittsburgh and Los Angeles as their headquarters. Bro, "Boh" Patterson was assigned Chief Operator for the East with Bro. "Bob" Allison in charge of the Pacific coast. With these two "Bobs" we know the wire will be a great success. We already hear rumors that other cities will be included on their wire and also direct Pacific Coast wires from Los Angeles and also other East Coast wires direct from Pittsburgh. At Chicago Bro. Alexander is first man with Bro. Goodale doing the extra; New York, Bros. Stevenson and "Jim" Campbell; Boston, Mr. Carr and Brother Kelley, while at Pittsburgh we have Brother Willson assisting Brother Patterson. Brother Allison has had several of the Pacific Division boys doing the "extra" with him and he will appoint a regular assistant before long.

Charley McCabe is filling in at Morris & Brown due to the illness of Charley Fieck. Bro. H. W. Reitz is still chalking 'em up at Frank McNultys.

There have been no changes at Mastens, E. W. Smith, the Chief Operator, holding down the Wheeling branch, Tommy Haw quoting to Bill McDonnell, Parkersburg, W. Va., and Fred Seelley at Marietta. Messrs. McGann, Weaver and Patterson alternating the Bache, Wollman & Logan wires and McCutcheon on the Chicago Grain wire and the Oil City wires, respectively. Charlie Rampanelli, formerly of Pittsburgh but lately in the auto business in Cleveland having made a wad, is spending it in an auto trip to the Pacific Coast.

The firm of Obey Nuttall was dissolved and reorganized but this made no difference with our old friend, Pete Weilbert, and his aid, Charley Faulkner.

Bro. W. H. Robertson, formerly with Winkleman & Co., left for Los Angeles on the 29th.

Bro. Brockschmidt ("Brock") was electioneering for Davy Johns and looking fine.

Bros. Cloebrook and Sam Ink are looking fine after their vacations.

Granvilla Labangh tha

Granville Lobaugh, the former chief of Moore, Leonard & Lynch, has been on the sick list; Fred Moore is just out of the hospital and Eddie Sullivan of Harriman & Co., is feeling much better after a short stay in the hospital.

Messrs. Patterson and McCutcheon represented the Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division at the Biennial Convention at Montreal. They report the Convention the largest and most important gathering of its kind ever held.

Hank Burrill, whom everybody who has worked for the WU in the past 40 years knew, died September 25th.

Chairman Laitta is now with Raymond Clark in the old offices of Taubman & Co.

Bro. Geo. "Red" Shade, who was covering the Grain for Kay Richards & Co., owing to a reduction of force was unfortunate in losing out.

IN MEMORY OF

Bro. Michael J. Madden who died at his home in Dormont, Pa., on the evening of Sont 26, 1922, after an illness of five days

Sept. 26, 1923, after an illness of five days. "Mike" was born in Germantown, Pa., on Jan. 29, 1872, and worked his first wire on the Philadelphia & Reading R. R. when he was sixteen.

For the six years prior to his death he worked the New York News Bureau's New York wire out of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Madden and her two children have the heartfelt sympathy of his associates.

SOUTHWEST BROKER DIVISION

It has been so long since we have seen any news from this bunch that I'll try and put in a few lines,

We held the dance in good order. The orchestra started off with a JAZZY rag. The old heads were all there. President

Floyd Smith, the hardest worker I know of for the cause outside of our secretary, Bert Hall, who was also there, opened the dance with an announcement that the car would be raffled off at 11:30 p. m. sharply, "in the meantime make yourself merry and happy, etc."

. We sure did. Bert Hall and his wife, who by the way shows that Bert isn't as old as he looks, danced around like two youngsters. Bert is a real jazzy boy, and he had it all over Eddie Miller when it came to dancing everything.

Harry Hall, our congenial vice-president, was very much in prominence. Harry and Sam McConnell were walking around taking everything, and everybody in, as they can't trust their old props to do any more dancing.

The two fat boys, Duncan Woodall and Grover Lee, waddled around looking wise, smoking their big black cigars. One woman asked Eddie Miller who that little fat boy was (meaning Woody).

We had quite a nice crowd, and a dandy time. Sorry the out of town boys missed out on it. However, here's hoping that the next one will find a few of them here.

.The two ticket selling hustlers were Pete Harmon and Ed Miller. The big shooters at the board call them the "Gold Dust Twins" as they call the ups and downs pretty true, and believe us, fellows, they can sell tickets. Pete sold the lucky number to a Mr. Paul Arbenz of 926 Baltimore Avenue, who is connected with H. P. Wright & Co.

THOMSON McKINNON—Benny Seigel was laid off and immediately asked for a card. He thought a few weeks ago that he had a life time job.

FARNUM WINTER—Manned by Brother Rankin, a dandy little fellow and on the job at all times. He's at every meeting, too, believe us, LOWITZ & CO.—Manned by Bros. Pete Harmon and Ed Miller, the "Gold Dust Twins," and live wire ticket sellers.

BARTLETT FRAZIER—Our hard working Secretary, Bert Hall, is back here again. He certainly is a hustler.

ARMOUR GRAIN CO.—Bros. Woodall and Pittman have a hard grind here. Two good boys for the cause, BENNETT laid off Pippit, Hooper and Johnson. They now have Fitz, Richardson, and an old standby named Evans. This fellow Evans worked through the strike.

AARON POULTRY & EGG CO.—Bro. Joe Ciro holding forth here. Joe "knows his eggs."

We are trying to get the nons in but, my gosh, it's hard work.

'Tis reported that Bro. Floyd Smith bought the door hinges for that new house he is building. Looking for a door now. Stick to it, Floyd, there is an end to everything. Not to be out-done Bro. "Babe" Smith is running Floyd a close race in erecting a new bome.

STRANDBERG, McGREEVEY & CO. -Bros. Floyd Smith and Cal Ryle on the New York Dux.

Bro. Grover Lee on Chiengo. Grover says be's going to put over a three-horse puricy if it takes him the rest of his life. Well, you can never tell.

Bros. R. R. Smith and Sam McConnell dealing to the country.

Bro. Eddie Jones holding forth at Wichita. DAVIS NOLAND MERRILL Bro. Harry Hall on Chicago, and Bro. Fred Wilkerson doing the honors on the Wichita-Hutchinson-Omaha string

HARRIMAN & CO. Bro, "Bob" O'Brien all by himself here

THE KANSAS CITY BUNCH.

MICHIGAN BROKER DIVISION

Regular monthly meeting of the Michigan Broker division, which has been held over from Cetober in order to have our delegate to the Montreal convention present to give a full and detailed report of what went on at the big affair, was held on Friday, Nov. 16.

Committees on Organization and Finance were selected to carry our programs out along the lines outlined by bills adopted by the General Assembly.

Bro. Robert Score of Saginaw is in town belping out on the relief work, his office out in the state baving been closed up in October.

Bro. Tom Baird gets around to see us occasionally, but keeps busy on some law and naturalization work for Uncle Sam.

Bro. Herman Kauhl at Moysey & Co. holds up under the strain of all the holidays we are having.

Bro. John Dugan, who has been working at the Border City Star in Windsor and at the United Press more recently, is growing a heard like Pike Merrill's.

Bros. Frankie Alband, Frank Garceau, Hy Lee and others are reported well and happy, but there are a few others we would like to hear from before the end of the world.

We have received a very kind invitation for your president and secretary-treasurer to attend the annual election of the Western Broker Division in Chicago in December and if possible one or the other or both may attend this important meeting. President Guy H. Blancley, who has been out of the broker field for some months, is back with us and marking the board at G. F. Redmond & Co. for a living. Guy made enough in the real estate business to buy him a nice Buick big six 7-passenger touring car and is planning a two weeks hunting trip in Northern Michigan as soon as the big game senson opens.

Bro. Hugo Neumann with G. F. Redmond & Co. has blossomed forth with a swell new Maxwell sedan and can show the neighbors what is new and classy in closed cars.

Bro. Arthur Ristell left our fair city last month and was last heard from in the west. Goodbye and good luck, Risty.

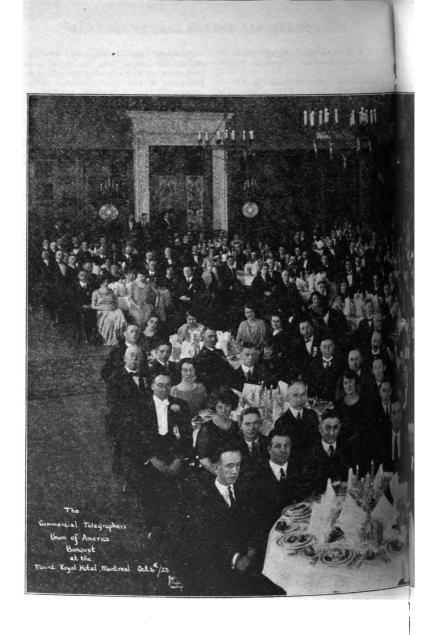

Bro. John Baker at Otis & Co. was laid up for three weeks with quite a severe attack of neuritis, but happily is recovering somewhat and back on the job.

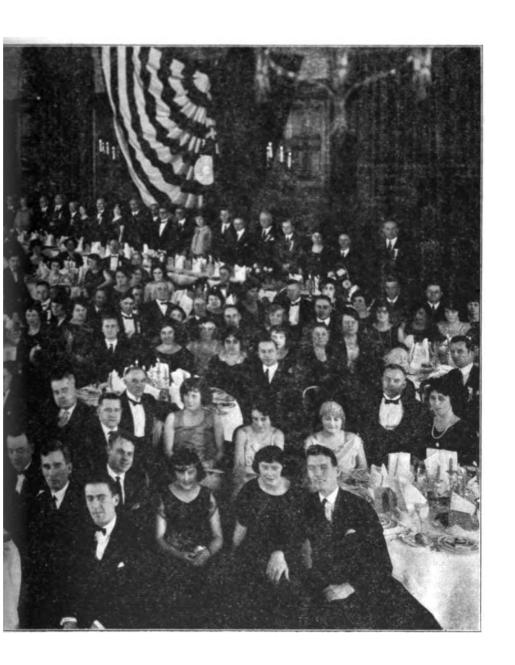

Bro. H. E. Leary, manager of the trading department at Otis & Co., keeps very busy these days, working many hours at the office and finding little spare time to work on his own and the neighbors' cars.

Bro. Joe Wick at Paine Webber & Co., when informed that the division's cash was low after sending our delegate to the Montreal convention, readily offered a donation to the treasury or to pay up his dues a few years in advance to help the cause. If there were a few more with the same spirit Joe shows, we never would need to worry about funds, but unfortunately there are other kinds and it seems that no matter how low the dues are they are always behind. If we cut the dues in two, which of course we cannot do, I dare say the same half-dozen members would be just as delinquent as we now find them. This is not going to do them or anyone else any good and I would suggest that they mail in their dues to Bro. Guy Blakeley, care G. F. Redmond & Co., Inc., 1068 Penobscot Bldg., as early as possible so we can show a clean sheet in this regard.

Take Guy Blakeley's word for it and put your money into Detroit real estate and some day you will find yourself rich. Bro. Al Day is also of the same opinion; that you can't go wrong buying good outlying property around the Fourth City of the U. S. A. But take my advice, and always remember to eat.

CUTTING WAGES NO CURE

In economics as in all fields of thought covering human existence the law of evolution holds sway, and what might have appeared to be axiomatically true at one time in later days must be cast aside as a discarded fallacy.

Until within a comparatively recent period, whenever a slackening in industrial activity became imminent, the first resort for correction has always been in the direction of wage-cutting as a means of cost reduction.

Except as a brief temporary makeshift, or as a necessary step in relative adjustment, this theory of practice has invariably been proven to contain within itself the germ of self-defeat.

Some of the latest opinions regarding the business situation emanating from banks and trust companies, in view of a conceded slowing down in production, are commencing to urge the need for wage reduction as the first measure of curative effect to be undertaken.

In bold contradiction of this declared necessity the Chicago Tribune presents its argument with the emphatic caption: "High wages are better than cheap labor," contrasting conditions of life in those countries where labor can be had for a mere nothing with those where labor has asserted its right to live—rather than to eke out a precarjous existence.

Compare conditions in the South during the last few years with those of pre-war days when cotton sold as low as six and seven cents per pound. The world today is enjoying the product of cheap labor in distant countries for which it could well afford to pay double and even treble the price, in exchange for the demand that would arise for articles of manufacture, the purchase of which would be made possible by the payment of living wages.

Some other remedy than a deflation of wages must be devised if our present prosperity is to be maintained, and as a matter of fact no better device for the purpose could be imagined than a silencing muzzle for the politician-statesman whose demagogic activities constitute the greatest bar to confident enterprise in the United States today—"Coming Events."

CO-OPERATION

Co-operation between the Western Middle Atlantic Broker Division, the Philadelphia Broker Division, the Western Broker Division, and the Eastern Broker Division, resulted in filling a new wire concern with Union men at New York, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Chicago.

Co-operation between the Ohio Broker Division and the Eastern Broker Division was the means of replacing a low salaried non at the New York end of the wire with a Union man at the Union scale. Bros. Solt and Royce, we thank you.

Co-operation between the New England Broker Division and the Eastern Broker Division bids fair to place a Union man at the New York and Boston ends of a new wire to be installed.

The attention of the members of the Eastern Broker Division is called to the above examples of what co-operation will do.

If you hear of a change being made in wire room personnel, or a contemplated new opening, either in New York, or elsewhere. flash it in to Headquarters. It may mean a job for one or more Union men in some part of the country. This is important.

Another phase of what co-operation will do in securing new members is illustrated in the following:

An out-of-town firm switched their wire to another circuit. On the first day the New York operator learned the man at the other end was a non, secured his name and address and turned it in at Headquarters. A letter to the non resulted in his being elected to membership at our last meeting.

NOTES

The sympathies of the officers and members of the Eastern Broker Division are extended to Bro. Wm. F. (Buck) Ewing in the loss of his father.

Ethelwynne Anna Petersen arrived at the home of Brother and Mrs. Harold Petersen on October 21st. Congratulations, Hal.

Members of the Eastern Broker Division who have not filed their World War record of service are requested to do so, as we are

Digitized by Google

nxious to make a start on the tablet for leadquarters. Don't be too modest. Mail our record to Secretary Hickey.

The Organization Committee requests that imbers mail in to Headquarters the names it nons on their circuits, those out-of-town well as local nons.

Can you beat it? A query from out-ofwn was received at Headquarters asking, Who is the Chief Operator at Logan & ryan's?" When informed that the position as held by the esteemed and only "Ed lace," the bimbo comes back with, "Don't low him."

Ye Gods—a man in the broker game who lesn't know Ed Place. Next they will be lling us they never heard of the New York ock Exchange.

Incidentially we are glad to hear that "Ed" back on the job after a brief illness.

The Committee on Sickness reports Bro. 'Om' Christy, of E. F. Hutton's was opated on for hernia and is getting along celv.

We received a card from Bro. "Eddie" odnett, of Keech's. Eddie suggests that e Eastern Broker Division hold their next ting at Hunter, N. Y., where he is spendg his vacation. It's a bit too far from oadway, Eddie, otherwise it's O. K.

In the September issue of the Journal unr the caption, "Jackson Bros. Notes," we rered to a Baltimore-Boston circuit, through error on the part of the local editor. We ould have said the Boston circuit.

Saturday, September 8th, the employees of J. Wollman & Co., were given an outing en Cove, Long Island, the beautiful coun-residence of Mr. Wollman.

Our Entertainment Committee deserves cial mention for the splendid program inleed in. Everyone present voted Mr. W. Wollman and his gracious mother, the it host and hostess on Long Island.

Harry E. Purcell, well known in Wall eet for the past thirty years or more, has t Tobey & Kirk and is now back with his firm, C. I. Hudson.

All the old timers who know Mr. Purcell m coast to coast have always found him be one of the finest and squarest in the graph industry.

The officers and members of the Eastern oker Division wish Mr. Purcell the best of k and good wishes in his new position. PYNCHON & CO. NOTES

Now that the torrid summer months have passed and vacations are over, we believe a few jottings from "RD" are now in order.

The Misses May and Anna Reilly recently suffered the loss of their mother. We all extend our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement.

Bro. "Gus" Morris, our able C. O., spent the summer at his palatial bungalow at Arverne by the Sea.

Bro. "Bert" Welr has returned to the fold after a short stay in the sanctum-sanctorum of the "Big Shooter." Condolences are also extended to "Bert" in the loss of his wife.

Bro. "Hughie" Hickey, battled scarred veteran of the key, is sitting pretty on the Northern wire.

Bro. Nat Rosen is back with his old love on the Montreal grapevine, with Brother Whitaker doing the honors on the Canadian end.

Bro. "Bert" Howatt, alderman of the open spaces at Kearney, N. J., is taking care of the Phila-Washington circuit.

Bro. "Jim" Kennedy has abandoned his Manhattan Beach bungalow, where he enjoyed a very successful season (with the ladies) and can now be found at his old rendezvous on 72nd St. and Broadway where the "Drug Store Cowboys" congregate.

Bro. Ben Rosen returned from a sojourn at White Lake, where he reported the fishing very good. Bro. Lee Butterfield please note.

Bro. George Dettviller is doing the lunch relief stunt, after winding up on the vacation reliefs.

Bro. "Mike" Fogarty is coming back to his old form since he underwent an operation. The mere fact that his slogan is "Keep me going" is a very good sign.

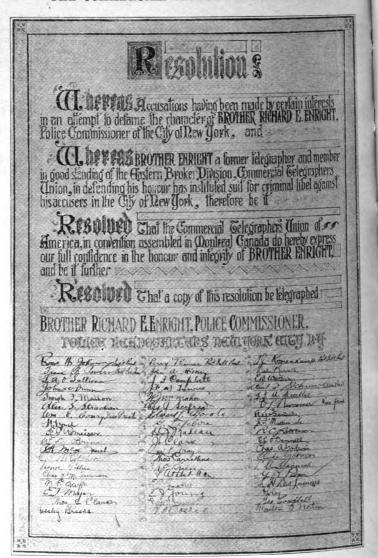

"Joe" Neubauer is still building that bungalow at Throgg's Neck. A dollar down, and a dollar when they catch him. How come?

George Oxx has been transferred to the Coffee and Sugar Exchange.

"Joe" Donahue, the Lochinvar of the order room, has been doing a lot of sky-gazing lately. When are you going to buy her the ring, Joe?

John Stewart has been promoted to the rank of order clerk. He is said to be one of the youngest in the Street. Good luck, Johnny.

PRESENTATION TO BRO. ENRIGHT

The above resolution was presented by a committee consisting of Roscoe H. Johnson, International President; Jos. F. Mallon, Chairman, General Executive Board, C. T. U. A.; Frank A. O'Sullivan, President, Eastern Broker Division; Jas. F. Campbell, Chairman, Executive Board, Eastern Broker Division; John A. Hickey, Secretary-Treasurer, Eastern Broker Division; Delegates Fred W. Towne and Edw. B. Whittlesey, Eastern Broker Division, and Bud F. Rupple, Secretary-Treasurer, New York District Council No. 16, C. T. U. A., on October 17th.

"SINCERE"

Few things spring into being complete and perfect, or are created at once in their final form of greatest perfection and utility. There is a period of growth and development, of experiment and adaptation, which involves change and adjustment. This is a rule of universal application to all nature and to all human experience.

The formation of words and the growth of language is a good illustration of the rule. And the study of the derivation of words, of their evolution and alteration, and their change of use and meaning, is as fascinating as the study of the growth and development of a plant. The siang of yesterdsy becomes the accepted speech of the scholar today, with, perhaps, the original meaning shaded or wholly changed.

"Bulls" Covered With Wax

A unique and interesting example of the word construction is furnished by our frequently used and well understood word "sincere." In ancient times, when sculptors and artisans used cruder instruments and tools than are now available, there were frequent instances when the marble or stone being worked upon was chipped and the product marred. These defects were sometimes concealed by the application of wax, molded to give the appearance of perfection of the original material.

Sine Cera-Free of Defects

When this was not necessary, the finished product being without these covered defects, it came to be described as SINE CERA—without wax. In time this phrase was applied to other things which were just what they purported to be; and finally it became descriptive of the human attribute of honesty unaffected by any pretense.

It is with this meaning primarily that the phrase was adopted from the Latin, and became our present word—sincere. A knowledge of its derivation gives clearer conception of its true meaning, as well as an added interest to its use.

ALONG BOUT THIS TIME O' YEAR

(By Walter L. Birin)
Along 'bout this time o' year,
I start to wearing socks.
"When the frost is on the pumpkin,
And the fodders in the shock."
When I hear those magic words,
I always heave a sigh.
For when I think of pumpkin,
I always think of pie.

Along 'bout this time o' year,
The "Bears" should hunt a hole
And hibernate a spell,
While the "Bulls" play leading role.
To have 'em do that little stunt,
Would deal me no death shock.
For I know I have behind me,
Every brother on the block.

Along 'bout this time o' year, I start to packing coal.
The uppers of my shoes begin To grieving for their sole.
I'd like to see the market
Take on an upward swing,
If boneless cheese went to par,
I wouldn't give a ding.

Along 'bout this time o' year, When the wildwoods' hue enchants I'm busy seeking patches, To mend my trusty pants. I'd like to see the rails, Bust loose their rusty joints And take a little filer For 'bout five and sixty points.

Along 'bout this time o' year, When the birds have left the parks. I estimate my profits, Had I went short on marks. But I'm an optimistic cuss, And in my despair I pause. For even now I never doubt There is a Santa Claus.

A REVIEW

Within a short time the schedule for this Division will again be subject for re-consideration. It might not therefore be inopportune to review the history of Division No. 59 from its inception to the present date.

Formed, like all Divisions, under the urge of necessity, in 1918, Local No. 59 is now 5 years old and is moving along quietly and steadily, having in its short history encountered both prosperity and reverse.

The Schedule A was obtained in 1919. Organization proceeded apace and a high percentage of cards were issued. By-laws were passed, officials elected each year and the business carried on with about the same efficiency as other C. T. U. A. Divisions.

There was a certain amount of discontent over executive positions and minor matters, but these were accepted as part and parcel of the business of organization, growing pains inseparable from any similarly formed body.

Came 1922 and with it the question of revision of Schedule A. The Union naturally wanted to have the schedule maintained. The Employers wanted to have the issue settled amicably without going to a Board of Arbitration and proposed a 15% cut. trusting section of the Union Executive wanted to meet the Company as fairly as possible and were in favor of accepting their proposition. A referendum was taken as to whether the Company's proposal be accepted or rejected and the issue decided by a Board. The vote was overwhelmingly in favor of a Board and the final result was a 10% cut. Now almost anybody, like an individual, can bear up fairly well under prosperity but it is when reverse appear that the real test comes. At first the 10 per cent loss had a most discouraging effect, a few cards were dropped and membership recruiting stood at zero.

Better Union Men Than Ever

Now nearly a year after, Division No. 59 can afford to look back with equanimity and considerable pride. The majority stood firm and it can be truly said at the present that every up-to-the-minute card holder is more of a Union man than ever before. Organization is proceeding steadily, controversy is stilled, and the non-cardholder is having it slowly borne in upon his consciousness that wherever Union men congregate he does not belong. His arguments against organizing are obsolete and he is looked upon as one who obtains the benefits of unionism without shouldering financial or other responsibilities. Not an enviable reputation.

Now what of the future? The future depends upon how the lessons learned from past experience are put to profitable use. What has Division No. 59 as a whole learned? It is the purpose of this article to find common ground upon which all can stand without disagreement. We have, as a body, learned that dissension is futile and gets us nowhere. That whilst no one expects to see everybody in complete agreement upon the many details of organization, as long as officers and members have a common understanding on fundamental matters like schedules they can agree to disagree upon controversial details and the Division's efficiency as a whole will not be impaired. A respect for the other fellow's convictions will go a long way towards bringing the all-important unity without which we are as a rope of

To revert to the question, What have we as a Division learned? Firstly, that it is useless to attempt a satisfactory settlement of a wage schedule without baving recourse to a Board of Conciliation. Secondly, it is poor business to wait for the other fellow to carry the attack to you. You are bound to get hurt. Know what you want and then get after it. When every man of a Division is of one mind as to what he wants it makes the task of those who conduct the negotiations very much easier. Now whatever individual differences or animosities may exist in Local No. 59 (and they are practically nil) one thing all agree upon and that is that the present wage and maintenance is not satisfactory. In the Journal for June under the heading "Canadian Topics" The Canadian Vice-President says:

Now Fully Awake

"The men of Marconi Division No. 59 are waking up. Quite a number of them are anxious to know when we are going in for that ten per cent that was taken away from them last fall. That's the stuff! We will never get it back unless you start the ball rolling and make it possible for us to go after it."

There is the keynote for Division No. 59. After a year's experience of a ten per cent cut which the slight sag in cost of living did t justify, it can be confidently said that membership of Local No. 59 are fully ake and they want that ten per cent back. There is one conclusion that every student living conditions on this continent is com-; to accept and that is that living costs e not going to drop to any appreciable tent. There may be a slight drop in varis foodstuffs but in the two heaviest items expense the wage-earning householder has contend with, rent and heating, prices are a peak and show little sign of diminution. ose who ask that employees submit to riodical wage cuts would pull a very wry e indeed were they asked to carry on upon : wage schedules they expect some of their rkers to manage with. The general trend wages in Canada and the United States is year is upward. A sister division, C. N. No. 43, has just obtained increases of from to 20% on salaries. Division No. 59 has equally good case to present. Let the mbership hold together and mutual benewill result.

UNA VOCE.

OBITUARY

With deep regret, we announce the death Mrs. George Raine, wife of Bro. George ine of the Sable Island Staff, at the home her father, Mr. Bernard Piehl, Caledonia reet, North Sydney, Sunday, October 21st, 8:00 p. m. Mrs. Raine, is survived by her sband, Bro. #### Appreciation

"I wish to thank all brothers of Marconi Wireless System, Division No. 59, sincerely for the beautiful wreath sent as a token of respect towards my late wife, and also for the many messages of sympathy in my time of trouble."

GEORGE RAINE.

GREAT LAKES NOTES

Our Division has lost four good Union operators within the last few months namely, Blundell, Skinner, Speers and Spud (Himself) Murphy. If the gossip around here is reliable, Blundell, Speers and Murphy are on the Pacific Coast now, working the land line at Vancouver, and Skinner is back at his last winter's job with a safe company here.

The late operator Gorman has been seen walking around VBG quite a bit of late, with the unemployed's last hope in his hand, namely The Telegram.

If the operators keep dropping out the way they have been doing of late, we will hear Messers. Gray and Eaton singing a duet entitled, "Yes, We Have No Operators" very shortly.

Opr. Hodsoll managed to miss the good ship VEL twice in four days. Now he ain't Opr. Hodsoll no more.

Bro. Longstaffe has the whole of Lake Ontario to himself now, on VGDL doing the usual one round trip a day.

I wonder who is filling our lost Bro. Murphy's place in Port Colborne now. I would be pleased to hear from XWW regarding this. How are things at the telephone office, Harold?

Bro. Ted has been busy washing up all the dishes these last few days and is looking forward with anticipation to the return of his family. Welcome to VBG, Mrs. West.

Eddie Ryall has been transferred to the office of VCA.

Blevis is our new ship's engineer here now, but he cannot keep away from listening in, during his leisure hours, and heard a S. O. S. from a boat on the coast the other night.

Things we would like to know:

Why so many of the Great Lakes men are leaving the service?

How some fellows can get married on the present rate of pay and the H. C. L.?

If we will get our increase in pay?

Why some of the older men don't hold cards while newcomers are taking theirs out with first cheques?

How Bro. MacGilvray is getting along?

How it was that Opr. Gorman missed that job he was after?

How the inseparables are making out since they left the Lakes on their tour of adventure across the prairies?

We are glad to see so many of the new men in the service holding cards. They are surely showing some of the older men their dust.

Bro. Bartlett is back at VBA after an absence of a year and Bros. West and Ives have been transferred to Toronto and Port Burwell, respectively.

What's this we hear about Bro. Bill White getting married? Who is she, Bill?

Well, the Lower Lakes fleet is laid up after a very busy season.

CHICAGO NEWS BUREAU

We are pleased to announce that we are now 100 per cent and going to remain that way.

The Chicago office is well fortified with Bros. Meents, Jordan, Woodward and Warner. Incidently Si has remitted for his 1924 annual dues already. Secretary Powers informs us that they will be off the press November 26th. You are first on the list, Si.

The New York office is comprised of Bros. Harrell, Weisbein, Wasserman and Hall, a real high class bunch of boys. We have in the line offices, Bros. Dean, Buffalo; Jones, Syracuse; Carnall, Cleveland, and Horter at Cincinnati. We do not know who relieved the Grand Old Man at Pittsburgh, Mike Madden. He is a brother, however.

Bro. Walter Woodward is relieving Larry Huddy on the Editor's desk during the absence of the latter on account of the death of his father. We extend our sincerest sympathy to you, Larry.

Lou Case, our congenial efficiency man, is compelled to manipulate the news tickers these days owing to the fact that good Ticker Operators are scarce. There are few that equal our good friend, Lou, in putting the news out.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., NOTES

We have been thinking it's about time someone put Rochester on the C. T. U. A. map, so here goes. We hope to do better in the future. We have the "membership," the "good intentions" and the "pep," so why hesitate? The boys in this town are not the kind that get "lost."

Vacations over and everybody feeling better.

Bro. Jim Lewis spent two weeks in the old home town and reports a fine time.

Bro. Walsh drove to Boston and points east, changed gears twice, used a quart of oil and reports being nearly kidnapped by a couple of girls in "Albany."

Bro. Risner spent his vacation in the south. Ris say there are still some "moist," in fact "wet" spots in Ol' Virginy.

Bro. Schoenfelder found Irondequoit Bay a good place to fish and most of his two weeks were passed in that pleasant pastime.

Bro. Lee put in two weeks in Canada. Bro. Gilmore had to import a vacation relief, and is now back on the job as "optimistic" as ever. Atta boy, "Chief." Bro. Barlieb motored through Pennsylvania for a few weeks.

Bro. Crowell laid up with eye trouble. Bro. Petty hoping for a bull market.

Met Bro. Wickes a few days ago, all shaved up, said he was going to Pittsburgh and didn't want any cinders hiding in his whisk-He's a hound for preparedness.

We have only two real hard-boiled nons in this town. Neither one of them has any execuse whatever for receiving the benefits of organization, without doing their bit. One especially has had not a few shekels thrown his way by union men, and the boys are beginning to feel "fed-up" on this one-sided game. Surely a man who is willing to work on an organized circuit, or sub on one whenever the opportunity presents itself, should be man enough to "come clean." If, however, that man persists in his "non" attitude, the old motto "no cards, no favors" should apply, for the man who is not with us is against us, and the only way to show his sympathy with our cause is with an up-todate card.

$992.00 INCREASE!

As we went to press last month it was known that the Board of Estimate had voted in the affirmative allowing the Fire Telegraph Dispatchers the prevailing rate of wages, $9 per day, and it only remained to fix the per annum total.

Since our last issue the salaries have been arranged, allowing in the 1924 Budget 26 dispatchers at $3,000 each per annum and 40 dispatchers at $2,700.

The accomplishment is a wonderful stride in the right direction and the great work done by your committee must result in your unanimous loyal support.

The results obtained mean this: That instead of the compensation of Fire Telegraph Dispatchers of the New York Fire Department being spread over a scale from $1,708 to $2,976 in thirteen different rates, it is now in two grades, so far as compensation is concerned, of $2,700 minimum and $3,000 maximum. The men formerly in the lower rates will, therefore, receive a substantial increase. The men in the higher rates—not so good.

Only one dispatcher received the maximum, $2,976, and his increase will amount to $24 yearly. This is not to be taken as a criticism, but rather to clearly point out the great work done, and what a task it must have been to raise the minimum from $1,708 to $2,700 per annum.

The effort has just started with one big handleap overcome and we expect to strive on to greater things.

Even with this big victory in our inside pocket our maximum allowed is still $120 per year lower than the minimum paid our brother dispatchers of the Chicago Fire Alarm Service.

Chicago officials have always been more liberal to their men in the same arm of the service, but with our campaign of education and enlightenment of the public et al still going strong we may yet outstep Chicago.

We wish to thank the Editor of the Commercial Telegraphers Journal for granting so much space to us in the October issue when he was "all piled up" with the big Montreal Convention matters. We sure did appreciate it.

Eleven Vacancies

By the way. Four extra Dispatchers are allowed in the 1924 Budget. This makes about eleven vacancies which will be filled when an eligible list is established, after a civil service examination for the position is held.

Applications are now open.

All those interested should apply NOW. Civil Service Commission, Municipal Building, New York City..

The twelfth regular convention of the C. T. U. A., after several days of deliberation adjourned late in the night of October 5th, and the delegates wended their way homeward to various parts of the continent smilingly confident that progress had been made and determined that the future plans of the organization would be carried out with renewed vigor in their respective sections.

The high spot of the convention was that traitorous action would not be tolerated and faltering in wage negotiations would not go unrebuked.

unicouncu.

The plans to organize the unorganized, especially south of the border, are recognized to be huge, but it is expected that every unit will measure up to the particular task that will be delegated to it by the International Officers.

Already the Boston Division has started its activities and early in November there will be a Smoker at the Bellevue Hotel, whist, checkers, speaking, singing, (and Hi Finn), eats and a general good time. The committee is circulating tickets, so let every member get busy and co-operate in getting out the crowd.

If any member has not paid his dues he is again reminded to remit to "Nemo" and also when addresses are changed don't fail to notify the Secretary.

old Buck Hiner who has been down in wilds of Texas all summer, is back in chita, rumor having it that he is build-a new roof on his chicken house?

WHY NOT NOW?

With the greatest convention ever held by the C. T. U. A. concluded and with the announcement that our organization is now out of debt, it is indeed a pleasure and an inspiration to face the future with a renewed determination to bring all nons into the most heroic and militant union today. A union that has the fighting spirit of the C. T. U. A. cannot be beaten. No individual nor any organization is ever defeated until that individual or organization acknowledges defeat— and the C. T. U. A. has always come up after each blow stronger and more determined than ever.

I endeavored last month to point out in my feeble way some of the advantages acquired by the workers along the pathway of time due to labor unions and I wish to further call the attention to those telegraphers who are not yet members of the C. T. U. A. to the fact that the eight-hour day they are now enjoying, the overtime they receive for extra hours and holidays and the advance in wages over prewar days, are all the net result of organization on the part of other members of their craft. These are advantages they are enjoying at the expense and sacrifice of others. Could anything be more selfish?

Look about you and see how many successful business men or professional men you can find who do not belong to their unions. They call them associations, it is true, but it is a combination of individuals in their particular line of endeavor with a view for the common good, and that is exactly what we are organizing for—to protect and advance the common good of the telegraphers of this country.

The American Bankers Association, in session lately, was not bashful in the least in stating its aims in regard to lower wages, etc. I do not feel any animosity toward those gentlemen. They are alive to their individual and collective interests. Were I a banker I would join their "union"; were they telegraph operators they would be red hot agitators in the interest of organization of the telegraphers.

President Coolidge said last week that the first duty of the individual was to himself, likewise that of nations. The best way to serve one's self is to cast your lot with those whose problems are of the same sort as your own and by mutual effort solve them together.

SELECTING COMMITTEE

BY JIM WILLIS

(United Press Division, East St. Louis)

Now that the time for election of General Committeemen is drawing near, let's forget the "good fellow" stuff and find out what each candidate for these important offices stands for before we vote.

In other words if a candidate does not stand for the principles which you believe right, vote for the man who DOES stand for them regardless of personalities. A man may stack up as the "best fellow" in the world on the circuit and not be worth his weight in sawdust when intrusted with the vital work of negotiating schedules with press managements.

When the candidacy of some man comes up for discussion on the wire come clean and give your views and do not let one or two "bellwethers" do all the suggesting. Cattle follow bellwethers very nicely. Let's remove ourselves from the cattle class. Do your own thinking; your own voting. And do it on the MERITS of the candidate, not his good fellowship on the circuit. If a man has anything to say on the wire he should sign. There's altogether too much piddlefoot stuff going on.

One of the great difficulties we press telegraphers are confronted with is the fact that candidates are not known personally to many of those who elect them. We are spread all over the country, making it impossible for the element of "personal contact" to guide our steps.

This argument also applies, although in somewhat lesser degree, to the nomination and election of Circuit Chairmen and other officers of our division. There are good men aplenty amongst us—the job is to pick out intelligently.

Another thing occurs to me: When we fill out questionaires give all the details on the questionaire and don't write separate letters to the committeemen just contrary to the ideas expressed through the questionaire. Stick to the questionaire and don't crawfish.

We should all be thankful to the brothers who started the ball rolling for new divisional by-laws. I'll admit I had nothing to offer at the time the question was first brought up, due to being a dumbbell, but you can bet your life I'm going to VOTE on the creditable work that has been placed before me for action. And incidentally let's put in a few amendments that are not covered.

Think it over.

O'DONNELL'S PLATFORM

To the Members of U. P. Division No. 47:

Election time having arrived in the United Press Division, I believe the individual members should know the men they are placing on the General Committee and why. In the past it has seemed to be the custom to vote for a committeeman, not on his merits but on his good looks.

Why not make each candidate for office say a word as to what he intends to do during his term of office as an officer of the Division?

If you are a candidate for office why not come out flat-footed and say you are, instead of beating around the bush about it? If you think you can do your fellow-workers any good by being a member of the committee, announce yourself as a candidate. Tell the Division why you want to be on that committee and what your aims will be if elected.

Rid yourself of that so-called "modesty." It avails you nothing. The Division wants to know the men that are candidates and they want to know WHY they are candidates.

I am a candidate for general chairman of the United Press Division on the following platform:

A better wage and better working conditions. The workers know they are not receiving salaries commensurate with work performed. Many members work under difficulties, in poorly equipped offices, etc. It will be my aim to rectify these conditions.

Permit no discrimination on the part of the employer toward any employe. The bidding clause, for instance, has been a source of constant friction.

Restore local autonomy to the Division. The general committee should be fully capable of handling the problems of the Division and only in a final extremity should the International Officers be called upon.

If elected I shall do my utmost to serve the Division to the best of my ability.

Fraternally yours,

C. C. O'DONNELL,

Cert. 690.

NEW EDITION OF PHILLIPS' CODE.

The April 1st, 1923, edition of Phillips' Code, which has been in course of production for some time past, is now ready for delivery. This edition is up to the minute. Every abbreviation agreed upon during the past five years will be found in this book and many of the words brought into use during the war, which are now obsolete, have been eliminated so that the work as it now stands can be relied upon as accurate and complete to date. Phillips' Code is a thoroughly tested code of abbreviations, arranged for telegraphic purposes and contemplating the rapid transmission of press reports; also widely used as an easily acquired method of shorthand. This edition contains about 700 additions to the older code and is indispensable to the operator who aspires to the standard of proficiency required by associations, which includes knowledge of Phillips' Code. Flexible cover, pocket size, 31/2 inches wide by 6% inches in length, $1.25 per copy. Address orders and make remittances to Frank B. Powers, 113 So. Ashland Blvd., Chicago.

WELCOME 1924 WITH AN ANNUAL

It is customary at the end of the year to take stock in our organization, elect new officers of subordinate units and prepare for greater achievements during the ensuing twelve months.

Many have said—perhaps truly—that we do not crow enough over our accomplishments. Many of us take for granted the renewal of a contract with increased wages; the placing of our members in well paid leased wire jobs or the adjustment of stubborn grievances.

Let us then recite a few of the outstanding accomplishments of the closing year; not all, but just a few:

New Canadian National Telegraphs schedule with a very substantial increase in wages and better conditions.

Wage adjustment of Fire Telegraph Dispatchers of New York City, which meant an increase in some cases of 100 per cent.

New schedules with the unionized press services with material increase in wages.

Steady increase of membership in every division, especially the Associated Press.

Wiping off of all indebtedness against the organization. That's not at all bad. Looks as if we will have to be up on our toes to better that record in 1924.

Here's a good way to start off.

Make our newly installed officers happy by paying for a 1924 Annual.

If all would do that, the energy and thoughts of our representatives for the next two months would be devoted to the real work ahead of us rather than reminding us of our duty to ourselves and our families.

That's the first step for progress in 1924. But not the last.

Everyone of us go out and get at least one new member. Double our membership and our opportunity for service will be trebled—yes, quadrupled.

May your Christmas be merry and your New Year happy and prosperous.

VICE PRESIDENT'S NEW ADDRESS

BOOSTS AND BRICKBATS

By The Editor

PAUL R. ESTEP, late of Chicago, relieved a Union press operator on the Pacific Coast one night recently, screwed down the sounder and walked out because someone razzed him about his card. This bird owes various divisions $67.00 in dues and initiation fees, as well as $50.00 on a note he stuck a good brother for. Press and leased wire operators should be cagy about allowing him to sit in for them.

"THE COMMERCIAL TELEGRAPHERS BANK," declares Peter J. Brady, president of the Federation Bank of New York, "has deposits of nearly $3,000,000." While he meant the O. R. T. National Bank of St. Louis, the reality may not be so many years off at that.

BELL TELEPHONE trust total net income first 10 months of 1923 was $102,955,751, against $90,194,015 for the same period last year.

CANADIAN PRESS Division No. 52 announces the cancellation of the card of F. G. Biggar of Fredericton, N. B., for violation of Clause 12 of the Canadian Press schedule.

NO LABOR JOURNAL worth its salt ever succeeded in pleasing all. And no labor member worth his salt was ever yet pleased with everything that appeared in his labor journal. Differences of opinion and of view are inevitable; also desirable or we won't learn anything.

ONE GREAT EVIL of our craft has always been the two-job men. In the summer months they ofttimes accommodate a friendly employer when men are short. But when they deprive needy brothers of employment, hanging on to the scoop like leeches, it's refreshing to be able to give some of them a little free advertising. Turn to Havana notes.

CHALK THESE DOWN as a few closing achievements of labor in 1923; Stereotypers secured a two-year agreement at Omaha—day scale advanced to $7.25; night to $7.75. Also a $5.00 increase at Lawrence, Mass., making the new day and night scale $43.00 and $46.00 respectively.

CONGRATULATIONS to Central District, C. N. T., which enrolled over 50 new members at one meeting this month. Western District has gathered in even more over a longer period.

DON'T FORGET, make things a bit easier for your hard worked local secretary and get your annual early.

CORRESPONDENTS, please get your copy in before the 10th of each month. Impossible to get the Journal in the mails on time when copy arrives as late as the 15th, as has happened.

UNION LABEL YOUR WIRE

You leased wire operators, working under schedule, how would you like one of these cards to post in a conspicuous position?

While it would not be advisable for members not under union schedule to use the cards, we will order a supply for scheduled members if the demand warrants.

Write in and tell what you think of the card. The cost of printing and postage for ordinary cardboard would not exceed 10 cents; while if the customers desire glazed stock, engraved letters, etc., it could be sold for 25 cents.

Credit for the idea—which we think is a fine one— should go to C. (Casey) Bell, I. N. S., Chattanooga.

8. J. KONENKAMP, M. S. O., LL, B.

After spending his time between the ages of 9 and 13 intermittently at school and working in the steel mills, glass houses, department stores, etc., in his home city of Pittsburgh, Pa., Brother S. J. Konenkamp took up the study of telegraphy and at the age of 14 was assigned to his first regular position as night telegraph operator for the Pennsylvania railroad at Lucyville, Pa., in December, 1872.

He remained with the Pennsylvania R. R. until 1901.

Bro, Konenkamp is a veteran member of the O. R. T. having joined Pittsburgh Division No. 52 in 1895 where he served in various capacities including chief telegrapher and division secretary. He was one of the leading factors in organizing the general committee of the O. R. T. on the Pennsylvania system in 1898, served as assistant general chairman of the system from 1898 until 1901 and was a delegate to the O. R. T. conventions of 1899, 1900, 1901 and 1903. Brother Konenkamp received his 25-year modal in 1920 and still holds Certificate 10 in Division 52.

Upon entering the commercial telegraph service in 1901, Bro. Konenkamp was one of the first to start the agitation for open organization of the then secret Brotherhood of Commercial Telegraphers and in October, 1902, helped launch Pittsburgh Lodge No. 3 B. C. T., which later became Local No. 8., O. C. T., and finally District Council No. 6, C. T. U. A. in which he holds certificate No. 1.

He served District No. 6 in many capacities until 1908 when he was elected International President and moved to Chicago.

Just previous to the strike of 1907, Bro. Konenkamp as deputy international president effected an agreement with the Western Union Telegraph Company which was the basis for the famous Clowry letter of that time. The subsequent developments are a matter of history, but many old timers believe that if the Clowry-Neill-Konenkamp agreement had been followed out many things would be different today.

Bro. Konenkamp is a graduate of De Paul University with the degree of Bachelor of Laws and was admitted to the Illinois Bar as an attorney at law in 1917. He is a member of the firm of Ramsay, Konenkamp and De-Wolfe with offices in the Chicago Temple Building.

"Koney's" optimism, his confidence in the C. T. U. A. and his willingness to fight the battles of organized labor are just as strong as ever; and he has never surrendered his conviction that ultimately the Western Union will be scheduled by the C. T. U. A.

AUCTION WIRES SOLID C. T. U. A.

By H. J. Nadeau, Sec'y-Treas., M. B. D.

With the opening of the F. O. B. Auction Co. Chicago-New York circuit in October, which followed closely after the organization of the National Auction Co. coast to coast circuit this fall, a bold new chapter was written into the annals of organized telegraph workers and a broad new field opened for their fruitful endeavors.

Word was sent over our private communication systems between Chicago and New York by Bros. Hickey, McDaniel and the other famous exponents of organization and co-operation and at the zero hour on Nov. 9th representatives of the various broker divisions were able to cover the positions in New York, Boston, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit. There being but one day's notice, the value of the well coordinated broker divisions has seldom been better exemplified.

Following is the lineup on the F. O. B. wire to date: Boston, William Conry, past vice-president, who came to this country from Jamaica Plains, Canary Islands, in the early days and founded New England; at New York, A. J. Bunyan, a descendant of the famous author of Pilgrims Progress. about the classiest operator of the E. B. D. where they have all the class of the world; at Pittsburgh, the venerable and right honorable James Dugan, a gentleman and a scholar and a better operator than any of the youngsters around the lot; at Chicago, Harry Silvers, one of the ablest men in the business. who directs operations, puts the cars on the block, etc.; and at Detroit, yours truly.

The auction sales proper are held daily at 2 p. m. and an average of 60 to 85 cars of fruit, vegetables, etc., is put on sale, all sold and diverted to their purchaser by the shipper that day. A good train of stuff, you'll say, and this business has hardly got started.

This method of shipping cars f. o. b. from various shipping districts of the country—grapes, oranges, etc., from California; apples from the great Northwest; oranges, grape-fruit etc., from Florida points; lettuce, celery, potatoes and other produce from points in the South and West is an innovation in marketing and so far has proved very successful. All offerings bear Government State Inspection reports which gives the buyers at the various offices on the auction wires a fair and impartial inspection on which to base their ideas of value which is much better than merely having the shippers' ideas of quality and pack.

CANADIAN NATIONAL TELEGRAPHS

MONTREAL NOTES

The election of officers for this District took place this month and once more the membership have shown their appreciation of the splendid work accomplished by their officers and have elected the entire slate without a change to carry on the good work in 1924. From present indications it would appear that 1924 will be a strenuous one for all.

After you have read your Journal mail it to some one you know in the Western Union or Postal Telegraph Company. The Journal is a hamper of food for thought and may reach a prospect when other methods have failed. The cost is little to you and the result might be very gratifying.

It is not generally known but the real reason C. II. (Kid) Knott is holding his. head so high these days is the fact that our old friend, the stork, paid a visit to his home and kicked in with a bouncing baby boy.

Bro. J. A. Bernier's home was also entered on Nov. 6th and a little girl was left with Mrs. Bernier for Bro. Bernier to support. We have a strong suspicion this was also the work of Mr. Stork.

Bros. Hubert O'Donnell and Jimmie Buford returned recently from the wilds of Quebec where they said they had gone to hunt deer. The evidence was lacking on their return. Wonder if it was deer or dears they were after?

At the November meeting our popular General Chairman, E. J. Young and his charming bride were presented with a beautiful cabinet of silverware and a dinner set as a wedding gift from the employees from all over the system.

Bro. Jack Lawrence in his best parlimentary manner read the illuminated address and presented it. The happy couple were visibly effected by this expression of friendship and appreciation and Eddie replying in a few well chosen words thanked one and all for their generous gifts.

He was heard to remark later that the little home was most complete now except they had not bought the snow shovel yet.

Annual passes over the superintendent's district will be distributed about the first of the year to employees with ten years' service. This is but another telegrapher's dream made to come true, through the efforts of the C. T. U. A.

Our interdepartment bowling league is nearing the close of the first half of the season with the Chiefs two games ahead of Branches. Interest all season has been very keen. I understand the squad from Toronto will be here this week-end to show us how the game should be played. Well we are never too old to learn.

Bro. Wood says they don't need to send him any presents. "Just let them make themselves a present of an annual and hand me the money so I won't have to go after it. I'm a busy man these days."

The scribe extends to all the compliments of the season and hopes one and all will help in the coming year to build our organization stronger and better than ever. Be a booster and don't knock those who are doing their best for you. Imbaldie.

CENTRAL DISTRICT

The following officers were elected for the year 1924: Chairman, H. Lynch; Assistant Chairman, H. Ross; Secretary-Treasurer, C. A. Godwin; Assistant Secretary, Louis Henry, all by acclamation.

Bro. Taylor declined the nomination for chairmanship.

Voting in Central District for General Chairman for 1924: E. J. Young, 80; R. I. Bradley, 11; 6 spoiled ballots and 150 not casting their ballots. The membership should show a little more interest in the casting of their ballots.

Bro. Shupe of Port Arthur has been transferred to Toronto to take up duties on the new switch board recently installed, but not working.

One member of staff growled like a bear for a few days over the disappointment of not being promoted to the board. There were others with more ability, and seniority who took their disappointment with a smile. It shows the disposition of a non and up-to-date member.

Central district has started out well for 1924 with ten paid up new members and more to come.

Bro. J. L. Murphy and Bro. R. F. Pollard returned last week from their vacation.

Sister I. Vanstone also returned from her vacation after spending two weeks Xmas shopping in Detroit.

A number of operators have been given their two weeks' notice, but the slight drop in business does not seem to demand such a large lay-off.

Good morning, have you had your hour changed? It's getting to be a habit to have one's hours changed each and every day.

How many days suspension a month would Miss Short, phone supervisor, draw if she had to punch a card in and out?

Don't forget that the 1924 cards are ready. Don't have the secretary remind you so Paid up members will receive a list each month after the sixty day period is up, of those who are right up to date. The delinks will be very few and far between as Toronto office is noted for its prompt response.

ORGANIZE—CO-OPERATE

It is your duty to yourself and your organization to help solidify the ranks—value of membership in our organization is what you make it. Make "No cards, so favors" your motto.

CLOSING A FRUITFUL YEAR

By J. G. Jones, Member Executive Board, Western Broker Division

As Father Time is rapidly closing the page of 1923 in the great book of "TIME." I hasten to make a final entry on this page for a review by each individual member of this organization to peruse or study with the view of impressing upon every one the wonderful work that has been in progress this year.

This has been the greatest year in the history of the C. T. U. A. and by far the greatest in history for the W. B. D. A summary, in short, shows that for the first time in several years the organization is out of debt, a burden which has kept our International officers heavily laden for years. New divisions have been created and charters granted which is evidence of great organization work.

The 1923 convention held in Canada during the month of October was one of the greatest in history. The work carried on and the results achieved are evidence enough to convince anyone of the future prosperity to be enjoyed by all. The officers elected in my opinion, could not have been better. These officers have seen service with us of long standing and have fought gallantly against mere hopes and bare prospects. They have won their struggle and the records show the organization on a sound foundation once again. We must all bow to them on their excellent work and congratulate them on their success.

The same might well apply to the officers of the Western Broker Division. Too much praise cannot be given President McDaniel and Secretary Goodale.

Our records now show this division again on a clear and sound foundation financially and otherwise, notwithstanding the fact that our expenses have been equally as heavy as in previous years, due to the convention expense. The prospects for the future appear excesslingly bright at this writing. All credit for the great success of this division for the past year cannot be given entirely to the above mentioned officers, for we have other officers and members who have worked equally as hard and achieved equal success from their efforts, and I take pleasure in giving such members as Bros. Boole, Jacobus, Albaugh, Sullivan, Murray, Walters, Jordan and many others equal credit for their great work.

A careful study of the situation points to 1924 as being the "BANNER" year in the history of the entire organization. To accomplish a "Banner" year for 1924 we cannot leisurely rest on our laurels for this year. On the contrary, we must each individually put our shoulder to the grindstone and work earnestly, tirelessly and sincerely.

We have the foundation now, and we have the material in our ranks to work. Is there any reason why we cannot put our organization in line with other leading labor organizations of the country? There is not.

LAMSON BROS. & CO.

Howdy, mates; time for the annual,

Now it's Bro. Sam Ward and Bro. Dave Twitchell. Welcome, brethren.

Is it correct to say ENquire or should it be 1Nquire? Is it? Ask Dave and Duke. Just ask 'em.

Poppa Guest was laid up in drydock for minor repairs three of four days. OK, now. Bros. Parks and Paulson, and Mr. Tyler are absent in the line-up now.

Bro. Bill Purse is in the Presbyterian Hospital. Hope they can fix you up, Bill. Bro. Jere Cook was also away on account of sickness for a few days.

Dick Guest, son of Poppa Guest, is the choice of the Chicago Evening Journal and Daily News as captain of the All-Suburban League football team, and has been placed on the All-Cook County team by the Daily News, Riverside. Rah, Rah, RAH.

Bro. J. J. Sullivan formerly on McDonnells Coast Wire, is on extra last few days. You ought to come out and see MY BOY. (Sig) W. G. Brown, Dave Ellington, Poppa Guest and Harry Mull.

Charlie Perrigo, who was the handsomest man in the Bond Department, now has charge of the bond department at Jelke-Hood and Company.

In conclusion, the writer extends to one and all the season's greetings, with the sincerest desire that a year hence will find us still ascending the ladder of success and achievement.

CHICAGO NEWS BUREAU

Employes of the Chicago News Bureau were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Huddy, one of our ticker operators, at their neat little bungalow, Nov. 17th, where the boys had a very long and loud session at cards, and were served with a wonderful dinner by a most charming hostess.

Well, boys, it's time for our Annuals.

Clarence "SI" Warner has been spending a few weeks down on the farm hunting in Southern Illinois, Bro. Fred Claar from headquarters filling in while "SI" was chasing rabbits.

Bro. William "Bill" Meents has decided to change his pleasure rides after the close hereafter. "Bill" says he has too many break-downs on the South side. How are you going to get the candy out to her, Bill?

Mr. M. J. Woodworth, president of the Chicago News Bureau, spent a few days in Chicago recently making a tour of the different offices of the company.

Bro. Jones of Syracuse is reported considering a lifetime contract. Let us know when it comes off, Jonsey.

L. B. Case is taking his vacation, Mr. Bryer relieving him on the Editors desk. Mr. Bryer says he is now feeling lots better.

Bro. Dean of the Buffalo Courier has been having a lot of trouble lately with the street cars. Get a Ford; Henry will get you down, Dean.

W. A. HARRIMAN & CO.

1924 dues are now due. Place your dough on "Sparky," boys, and collect enough for an annual card.

Bro. Bill Heckinger is hoping Santa Claus slips him a sock full of roller skates.

Bro. Oscar Davidson has the only system now, one fast bug for long messages and one slow bug for short messages. Give 'em Hexx, Dave.

Bro. Geo. Simpson seems considerably worried over the coming presidential nominations. Dave has been trying to convince George that Bryan is the boy. Sparks fly at times and huge wagers are often made (but never paid).

Bro. Eddie O'Grady is still with us. Cheer up, Eddie, payday and spring will be here before you know it. Bro. Ryan now working our lunch trick. He sure swings a wicked stick, Bro. R. E. Cooney was recently transferred to our N. Y. Office to assist the Simms brothers. With that trio we can certainly roll them over and "cuss at 'em" to our heart's content.

Bro. Lewis is struggling along on the StL-KC string. He has a tough row to hoe when Bro. Pat Stephens in St. Louis starts cutting 'em up. Louie says he will come to a meeting sometime (?)

Bro. Hailstone will do his Xmas shopping early, as he will have to buy plenty of toys this years.

Bros. Jones and Carpenter are still doing business on the duplex. We all wish everyone the usual Holiday greetings S. M. I. B.

PAINE WEBBER & CO.

We are all settled in our new office, and everybody more comfortable than before.

The dullness in business which other houses report does not seem to prevail here. At least it's not shown on the number sheets. Looks good for Christmas.

L. E. Kreeger is a new addition and is working the New York wire. Very fine, Nemo; you will get plenty of practice.

"Gloom" Burnette is proving every day that he is properly named.

Wm. Donnelly alternates on New York and Minneapolis and the stock market. Best wishes, Bill.

Wade C. Worrell, L. S. Woodard, and C. L. Reiter constitute the Radio division here. Anyone you haven't heard, ask 'em how to to get them.

The boys all wish you a Merry Cchristmas.

JACKSON BROS. & CO.

Chas. Hinman and Harold Asbell are again with us. Welcome, brothers, and we hope this will be an incentive for the few others who are still on the fence.

Bro. W. O. (Bill) Fray is the proud Papa of a bouncing baby boy. How many does this make you, Bill? Congratulations are in order, and success for the little fellow.

Bro. A. L. Baker spent a day with us recently in the absence of an ex-brother. Come again, Al.

Force practically unchanged.

Merry Xmas and a prosperous New Year to to all from all.

THOMSON-Mckinnon

Yes, it's still "hot" in Florida. Three men departed lately to open up winter offices there, Bro. Ledgworth going to St. Pete's and Duffy to Albany. 'Sfunny how some of those boys ride that free 'tpn'. We're with you at that, boys, do your stuff.

Bro. Jacobus was with us for a few days, extra. Glad to see you again, Jake.

MILWAUKEE NOTES

The third annual dance given by the Milwaukee Sub Division No. 2, W. B. D., was carried out in a very successful manner on Wednesday, Nov. 21st at Kenwood Lodge

About 150 couples were present, and every one declared it the most enjoyable party they had attended for some time.

Early in the evening Chairman Bussey of the floor committee, put on a "Circle Waltz" which quickly dissipated what ever little frost of formality there was, and every one went in for a good time. A little later the "Broom Dance" and a "Tag Waltz" helped on the prevailing spirit which seemed to be "Ain't We Got Fun."

During the intermission, a piano selection was rendered by Mr. L. McDonald, who responded with an encore of a vocal rendition for which he was generously applauded.

The Milwaukee Telegraphers were honored by the presence of International President Roscoe H. Johnson and International Secretary-Treasurer Frank B. Powers, who motored from Chicago for a short stay, and had a pleasant visit among the local members Everyone regretted that the and guests. demands of the next day's business at International Headquarters took our distinguished guests away so early, and it was thereupon decided to hold our next dance on Saturday

A telegram was received from R. H. Mc-Daniel, President, Western Broker Division, regretting inability of himself, R. W. Goodale,

C. C. O'Donnell and party to be present. Milwaukee members also regretted this fact, for these brothers are very popular up here, and they are always welcome.

Our good Canadian Bros. DeCelles of Montreal and Strachan of Toronto, both of the G. E. B., sent regrets and wished us success, for which we thank them most cordially. Chas. J. Seefred, Chairman, G. E. B., pleaded indisposition on account of the after effects of the flu, so he must be excused.

The committees in charge were: Arrangement: E. F. Driscoll, Chairman; John S. McGowan, E. King. Reception: N. B. Blau, A. E. Tofte, L. L. Chambers, Oscar Schroeder, J. L. Partington, A. J. Callen, Floor: J. D. Bussey, J. S. McGowan, E. F. Driscoll, Mrs. J. S. McGowan, Mrs. J. D.

W. J. McMahon, General Chairman; John F. Konzel, Treasurer.

Sidelights

Bro. John F. Konzal paid admission to act as doorkeeper. John says he gets more of a kick that way than dancing.

Bro. Bussey made a short speech for which "The next dance he got oodles of applause. will be a broom dance," was all he said.

The press was represented by Bros. Chambers, Dinghofer, Cherdron and McGowan; Chambers and McGowan bringing along some of the editorial staff of their respective papers.

Bro. Tofte occupied one corner of the hall with a large gathering of his friends and relatives, among them Dr. Paul Tofte, a former Knight of the Key, and Richie Mitchell, an aspirant for the crown of Benny Leonard.

For refreshments, Bro. McMahon was undecided whether to serve cornbeef and cabbage or pigs knuckles and saurkraut. was prevailed upon to serve cider (kickless) and cookies.

Several of the ladies served on the reception and floor committees, Brig. Gen. Mc-Mahon decorating them with green ribbons, carrying out his policy of Erin Go Baugh!

All who attended voted the dance a success, and another may be held before spring sēts in.

The Perry Mason Company, which publishes the Youth's Companion, reduced wages April 1, 1921, and all departments walked out. During the last two years the circulation has suffered, and the company announces that on or about Nov. 1st, the printing, binding. and mailing of this publication will be moved from Boston to Concord, Mass., where the Rumford Press, union throughout, will handle it. They learn, some by experience and some despite experience.

Conducted by Eastern Broker Division, Room 504, Number 44 Broad St., New York City

Meeting Days: Fourth Saturday of each month, 2:30 P. M. Jurisdiction in the States of New York, Connecticut, and New Jersey, North and East of Trenton.

CO-OPERATION

Co-operation and energetic teamwork between the New England, Western, Western Middle Atlantic, and the Eastern Broker Division, resulted in placing Union men on a Fruit Auction Company's newly installed wire system at points within the territory of their respective Divisions.

This is the second Fruit Auction Company to start a wire system in a short space of time, and the high class of service rendered by Union men on the wires of the first Fruit Company's system, had evidently convinced the officials of the new outfit that if they are to be successful competitors of the pioneer company in this particular field, their telegraph staff must at least be equal in efficiency to that of their competitors. They have correctly solved this problem by employing Union men.

On a tip from Chairman Mullen of the New England Broker Division we learned of a job to be in our territory. Upon investigation we found that one of our members had already been booked for it, and is now employed there. Many thanks just the same, "Pon"

A member with the co-operative spirit called Headquarters on the phone a few days ago at 10 a. m., and asked if we could get in touch with a distant city quickly and have them send a man over to an office to cover the other end of his wire, the operator at the distant end having failed to report for duty. A "flash" to the distant city Headquarters resulted in an unemployed Union man getting a day's work, and the firm protected from a possible serious situation.

tected from a possible serious situation.

Bro. "Jack" Dunham dropped into Headquarters recently to shake hands with the boys. Slip us the secret of that perpetual youth stuff, Jack.

Bro. "Jack" Gallagher, Chief Operator for G. F. Redmond & Co., and Mrs. Gallagher were visitors to Headquarters. They say that "Jack" has earned the sobriquet once attributed to Chief of Police "Big Bill" Devery, as "The best Chief New York has ever had."

A baby boy has arrived at the home of Bro. "Gus" Grunewald. It's the first, and "Gus" is all het up over it. Congratulations.

"The man with the hoe" came into town yesterday to shake hands with the boys around Headquarters and tell them of the wonder of the life of a farmer down Southampton way. In addition to being a dirt farmer he's also a deep sea farmer. Southampton, you know, is down by the sea, and he told us about cows, chickens, asparagus, oysters, clams, scollops, 'n everything. Smokes a pipe and carries a rubber coat tobacco pouch. Good luck to you, Farmer-Brother "Ed" Lubkert.

Correction

The November issue of the Journal, in the "KEY" section, contained the names of the committee that presented the Montreal Convention resolution to Police Commissioner Enright.

Through an oversight, the name of Past President John W. Dunn, who was one of that committee, was omitted.

LOOKING BACKWARD

By Edward B. Whittlesey, E. B. D.

Experience is a thorough teacher although at times, exceedingly unpleasant. During the boom days of 1918-21 we made tremendous strides in organizing Wall Street and, I am happy to say, retain 95 percent of that membership, despite the present period of discontent, which is the direct result of unemployment, in the Street at present.

The men of the Street are holding together solidly and this it seems to me is a happy omen. When organized bodies meet adversity and overcome it, as the Telegraphers of Wall Street are now doing, it is indeed a test of their mettle and augers well for their future.

I recall the stirring days of 1919 when I advocated the "putting up of the bars" at Fulton Street in order to keep Wall Street for Wall Street men. In some instances—nay a great many instances—men who had obtained jobs in the Street would learn of a vacancy and go to the Western Union and Postal, as well as railroads and banks, to procure for a personal friend a job in Wall Street, putting his membership through the Eastern Broker Division after he got the job. These men, as a whole, were desirable and entirely welcome in the Division and I believe nearly 100 percent still retain their membership in this Division. This does after the present situation at Headquarters.

There are a great many unemployed men in the Street and I have often wondered how many, if any, unemployed we would have if the men who belonged to this Division during the busy days had lived up to the letter of their obligation to favor brother members, all things being equal.

Headquarters is the logical clearing house for all telegraph jobs in Wall Street and it is desired, as stated from the chair on several occasions, that members learning of a vacancy, or contemplated addition to the wire force of any house, will at once communicate with our Secretary whom we placed on a salary so that the affairs of the Division could be transacted in a business-like way. That we have made steady progress is beyond question. The record of the Division speaks for itself and figures don't lie.

These dull periods will not always be with us and I urge all members to learn well the lesson of the present and when positions are open, or contemplated, bring it at once to the attention of Headquarters.

All for one, one for all.

REPORT FROM ORIENT To The Officers of The E. B. D.

Complying with your request for a report on my activities in establishing the C. T. U. A., in Hong Kong, Tientsin and other points on the Chinese block, beg to advise that while the rab had a good footbold in these places, I finally succeeded in establishing branches in the above named places. I was unable, however, to secure a charter in the name of the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America, as it was voted unconstitutional at the meeting of Past Exalted Laundrymen. Having made good progress up to this unfortunate occurrence I decided to call upon High Low Last, delegate for Southern China, with a view to changing the name to the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of Asia, and nominated our SPF, Charley Josefson as President. Upon entering the celestial's sanctum sanctorium. I found him seated upon his throne idly tapping his forehead with Lee Butterfield's ancient pencil holder. When informed of my mission, he gladly granted my request, whereupon the first meeting of the Asiatic Broker Division was held. I hold great hopes for this new division and look forward to its rapidly increasing membership. The Chinamen, as you know, have always been enemies of the rab, and are wishing us all kinds of Sears. Roebuck in our new field.

Fraternally yours.

JACK O'CONNELL.

LABOR TAKES UP EFFICIENCY

By periodic denunciations of Lenin and by vigorous expulsions of Communists, some of our most prominent national labor leaders have sought for years to prove that the trade unions were essentially conservative. They are. In some ways they are much too conservative. But the railway shop crafts have recently embarked on a policy that may easily turn out to be distinctly revolutionary. They have undertaken to demonstrate that a union shop can be more efficient than a non-union shop.

The experiment is being made on a rather large scale. About 20,000 men, members of seven different unions, are engaged in it. The immediate object is to show that the shops of the Baltimore & Ohio, which has a contract with the unions, can keep locomotives and cars in better repair than the shops of the Pennsylvania, which refused to deal with the unions. And according to Mr. William Hard, Federal records indicate that the Baltimore & Ohio men have passed the Pennsylvania men in the race so far. The unions have hired a consulting engineer to help them improve efficiency. A trade union, being itself a cooperative enterprise, should possess distinct advantages in morale for the meeting of this problem.

In a recent address to Standard Oil employees Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., dwelt on the duties of employer to worker. He went so far as to say that the existing antagonism "is quite as much the fault of capital as of labor." By recognizing its obligations to employers and to the community, labor would be in a far stronger position when it attacked the unfair employer, of whom there remain plenty. From resolving to show that union labor can excel in efficiency it would not be a great step to undertake a demonstration that it can serve itself and the community without taking undue advantage of weaker groups in industry or of the consumer.

The attitude of the shop crafts promises more toward a solution of the labor problem than all the social service and shop committee systems combined. It cuts the ground from under both the anti-union employer and the inefficient workman. And since it is labor's own contribution resting squarely upon the group morale that the unions have developed, it is an attitude that labor can take without sacrificing any of that dignity and independence that cause it, often unwisely, to assert its right to snap its fingers at an employer and go on strike.

BROOKWOOD LABOR COLLEGE

Do you remember the day you attended a meeting of your local at which important matters pertaining to the welfare of your organization were being discussed, and after you listened to some of the speakers express their views, you felt sure that the thought you had in mind would solve the problem, but stage fright kept you from getting up on the floor to speak?

Then again, the day you did summon enough courage to get up and face the members and say something, just what it was you were not sure, you remembered afterwards that the most important thing you had in mind to say when you got up. you had forgotten and left unsaid?

Didn't you feel kind of ashamed of yourself on both these occasions, and didn't you say to yourself that you would have given a great deal to have been able to get up and convey to your hearers, the thought you had in mind without omitting anything you had intended to say, and that you wished you could get your points over in a forceful and convincing manner as Tom Smith and Bill Jones had done?

That opportunity for which you would have given a great deal is knocking at your door now. Take advantage of it.

On Monday evening, December 3rd, at 7:30 p. m., at the Compensation Bureau 128 Lexington Ave., near 29th Street, New York, the Brookwood Labor College will begin a course in instructions in Public Speaking and Parlimentary Law for members of labor The fee is but $2.00 per organizations. student

The Eastern Broker Division should have at least fifty members in this class.

In addition to the Public Speaking and Parlimentary Law course, there are other courses to be taken up, all of which were specified in the Labor College folder mailed from these Headquarters to all members of this Division.

Fill out the questionnaire on the inside cover of the folder and file it with Secretary Hickey, who will advise you as to further procedure upon receipt of such folder. Bro. Hickey will be glad also to furnish any further information desired in connection with the different courses of study to be taken up.

WHAT ARE WAGES FOR?

The wage a man gets is not based on the amount of work he does; it is based upon the value of that work to the man who pays him the wage.

It is by overlooking this point that a great deal of confusion arises. One man will say he works hard all day and gets only $5, while another man who works but three hours at a mahogany desk get $500 for that day's work. This may or may not be injustice. It all depends upon the value of the work to the man who pays for it.

Baby Peggy, a three-and-a-half year old child star of Los Angeles, was recently employed at a salary of $500,000. Before we exclaim at the injustice of this we must remember that she would not be getting that money unless she was worth more than that to the man who is paying it.

Labor is not a commodity, but in the business world the services of neither the bricklayer nor the bank president can escape the law of profit and loss, demand and supply. They operate like laws of nature.

N. Y. American.

EASTERN DISTRICT

Greetings, Merry Christmas to All, and a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

This is not a mere matter of form, boys, such as granting the freedom of the city to General Delivery, or Lord Service Department, but the officers of this organization mean it. It's been a very good year for Division No. 21, and this good showing was only reached by the co-operation and good will of the members. Dig in and help a little more, think over any ideas you might have. Some may seem too big, some too small, but when the "Good of Organization" is reached at meetings, spring 'em.

And you can make it a still happier New Year for your Secretary by paying your dues to him, as soon as you can. Make it a point to be prompt. It's your organization, and only as good as you help make it. We got some things, and with trying, can get more, and at least we can keep what we got.

The commercial men some time ago were poorly paid. They got together, asked for more, got it; asked for more and got it, and will keep on improving their conditions. Hence we have benefited, and you can't sit down and truly say this is an untruth. We have benefited by the work of those who went before us. We are not laggards, and can swing a mighty good wallop these days—100 per cent in Toronto District, and a good 95 per cent in Eastern District, with the Western coming along fast.

A man's unionism stands for fairness to himself, his family, and his employer, and he should stand just as ready to see his employer treated fairly as he does himself.

Early in the last century Thomas Jefferson said: "The general spread of the light of science has already laid open to every view, the palpable truth, that the mass of mankind has not been born with saddles on their backs, nor a favored few booted and spurred, ready to ride them legitimately, by the Grace of God." The favored few have, however, demonstrated since Jefferson's time that they are extremely tricky riders. Solidarity of the mass of mankind alone can establish the equality for which Jefferson strove.

Premier Baldwin's son, running on the labor ticket in England, says he did this because, after travelling round quite a bit, the people told him they could only get results when they asked the Labor Party to get them for them. Others were too busy forming conditions or playing pinochle. And he is a returned man.

We hope Jawn won't mind us saying he looked like a winner at the banquet. How come so much limelight in the picture Jawn?

A prize of one bottle of Vichy Water was presented to the operator who failed to pick out Eddle Weston, Jim Bosting, Cap and Tom Walsh in the banquet photo. Ye gods, the bimbo who didn't know Ed. Place had nothing on this bird. But he picked out Joe McKenna. Must have thought it was a musicians banquet. Eh, Joe?

Have you all voted for Chairman and Local Secretary?

Why pay $2.50 for a photograph group of our members in un-natural poses, when the "Standard" has notified its readers that they are going to print a series of photos during the yule tide season of the crowds entering into and departing from the Government Vendor Stores, and we can buy a Standard for a dime.

Ever since the Armistice was signed, Tom Walsh has been doing guard duty at the Main Entrance to 4 Hospital St. It's not necessary to salute him anymore. (Probably he takes the salute from the telephone girls as they march past.)

We understand Bro. Don Blehr, Logan & Bryan, is applying for a patent on his new garbage can remover. Don, please go to work on an ash shifter next.

Eddle Cohen, Logan & Bryan, continues to be the premier radiophan on the street What's the best variable condenser, Ed. 001, 005, or 00025, or would you recommend a Cardwell?

Now that Navigation is closed, we wonder how the "Cap" is going to put in his spare time. Did you see "The Covered Wagon," Don?

After interviewing, your correspondent is able to give out the following platforms of the different candidates for Chairman in our district.

Bro. Weston: "If elected I promise to see that Sergeant-At-Arms Schrader provides beer and crackers and cheese at all meetings."

Bro. Long: "If elected, I promise to drink the beer and eat the crackers and cheese, supplied by kind-hearted brothers."

For Secretary-

Bro. O'Donnell: "If elected, I promise to cut short the minutes from other meetings, in order that we may enjoy said crackers, cheese and beer."

Bro. Roy: "If elected, I promise to eliminate all notes from other meetings; I will guarantee to supply ham sandwiches for Bro. Cohen every second meeting in order to draw him from his shell, and I further guarantee to supply clay pipes and Rose Quesnel tabac to the out of town members when they visit us." Bro. Schrader: "In reference to the beer, cheese and crackers, you know me boys."

Bro. Cole has been seen in the vicinity of Notre Dame de Grace lately. While we would not cast any insinuations, we feel it our duty as good citizens to warn the people in that locality to keep their doors locked.

Bro. Albert Ross looks forward to every meeting nowadays. Years ago, it wasn't necessary to have an excuse to get out, but when you are married!

As a reward for his sterling work in rounding up the delinks and nons, it is suggested that Bro. Hines be presented with a pair of fur lined suspenders.

Collections are being taken in order to provide a second hand razor for Bro. Troy, all contributions to be sent to the Salvation Army.

Bro. Heureux (L. G. Beaubien and Co., Three Rivers)—Locally known as "Le Chausseur de Canard"—informs us that business down there is like the duck shooting, not too good and not too rotten, altho he admits that, since Bro. Lussey relieved him for his holidays, there has been a noticeably increased number of fone calls that he has had to answer. In the majority of cases they were inquiries entirely remote from market biz for instance "Est-ce que Monsieur Bob?"

Being answered in the negative, there are audible signs of disappointment, or, "Monsieur Bob a-t-il parti encore" and more strenuous sighs of the same brand.

The following dialogue was overheard recently at the "Key Pounders Lay-over" otherwise known as "The Riviere"—

"Say, Ed, I hope you're elected for that D. C. job. You're more fitted for it than I am, experience and ability gives you as much over me as Zev has on Redpost. Be a sport and let me withdraw from the race: there may be a quart in it for you if you do."

"To H— you say, Shorty. You're a single man with nothing on your mind but your hair; besides you've got a full dress suit and an honest to goodness pair of dancing pumps to welcome in the outside visitors from the Dry Areas. Don't shirk your duty."

Surely such unselfish, brotherly spirit of Surely such unselfish, brotherly spirit of generosity shall not go unrewarded, and it should also put to shame our English friends across the sea who are so disgracefully and bitterly fighting their coming elections. Bro. Frechette, our "Catcher" for the Eastern Townships at Sherbrooke, was looking well and happy the last time we saw him. Let's hear from you once in a while, Emile.

Bro. Albert Ross is back from Toronto, having suffered no ill effects.

Bro. Merritt is still holding down that paramount position at the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Bro. O'Donnell was on the sick list for a few days. Jack had five minutes to make the Commission one warm day and got overheated in the spurt with the result that he got a cold.

Bro. Ryan (Johnson and Ward, Sherbrooke) reports biz as usual in his burg, with prospectives to our rapidly growing fold.

Bro. Boston is rueing the day when the football season will close. Jimmy is some fan, but where the dickens does he get the PX to make these long out of town Ontario trips. Does he carry a few synthetic crocks with him at local prices and retail them at prevailing Ontario rates? Sleuth Wisely on the trail.

The bird who wrote that "Clique" piece of poetry in the last edition certainly hit where it hurts most. Some consciences that have laid dormant for the past twenty years woke up, if only for a minute. Let's find out who did it.

The sporty gentleman who visits after office hours, packing the ten cigarette boxes with one cigarette in each box, doesn't need any further education in the School of Economics.

You've all heard of these old chestnuts that have been played to death such as "Sitting up with a sick friend," "Going to see a Yellow Dog," "Attending a committee meeting," etc., but the worst bonehead play I ever saw was pulled by one of our friends the other night. He phoned home to the wife that he would not be home to tea as he was having luncheon with Mr. ——, a dear friend of the family. Said dear friend was just sitting down to supper at the other man's home! Surely some of you bright lights can suggest some new ones that we can get away with occasionally.

We very much regret to hear of the death of Bro. Moran's mother, and extend our sincere sympathy to the grieved ones.

The stock market has been much better the past three weeks and has the appearance of holding, which will mean full employment this winter.

Bros. Fred Hinman and Fred Moore are temporarily with Bro. Bob Patterson at the National Auction Co., and Bro. Wilson is also with this outfit, which is quite a big affair. Their offices are in almost every prominent city from Boston to the Pacific coast and south into Florida and Texas, with talk of still other offices to be opened up shortly.

Bro. Pete Mercer has relieved Bro. Reitz at F. H. McNulty's. Bro. Reitz has gone to the Telephone office.

('harlie McCabe is still at Morris and Brown's owing to the illness of Charlie Fieck.

Bro. Zornstorff has left town for the east. Charlie Miller is with Hardy Dana and Co., in Huntington, W. Va.

At the meeting of the W. M. A. B. D. and District No. 6, held on Nov. 17th, the following ticket was nominated to serve during the ensuing year: Chairman, Lawrence Laitta; Vice-Chairman, Samuel B. Inks; Secretary-Treasurer, C. P. McCutcheon. Executive Council; S. B. Inks, H. S. Ritchart, L. A. Wilson, R. C. Patterson and H. W. Reitz; Corresponding Secretary, H. W. Reitz; Amusement Director, H. W. Reitz; Guard, H. S. Ritchart. The election took place on Dec. 15th.

Bro. J. W. Pernau is temporarily out of work owing to the closing of the Johnstown office of Kay Richards and Co.

Bros. Hagan and Young are with the New York News Bureau.

Bro. F. Gerald Fisher and wife, of Parkersburg. W. Va., were severely injured in an auto accident. Mrs. Fisher for a time was not expected to recover. Bro. Fisher had his collarbone broken and was seriously bruised. Both are in the hospital.

To The Membership, Canadian Marconi Wireless S. D. 59, C. T. U. A. Greeting:

Relative to our demands as filed with the Marconi Company on October 1st and their reply in form of draft agreement received early in November.

This proposed form of agreement was acknowledged as having been received, and the company advised on November 5th that same would be placed before those concerned.

They were further advised that as soon as possible its acceptance or rejection by the workers would be communicated to them (the Company).

The communication has been before your general committee and a majority of the membership are already conversant with the major features of the proposed agreement.

Your general committee is decisively opposed to accepting or even considering such an agreement and all communications received from the membership are expressive of disgust and determination to contest this lastest imposition.

The company were asked on November 13th to fix a date at their convenience, on which could be discussed with your committee the proposed amendments to the existing agreement.

The amendments as submitted by the membership are due for discussion, and it is hoped, decision, in December. The committee meets the management on December 17th.

Failing satisfactory outcome of the negotiations between your committee and the company, the issue as it leaves the conference will be placed before the membership for their information and decision.

Before considering or discussing drastic steps we shall bide the outcome of the anticipated near conference with the company, and shall live on in hope that following a satisfactory settlement with the company, a strike ballot will not be found necessary, or our affiliated units called upon to support us along the lines guaranteed to Marconi Division at the recent convention.

Fraternally and sincerely yours,

F. CUTHBERT ALLEN,

General Chairman.

CANADIAN RADIO DIVISION

The annual election of the General Committee, including the General Chairman and the General Secretary, will have taken place by the time these notes appear. For the first time, this election will have been held in December, as provided by the Constitution, and the newly-elected Committee will take office on the last day of the year. It will be remembered that the previous Committee retained office until the middle of April, this year.

At the time the 1923 Committee assumed its duties, the membership of this Division was in a distressed condition, and the Division was heavily in debt. In spite of this severe handicap, however, progress has been The delinquent members have in made. many cases been induced to put themselves in good standing, and a part of our indebtedness has been wiped out. Expenses have been kept at a minimum, and although the members of the Committee have been widely scattered, travelling expenses have been nil; it has never been found necessary, for instance, to hire a taxi to post a letter. The widening of our jurisdiction has had the effect, not only of bringing in new members, but of stimulating the old members as well. By the inclusion of the private radio services. it is hoped soon to bring the membership on the British Columbia coast to something approaching a hundred per cent. Much organizing work remains to be done, however. among the operators of the Government Radiotelegraphers on the east coast, and in this connection the Committee has sought the cooperation of Division 59.

Canadian Vice-President Schnur has been devoting much time to an effort to secure redress for the grievance of the ship radiotelegraphers employed by the Department of Marine and Fisheries of Canada. These men have been compelled to perform clerical work in addition to their radio duties, without extra remuneration, and each of them is up-willingly doing a purser out of a job. The only excuse put forward by the Department is that these operators haven't much radio traffic to deal with. Since the government ships concerned are not passenger vessels, it is not surprising that the only messages andled are the captain's reports and orders. but if the ship met with an accident there would be a good deal of business passing through the radio cabin, and it is mainly for this emergency that the operator is carried. We don't hear of policemen's wages being based upon the amount of crime committed, or of firemen's on the number of fires; then why should a radiotelegrapher's time be occupied with other, unpaid, work when accidents are scarce? Brother Schnur is bringing all possible pressure to bear to secure the government ship operators a square deel.

Influx of New Members

New members keep steadily coming in. The addresses of two of the latest, Bro. Bert Ripley on the whaling ship "Gray" and Bro. J. H. MacDonald at Anyox mine, give an idea of the variegated membership of the Canadian Radio Division. The last mail from Australia brought an eager inquiry from Mr. F. F. Cooper, on the steamer "City of Vancouver." And each new member makes our position—the position of all radio men—just so much stronger. We must aim at the gradual achievement of the closed shop in radio: make the C. T. U. A. card an indispensable preliminary to getting a job. Then, when we can meet the employers on a little better than equal terms, radio will be the job it ought to be.

We are indebted to Mr. II. Robinson, the Secretary of the International Federation of Radiotelegraphists, of London, for very complete information on the conditions of employment of radio operators in Great Britain. This information will be of great value when we are ready to make our demands for improved conditions here. The names of the organizations which are affiliated with the International Federation are interesting, showing as they do that the operators of other countries are alive to the importance of trade unionism. They are the Union des Radiotélégraphists de la Marine Marchande Belge, the Radiotelegrafistforeningen af 1917. the Association of Wireless and Cable Telegraphists, the Vereeninging Van Radio Telegrafisten Ter Koopvaardij, the Federasione Italiana dei Lavoratori del Mare, and the Sveriges Radiotelegrafist Forening. No one can say that our European brothers are backward, and when we converse with them through the medium of the "Q List" let us be sure that we are doing our share for the common cause.

Happy New Year to everyone; start it right with an annual card.

NEW YORK D. C. No. 16 By Bud F. Rupple. See'y-Treas.

As the year of 1923 is drawing to a close the officers of the New York District Council feel that their efforts towards the betterment of the craft and the growth of our union have not been in vain.

We have in our midst an erstwhile fieldgeling—but now a robust youngster in the Fire Telegraph Dispatchers of New York.

Only a few years back these boys after being duly inspired by some of the best minds in their department felt that their aspirations could be furthered by enlisting the aid of our union and it took but a brief time when we boasted one hundred per cent membership there.

Our trials thereafter were many, our disappointments were great, but with the everpresent grit, tenacity and regularity of this fine body of men we were able to finally blaze a path through the many municipal agencies for a hearing before the Board of Estimate of this city, who on the advice of the local Corporation Counsel voted a substantial increase in pay, which sad to say had been much too long overdue.

The executive members of Chapel No. 1 deserve unstinted praise for the very able co-operation rendered at all times. We especially recommend that the International look into this field on an extensive scale for the purpose of creating a National Fire Alarm Division with units in all first class cities.

The District Council is ever mindful of the many possibilities that exist locally for the enrollment of nons and has not receded one whit for its goal.

We wish you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

UNITED FINANCIAL—WEST

As the year draws to a close, it is a wise practice to review what has occurred in order to steer a straighter course in the future. Unfortunately, none of us are perfect. We all make mistakes, and through our mistakes we learn to profit. But in order to reap full benefit from our errors and shortcomings, they should be subjected to close scrutiny and honest, friendly criticism. It is with this object in view that your correspondent, in behalf of United Financial Service men, attempts a brief resumè of the past twelve months.

Differential Not a Bonus

For some time prior to convention of the general committees and the managements in New York last July, agitation had been carried on among United Financial Service men to secure establishment of a DIFFER-ENTIAL favoring United Financial Service jobs. Many good reasons for this DIFFER-ENTIAL were presented, and the general committee finally agreed to submit our claim to the management. Due to the unfavorable situation which developed within the committees, the claim for a DIFFERENTIAL, among other things, was abandoned.

United Financial Service men regretted the necessary action taken by the general committee at that time, but accepted the result of negotiations philosophically. However, they cannot overlook recent repeated assertions to the effect that what they were and are insisting upon is a BONUS—not a DIFFERENTIAL. Such confounding of the word "bonus" with "differential" is either careless use of a term or a deliberate attempt to confuse the issue.

According to common usage, a "bonus" is a gratuity, a sum paid in addition to regular wages, not included in a wage negotiation, but donated by an employer entirely upon his inclination. United Financial Service men ask for no "bonus." We requested and still maintain we are entitled to the same recognition accorded United News men, who have been granted a DIFFERENTIAL—not a BONUS—over other services for the good and sufficient reason that it is correctly believed to be worth more money to work during the night than during the day. Our contention is grounded upon as firm a base as that of United News men, and so far as an example illustrative of the advisability or inadvisability of a DIFFERENTIAL is concerned, we submit the proposition of the United News as corresponding to that of United Financial Service.

In his circular letter dated Nov. 12th, Chairman Shea states, "Bonuses in all lines of endeavor are contrary to union principles and the wisdom of these principles has been demonstrated since time immemorable." Chairman Shea refers to the so-called "bonus" in vogue in Western Union offices and other sweatshops, where a premium is placed on speed in order to reduce the force of workers, we agree that system is bad from every viewpoint. However, our argument has been and is that a DIFFERENTIAL favoring United Financial Service jobs is a legitimate claim, not only because of service rendered, but also viewed from the standpoint of unionism.

Differentials have been established and are in operation in the United Press and International News Service schedules, in every large railroad office in the country and in every union scheduled shop. To abolish the differential would be to acknowledge the main contention of non-unionists; namely, that unionism destroys initiative and ambition.

Chairman Shea again errs when he states "the speed of all wires is regulated by the men who work them." Everyone, Shea included, knows this is not a fact. If a man cannot or will not handle the matter regularly filed on a circuit, he will be relieved. News wires, of course, may be regulated to some extent by the men who work them. although this practice is not generally indulged. On United Financial Service circuits, numerous "deadlines," coming between the opening of markets and last editions of clients, do the "regulating," and complaints resulting from failure to "make" one of these "deadlines" discourages any inclination on the part of men working the circuit to attempt "regulation" because numerous failures would result in cancellation of the service.

CONSOLIDATED PRESS "SUNSHINE CIRCUIT" WASHINGTONSOUTH

Hello boys, here we are once again, hitting on all four cylinders, with the exhaust wide open, plenty of gas and a good spare tire!

Suppose you noticed that one of our good brothers from the "Empire Circuit" of the Consolidated Press, who comes to life about twice a year, recently asked: "Has the sun ceased to shine on the little old 'Sunshine Circuit'?"

We will enlighten the good brother with the information that the "Sunshine Circult" is very much alive and kicking, although it may seem the sun has been in a total eclipse for several months, as far as any notes in the Journal are concerned. The only alibi we can offer for the absence of notes is that everybody was either too busy, or had the writer's cramp.

In fact it was "Granny" Gravely's turn to broadcast a story from the historical city of Richmond, but he offered enough alibis to acquit any man being tried for first degree murder. First it was a new arrival in his home, which would naturally keep a man busy walking the floor. Then again Granny was too busy demonstrating and selling, or giving away "Stars" with a package of Home Run cigarettes, as if we did not see enough stars in our daily routine. Am at a loss to understand just what this Star is Granny is dealing in. First thought it was some kind of sea food, then I was told it was a coffee mill, but have finally come to the conclusion that it must be a new sending machine on the market, as Granny asked Rabbi Lewis, at Harrisburg, the other day, if he owned a Star. Lewis replied: "No, I never did think much of these new fangled sending machines, mine is a Vibroplex.

We have with us in Atlanta, no less a distinguished personage than F. S. Ridgdill, notoriously known from dear old Hagerstown, Md., to the red hills of Bainbridge, Ga., as just plain "Shorty." Shorty is a very busy man these days, what there is of him. He cannot find time to play golf (African Golf) or take his favorite beauty nap between stories, as was the case at Lynchburg.

For some mysterious reason Archie Cockroach one Monday morning upon his round of investigation became curious, entered the middle chamber of Shortty's Big Ben and was entangled in the mechanism of said telegrapher's luxury. Big Ben refused to work with bugs in his belfry so Shortty awoke from his peaceful slumbers one hour late. Not having a car, and street cars being too slow Shorty was forced to put on all speed ahead. He was halted at "Five Points" by the big traffic cop for exceeding the speed limit, for passing a red light, running over six helpless men, derailing two street cars, and blocking the traffic!

The aristocratic triplets in Washington, namely, E. F. McCarthy, Division Traffic Cheese and Champion Letter Writer of the World; George Nolan, the old reliable, the only telegrapher in captivity with a human brain, and the guy who made "Lewis 66" famous; and handsome Adonis, M. M. Williams, or "Milk Maid," who continues to knock 'em dead on Pennsylvania avenue with his Sheikish eyes and graceful figure, are splitting the wind at the rate of 99.9 miles a minute filling in from New York, and spending the rest of their spare time telling the slaves to "Get on and don't break, it's on a stencil." As if such remarks would prevent operators from breaking as long as they have a key to break with. While "Mac," the cock of the walk, spends his spare time getting his usual daily practice at letter writing. In a few years he will probably be able to write a first class letter without it being dictated to him, as understand he is taking a course along that line in a night school.

And last, but not least, our old standby, R. Medicus Morris, at Birmingham, continues to be content receiving, having forgotten how to send long ago. Understand they are contemplating removing his key over to the the A. W. E., (ALAS WE EXIST) where it is badly needed to break with. It does seem a shame to let a perfectly good key lay up and go to rust for lack of one of those "BK" artists to pound upon it.

Boys, if it doesn't inconvenience you, would greatly appreciate any interesting notes from time to time, or any suggestions you may wish to offer. Will probably have some good news to offer in the near future, as am now working in conjunction with several good brothers from different sections of the country on something for the good of all concerned. Send anything of importance to me at 632 North College Street, College Park, Georgia, and it will be given prompt attention.

The most important thing to be remembered while you are doing your Christmas shopping, is to make yourself a present of a 1924 annual card, or at least semi-annual, and you will never regret it.

By all means be true to the trust we have imposed in you. Be loyal to the cause, ever remembering that deep down in the hearts of the officials you work for, they cannot tolerate a parasite. Don't delay; get that card and keep it up-to-date. No one loves a slacker

Wishing all a merry Christmas and a very happy and prosperous New Year.

J. N. Hanna.

Conducted by The New England Brokers' Division, Headquarters and Employment Bureau, No. 7 State Street, Boston, Mass.

By J. A. Neimant

The first annual Smoke Talk of the N. E. B. D., held in the beautiful Rose Room of the Bellevue Hotel Nov. 12, 1923, was a success in every way—everybody had an enjoyable time and we are financially ahead.

To the Entertainment Committee, of which Bro. Everett Kingsley was chairman, and Bros. McKenna and Kinney members, is due the greater credit for putting over a dandy affair. President "Pop" Mullen assisted the boys in handling the great profusion of professional and amateur talent, and proved to be a star announcer.

All the talent gave their services free of charge, and we take advantage of this public opportunity to thank them once again for their splendid program.

Bro. Bill O'Brien of the Public Service Committee opened with "My Experience at the State House," followed by the old reliable, Bro. Mike Reidy, ex-representative and newly appointed secretary to his honor, the Mayor of Boston.

Mike's talk was enjoyable and all were pleased with his silvery oration.

The Old Charter Orchestra, of which King Kelly is leader, presented a program of musical hits, the first number of which was a tenor solo, "That Tumbledown Shack in Athlone," by King Kelly.

After which Kelly danced an Irish jig accompanied by Bill Vollmer with the bagpipe.

Toodles and other musical gems were rendered by Kelly and Vollmer with piano and violin.

John Donaghue of the Belmont Four, a Keith Circuit act, pleased all with a bass solo.

Barney Fagan, Jr., the Funny Story Man, gave us some "Second Story Stuff," which was well received.

A. O. H. Boys a Hit

When "Pop" announced the A. O. H. Boys as the next on the program an outburst of laughter followed and continued all through the act. The A. O. H. Boys with Jimmy Valentine Atkinson as stellar stepper; Hughie O'Brien as the "Bolo Bird" and Bernie Hughes as the "Pick Bird" in a "little bit of everything" went over big with their songs, witty stories and clever dancing.

It would be difficult to find a sweeter singer than Matty Atkinson, Jr. The tremendous applause and demands for encores kept him busy for fully 30 minutes.

Following which Jim Benilisha took the shine off the floor with his "Russian Ballet," and Bill Conry told a funny one, with his usual artistry.

Pat Henderson, internationally known book agent and cartoonist, drew applause with his cleverness in detecting quack doctors, etc.

The Smoke Talk wound up well after midnight, all pronouncing those who spent the evening elsewhere as being out of luck.

Chapel No. 1 extends its best wishes for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all!

With the accomplishments of 1923 well behind us and the many benefits to be derived therefrom in 1924 in front of us, we are all looking forward with confidence to what may be done the coming year to place the Fire Telegraph Dispatchers of the N. Y. F. D. in their properly recognized position in the Department.

We were honored by a visit of Fire Commissioner Drennan to the Manhattan Central Office Sunday evening, Dec 9th and Bro. "Bill" Riordan, in charge of the tour, handed the reins over to the Commissioner for him to send out the 6. p. m. test, which is the signal to change platoons of the fire fighting force. No, we would not say the Commissioner was nervous handling the big transmitters, but we would like to have him present when manipulating a 4th or 5th alarm and all that goes with it.

Invitations are out for the opening of the new fire alarm Central office, Borough of The Bronx, which takes place January 2, 1924.

The reverse side of the invitation reads:

Historical

New Manhattan Central Office opened September 27, 1922.

New Brooklyn Central Office opened February 22, 1923.

New Bronx Central Office opened January 2, 1924.

New Rockaway Central Office now being installed.

New Queens Central Office, plans being prepared.

Truly a great field of fire alarm endeavor, and safe to say unequaled anywhere.

Chief Fendrich is taking a personal hand putting the Bronx Dispatchers through the different "stunts" operating the various apparatus of the New Central Office, preparatory to the opening of that office.

The news of our recent success was broadcast to South America and Europe, our good friend and ardent "fire alarm buff" Frank H. Wyman receiving it in Paris. He is making an extensive tour of South America and Europe, but withal is never out of touch with some one of the "boys." A pleasant journey and safe return to you and Mrs. Wyman!

Election of Chapel Officers will be held early in January for the year 1924. When you receive your notice make up your mind to be present. A full attendance is expected.

Payment of 1924 C. T. U. A. dues now in order, cards all ready for you. Make yourself a present of a 12 months card and save the trouble of July renewal.

Protect your beneficiary by paying dues now.

VANCOUVER NOTES

Local gossip from this part of the universe does not often appear in printers' ink and it's only the happening of an unusual event that instills us with courage to venture into the literary field.

On this occasion we record the resignation of Bro. Z. Thos. O'Connor, who after twelve years in Vancouver with C. P. R., has accepted a position with the Royal Bank in this city and is looking after their newly established leased wire service through Houseman & Company.

The C. P. R. Telegraph Co. loses a valued employee and C. P. R. System Division No. 1, British Columbia District in particular, will be minus the services and good judgment of one who was conscientious and consistent at all times in his activities with our organization.

Bro. O'Connor was chairman of this district eight years, including two years as assistant general chairman. As a member of a grievance committee he is in a class by himself, a keen fighter, but possessing an equitable sense of justice.

A great believer in the gospel of optimism and being of a natural jovial disposition, Tom's cheerfulness will be greatly missed by everyone on the Vancouver Staff, and he carries with him our very best wishes for his future success.

Joyce, the little six-year old daughter of Bro. Upward, Victoria, B. C., who has been seriously ill for the past month with heart trouble, is on the road to recovery which we sincerely hope will be permanent.

Sister Mona Bradley, day operator at the Hotel Vancouver, is leaving the service at Christmas to enter the bonding house of matrimony. Mr. Lawrence Huisman is the lucky gentleman, and while we cannot claim his acquaintance we know he must possess rare good judgment. Miss Bradley's pleasing manner made her a general favorite with customers and friends alike. The young couple have our congratulations and best wishes for their future happiness.

Bro. Tennant is once more putting ten on a line, after having spent two months and a half pulling apples in the Okanagan Valley and chasing steers in Alberta. Aub is a real live member and we are all glad to have him back. We expect the girls will once more look pleasant and the sick committee resume business.

During the past three months we also lost another member in Bro. Bailey, who has been promoted to the position of manager at "VX" office. We all wish him the best of luck. Ed has done a lot of good work, both locally and as a member of the last two or three schedule committees. Bro. O'Brien is also at "VX", and Bro. Reddon doing the two hour noon relief there. With the grain flowing through Vancouver, "VX" promises to be a real office within a year or so.

Old man La Grippe been getting in his dirty work among our automatic staff. Sister Phyllis Williamson and Winifred Sear have both been on sick list but are hale and hearty again. Jack Martin, night supervisor, laid off for a month, but is expected back in a few days, Bro. Hamson relieving. MO says the automatics are like the women, have to humor them.

HAVANA NOTES

Hello, Uncle Sam! Hello, Jack Canuck! Havana, Cuba, speaking. Howde everybody.

Mitt us, E. Link Boole, for your nice work in getting the big boys to see Havana. Thanks old top.

Havana is one of the finest cities in the Tropics. More people come here from all over the world to spend winter than Carter has pills.

Havana has everything, now that we have been recognized by the C. T. U. A.

Don't get the idea that because the Cubans were not crazy enough to pass a prohibition law that the natives here are drunkards. Forget it.

There is a saloon on every corner. Name your particular brand of high life and you get it. Be you Irish, Scotch, English, German. French, Dutch, Spanish, Jap or Chink—name your home town brand and it's yours at a moderate price. Of course nobody in Havana is going to prevent you from tinctur-ng up to your heart's desire—but they don't to it here—it's not the style.

It's a remarkable coincidence that the nly "stew" you meet on the street is an unerican tourist just off the boat with a hirst and a fond rememberance of the good id days around 12th and Olive. These, owever, are few and far between. Tropics nd brew do not hitch. Stick to the hootch nd Colon entombs you. It does not take ong to get wised up to this and one becomes sober citizen of Havana.

Before I forget it—included in everything lavana has is the two-job man. Yes, we are 'em.

W. H. Conway, employed by the Royal ank of Canada, and Charles Ludwig of the inversal Service have cornered an extra by. They refuse to turn it loose. The means y which they acquired this job—Conway in articular—were to say the least, very hady.

This pair claim to be unable to get along a $100 a week.

Talk does little good. They are going to ang on until they are compelled to give it

One claims to be a citizen of Canada—he robably pays income tax?

The other, a citizen of the United States, arely pays his double income tax?

Publicity does not hurt. In this case it ays to advertise this pair of "Union?" men. Oh, yes, we have everything in Havana, icluding the two-jobbers.

Note the Canadian news. These are boys to really do things.

No fourflushing, nothing under cover.

A two-jobber would last a long time in anada!

IF YOU WANT TO BUILD UP THE OR-ANIZATION GET RID OF THE TWO-OB MAN.

WHEN YOU DO, ANOTHER MAN WITH CARD WILL TAKE HIS PLACE.

The two-jobber is a menace because he fills where there is really a shortage.

They have tried to put Morse operators at of business by machines.

There are so few first class men, they can emand and get their own price.

Get rid of the two-jobber and you probably eep a little kiddy from starving.

Never mind about Russians. Begin at ome. Clean house. "De."

W. G. WARNOCK DEAD

William G. Warnock, aged forty-seven ears, for many years a member and at one me general chairman of I. N. S. Div., died a October 30th. Warnock was for thirteen years operator and correspondent at the Syracuse, N. Y., bureau of the International News Service. He was a brilliant operator, and widely known in the eastern section.

MIKE REIDY HONORED

Bro. Michael J. Reidy of Dorchester, formerly of South Boston, Ex-representive of Massachusetts and former General Exceptive Board member of the C. T. U. A., is to be "guide, counselor and friend," henceforth to hundreds of persons who daily enter City Hall and the Annex, Boston, seeking various department offices with which they have business.

Mayor Curley today announced his appointment of the genial "Mike" as a staff, with a desk in the corridor of the Annex, outside the Election Department suite.

Many friends of Bro. Reidy offer their congratulations at his deserved honor.

VICIOUS PUBLICITY

In its weekly "Information Service," the research department of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ protests against misleading publicity by business journals and employers' publications.

The church men declare that "some recent extraordinary cases of misrepresentation warrant a brief statement on the subject."

Several instances of this misleading publicity are quoted. They are along the lines of conscienceless propagandists who misrepresent the trade union movement, and who are employed by special interests and big business. It is the old policy of attacking any one who is not reactionary to the core, and who has a progressive outlook.

"Perhaps the most serious case," says the research department, "was the publication in a journal, well known in the coal trade, of a fictitious 'statement' purporting to issue from the director of the research department concerning a formal investigation which, it was alleged, the department was about to make in the coal industry. A full list of the 'investigating committee' accompanied the announcement, including a number of persons who were considered to hold radical views.

"The 'statement' was obtained by plecing together a few remarks made by the director of the research department in response to an insistent long distance telephone call, which were printed in spite of his expressed declination to make a statement for the reason that no such investigation was planned. The list of investigators were manufactured in toto. This announcement was copied by at least one financial journal in a middle western city, which was, apparently, quite innocently misled by it. How far the story went it is impossible to say."

MARYLAND BROKER DIVISION

OBITUARY

RUSSELL—Mrs. Louella A. Russell, mother of Bro. Bob Russell, formerly secretary of Baltimore District Council, No. 25 for 17 years, and a M. S. O., died at her late residence, November 6, 1923.

Mrs. Russell passed away after a lingering illness, having been unable to leave her bed for more than a year.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to Bro. Russell and his family.

Two beautiful floral designs were tendered, one by the Maryland Broker Division, and one from the boys in general, as a token of respect to the mother of THE popular one around here.

MICHIGAN BROKER DIVISION

Regular monthly meeting of the Michigan Broker Division held Friday, Dec. 7th, at the residence of Bro. H. J. Nadeau, 911 Artillery Ave.

Along with our campaign to raise our quota of the initial $5,000 of the $100,000 sinking fund, we started out early to line all the boys up for their next annual card. A half dozen of the old standbys have already offered their next year dues and with it a few extra dollars to their credit on the big fund drive just to show that it is our own campaign and that we are going to help put it over strong, as well as do everything in our power to further the cause for which this fund is being raised.

Let us make our division an annual card division. This will prove one of the safest and sanest things we can all do and will insure that this very vital thing has been taken care of for another year, and in this way we make certain that none of our members drift behind, allow themselves to lapse and remain outside the fold. We have a crowd of regular fellows here and believe that in their own interest as well as that of the organization they should all become regular annual card carriers.

Just as we expected, our worthy president Guy Blakeley returned from his hunting trip in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan with one of the finest buck deer shot this year. One shot through the heart. Hundred and eighty pounds of the best red meat we ever helped to eat.

Bro. Blakeley reported the Indians up in the north woods very friendly, particularly the ladies. Looks like we will have to go along with him next fall.

Bro. Cocky Brower has returned to our midst from the wild and wicked north end of Chicago and is knocking their eye out as operator and auctioner at the local office of the National Auction Co. Charley, who is a very particular friend of Bro. Bob Patterson of the National, wants it distinctly understood that he is not the Charley Brower who worked at the Postal in Pittsburgh during the strike of 1919. Our Charles Brower is from Denison, Ohio, not Columbus, and states that he never worked for the Postal in Pittsburgh, and does not have to do that sort of thing and furthermore is not that kind of a worm. We never had any doubt of it and write this simply to put those straight who heard this story.

Chairman Al Day is doing the evening work at the National Auction and enjoys the work, also the fancy grapes and other fruit shipped from sunny California specially for him. We regret to report that Al smashed his Star coach up in bad shape hurrying to our October meeting when he pushed hard on a mail truck on a wet and slippery pavement.

Bro. John Baker suffered a relapse after his first return to work from a serious sickness which had laid him up for three weeks and has been out again for nearly a month. Bro. Baker is at present (Dec. 5th) in Henry Ford Hospital, Ward F, Room 119, and all members are urged to pay a little visit and cheer the boy up a bit.

Bro. Robert Score, after relieving our president during his two weeks hunting trip, is now taking care of the detail at Otis & Co. during Baker's absence.

Bro. Tom Baird has lined up a very nice job with a local bond house, Livingstone & Higbie, on Pynchon & Co.'s wire. All glad to see Tom finally taken care of in very approved style, thanks to Bro. Joe Wick and Bill Griffin, the latter one of the grandest men in this business, now on the floor for Paine Webber & Co.

This takes care of about all the men we have around here in the broker field for the present. Next thing we know Christmas will be here and don't forget that annual card.

All together boys, let's make it a Merry Christmas and Annual New Year.

With best wishes and kindest regards to all from the Michigan Broker Division.

1924 dues are now payable. Why delay and possibly forget?

THE VIEWPOINT

MAKE IT "FIGHTING FUND"

Agreement of representatives at the Monal convention to raise a sinking fund of 0,000 should receive the unqualified ensement of every member of our organizan. However, the tentative plan of raising s sum by giving dances, etc., does not seem t suited to build up this fund within a sonable time. We understand the present n was adopted because it was feared some mbers would object to a regular assess-nt over a period of time. But the present n will prove slow because entertainments best provide small net returns; it will ely result in half-hearted, spasmodic efforts a few "live ones" in certain centers, which bably will soon cease entirely through k of results commensurate with effort tained in promotion; it is unfair because of the membership will not contribute to fund when contributions are solicited in t manner; it is a spineless attitude for a at organization to take insofar as it ates the impression that the organization a whole is fearful of a handful of whiteered tightwads, whose withdrawal from organization because of such a flimsy use as objection to payment of a regular essment would purge the organization of otten element and strengthen it for those have the courage and pride which nbership should convey.

he C. T. U. A. is a red-blooded labor union, a home for imbeciles. It is composed of n working for a cause, not of children ping because of some ephemeral disap-atment, and as such it should be able to 7 an assessment in support of a program worthy as that of establishing a sinking d without apology to the membership. All need to conclude this most important and structive proposition is a little backbone, ermination and a business-like formula follow in securing the money. It is my sonal opinion that a referendum subted to the membership of the various sions would result in an overwhelming favoring the regular assessment plan. e the assessments were assured, it would a simple matter to assign to each division per capita quota. The race would then be Let's go! Let us make this our princibusiness in 1924!

MEMBERS PLUS OFFICERS

hanks to the splendid efforts of President nson and Secretary-Treasurer Powers, C. T. U. A. faces the new year clear of t and with, perhaps, the brightest pross for growth and accomplishment in its history. Too much, however, should not be expected by the membership. To our mind, it is much better to progress gradually and steadily—but to progress—than to demand what is unreasonable and through hot-headed, hasty action lose what we have won.

All great business institutions have been reared through years of constant effort—saving, planning, negotiating. The C. T. U. A. is a business institution. Its business is to conduct the affairs of unionized commercial telegraphers in a dignified, safe and progressive manner. We are stockholders in this institution. We elect its officers and retire them. We are bound in honor to hold ourselves responsible for the actions of our representatives. Our union is what we make it. For that reason our best efforts and deliberate thought—not snap judgment and hasty action—should be directed toward its preservation and advancement.

Our brothers of the various broker divisions have made excellent progress toward establishing the reputation of the C. T. U. A. among broker employers as a solid businesslike and dependable organization. Pressmen can emulate their example by conscientious performance of duties under the schedules to which they are signatories, thus assisting to elevate the C. T. U. A. standard to a point where presentation of a C. T. U. A. card to a prospective employer will carry with it positive assurance of its owner's ability and integrity.

SPEAKING OF K. K. K.

Speaking of the K. K. I saw a big parade at Fort Worth last May. It was a masked parade and was about 6,000 strong. They had banners flying, bearing the following: "We stand for 100 per cent Americanism;" "We stand for purity of the home;" "We stand for Christianity," etc.

Most of us have stood for those things all our lives, but we never had to hide our face.

The lowly Nazarene didn't wear a mask when He drove the crooks out of the temple.

BUCK HINER,

I. N. S. Div., 61, Oklahoma City.

INTOLERANCE TABOO IN C. T. U. A. IS K. K. K. TOLERANT?

President Johnson's editorial in the latest issue of The Journal strikes me as being illogical and uncalled for and destined to serve no good purpose in union circles, which has been free of religious prejudices heretofore. I have heard at least three other members, one of them a Jew, express the same opinion.

I am not a Klansman and in no way subscribe to the Klan tenents as I know them. However, I concede to my brother the same religious and fraternal liberality that I demand for myself and think this should be the attitude of the entire craft. Regardless of personal animosities and hostilities, keep The Journal and the C. T. U. of A. free from religious intolerances or you are headed for the rocks, in my opinion.

for the rocks, in my opinion.

The C. T. U. of A. was founded because its forefathers resented the dictatorial tactics of the telegraph monopolies. Let's not disintegrate the order by injecting religious intolerance and proscription. This is a give and take world and unless we abide accordingly we are undeserving of the citizenship of the country and the union affiliation which we hold.

This is written in a spirit of friendly criticism and I trust that the Journal in the future is kept clean of anything that smacks of sectionalism or creed selfishness.

W. E. NEELY, United Press, New Orleans.

CAN KLUXERS LIVE UP TO C. T. U. A. OBLIGATIONS?

President Johnson in the November number of the Journal brings up the question of the Ku Klux Klan, his editorial winding up with the words.

with the words:
"KICK OUT THE KLUXERS!"

I am not a member of the K. K., nor do I subscribe to the principles of the order, but as a union man I want to see all telegraphers in the C. T. U. A., whether they be Kluxers or not. I think Bro. Johnson has made a mistake in bringing up the question of the C. T. U. A. and the K. K. K. The C. T. U. A. is a labor organization while the K. K. K. is not, nor does it claim to be, a labor movement. Can not a telegrapher be just as good a union man if he be a K. K. K. as if he were a member of some other order, or even some church or other? Let those who are vitally interested in destroying the K. K. K. do the job and don't get the C. T. U. A. mixed up in the scrap.

The C. T. U. A. needs as members all

The C. T. U. A. needs as members all telegraphers—whether they be Kluxers, Masons, Odd Fellows, Catholics. Protestants or what not. So long as they live up to their union obligations they will by their membership help the C. T. U. A. We will do better to devote our efforts to getting all telegraphers, IRRESPECTIVE OF CREED, SEX. NATIONALITY OR POLITICS, and. I might add, color, into the union. It is a fact that even the good old C. T. U. A. bars the negro from membership. I have fought at C. T. U. A. conventions for years to have the ban on the negro lifted but to no avail. My claim is that any one who can telegraph should be a member of the union, irrespective of creed, sex, nationality, politics, or color. and irrespective of what other orders he might be a member. The Western Union feels that a man can not be a good Western Union member if he is a C. T. U. A. member, so the Western Union bars C. T. U. A. members. We claim this to be unjust, but we go ahead and advocate expulsion for any member who is a Kluxer. Are we consistent? J. W. FREEMAN, Baltimore.

Member Since Organized.

EDITORIALS HIT SPOT

I want to congratulate President Johnson on his splendid editorials in the November number. I perused them carefully and they sure hit the spot.

EDWARD L. BOOLE, W. B. D.

ENCOURAGEMENT FROM AN M. S. O.

Messrs. Johnson, Schnur and Powers:

Since reading (even studying) the October number of the C. T. U. A. Journal, it has been on my mind to extend to you gentlemen my very hearty congratulations. To my mind the affairs of our organization under your stewardship has never been better handled. (This with all due respect to the honest efforts of previous administrations.)

Your necessarily brief but very concise report on the Montreal convention and the work done there by the delegates sent by the body-at-large merits my esteem and, no doubt, that of all members.

The review of the financial condition from year to year since the beginning over a very trying period of 20 years was interesting; and it is very gratifying to note that now. (under your administration) there is NOTHING DUE; ALL PAID. FINE!

DUE; ALL PAID. FINE!

The best thing done at the convention, under the above circumstances, was to re-elect the incumbents of the offices above named and to whom this complimentary letter is addressed. I heartily concur—Let the "Big 3" continue to guide us.

I feel that I voice the sentiments of many of the members and include them under the name of "LEGION."

Wishing you, Messrs. President, Vice-President and Secretary-Editor. a very happy Christmas and a prosperous New Year: may you be favored with good health to CARRY ON to further happiness, peace and the pleasure of success. Especially since it is appreciated and hereby publicly acknowledged—"73."

Yours humbly, W. J. J. CUSACK. Certificate 36—E. B. D.

REPLY TO BRO. CUSACK

ar Bro. Cusack:

On behalf of Bros. Johnson, Schnur and self, I want to thank you for your letter Nov. 26th.

The Montreal delegates mapped out a conuctive program that is going to mean real ogress during the next two years, and it our hope that with the full co-operation of membership, our grand organization will able to measure up to the vision and foreought of those delegates.

We wish you many more years of health d happiness as well as a Merry Christmas d prosperous New Year this year.

Fraternally and sincerely yours, FRANK B. POWERS,

International Secretary-Treasurer.

ISDOM AND PEP FROM BUCK HINER Every good union man looks forward to the Iling out of the Journal. As a Shriner ks forward to a big "blow-out," a Methodto a coming revival or an ordinary tele-

ks forward to a big "blow-out," a Methodto a coming revival or an ordinary teleiph operator to the repeal of the 18th lendment, so do the staunch union men k forward to next month's Journal. The Journal is the best medium in the rld for telegraphers to keep in touch with h other and with the functions of our anization. And for myself, I not only e to read the Journal but also to write a le in it once in a while. There are lots of ngs I like to talk about concerning our airs and the only way I can say what I nt to say and be sure of an audience is to te it in the Journal. The boys I meet ry day get tired of hearing me orate over l over again on the topics of interest conning our organization, and besides I can't ect them to listen to me while they are y on the wire, so by writing to them in Journal they are liable to read what I e to say and not know who is saying it il they get to the bottom.

While we can't expect the Editor to print rything we write and keep within his get, I think most of us should try to suba little copy now and then for many an resting item might happen to come from expected sources.

am pleased to note a good write-up by our friend, Jim Milling of the U. P., nearly y month and also from the boys on this h end of the I. N. S., but it's been many y since I have seen any Universal notes.

Big Things Ahead

the reports of the 1923 convention were derful. We can expect big things in the of organizing the commercial operators he near future, especially the A. P. I not believe it is going to be an impossible to line up the A. P. men now that the C. U. A. is out of debt and is ready to mup for organization purposes. But we to be sure we have something to offer the A. P. men. We have got to assure them that when they join our ranks they are coming into a Fraternity that is a fraternity indeed. If they can stand on the outside and see a "brother" double-cross a "brother" and an officer double-cross his constituents and contracts violated and ignored they are not going to want to come inside. If they detect a discrimination of one lodge member in favor of another lodge member in matters pertaining to affairs under the jurisdiction of the C. T. U. A. they will not be very strong for joining us.

There are a good many A. P. members and when an A. P. man joins the C. T. U. A. individually under present and past conditions he is a real bonafide union man. Such men are a credit to the Union and if we had a few more of them working with us in our union shop associations and few less of our own "card men" we would be benefitted to a great extent.

Discipline

When a member of the Union working for a fair employer becomes indiscreet and does wrong he deserves discipline and the Union does wrong in upholding him in his wrong. Such violations should be dealt with in proportion to the gravity of the offense. For instance, if an operator "puts on a show" and returns to work unfit for duty or is late or fails to show up altogether, he should be disciplined according to the gravity of his indiscretions, no matter how efficient he is under normal conditions. And again when an operator is actually incompetent, even under normal conditions either on the sending or receiving end, I do not believe he should be tolerated when the efficient man is disciplined for one offense committed, when 364 out of the 365 days he is strictly competent.

I firmly believe there would be more dissatisfaction on the part of client papers over the everyday incompetency of their operator than there would be over a semi-annual or annual "toot" of a competent operator.

Union Posters in Offices

The picture of the delegates to the convention is very fine. A copy of it goes up in the office immediately and if the A. W. E. mutiates it or tears it down, Jack Walton's scrap in Oklahoma will seem so insignificant that people will wonder why they ever read about it.

Our dear friend and brother Paul Schnur looked as natural as ever but I do believe he's been getting fat.

Speaking of posters in our offices. After traveling quite a bit the last year, I am going to state right here, before I forget it, that Mike Dwyer's old office at Dallas was the only one I ran across where the "No card, no favors" and the convention photograph were posted up conspicuously. Proving where Mike's interest is centered.

BUCK HINER, I. N. S.

LET'S TALK

As the old Ford puffed and wheezed along the road far out in the country where the leaves on the trees were taking on the autumn tint and the grass on the rolling hills dying. my thoughts suddenly turned to an item I had copied the night before, wherein it stated that bricklayers of Toronto had succeeded in their demands for $10 a day. And then I thought of my own salary,-a little over seven dollars a day, and gloom pushed its ugly nose into my thoughts. It ran like this:

'I was giving a good service to the community, an excellent service in fact. I was the cog in the delicate machine that made it possible for them to enjoy their morning coffee over the newspaper. It was I who grabbed the news of the world off a tiny wire and made it possible for them to know what was going on in every corner of the globe. Of course, they could, perhaps, get this service by other means, but the fact remained that they hadn't found another way that met their requirements as did I, the press operator, yet . . . . Certainly I was giving a good service to the community in which I lived . . . . But there was that little knock in the engine that I wanted to have fixed, and which my wages would not allow just then; there was the new model Dodge that I wanted to buy, which was out of the question; there was that little bungalow I wanted to buy; there was the Winchester pump-gun for which my heart was yearning . . . . "

And so it went. And I wondered why it WAS Undoubtedly the bricklayers, the plasterers, the plumbers and the carpenters were also giving an excellent service to their respective cummunities. Probably their services are worth the $120 a week that they are alleged to be earning in the large centers in the states. Maybe not. But the fact is they are receiving that for the work they do. the work that does not require the mental energy, the nervous strain, the accuracy, that my work requires.

Why? I ask myself. Certainly their employers do not give them this amount each week through any altruistic reason. inconceivable that the employer says to himself: "Now here, I've made my little pile, I do not need all the money I will make from this new building I am erecting. I'll just give these poor fellows a chance to liveand boost their wages a dollar or two."

No. Assuredly not. Those plasterers, bricklayers, carpenters and the like are ORGANIZED. They go together in a body and say to their employers: "Here, we want more money. This is a new age in which we are living. Our class is becoming educated.

They have seen a little of the better things in life. And they want some of those better things. They want to be able to give their children the proper schooling . . . . and so And by bringing pressure to bear, they get what they demand.

And the employer sighs and weeps, with his meagre wealth of fifty, seventy-five, one hundred, three, four, five hundred thousand. or a million in nice fat securities, and wails: "They're robbing me! They're robbing me!"

And I also sigh and look longingly at the things I want about me, and which I think the service I give to the community in which I live entitles me to.

AND THE WHOLE THING RESTS IN ONE WORD:

ORGANIZATION!

TO "ENSLAVE" LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles, Cal.—F. J. Zeehandelaar. secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, of this city, has broken loose again.

Zeehandelaar has published a signed article in the Los Angeles Times, owned by Harry Chandler, son-in-law of the late Harrison Gray Otis, alleging that the recent American Federation of Labor convention "appropriated a secret fund of $500,000 to unionize Los Angeles."

Of course the American Federation of Labor does not set aside secret funds; its funds are all in the open and openly accounted for.

Zeehandelaar looks upon any organizing campaign as "destructive effort" and declares that the "open shop" is responsible for the prosperity of the city.

Officials of the Central Labor Council have shown conclusively that organization work has made great headway in Los Angeles and that the well-being of the city is in spite of the long campaign of the organized labor haters. The Los Angeles Times and the Zeehandelaar organization are the heirs to the old anti-union policy which Harrison Gray Otis adopted because he thought it was good business policy. Chandler, as heir to the Times and its present owner, is bound to carry on the policy laid down by Otis and Zeehandelaar at this late date cannot be expected to reverse himself, even though he may find it difficult to bolster up his losing Zeehandelaar declares that organizing plans for Los Angeles constitute a "declaration of war," which will help to intensify the work of organization.

Los Angeles is a stronger union city than ever-and 1924 will find it passing its 1923 record in that respect.

THE LATEST IMPROVED

GENUINE SINGLE LEVER

TRADE VIBROPLEX MARK

"Lightning Bug"

BY ITSELF CLASS

In this Latest Improved 1923 Vibroplex the lever mechanism is greatly simplified, but two parts being employed to do the same work which in older machines requires six.

This simplified construction increases the flexibility of the machine, lessens the strain on the operator and gives better results.

In quality of Morse, carrying qualities and ease of operation this Latest Improved.

1923 Vibroplex is in a class by itself. You meed this BUG and need it NOW. Shipped anywhere on receipt of price. Money order or registered mail. Liberal allowance edd (Martin) machines in exchange for the Latest Improved 1923 Vibroplex.

THE VIBROPLEX CO., Inc., Dept. CT, 825 Broadway, New York J. E. Albright, President.
